It pays a bank

to be used by its customers, though many of its services cost the customer nothing.

It is the Westminster Bank's policy to popularize its services by issuing simply worded accounts of various ways in which it is glad to be used.

These bright-covered little leaflets are conspicuous in any branch of the Bank, and may be taken freely.

They already comprise 'Thirty-nine Advantages of an Account', 'Points before Travelling', 'Securities', 'Travellers Cheques', 'Wills', 'Income Tax', 'Forward Exchange', and others.

LOVELL BUILT

your residential ideal*

In all parts of the country, stand Lovell-built homes of rare beauty and unquestionable quality-enduring evidence of our unique experience in carrying out the building ideals of individual home owners. To achieve the poetic exterior while preserving the practical interior, presents problems to which we are well accustomed and well able to produce the happy solution.

Because it is important that such a solution must provide for high-grade material and sponsored workmanship, while keeping costs within reasonable limits, Lovell Service is of immediate interest to all who contemplate building for themselves.

A Lovell-built conception of the thatched house in which Norfolk reed, mellow tile and timber blend with a fine site.
Architect: A. L. Abbott, Esq., F.R.I.B.A.

President : The Right Hon. The Lord Saye and Sele

This Registered Hospital receives Voluntary, Temporary, and Certified patients of both sexes, and provides facilities for complete investigation of mental and nervous disorders. Treatment is on modern lines and psychotherapy is employed in suitable cases. Occupational therapy is extensively utilised. A full Consulting Staff works in active co-operation with the Hospital.

The situation on Headington Hill, on the outskirts of Oxford, commands extensive views of the surrounding country. The grounds extend to over 134 acres and include facilities for cricket, tennis, croquet, gardening, and country walks. The Hospital has its own Church in the grounds. The farm and gardens ensure a plentiful supply of fresh produce.

In the summer, suitable patients are sent to the seaside for a holiday.

For prospectus, terms, and further information, apply to :—

THE Publishers trust that this—the Fifteenth—Edition of Kelly's Directory of BUCKINGHAMSHIRE may be found at least equal in accuracy to previous ones.

Every Parish in the County is included in the book, which, though primarily a Directory, is also in some measure a gazetteer, giving as it does a topographical account of every Town, Parish, Village and Township, and descriptions of the principal buildings and objects of interest.

Full information is given as to the County Council ; the Hundreds and County Court Districts ; the Churches, with the value of the Livings and the names of the Patrons and Incumbents ; the Chief Landowners, with details as to the Principal Seats ; the Hospitals ; the Acreage, Soils and Crops ; the Markets and Fairs ; the means of Conveyance by Railway, Road, etc.

The Map* of the County has been specially revised for this Edition, and is coloured so as to show the Parliamentary Divisions, and the first and second class roads are also clearly marked.

An article on the Geology of the County, with a sketch map showing the various strata, is included in the book.

The Publishers have again to return their thanks to those Clergymen, Magistrates' Clerks, Registrars, and other persons who have assisted their Agents in connection with the revision of the information for the present Edition.

October, 1939

* The County Map is sold separately at Two Shillings and Sixpence.

BUCKINGHAMSHIRE

BUCKINGHAMSHIRE, which takes its name from the town of Buckingham, is a southern inland shire, lying near the middle of England, equi-distant between the North Sea, at the mouth of the Thames, and the Bristol Channel. Its area is rather below the middle size of English shires; the main length of 53 miles from north-west to south-east, and its greatest breadth about 47 miles; the shape is very irregular, and it has few natural boundmarks. On the north it is bounded by Northamptonshire; on the east by Bedfordshire, Hertfordshire and Middlesex, from which latter it is parted by the Colne; on the south the Thames parts it from Berkshire; on the west it is bounded by Oxfordshire.

The area of the county was originally 457,694 acres, but under the provisions of the Local Government (England and Wales) Act, 1888 (51 & 52 Vict. c. 41), the parishes of Stokenchurch and of Ibstone were transferred from Oxfordshire to Buckinghamshire, Kingsey being added to the former from the latter county, and the parish of Nettleden reconstituted by the addition of part of Ivinghoe, transferred to Hertfordshire; by these alterations the administrative county area was 479,360 acres. By the Buckinghamshire and Oxfordshire Order, 1932, the parish of Kingsey was transferred from Oxfordshire to Buckinghamshire and the parish of Towersey from Buckinghamshire to Oxfordshire. The area is now 479,411 acres.

The population in 1831 was 130,982; in 1841, 138,246; in 1851, 143,655; in 1861, 167,993; in 1871, 175,879; in 1881, 176,323; in 1891, 185,284; in 1901, 197,046; in 1911, 219,551; in 1921, 236,171; and in 1931, 271,423.

About 200 B.C. the greater part of what is now Buckinghamshire was overrun by a Belgic tribe, properly called Catuvellauni; these were the earliest makers of coins in England, and a large hoard of them was found in the county at Whaddon Chase in 1849. When the Romans came the county was thinly populated, and no great settlement of Romans took place, though scattered villas have been found at Hambleden, High Wycombe, Chenies, Ellesborough, Little Brickhill, Tingewick and Stony Stratford. Watling Street, on which the last-named is situate, is the only undoubted Roman road; Akeman Street, possibly of British origin, may have been used by the Romans, and the Icknield Way, which was certainly a British track (the derivation of the name being unknown), may also have been used by them.

The shire as it is to-day was formed in the tenth century from the "Hundreds," or areas which could be drawn on to supply men in defence of the town of Buckingham. At the time of Domesday there were 18 Hundreds, but they were afterwards grouped into three, except the three Chiltern Hundreds (Stoke, Desborough and Burnham), so there are now eight Hundreds.

Amongst the eminent men associated with the county are John Hampden, the Patriot, William Penn, founder of Pennsylvania, Edmund Burke, John Wilkes and Lord Beaconsfield, among great public men, with a long list of politicians headed by the Grenvilles and Temples. Amongst poets we have Gray, Milton, Waller, Cooper and Shelley. The associations with Eton would of course form a long list of eminent men. Apart from these great names Bucks has few claims to participation in events of national interest; with the great exception of the signature of Magna Carta at Runnymede there is little to be said. Although it was the scene of several skirmishes during the Civil War, no great engagement was fought within the county boundaries; the "battle" of Holman's Bridge, Aylesbury, the siege and capture of Hillesden and Boarstall Houses, and the occupation of Newport Pagnell by a garrison of the Parliamentary Army from 1644-1646 are the chief facts in this connection.

As regards manufactures, the London, Midland and Scottish Railway carriage works at Wolverton employ the largest number of men in the north of the county; in the centre, printing and other works are at Aylesbury, and wood-working, brush-making and other works are carried on at Chesham; in the south, High Wycombe is an important centre of manufacture for chairs and other furniture; and in later years large and important factories of different kinds have been established at Slough. On the Chiltern Hills (from Buckland Common to Turville), a fair amount of chair-legs are turned by means of the pole-lathe, either in the rear of cottages or in temporary shelters actually erected in the beech-woods; this remnant of individual craftsmanship manages to subsist, and the products are sent to Chesham or High Wycombe to be assembled into chairs. Formerly a considerable amount of pillow-lace was made, but this is now an extremely small industry, and the making of straw-plait has almost entirely died out through the competition of Italy and the Far East. Very little cheese-making is done, but the very considerable quantity of milk produced by the rich pastures of the Vale of Aylesbury is sent whole to London or elsewhere. The same rich grass makes extensive grazing possible; indeed, cattle-rearing, dairying and agriculture generally are the chief occupations in the county.

There are two chief river-systems in Bucks, the Ouse in the north and the Thames in the south. The Ouse enters the county near to Westbury and leaves it at the north-east corner near to Cold Brayfield; near Newport Pagnell it is joined by the Ouzel, a tributary which rises near Pitstone and Edlesborough, with other feeders. The Thames forms the southern border from Hambleden in the west to Wraybury in the east; its chief tributary in Bucks is the Thame, which rises in several places north of Aylesbury. The Wye, flowing through the Wycombe valley, enters straight into the Thames, and the Chess and Misbourne first flow into the Colne, which passes out of the county at Denham. The Grand Junction Canal crosses the county, entering it at Marsworth on the eastern side and leaving it at Stony Stratford on the north-west side; there are branches to Aylesbury and to Buckingham from these two extremities.

The county is well served by railways; in the north is the London, Midland and Scottish railway, which crosses the eastern border near to Cheddington and the north-western border at Castlethorpe; there are branches to Aylesbury and to Newport Pagnell, whilst Bletchley is an important junction with branches to Banbury and Oxford on one side and Bedford and Cambridge on the other.

Through the centre of the county runs the London and North Eastern railway by two routes, one through Aylesbury, jointly with London Transport as far as the junction at Quainton Road, and the other jointly with the Great Western railway through High Wycombe and Princes Risborough as far as the junction between Haddenham and Wotton. The first of these joint lines has branches to Chesham, and to Verney Junction, where it meets the London, Midland and Scottish line from Bletchley to Oxford. The second joint line has a branch from Princes Risborough to Aylesbury.

The Great Western railway enters the county near Iver, and the main line runs through the extreme south of the county, which a branch from Slough to Windsor. Another trunk line, owned jointly by the Great Western and London and North Eastern Railways, enters the county near Denham and runs to High Wycombe, Princes Risborough and Haddenham, from which point it becomes the Great Western main line to Birmingham and the North and forms the shortest route between London and Birmingham. Also at Haddenham the line bifurcates and becomes a London and North Eastern route to Rugby, Leicester, Nottingham, Sheffield &c.

From High Wycombe a line runs to Bourne End and Maidenhead with a branch from Bourne End to Marlow, and there are branches from Princes Risborough to Oxford, Watlington and Aylesbury.

The shire is in the Midland circuit, spring and summer assizes being held at Aylesbury, the latter having been removed by Act of Parliament from Buckingham: quarter sessions are also held at Aylesbury, and there are 13 petty sessional divisions, viz.:—Aylesbury, The Three Hundreds of, sittings at Aylesbury, BUCKS. 1

Great Missenden and Princes Risborough; Brill, Buckingham; Burnham, sittings at Beaconsfield, Burnham and Amersham; Chesham; Fenny Stratford; Linslade, sittings at Linslade and Ivinghoe; Marlow; Newport Pagnell; Slough; Stony Stratford, Winslow and Wycombe. NOTE.—Unless otherwise stated sittings are held at the place giving name to the division.

County Courts are held at Aylesbury, Buckingham and High Wycombe, which are included in Circuit No. 36, at Chesham, which is in Circuit No. 37, and at Bletchley, which is in Circuit No. 23. Aylesbury County Court has jurisdiction in bankruptcy.

The county is principally in the diocese of Oxford; it forms an archdeaconry, which is sub-divided into the rural deaneries of Amersham, Aylesbury, Bletchley, Buckingham, Burnham, Claydon, Ivinghoe, Mursley, Newport, Waddesdon, Wendover, Wolverton and Wycombe.

The Municipal boroughs are:—Aylesbury, population in 1931, 13,387; Buckingham, 3,164; and Chepping or High Wycombe, 29,626. Other towns are Beaconsfield, 4,949; Chesham, 10,230; Eton, 3,058; Bletchley (formerly known as Fenny Stratford) (including Fenny Stratford and Simpson), 6,338; Linslade, 2,433; Marlow, 5,278; Newport Pagnell, 3,956 and Slough, 33,612.

The Registration districts are:—

No.	Place.	Area. Acres.	Pop. in 1921.
143	Amersham	51,590	34,631
144	Eton	42,988	47,248
145	Wycombe	74,304	54,292
146	Aylesbury	75,411	30,967
147	Winslow	34,525	6,345
148	Newport Pagnell	74,206	28,173
149	Buckingham	54,022	9,962

Under the provisions of the Local Government Act, 1929, the administration of the Poor Law was transferred to the Buckinghamshire County Council on 1st April, 1930.

The following is a list of the Rural Districts in the county:—

Buckingham	Winslow
Eton	Wycombe

Lists of the parishes included in these districts will be found under the heading for each of the above places in the Places Section of the directory.

The hundreds of Burnham, Desborough and Stoke form the Chiltern hundreds, the stewardship of which is taken by members as an "office of profit" from the Crown, in order to vacate a seat in Parliament.

The following is a list of the hundreds in the county, with the parishes contained in them:—

The geology of Buckinghamshire is fairly well known. The county has been well studied, both by the professional members of the Geological Survey, and by the scientific lay-members of the Geologists' Association. In its geological structure, this part of the country is comparatively simple; it consists of layers or beds of rocks (strata) which are nearly all sedimentary in origin. These sedimentary rocks are distinguished from such rocks as hard, crystalline granite in that they were formed under water. Most of them were laid down as sediments at the bottom of the sea, and frequently they contain the remains of animals (shell-fish, corals &c.) which lived in the seas of past ages; such remains are known as fossils. These strata, or layers of rock, do not lie regularly one above another; they are inclined or tilted, so that really only their edges come out to the surface. The inclination, or dip of the beds in Buckinghamshire is to the south-east, and the main direction of the beds is north-east to south-west. This county may be regarded as a narrow area running athwart the outcrop of Secondary rocks, the term Secondary being used to denote relative age. Hence there are no Primary rocks in the county: such are represented by rocks like the Coal Measures in the various coalfields, and the old slates of Wales. Rocks belonging to the Tertiary period occur in the county, and these will shortly be considered in detail, as well as those of the Secondary period. It should be stated that the term "rock" in geological usage includes such loose material as sand and soft substances as clay, as well as the harder limestones, &c. In describing the rocks of Buckinghamshire, we will commence with the earliest formed divisions.

JURASSIC SYSTEM: Lias.—In the north of the county the river Tove has cut down into and exposed the bluish-grey Upper Lias Clays, which extend between Grafton Regis and Ashton to Castle Thorpe, two or three miles north of Stony Stratford; the Ouse has also exposed small patches of Upper Lias near Stoke Goldington and Weston Underwood, but there are no good sections.

OOLITE.—(1) Inferior Oolite Series.—Of the sandy and slaty beds known as the Northampton Sand there are no good sections, but they are represented by a few feet of green and grey sandstone which crop out in the Ouse valley below Biddesden: above them lie 7 or 8 feet of loams and white and brown sands which belong to the Lower Estuarine Series.

(2.) The Great Oolite Series.—The Great Oolite strata cover much ground in North Bucks. At their base we find coloured sands and clays 15 to 20 feet thick, which are seen at Stoke Goldington and Weston Underwood, and are known as the Upper Estuarine Series; above them come the Great Oolite Limestones, and higher still we find the Great Oolite Clay. The Great Oolite Limestones are exposed in many quarries; from Buckingham they pass round by Stowe and Lillingston; Stony Stratford, Newport Pagnell and Cold Brayfield mark the eastern limit, but they stretch north-eastward from these points into Bedfordshire.

The Great Oolite Limestones are of a compact and not oolitic character; they are often soft and marly, and in such beds fossils are most common. Clayey beds occur at the base, above which come thin-bedded, cream-coloured limestones and marls, whilst the white, hard, fine-grained limestones are more usually found near the top. West of Buckingham there are many quarries, as near Westbury. At Shalstone Hill Farm there is a bed of very hard, white limestone, composed almost entirely of broken shells, and yielding a beautiful building stone. In the valley of the Thornborough Brook there are some large quarries, exposing a section of more than 30 feet; a fault, with a downthrow to the east of 10 feet, runs across the quarry. Very interesting exposures of "faults," or dislocations of the beds, may also be seen in a quarry near South End. On Whittlewood Forest (in Northants, just beyond the county boundary) there are several quarries in the Great Oolite Limestone; here, on blocks of stone which have been long exposed to the weather, one finds standing out in relief portions of shells, plates and spines of sea-urchins, and star-like joints of the stems of crinoids.

From quarries in the Great Oolite Limestone at Gayhurst, Eckley, Salcey Wood and Olney many fossils have been obtained; the brachiopod shell named Terebratula maxillata abounds here. The scenery of the tract occupied by the Great Oolite is undulating, hilly, and often well-wooded, with an eastward slope to the Ouse; the dip of the beds is also in this direction, and their total thickness is less than 100 feet.

Great Oolite Clay or Forest Marble.—This formation extends from Oxfordshire into Buckinghamshire, but the limestones thin out towards Buckingham, being replaced by clays. Small outcrops are seen in quarries near the brook east of Tingewick church, at Thornton and Lillingston Lovell; the beds consist of from 3 to 12 feet of blue or brown clay, with about 2 feet of hard grey slaty limestone underneath, almost made up of shell fragments.

Cornbrash.—We find the rubbly Limestones which are known as the "Cornbrash" between Fringford, Tingewick and Buckingham, north of which town they extend past Maids Moreton and Akeley. Eastwards by Thornborough and Beachampton, the outcrop of the Cornbrash is two miles wide; near Stony Stratford it contracts to half a mile, again widening between Bradwell, Great Linford and Newport Pagnell. It is then overlain and thereby obscured by the Ouse gravels, but re-appears as a narrow band, not a quarter of a mile wide, east of Sherrington, and curves round thence to Newton Blossomville. The Cornbrash limestone is largely quarried for road-making, being very hard. Near Buckingham, on the Bourton road, we see hard blue limestones associated with beds of black and blue clay; close to Thornborough, on the Leckhampstead road, we have in the quarries good illustrations of the manner of weathering of these Cornbrash limestones. The top limestone bands are yellow and rubbly; then, under a bed of sandy clay, we have solid limestone, yellow outside, blue within; lastly, at the base we find solid blue limestone only. The change in colour is due to the iron, which exists in the lower bands of the rock as a carbonate, whilst upwards it gradually passes into a peroxide, under the influence of air and water percolating downwards through the beds; the total thickness here is about ten feet. Near Wolverton there are several quarries; here the Cornbrash is of a blue-grey colour, very hard and finely laminated; fossils are numerous but difficult of extraction. There are two inliers at West Stan Hill and Marsh Gibbon; the first is a very low hummock; a quarry here shows loose rubbly Cornbrash, with a bed of pale blue clay, full of shells. Marsh Gibbon stands on a little hill of Cornbrash; there are several quarries which show loose rubbly stone on top, then soft marly clay, and hard blue limestone at the bottom. An extension of this line of inliers is seen in a knoll of Cornbrash forming a steep feature near Edgcott, where the characteristic rock yielding Cornbrash fossils is exposed in the roadside.

(3.) The Oxford Clay, with Kellaways Rock.—This well-known formation is a light-blue clay, weathering yellow at the surface, and perhaps 400 feet thick; its western limit is defined by the outcrop of the beds of Cornbrash just described, but eastwards it stretches over a wide expanse to Muswell and Brill Hills, Quainton and Fenny Stratford. Sections are not common, but may sometimes be seen in brick-pits, railway cuttings, or drain cuttings. Towards the Ouse the Oxford Clay occupies the top of the low escarpment, forming a heavy undulating country which rises with a short but steep slope above a plateau formed of Cornbrash. Near Godding-ton we have the base of the formation, here composed of hard, cream-coloured calcareous clay, containing Ammonites Jason, &c. Similar beds are exposed round Newport Pagnell, where Ammonites calloviensis is found, with saurian bones, &c.; these basement beds probably are near the horizon of the Kellaways Rock of Wiltshire. The brick-pits near Padbury show shaly dark-blue clay, in which are found the semi-transparent glassy crystals of selenite (hydrous sulphate of lime), together with nodules of iron pyrites and large septaria.

(4.) The Corallian.—The Corallian sands and limestone at Headington and Stanton St. John, near Oxford, appear to pass eastwards into a clayey band containing Ostrea discoides, which has been traced by Worminghall, Oakley, Boarstall, round Muswell Hill, and through Dorton to the base of Quainton Hill. At Studley there is a bed of grit, "a sort of argillaceous chert, rich in Pinnæ, Ammonites, and other organic remains;" this may mark the transition. The thickness of the Corallian Beds in this district does not exceed 45 feet.

Diagram Section of small faults in the Portland Stone, Brill. This dislocation of the beds was seen in a small pit about two-thirds of a mile south-west of the church. The dark bands are two shaly layers; the greatest displacement, or "throw," only amounts to two feet. (After A. H. Green, Geol. Survey.)

(5.) Kimmeridge Clay.—The Coralline Oolite having become a clay band, there is nothing over the greater part of Bucks to separate the two great clay masses, named after Oxford and Kimmeridge respectively, from one another; it is, however, considered that the Kimmeridge Clay forms the plains and low grounds between Thame, Brill, Waddesdon and Aylesbury, its thickness being about 100 feet; the lower boundary line is drawn by the Geological Survey to end off near Stewkley, but this is marked "wholly conjectural." The Kimmeridge Clay is a bluish-grey or yellow shaly clay about 100 feet in thickness, often bituminous, sandy towards the base and with irregular bands of limestone nodules. Like the Oxford Clay, it is best fitted for pasture land, and oaks grow well upon it; from the impervious nature of this wide clay tract there are no springs. Near Hartwell and Aylesbury the Upper Kimmeridge clay is largely worked for brick-making; here it is somewhat sandy and contains numerous fossils, especially bivalve shells and ammonites.

(6.) Portland Beds.—The lower part is sandy, and above are beds of limestone, the whole being about 60 feet in thickness. The main outcrop passes north-east from Thame by Cuddington and Dinton to Aylesbury and Bierton; out-lying masses occur at Muswell Hill, Brill, Ashendon, Whitechurch &c. At Brill the Portland Stone was formerly quarried for building; here, at the base, were seen the Portland Sands with green grains, and then limestones with bands of clay and grit, altogether about 25 feet thick; in one pit, south-west of the church, a number of small faults were seen, dislocating the beds about two feet at each step. At Hartwell near Aylesbury the Portland limestone has been extensively quarried for local building. Many large ammonites from these beds have been built into the wall surrounding Hartwell Park. The outlier of Portland limestone at Stewkley is the most northerly occurrence of Portland rocks in England.

(7.) Purbeck Beds.—These are thin-bedded limestones and clays of freshwater origin; they come above the Portland beds at Brill, cap the ridge between Whitechurch and Oving, and also crop out east of Cuddington and south-east of Stone. The limestones are drab-coloured, close-grained, and in beds six or eight inches thick; the total thickness is about ten feet. At Hartwell near Aylesbury the base of the Purbeck is marked by a band of hard fissile marl known as the "Pendle." The overlying soft marls are remarkable for a channel of contemporaneous erosion, the lower beds having been eroded and the channel filled up by the deposition of the higher beds.

THE CRETACEOUS SYSTEM.—A vast interval of time elapsed between the formation of the Purbeck rocks (the last of the Jurassic series in this part of the country) and the Cretaceous beds which overlie them. This series is so named after its most conspicuous member—the White Chalk [Latin, creta, chalk].

I. LOWER CRETACEOUS SERIES.—The sandy beds at the base of the Cretaceous strata, known as the Lower Greensand, are very irregular in occurrence; in the north-east of the county they are called the Woburn sands, which extend southwards from Great and Little Brickhill to Fenny Stratford, where they are overlapped by the Gault Clay. Here they form dry, hilly ground; on a hill near Great Brickhill there is a section 30 feet deep, showing coarse reddish sands resting on Oxford Clay; scattered through the sands are "red coprolites," or phosphatic nodules, for which the sands used to be sifted, the coprolites being then ground up for manure. The same bed occurs at Rushmoor brick-yard and at Potton, in Bedfordshire, and at Upware, near Cambridge. At Wavendon there is an outlier containing seams of fullers' earth. Passing southwards the Lower Greensand crops out again to the south of Stone; here it rests partly on Purbeck, partly on Portland beds, and presents indications of Wealden beds at its base. At Stone a bed of brown and white sand, about eight feet thick, has been used for glass-making. There is a small outlying patch south of Oving, and others on Muswell Hill, Brill, north of Chearsley, &c.; the main mass crops out again north of Haddenham. Quainton Hill is also capped by Lower Greensand.

II.—UPPER CRETACEOUS SERIES.—(1.) Gault.—This is a thick mass of pale-blue clay, sometimes shaly, often with layers of white-yellow phosphatic nodules. It can be traced in a broad band three miles wide, extending from Towersey to Henton, thence by Weston Turville to Hulcott; here the outcrop broadens to seven miles between Cuddington and Wing on the west and Buckland and Eaton Bray on the east. The manner in which the Gault overlaps the Lower Greensand we have already seen; its thickness is about 130 feet in the south and 250 feet in the north-east of Buckinghamshire, and it was formerly dug for brick and tile making. A rich seam of "black coprolites" is found about 40 or 50 feet below the top of the Gault; it has been worked at Ford, Edlesborough, Puttenham, Cheddington, Northall, &c.

(2.) The Upper Greensand.—This formation overlies the Gault and extends from between Henton and Princes Risborough to about a mile north-east of Buckland, from which point it is hardly traceable, although it is once more seen in the brick-yard at Eaton Bray, where there are six feet of pale-grey marl, underlain by the same depth of greenish sandy clay. At Buckland the Upper Greensand is seen in the sides of a pond, and a stream cuts through it about half a mile south-east of Aston-Clinton church; at Risborough the Upper Greensand is, perhaps, 20 feet thick; in the road cuttings about Bledlow and Henton we see beds of crumbling whitish sandstone, sometimes hard, and these are covered by clayey dark-green sand seldom exposed. The occurrence of numerous springs at the junction of the Upper Greensand and the Gault determined the sites of a succession of villages. The Gault and the Upper Greensand are closely related, being clayey and sandy facies respectively of the same formation.

(3.) The Chalk.—This well-known rock (a soft earthy and almost pure limestone) constitutes a large portion of the south of the county, rising in the Chiltern Hills to a height of about 900 feet above the sea level.

(a) The Lower Chalk.—The lowest beds are of soft whitish chalk marl, about 80 feet thick, and form rising ground between Bledlow, Risborough and the reservoirs near Marsworth. The top of this division is formed by the hard Totternhoe Stone, a rather brownish sandy chalk with dark grains; it is well seen in a small quarry near "Tring Wharf," and in several road cuttings along the line just mentioned.

(b) The Middle Chalk.—This division is about 160 feet thick and has but few flints; it forms the north-west slope of the great chalk escarpment, and is exposed along the sides of the valleys which cut that escarpment back. The top is marked by the Chalk rock, a bed of about six feet of very hard yellowish limestone, very constant in this part of the country. This is really the base or bottom layer of the Upper Chalk; we see it in a large chalk-pit one mile north of Henley-on-Thames (the town itself is in Berkshire), and in various chalk-pits between the latter town and Marlow, also near High Wycombe, Chesham, &c. Well-sinkers call it "rock," having to blast on account of its hardness.

(c) The Upper Chalk.—This remarkable mass of soft white limestone is some 450 feet thick and forms the eastern slope of the Chiltern Hills; it may be distinguished from the lower beds, not only by the presence of countless nodules and layers of flint, but by the character of the fossils.

Beech trees grow largely over this tract of chalk, and their wood is used for chair-making. The chalk itself is much burnt for lime, which is obtained from large pits from 50 to 150 feet deep. Fortunately the chalk is traversed by fissures or joints, otherwise it would be very difficult to work. The Chiltern Hills command an extensive prospect and rise sharply from the Oolitic plain which lies beyond them to the north-west.

Zones of the Chalk.—The total thickness of the Chalk formation in England is close upon 1,500 feet, but only a small part is ever exposed at one place. It is often desirable (for instance, when boring) to know the exact relative position in this thickness at any particular place. To a certain extent this can be done by reference to the character of the Chalk itself, or by the presence or absence of flints. The older divisions—Lower, Middle and Upper Chalk—were established by such methods. In recent years, however, a more accurate way of sub-dividing this great thickness has been used. This is done by study of the fossils (the remains of shells, sea-urchins &c. that lived in the sea under which the Chalk was laid down). These change in character gradually from bed to bed; and each bed has a different assemblage of fossils. Such subdivisions are called zones: they are characterized by the presence of one or more fossils belonging to the special assemblage; and each zone is named after a dominant species of fossil.

The highest beds of the Chalk in Buckinghamshire are probably those exposed in a deep quarry near Taplow, and may belong to the Marsupites zone; the rock here includes two beds of brown phosphatic chalk, and is without flints.

TERTIARY SYSTEM—EOCENE BEDS.—At the top of the Chalk there is another great break, or interval of time, during which no strata now existing in Britain were deposited. Occupying a large area between Colnbrook, Beaconsfield and Rickmansworth, we find sands and clays of an age altogether distinct from, and later than, those rocks of which we have hitherto been speaking.

Reading Beds.—These extend eastwardly from Woburn by Burnham, Beaconsfield, Hedgerley, Chalfont St. Peter's and Denham; they consist of variegated plastic clays with light-coloured and green sands, altogether about 80 feet in thickness; they are exposed in brick-yards at Hedsor, Burnham, &c. There are several outliers of the Reading Beds seen upon the Chalk, as at Penn, Pollard Wood, &c. No fossils have been found in them here.

The London Clay.—This stratum (about 200 feet thick) rests on the Reading Beds round Fulmer, at Stoke Common, Iver, Red Hill, &c.; it is a stiff brownish clay, often containing large nodules called septaria, which are rounded lumps of impure limestone, traversed by fissures filled with carbonate of lime.

SUPERFICIAL DEPOSITS: THE DRIFT.—The strata that have been alluded to up to the present form what is known as the "solid" geology of the county, that is, they were laid down, one above another, in a fairly regular order. Maps of such deposits are known as "solid" maps. But long after these strata had become consolidated, that is, at a time when the earth's surface-features were becoming like they are at present, different natural agencies were at work, breaking down as well as depositing rock-beds. Such were great rivers and glaciers, by which thick masses of debris were deposited in all positions over the surface of the land. These deposits are alluded to as "Drift." They are irregular in extent, and consist of patches of gravel, sand, clay, pebbles &c. These irregular surface deposits are relics of the glacial period; the stony clays were probably pushed out from and before the end of a great glacier which travelled down from the north into Buckinghamshire and the adjoining counties, although the ice probably never reached quite to the River Thames. The northern side of the Ouse valley between Brackley and Olney is fairly free from Drift, but south of this line and spreading over the plain formed by the Oolitic Clays we find thick and varied Drift deposits. Clean gravel beds occur round Hardwick, between Fimmere and Buckingham, and round Stowe and Akeley. In the gravel-pit at Tingewick we see false-bedded coarse gravels with beds of soft clean sand. Near Buckingham there are several examples in gravel-pits of the manner in which these beds are sometimes contorted and bent into curves; this is supposed to be due to the pressure exerted by the ice forming the Great Northern Glacier; similar cases occur at Foxcote and Maids Moreton. The stiff clay drift is well shown round Leckhampstead, where it contains striated boulders of Carboniferous Limestone, &c. At Wing the boulder-clay contains derived Jurassic and Carboniferous fossils and a large erratic block of Carboniferous Limestone stands in the middle of Soulbury village, while the gravel-pit near Soulbury consists of glacial sands with the usual derived Jurassic fossils together with tabular flints of northern origin. There is also a connecting link between the "drift clays" and the "drift sands" in the shape of clayey dirty gravels which are widely distributed.

Over the chalk hills there is much "clay with flints," a stiff, reddish clay with nodules of flint and patches of sand. It shows no sign of stratification, and probably resulted from the slow dissolution of the Chalk (from which the flints were derived). Some of its constituents evidently came from Tertiary beds which covered the Chalk.

The Ouse river-gravels cover much ground; they abound in derived oolitic fossils, especially belemnites, which are sometimes collected by the villagers, who consider them, when pounded, an excellent cure for rheumatism!

BORINGS IN BUCKS.—Hardly any deep borings in search of coal, water, etc. have been made in this county. We may, however, mention the successful boring for water at the Stone Asylum (near Aylesbury), which attained a depth of 570 feet; passing through Portland Beds, 25 ft., Kimmeridge, Corallian, and Oxford Clays, 515 ft.; and Great Oolite to 30 ft.

At Bletchley, in 1887, a boring for water put down by the L.M.S. Railway Co. terminated in a rather remarkable manner. The strata passed through were "Oxfordian Clays and Limestones" for 378 feet, at which depth the borer entered a rock described by Prof. Bonney as "a rock closely allied to granite"—possibly a variety of the igneous rock called quartz-felsite. This granitoid rock was pierced for nearly 30 feet, when the boring was abandoned. It has been supposed that this bottom rock was merely a boulder, or erratic, contained, perhaps, in the Kellaways Rock (base of Oxford Clay), but its thickness and the absence of similar boulders in the same stratum elsewhere tell against this supposition. At Calvert Station two bores put down in search of coal reached the Palæozoic floor at a depth of 443 feet below the surface, or 153 feet below sea-level. At first there was an erroneous report that coal had been found, but the fossil evidence proved the existence of Lower Tremadoc Shales of the Cambrian System.

A boring at Little Missenden, details of which were published in 1916, was carried to a depth of 1,264 feet. At a depth of 1,200 feet Palæozoic rocks were encountered, and the fossils proved the existence of Upper Ludlow rocks of the Silurian system. The evidence obtained here and at other borings suggest that the underground Palæozoic rocks of this part of England have a general dip to the south, but more borings are necessary before detailed reconstruction of the Palæozoic floor can be made.

PRE-HISTORIC MAN.—Flint Implements, the tools of the early inhabitants of this country before they became acquainted with the use of metals, have been found in several places in Bucks. These stone tools may be divided into two classes: (a) those belonging to an older or Palæolithic stone age, being merely chipped into shape; and (b) those belonging to a newer or Neolithic stone age, in which the tools were often rubbed and polished as well as chipped.

Palæolithic stone implements have been found at Iver, Dawley, Langley, Great Missenden, Burnham, Taplow, and Marlow; for the most part they are lumps of flint from four or five to nine or ten inches in length, and are either spear-shaped or oval in shape: they may have been used in warfare, or for grubbing up the soil, or for making holes in the ice for fishing, etc.; these Palæoliths are usually found in the old gravels which occur many feet above the level of the existing rivers.

Neolithic stone tools have been found at Pulpit Wood, near Princes Risborough, which appears to have been the site of an ancient encampment, and flakes of flint occur there in numbers, they were probably used as knives; rounded tools, called scrapers, which would be useful in cleansing skins, have been found here too; a rude flint arrow-head was found by Sir John Evans in 1866, on the surface of a field near Edlesborough, at the foot of the chalk hills, and a polished 'celt' or axehead occurred at Chalvey Wood, Eton Wick. Many more would doubtless turn up if they were diligently looked for.

ECONOMIC GEOLOGY.—The minerals of Buckinghamshire are very few, for the county is essentially an agricultural one. There are no coal seams beneath the surface rocks, for borings show the complete absence of the Carboniferous system, in which all British coal is found. The distance from the coalfields renders Buckinghamshire unsuitable for a manufacturing area. There is, however, one mineral resource which has been greatly extended during the last few years. At Stone, near Aylesbury, the Lower Greensand is quarried for a very pure sand for use in glass-making, in the manufacture of silica-bricks and as moulding sand in the iron and steel industry of the Birmingham and Sheffield districts. At Langley, in the south of the county, the brick-earth is largely used for brick-making. The Upper Greensand produces a building stone known as the Denner Hill Stone, from the locality where it is found at Walter's Ash. It occurs in detached isolated concretionary masses in clay or sand, and is a tough, hard stone somewhat of the nature of a quartzite. Coprolites (phosphatic nodules) were formerly dug for use as manure at Towersey Ford and at Brickhill. At Hartshill the Portland stone is quarried, whilst the Great Oolite is worked in many districts. The Chalk is burnt for lime both for building and agricultural purposes. At Dorton near Brill, there is a chalybeate spring due to spring-water passing through ferruginous sandstone. Fullers' earth has been found in the Portland Beds at Brill.

Statistics of output and value of the various economic materials in the county are published annually by the Department of Mines in the General Report on Mines and Quarries.

The figures for the year 1937 show that 1,336,311 tons of clay, 489,468 tons of gravel and sand, 11,540 tons of chalk and 1,996 tons of sandstone were obtained from the geological strata of Buckinghamshire. The monetary value was £134,939 and the winning of it employed 473 persons.

TOWNS AND VILLAGES DIRECTORY

ACKHAMPSTEAD, formerly a detached portion of the parish of Lewknor in Oxfordshire: for relief and school purposes it was, 25th March, 1885, attached to Great Marlow, but ecclesiastically it is annexed to Hambleton. The soil is flint, gravel and loam; subsoil, various. The chief crops are wheat and barley and a great portion of wood. There are only a few farms and cottages, for which see Marlow.

ADDINGTON is a parish 2 miles north-west from Winslow station on the Oxford and Bletchley section of the London, Midland and Scottish railway and 5 south from Buckingham, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred, petty sessional division, rural district and county court district of Buckingham, rural deanery of Claydon, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. The church of St. Mary is an edifice of stone in the Norman and Early English styles, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, side chapel and vestries, south porch and an embattled western tower containing 4 bells: the church was restored in 1857 by the first Lord Addington: nearly all the windows are filled with old Flemish stained glass: there are several monuments to the Busby family, formerly lords of the manor, and one to the Poulett family: there are 156 sittings. The register dates from the year 1558. Various pre-Reformation ornaments of the church as well as certain old ecclesiastical books, were found in 1857, bricked up in the north wall of the chancel, and have now been restored to use in the church. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £305, including 101 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of Lord Addington T.D., O.B.E. and held since 1934 by the Rev. Perceval Caleb Scott, of Schol. Canc. Lincoln.

The ancient stocks are still in position near the church, but within the grounds of the manor house. A charity, the interest of £720 in Reduced 2½ per Cents, is applied to the relief of the poor and in teaching poor children to read, and binding them to some trade. This place has, since 1887, given the title of baron to the Hubbard family. Addington Manor, a mansion in the Georgian style, completed in 1930 to replace the former house, is now (1939) unoccupied. Addington House, also situated in this park, is the property and residence of Croxton Buckley Bingham Smith-Bingham esq. B.A.; it was erected during the reign of Queen Anne; it was originally much larger, but was reduced in size by Lord Addington about 1855; it was restored by the present owner in 1922. There is a remarkably fine example of a cruciform tithe barn adjoining the house, believed to be the only one in the county. The stables bear the date 1642. C. B. B. Smith-Bingham esq. is the principal landowner. The soil is clay and gravel; the greater portion of the land is pasture. The area is 1,295 acres of land and 8 of water; the population in 1931 was 91.

ADSTOCK is a parish and small village, 1½ miles east from Padbury station on the Banbury and Bletchley branch of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, 3 north-west from Winslow and 4 south-east from Buckingham, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred, petty sessional division, rural district and county court district of Buckingham, rural deanery of Claydon, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available.

The church of St. Cecilia is an ancient building of stone in part Perpendicular, and consisting of chancel, nave, south porch and an embattled western tower containing a clock installed in 1880 and 3 bells; the corbels supporting the chancel arch are carved with oak and vine foliage and fruit; the stone font is octagonal, and the bowl has foliated panels of rough workmanship: the pulpit incorporates portions of the ancient rood screen: on a beam above the east window is carved the date 1597; and in the nave a monument to three rectors named Thomas Egerton, all of the same family, who held the living from 1569-1640 and from 1671 to 1720, and another to the memory of the Rev. Alexander Burrell M.A. 50 years rector of this parish, who died 1771: in the north wall, which is the oldest part of the church, are two doors, late Norman and Early English respectively: on the front of the porch is a sundial, with the date 1581: a shrine was erected in 1920 as a memorial to the men connected with the parish who lost their lives in the Great War, 1914-18: the plate includes an Elizabethan cup and covered paten: there are 120 sittings. There is a list of rectors of this parish from the 13th century. The register dates from the year 1538. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £274, derived from 290 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of Cambridge University, and held since 1930 by the Rev. William Mayne Curtis A.K.C.L. Land comprising 4a. 2r. 4p. was left for the repairs of the church. There is a Methodist chapel, built in 1889, and seating 100 persons. Charles Matthew Prior esq. B.A., J.P. is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is chiefly clay; two-thirds of the land is pasture and one-third arable. The area is 1,166 acres; population in 1931, 222.

AKELEY is a parish on the road from Buckingham to Towcester, 3 miles north from Buckingham station on the Verney Junction and Banbury branch of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred, petty sessional division, county court district, rural district, rural deanery and archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available.

The church of St. James the Apostle, entirely rebuilt in 1854 by private subscription, is an edifice of stone, in the Early Decorated style, consisting of chancel and nave, and an embattled tower in the south side, the basement of which forms a porch: the tower has an octagonal turret or spire at one angle, rising about 24 feet above the parapet and contains a clock and 2 bells: the Norman south doorway is a relic of the original church: there is a memorial window of Munich glass, erected in 1884 to the Rev. John Holford Risley B.C.L., M.A. 34 years rector (1841-74): the church was renovated in 1901, and an organ provided in January, 1902, in place of the one introduced in 1854: there are 257 sittings: in 1903 the churchyard was enlarged by the gift of Mr. George Attwood. There is a Maltese cross of stone, 13 feet 6 ins. in height, erected in 1920, as a memorial to the nine men of this parish who lost their lives in the Great War, 1914-18. The register dates from the year 1682. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £205, with residence, in the gift of the Church Association Trust, and held since 1929 by the Rev. Victor Edwin Seagroove M.A. of University College, Durham. The Methodist chapel, built in 1829, will seat 100 persons. There is a poor's allotment of 12½ acres. Akeley Wood, the seat of Mrs. Price, is a half-timbered Elizabethan mansion, standing in about 200 acres of well-timbered grass land; part of Akeley Wood, a celebrated old cover, was left by William of Wykeham to New College, Oxford. The Warden and Fellows of New College, Oxford, are lords of the manor; John Roberts esq. J.P. and Mrs. Heyworth are the principal landowners. The soil is clay; subsoil, clay. The land is about equally divided between pasture and arable. The area is 1,325 acres; the population in 1931 was 255.

AMERSHAM (formerly Agmondesham) is a market town and parish and head of a rural district, on the Midsouthern stream, with a station about 2 miles from the town on the Aylesbury extension of the Metropolitan railway; it is 3½ miles from Chalfont Road station on the Metropolitan and London and North Eastern Joint railway, 7 from High Wycombe station on the Great Western railway, 8 from Berkhamstead station on the London, Midland and Scottish railway, 4½ south from Beaconsfield, 3 south from Chesham and 26 from London, in the Aylesbury division of the county, hundred and petty sessional division of Burnham, county court district of Chesham, rural deanery of Amersham, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Gas and electricity are available. Water is supplied by the Amersham, Beaconsfield and District Waterworks, opened in 1896, from a reservoir at Coleshill. Amersham was formerly a parliamentary borough by prescription, returning two members to parliament, but was disfranchised by the Reform Act of 1832 (2 and 3 Wm. IV. c. 45). Amersham is associated with several martyrdoms at the time of the Lollards, burnings having taken place here in 1414, 1506 and 1522. Bury Farm, at the east end of the town, was the home of Mary Penington in 1666, when her husband was imprisoned for his Quaker opinions. No. 47 High street dates from the 15th century and very many houses in the town belong to the next two succeeding centuries. The church of St. Mary is a structure of flint, about 125 feet in length, chiefly of Perpendicular date, and consists of chancel with north aisle or Drake chapel, nave of four bays, with clerestory, aisles, richly groined, south porch and an embattled western tower with pinnacles, surmounted by small spire and containing a clock and 6 bells: the nave and aisles are divided by arcades of five pointed arches of Late Decorated work: the stained east window was removed here from the chapel of Lamer Manor House, Herts, on its reconstruction by Sir Bennett Garrard, 6th bart. M.P. for Amersham in 1761: there are also in the Drake monument room other memorials to the family of Drake, including a mural monument, by Bacon, to Thomas Drake Tyrwhitt-Drake esq. of Shardeloes, M.P. for Amersham, d. 1810; a monument to William Drake esq. M.P., LL.D. d. 8 Aug. 1796; and in the vestry a mural tablet to Dr. Thomas Drake, rector of Amersham, 1775, and Elizabeth, his wife, 1765: on the north side of the chancel is a monument, with demi-efigy, placed in a niche, to Sir William Drake bart. d. 1669, and on the south side, also in a recess, between pillars of the Doric order, a cenotaph of black and gold, above which are medallion portraits of Montagu Drake esq. M.P. for Amersham, d. 1698, and Jane (Garrard), d. 1724: the mortuary chapel of the Drake family, on the north side of the chancel, has on the north side a magnificent tomb, by Peter Sheemaker, consisting of a sarcophagus of black marble, with figures in white marble, beneath an elliptic arch, supported on pilasters, to Montague Garrard Drake esq. M.P. for Amersham in 1713, 1715 and 1727 and for Bucks in 1722; he died in 1728; in the south side of the chancel is a brass, with the effigy of a child, and some quaint rhyming couplets, to John, son of the foregoing, d. 1623: in the chancel is an altar tomb, with fluted pillars supporting a pediment, beneath which are kneeling figures of a lady and gentleman, and below an inscription to Elizabeth, widow of William Bent esq. of Corby, Leic. 1730, and to George Bent, her son, 1714; near which is a mural tablet, with an account of her bequests to the town by will, dated June 25, 1728: in the north cross aisle is a mural tablet to James Rumsey M.D. 1824, and various memorials to the family of Eeles, 1727-1815: in the south aisle are inscribed stones or mural monuments to Edward Childe, 1676; Philip Ayres esq. 1712 and the Rev. John Drake LL.D. 50 years rector of Amersham, d. 26 June, 1860; and in the vestry a mural tablet to the Rev. Benjamin Robertshaw, rector of Amersham, 1728-43: in the south cross aisle are brasses, with effigies, to John de la Penne, 1537, and Elizabeth, his wife, 1521; and to Henry Brudenell esq. 1430 and Alianora, his wife: in the north aisle is a brass effigy and inscription to Thomas Carbonell esq. 1439 and Elizabeth, his wife, 1438; there is also a mutilated brass, c. 1440: on the north side of the chancel is a chapel, formerly the burying place of the Brudenell and Proby families: in the 18th century it was closed up and used as a mausoleum, and continued to be so used until 1874: the persons there deposited, about 60 in number, have since been interred in the churchyard; the restoration of the chapel was completed in 1908: the exterior of the church was substantially restored in 1890: there are 600 sittings. The register dates from the year 1561. The living is a rectory with the chapelry of Coleshill annexed, net yearly value £1,028, with residence, in the gift of Capt. Thomas Tyrwhitt-Drake M.C. and held since 1904 by the Rev. Charles Edward Briggs M.A. of Christ Church, Oxford, rural dean of Amersham. The church of St. George, erected in 1935, is in White Lion road. There is a mission church on Amersham common. There are Particular Baptist, General Baptist and Methodist chapels, and near Woodside road is another small Methodist chapel. The Free Church (interdenominational) was erected in 1911 and enlarged in 1915 to seat 300 people. The cemetery for the Church of England covers four acres; that for Nonconformists is of about two acres; both are under the control of a joint committee of the Amersham and Coleshill Parish Councils. The Market Hall, which stands in the centre of the town, and was erected by Sir William Drake kt. who died in 1682, is an edifice of brick, the lower stage forming an open piazza; the upper floor consists of a large hall, surmounted by a lantern turret, with clock, and is used for transacting public business and for entertainments, and will hold 250 persons. The market day is Tuesday, and fairs are held on Whit-Monday and on the 19th September. The kennels of the Old Berkeley Hunt are at Coldmoreham; S. G. R. Barratt esq. and W. C. Devereux esq. are joint masters; Capt. G. H. S. Webber, secretary; the pack comprises 30 couples of foxhounds and hunts Mondays and Thursdays; Amersham (nearest railway station to kennels), Chesham, Missenden, Wendover and Rickmansworth are convenient centres. There are six almshouses, built in the year 1657 by Sir William Drake bt. uncle of the builder of the Market hall, for the benefit of six poor widows of farmers and tradesmen, who each receive 7s. per week and a new gown every two years, also on the longest day 9s. 4d. and on the shortest day 1s. 4d. each, besides two loads of wood and coal annually for firing; and six almshouses, built by Miss Day, for eight elderly females, endowed with 7s. each per week. The Tothill, Snell's, Waller's, Hales', Wharton's and Mrs. Bent's charities, comprising various sums, altogether amounting to about £400 a year, are applied to different purposes. Shardeloes, the ancient seat of the Drake family, stands in a park of 700 acres, and is occupied by Capt. Thomas Tyrwhitt-Drake M.C. lord of the manor and principal landowner. The present building, which is nearly on the site of the former one, was designed by Robert Adam in 1760, and remains for the most part unaltered, and with all the original decorations and fittings. Woodrow High House in the property and residence of Sir Nigel Leslie Campbell. Cokes Farm, the property and residence of Mrs. Herbert Wilcox, includes an orchard in which is a tomb surrounded by iron railings, and bearing the names of a number of the Grimsdell family, buried there from 1647 to 1739. The soil is principally clay overlying chalk. The area is 6,459 acres of land and inland water; the population in 1931 was 6,380 in the civil parish, including 221 persons in the Institution, and 6,756 in the ecclesiastical parish.

COLESHILL is a hamlet and chapelry in the parish of Amersham, 1½ miles south, formerly in the county of Hertford, but by the Act 2 & 3 William IV. cap. 64, is now included in this county; it is about one mile and a half from Amersham, on a hill, with much woodland. The reservoirs of the Amersham, Beaconsfield and District Waterworks Co. Limited are situated here; they supply Amersham and district, and have a capacity of more than 1,000,000 gallons. The church of All Saints, a chapel of ease to St. Mary's, Amersham, is a building of flint and brick in the Gothic style, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch and a small tower containing one bell and clock with chimes presented by Miss Galpin; there is an oak reredos; an organ was presented in 1906 in memory of Mrs. Tom Taylor by her family: there are 200 sittings; in the churchyard which was consecrated in memory of those men from the village who fell in the Great War, 1914-18, is a cross to commemorate them; the Rev. Wilfred Lawrence Bunce M.A. is curate in charge. Edmund Waller, the poet, born in this hamlet, March 3, 1605, was M.P. for Amersham in two parliaments of Charles I.; and the celebrated Algernon Sidney represented it in 1679. The Convalescent Home of the Samaritan Hospital of Marylebone road, London, is in this hamlet; the home provides for 14 women. Among the curiosities here is the celebrated Waller's Oak. The soil is principally chalk and flint. The area is 1,850 acres; the population in 1931 was 635.

WINCHMORE HILL, 1½ miles west, lies between Coleshill and Penn, being situated partly within the boundaries of both those places.

WOODROW is a hamlet in the parish.

ASCOTT, see Wing.

ASHENDON is a village and parish, 1 mile south from Wotton station on the London and North Eastern railway, and $4\frac{1}{2}$ south-west from Quainton Road station on the Metropolitan and London and North Eastern joint railway, 9 west from Aylesbury and 4 east from Brill; it is head of a petty sessional division, in the Buckinghamshire division of the county, hundred to which it gives name, rural district and county court district of Aylesbury, rural deanery of Waddesdon, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available.

The church of St. Mary is an ancient building of stone in the Decorated, Early English and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel, nave with clerestory, and an arcade of three arches connecting it with the south aisle, south porch and a western tower containing 3 bells; there are two piscinæ; in the chancel, beneath a depressed crocketed arch with filial, is a tomb with the figure of a cross-legged warrior in chain mail, the hauberk reaching to his knees and covered with a surcoat; his right hand grasps his sword and his left the scabbard, the left arm bearing a large heater-shaped shield; the effigy may commemorate a member of the Cheyndutt family, and is of the late 13th century; there are also many mural monuments: the church was restored in 1923 and many interesting features revealed behind the plaster; these included a 13th century arch leading to a north transept, and within that arch a smaller one of the 15th century leading to a chantry chapel, together with a squint of the same date; a staircase leading to the rood screen was also discovered: the church affords 120 sittings. The register dates from the year 1690. The living is a vicarage, annexed to that of Wotton Underwood, joint net yearly value £480, in the gift of Maj. Michael Wentworth Beaumont D.L., J.P. and held since 1934 by the Rev. Robert Edward Beckley L.Th. of Durham University, who resides at Wotton Underwood. The finest examples of saucer shape fibulæ known are two of the Anglo-Saxon period, $3\frac{1}{2}$ inches in diameter and jewelled, found in this parish. The and is principally held by the Crown and Maj. Michael Wentworth Beaumont D.L., J.P. The soil is loam and clay; subsoil, clay and limestone. The land is principally used for pasture. The area is 2,128 acres; the population in 1931 was 200.

ASHLEY GREEN is a parish, formed out of the civil parish of Chesham by an Order of the County Council, dated 16 March, 1896, confirmed by Local Government Board Order No. 34,772, which came into operation 1st April, 1897; it is situated on a hill on the borders of Herts, about 3 miles north-east from Chesham, and $2\frac{1}{2}$ from Berkhamsted station on the main line of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, in the Aylesbury division of the county, rural district and rural deanery of Amersham, hundred, petty sessional division and county court district of Chesham, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. The ecclesiastical parish was formed October 29, 1875. Gas and electricity are available. Water is supplied by the Rickmansworth & Uxbridge Valley Water Co. The church of St. John the Evangelist, erected at the cost of Miss Dorrien, and consecrated in 1875, is a building of flint with stone dressings in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave of four bays, south aisle, south porch and a bell turret over chancel arch containing 2 bells: the stained east window is a memorial to Col. R. A. Smith-Dorrien, who died in 1879, and was inserted by his family: the east end of the chancel has been adorned with mural paintings, executed as a memorial to Miss Dorrien, founder of the church: there is a fine eagle lectern, carved oak: there are 263 sittings. The register dates from the year 1875. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value

£300, with residence, in the gift of Maj. A. A. Dorrien-Smith D.S.O., J.P. and held since 1937 by the Rev. Samuel Mapleton Whitwell L.Th. of Durham University. At Grove farm is a large double-moated site containing remains of a mediæval building, once the home of the De la Grove, Brudenell and Cheyne families. The farmers are the chief landowners. The land is chiefly arable. The area is 3,039 acres; the population in 1931 was 519 in the civil and 795 in the ecclesiastical parish.

LYE GREEN, $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles south, and WHELPLEY HILL, 3 miles east, are places in this parish. There is a school chapel at Whelpley Hill in which divine service is held once every Sunday. By the will of Thomas Curtis, of Berkhamsted, £6,000 was left to support a school at Whelpley Hill, the remainder to a clergyman of the Church of England for performing one service in Whelpley Hill school chapel every Sunday.

By Local Government Board Order No. 41,337, which came into operation 1st October, 1900, part of Ashley Green civil parish was transferred to the civil parish and Urban district of Chesham, and a further part was transferred by the Bucks Review Order, 1934.

ASTON ABBOTS (or Abbots Aston) is a small village and parish $3\frac{1}{2}$ miles north-west from Marston Gate station on the Aylesbury and Cheddington branch of the London, Midland and Scottish railway and $5\frac{1}{2}$ north-east from Aylesbury, in the Aylesbury division of the county, rural district of Wing, county court district of Aylesbury, hundred of Cottesloe, petty sessional division of Linslade, rural deanery of Mursley, archdeaconry of Buckingham, formerly a peculiar of the Bishop of London, but now transferred to the diocese of Oxford. This place derives its suffix of "Abbots" from the fact that the manor belonged to the Abbey of St. Albans, the abbots of which religious house had a country seat here. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Bucks Water Board. The church of St. James is a small building of stone, chiefly of the Decorated period, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch and a western embattled tower with square turret, containing 6 bells and a chiming clock striking the quarters: the sixth bell was given by William Hutchinson Putnam esq. of Hertford, Connecticut, in memory of his ancestor, the first American Putnam, who left Aston Abbots about 1631: there is a good piscina in the south wall of the chancel: the south doorway is Early English: in 1890 an organ chamber was built, and an organ added: the oak screen was erected in 1911 in memory of Mrs. Martyn, wife of a former vicar: the stained east window is a memorial to Rear-Admiral Sir James Clarke Ross kt. d. 1862, and Lady Ross, d. 1857, and there are also windows in memory of Mrs. Hart, Mrs. Martyn and Mrs. Steele: the church was restored and partly rebuilt in 1865-6: the tower, which is the only portion of the old church now standing, is of the 11th century, the remainder being of the 14th century: there is an oak chest, dated 1695, containing the registers and parish documents: the church furniture was presented by Mrs. Thornton and family from the proceeds of private sales of their own work: a ringers' gallery and a decorated oak screen were erected in 1929, to form a vestry in the tower: there is a cross of grey Cornish granite at the entrance to the churchyard, erected as a memorial to the men connected with this parish who lost their lives in the Great War, 1914-18: there are 140 sittings. The register dates from the year 1559. The living is a vicarage, with the rectory of Cublington annexed, joint net yearly value £400, with residence, in the gift of the rector and fellows of Lincoln College, Oxford, who have two turns, and the Overstone Trust, which has one turn, and held since 1934 by the Rev. Cecil White Morris M.A. of Lincoln College, Oxford. The Congregational chapel, erected in 1839, will seat 200; the Methodist chapel, erected in 1862, seats 50, and has a Sunday school attached. A Church Room was erected in 1898, and is used for parochial purposes. The Abbey, the property and residence of Capt. H. T. Morton J.P. is a mansion of brick and stone; it stands pleasantly overlooking the town and vale of Aylesbury, and in the grounds is a sheet of water. Aston is a meeting place for the Whaddon Chase hounds. The Rothschild family are the principal landowners. The soil is sand and gravel; subsoil, sand. The land is principally in pasture, but wheat is grown. The area is 2,198 acres; the population in 1931 was 247.

BURSTON (or Birdstane), called in Domesday Book "Bricstock," and about 1 mile south-west, is in this parish. Major Lionel Nathan de Rothschild O.B.E., J.P. is the sole landowner.

ASTON CLINTON is a township, parish and village on the road from Aylesbury to Tring, from which it is 3 miles north-west, 4 south-east from Aylesbury, and $3\frac{1}{2}$ from Stoke Mandeville station on the Aylesbury section of the Metropolitan and London and North Eastern Joint railway; it is in the Aylesbury division of the county, hundred, petty sessional division, rural district and county court district of Aylesbury, rural deanery of Wendover, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. The Chiltern hills run through this parish. Gas and electricity are available. Water is supplied by the Chiltern Hills Spring Water Co. The church of St. Michael and All Angels is a building of stone in the Early English and Decorated styles, with Perpendicular additions, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, south porch and an embattled western tower containing 6 bells: it was restored in 1867: an organ was built in 1894: there is a stone pulpit: in the chancel is buried Gerard, 1st Viscount Lake, of Delhi and Laswaree, conqueror in 1804 of the great Mogul; he died 20 Feb. 1808; the church has 418 sittings: the churchyard is spacious and partially surrounded by a belt of lime trees. The register of baptisms dates from the year 1566, and that of burials and marriages from 1560. The living is a rectory, net yearly value about £500, derived from 510 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of Jesus College, Oxford, and held since 1931 by the Rev. Henry Ernest Ruddy M.A. late scholar of that college, hon. chaplain R.A.F. There is a Baptist chapel here, erected in 1830; it was rebuilt in 1846, and again in 1897, and has sittings for 350 persons. Services are also held by the Evangelists in Aston Hall, a building erected in 1878 and holding 120 persons. There is a cross of Cornish granite, on the side of the main road to Aylesbury and opposite Brook street, erected as a memorial to the men of this parish who lost their lives in the Great War, 1914-18. A drinking fountain and water trough was erected in 1911 by the parishioners to the memory of Louisa, Lady de Rothschild. Turpin's charity of about £14 yearly is for bread. About 1660, Sir Gilbert Gerrard bart. of Flambarbs, Harrow, bequeathed land producing £20 yearly, for the repairs of the church. Anthony Hall, erected in 1884 by the Dowager Lady de Rothschild for entertainments, will hold 300 persons. Aston Clinton House, originally built by Lord Lake, was rebuilt on an enlarged scale by the late Sir Anthony de Rothschild bart.; the grounds and house are now occupied by the Green Park Private Hotel. The manorial rights were extinguished in 1814 by the "Inclosure Award," in exchange for 5 or 6 acres of land. The ownership of the land is divided. The soil is stiff loam and chalk; subsoil, shale. The chief crops are wheat, oats, barley, beans and clover. Stone fruit is largely and successfully grown here, the soil being especially adapted for that purpose. The area is 3,045 acres of land and inland water; the population of the civil parish in 1931 was 1,373, and 1,273 in the ecclesiastical parish.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, part of Aston Clinton civil parish was included in the new parish of Cholesbury-cum-St. Leonards.

ASTON SANDFORD is a small secluded parish on the Standbridge brook, a tributary of the Thame, 1½ miles from Haddenham station on the Great Western and London and North Eastern Joint railway, 3½ from Thame and 7 south-west from Aylesbury, in the Aylesbury division of the county, hundred of Ashendon, petty sessional division, rural district, county court district and rural deanery of Aylesbury, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. The church of St. Michael and All Angels is a small building of stone chiefly in the Early English style of the 13th century, with some Decorated windows, and consists of chancel and nave and a bell-turret; the chancel retains an ancient sumbury; there are three stained windows, and in the chancel a tablet to the Rev. Thomas Scott, rector 1801-21, famous for his "Commentary" on the Bible, and father of Sir George G. Scott B.A. the architect: the church was restored in 1877-8, and affords 80 sittings. There is a list of rectors from 1220. The register dates from the year 1600. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £180, including 46 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Peache trustees, and held since 1939 by the Rev. Charles Norman Middleton Evans M.A. of Keble College, Oxford, hon. C.F. and surrogate, vicar of Towersey and Thame and resides at the Vicarage, Thame. Mr. Reginald Henry Good is the principal landowner. The soil is gait and sandstone, and under parts, coprolites are found; subsoil, clay and limestone. The chief crops are wheat, oats and beans. The area is 679 acres; the population in 1931 was 49.

ASTWOOD is a village and small parish on the borders of Bedfordshire and on the road from Newport Pagnell to Bedford, 7 miles south-west from Bedford, 5½ north-east from Newport Pagnell terminal station of a branch of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, and 7½ south-east from Olney station on the Bedford and Northampton branch of the same railway; it is in the Buckingham division of the county, county court district of Bedford, hundred, rural district, petty sessional division and rural deanery of Newport Pagnell, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Water is supplied by the Newport Pagnell Rural District Council.

The church of St. Peter is an ancient building of stone, consisting of chancel, nave of four bays, with clerestory, south aisle, modern south porch and an embattled western tower of the Decorated period containing 3 bells and a clock: the piers and arches of the nave are also Decorated, but the clerestory and roof Perpendicular: the font, an Early English work, has a plain octagonal bowl supported on a square pedestal having four circular shafts with moulded caps: there are three fine brasses, with effigies, to Thomas Chibnale and Emma and Alice his wives, dated 1534: there are three marble mural tablets to the Lowndes family, and one to Samuel Cranmer, 1640: within the chancel rails are four black marble slabs, three to the Lowndes family and one to Thomas Layton esq. 1723: there is a marble tablet erected in memory of the three men of this parish who lost their lives in the Great War, 1914-18: opposite the porch is the base of an ancient stone cross: there are 120 sittings. The register dates from the year 1666. The living is a vicarage, with that of Hardmead united, joint net yearly value £380, including 12 acres of glebe, with residence, and held since 1939 by . There is a Congregational chapel, built in 1826, and holding 120 persons. Lowndes' charity of £4 10s. is for distribution yearly in money on Easter Monday. Ian Irvine Boswell esq. who is lord of the manor, and the trustees of the late Alfred J. Cox esq. are the principal landowners. The soil is strong clay; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, beans, barley and oats. The area is 1,281 acres; the population in 1931 was 127.

AYLESBURY

AYLESBURY is a municipal borough and market town, parish, head of a petty sessional division and county court district, and gives its name to a rural district, in the Aylesbury division of the county, hundred and rural deanery of Aylesbury, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford; the town stands on an elevated site formed of Portland rock, and at its highest point is about 300 feet above the level of the sea; it is near the centre of the county, 40 miles from London through Wendover, Amersham and Uxbridge, 38 through Tring, Berkhamsted and Watford, and 35 miles direct from Baker Street station on the Metropolitan railway, 42 miles from London by the Great Western railway, via Beaconsfield and High Wycombe, 30 miles north-north-west from Windsor, 16 north from High Wycombe, 17 south-east from Buckingham and Bicester, 10 east-north-east from Thame and 10 west-south-west from Leighton Buzzard, in Bedfordshire. There is a station here which serves the London and North Eastern, Metropolitan and Great Western joint line, and a halt at South Aylesbury: there is also a terminal station on the London, Midland and Scottish branch line from Cheddington. The town stands on a branch of the Grand Junction canal and gives its name to the large and fruitful Vale of Aylesbury, long celebrated for verdure and fertility, which, extending from the foot of the Chiltern Hills and the western border of Hertfordshire towards the north to Wingrave and Oving, is skirted by the hills of Pitchcott and Quainton, and stretches westward almost to the verge of Oxfordshire, losing its appellation in the tract of woodland formerly known as "Birnwood," or "Bernwode" Forest.

During the civil war Aylesbury was garrisoned for the Parliament in 1644-5, under Col. Bulstrode: Prince Rupert appeared before the town, 20th March, 1643, but no engagement then took place: the skirmish known as "the Battle of Aylesbury" occurred at Holman's Bridge, near the town, on Nov. 1, 1642. The town was incorporated and made a parliamentary borough by a charter from Queen Mary in 1553-4, the right of election being originally vested in the corporation alone, afterwards in the pot-wallopers, and in 1804 was extended to the three hundreds of Aylesbury, which continued to return two members to Parliament until the passing of the "Redistribution of Seats Act, 1885" (48 and 49 Vict. c. 23), by which the representation was merged into that of the county.

The town having, by neglect, lost its charter, was governed by a Local Board of Health, and until December, 1916, was under the control of an Urban District Council of 18 members, formed under the provisions of the "Local Government Act, 1894" (56 and 57 Vict. c. 73), but a charter of incorporation was granted from 1st January, 1917: the borough is divided into three wards, Northern, South-Eastern and South-Western, and is now governed by a mayor, 6 aldermen and 18 councillors.

By Local Government Board Order, No. 35,052, which came into operation October 1st, 1896, the area within the Aylesbury Rural District, which prior to the operation of the Local Government Act, 1894, formed part of the civil parish of Aylesbury, was transferred to the civil parish and urban district of Aylesbury, and the area within the urban district, which, prior to the operation of the same Act, formed part of the civil parish of Bierton was, with Broughton, transferred to the civil parish of Bierton with Broughton and to the Rural District of Aylesbury.

The ecclesiastical history of Aylesbury derives its chief interest from the connection which existed between this church and the cathedral of Lincoln. At an early period a bishop of that see, in compliance with a Papal requisition, presented a foreigner, who was a relative of his own, to the rectory, and he appropriated it in the usual form to the deanery of Lincoln, so that it became annexed to it; subsequently, this arrangement was reversed, and the rectory attached to a prebendal stall, and, until the abolition, during 1837-45, of peculiar jurisdictions, once nearly 300 in number, the church of Aylesbury was exempt from ordinary episcopal visitation, as a peculiar of the dean and chapter of Lincoln.

The town, with Walton, is abundantly supplied with water from the Chiltern Hills by a public company, established in the year 1867, which also supplies the villages of Aston Clinton, together with St. Leonard's Buckland, Drayton Beauchamp, Eythrope, Halton, Hartwell, Stone, Upper Winchendon, Waddesdon, Wendover, Westcott, Weedon, Hastoe and Wigginton, and the town of Tring in Hertfordshire. The pumping stations are at Dancers End, Buckland and New Ground, near Great Berkhamsted.

The town is lighted by electricity from works, controlled by the Corporation, erected in 1915 in Exchange street.

The church of St. Mary, a fine cruciform building, undoubtedly replacing a church of Saxon origin, stands on the western side of the town, nearly at its highest elevation, and is therefore a conspicuous object from all parts of the surrounding country: the most ancient portions of the existing structure are Early English of the 13th century, the transepts being fine specimens of that style: the church consists of chancel, nave, aisles with chapels, transepts, south porch, and a massive central embattled tower of Early English date, with panelled battlements of Perpendicular character, from within which rises a small turret and spire of woodwork covered with lead, erected in the 17th century: the tower contains a peal of 8 bells and a sanctus bell, dated 1612: it has been wholly refaced with rubble stone, the turret and spire recased with lead and ornamental clock dials of cast iron affixed to the exterior: the chapels date from the 14th and 15th centuries, both containing piscinae: the south porch and the western entrance are fine specimens of Early English; the west window, Late Perpendicular, is filled with stained glass, presented by Acton Tindal esq. in 1862. In a recess beneath a moulded and feathered arch in the north transept lies the effigy of a knight in white marble, clad in the plate and chain armour of the 14th century, the head resting on a helmet; the figure was long supposed to have formed part of the tomb of James Boteler, founder of the Grey Friars monastery, once standing in the town, having been found buried in grounds once attached to the monastery; the slight armorial bearings which can be discerned appear, however, to be those of the Lee family, of Quarrendon, and the figure may therefore represent Sir Robert Lee, of Hulcote, a member of that family: there is also in this transept a fine old Elizabethan monument with quaint inscription to Lady Lee, wife of Sir Henry Lee K.G. of Quarrendon, with alabaster figures of herself and children; and within Early English niches, in the wall of the north aisle, are two stone coffins of the 12th century, discovered in the course of some repairs made about 1850: the chancel is Early English: the stained east window, a fine triple lancet, richly ornamented with shafts and carved capitals, is filled with designs copied from an old window of this period in Chetwode Priory; on either side are three lancets, also stained: the chancel stalls, dating from the 15th century, are in a good state of preservation and the roof is a fine specimen of the wagon or cradle roof: the chancel contains a double aumbry, trefoil headed, and a tomb or Easter sepulchre of Early English date: on the north side of the chancel is the old sacristy, with upper storey, containing an ancient fireplace and a baluster window: in the north transept are two piscinae, a trefoil-headed reredos and a sepulchre, both Early English: the Lady chapel, a beautiful work of the 14th century, was restored in 1897 at a cost of £400, in commemoration of the Diamond Jubilee of Queen Victoria: below it is a charnel or bone-hole; this was formerly supposed to be a Saxon crypt, but both Mr. St. John Hope and the Rev. D. H. S. Cranage agree that it is of later date; it is now entered by means of a trap-door and ladder, but there are traces of a stone staircase leading up into the south transept: the present choir vestry contains a wardrobe of oak of the early part of the 16th century: the stained west window of the north chapel was inserted in 1870 by Mr. Thomas Perrin, and in the south chapel is a memorial window erected in June, 1871, by Mr. and Mrs. James Ceely, to their son; and another, placed in 1873, by Miss Hatten, to the memory of her father and mother: two small statues of SS. Peter and James, the patron saints respectively of Quarendon and Bierton, placed on either side of the doorway of the south transept, were given by Sir George G. Scott R.A.; the oak benches are in facsimile of the ancient seating of the church: the font is Norman, and nearly 3 feet in diameter, and has a circular scalloped bowl, with rich scroll work round the upper part, and stands on a cushioned base carved with foliage; this is the type specimen of several fonts of the 12th century found in the neighbourhood: the whole of the interior and exterior of the church was thoroughly repaired and restored in 1869: the reredos, presented in 1891 as a memorial to H. A. P. Cooper esq. is of gilt mahogany, with painted panels, depicting various scripture scenes: in 1902 the sanctuary was panelled in oak, sedilia, with two canopied figures of SS. Peter and Paul erected, and two brass candlesticks presented, the whole forming a memorial to the Rev. H. B. McNair vicar 1889-95, by his widow and brother: the roof was repaired in 1902 and again in 1924: on the north side of the church is a memorial chapel to Buckinghamshire men who fell in the Great War, 1914-18; there are 1,150 sittings. The churchyard, which was closed against interments Dec. 11th, 1855, is extensive, well kept, and planted with avenues of trees. One of the most illustrious of those who have held the prebendal stall of Aylesbury was Dr. John Hackett, who, during the sitting of the Long Parliament, made the memorable appeal before the House of Commons on behalf of Cathedral Establishments, 12th May, 1641, and was a munificent restorer of the Cathedral of Lichfield. The register dates from the year 1564. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £470, in the gift of the Bishop of Oxford, and held since 1927 by the Rev. Francis James Howard M.A. of Keble College, Oxford, hon. canon of Christ Church, Oxford, rural dean of Aylesbury, and surrogate.

The church of St. John the Evangelist, in Cambridge street, erected in 1883 as a chapel of ease to the parish church, is an edifice of red brick, consisting of nave, chancel added in 1894 and a belfry containing 3 tubular bells, presented in 1906 by Mrs. W. Blewitt: in 1901 carved oak choir stalls were introduced, and in 1920 a stained window was erected at the east end as a memorial to the men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18: in 1933, to commemorate the church's jubilee, a carved oak chancel screen and pulpit were erected: there are 600 sittings.

WALTON is an ecclesiastical parish, formed in 1845 out of Aylesbury parish; once it was a separate hamlet, but now forms part of the municipal borough. The church of the Holy Trinity, erected about 1845, is a plain structure of flint with red brick facings, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, west porch and a western tower with pinnacle containing 3 bells: in 1886-7 the church was enlarged, reseated and improved by the erection of a tower and porch: in 1910 a central aisle was formed, electric light installed and the church redecorated as a war memorial: a new organ and electrical tubular bells were added in 1938-39: the stained east window was erected in 1935 in memory of T. S. Timmis, d. 1933: there are 500 sittings. The register dates from 1845. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £424, with residence, in the gift of the Church Patronage Society, and held since 1937 by the Rev. Brian Hession M.A. of Christ's College, Cambridge.

The Congregational chapel, in High street, is an edifice of brick with stone dressings, in the Early English style, and was erected in 1874 at a cost of £3,000, on the site of an ancient Nonconformist meeting house known as "Hale Leys," founded in 1707: there are sittings for 700 persons. Attached are schools, erected in 1895, and an Institute, erected in 1907.

The Baptist chapel in Walton street, built in 1828, will seat 200 persons.

The Methodist chapel in Buckingham street, erected 1893-94, is of red brick with stone dressings, in the Classic style, and seats 730.

The Christadelphian hall in Albert street, Tring road, seats 40.

The Methodist chapel, Buckingham road, erected in 1882 to replace the former building in Station street, is of red brick with stone dressings, and seats 250.

The Evangelistic Free Assembly Hall, St. Mary's square, erected 1874, will seat 500 persons.

The Cemetery, on the Tring road, was established in 1857 at a cost of £1,500: it now contains 20 acres of ground, and is under the control of the Corporation acting as a burial board; there are two chapels, a mortuary and a keeper's residence.

Four ecclesiastical foundations are recorded to have been established here: 1. The hospitals of St. John and St. Leonard, about A.D. 1361 and 1372, for needy and leprous persons. 2. The Franciscans or Grey Friars, by James Boteler, third Earl of Ormonde, in 1386, and surrendered October 1, 1538. 3. A Fraternity or Chantry, in the time of Henry VI. 1425, by J. Singleton and J. and J. Baldwin. 4. A house of Mathurines or Trinitarians.

The Town Hall, erected in 1865 on a site formerly occupied by the White Hart inn, adjoining the County Hall, is a structure of red dressed brick with stone facings in the Elizabethan or Jacobean style, with a handsome and lofty triple arched entrance; and over the central arch facing the Market square is a capacious oriel; the space below is divided from a pathway on each side by short stone pillars supporting an arched roof: the building was purchased by the town in July, 1901, and is used as Public Offices. The Meat Market, built in 1863, abuts on the Exchange. The Market Company's undertaking, including the Town Hall, Meat Market, Cattle Market and Market Spaces, was purchased in 1900 by the Urban District Council, for £9,500, the original cost having been £27,000, and is now under the control of the Corporation.

In the Market square is a statue, erected in 1910 as a memorial to Major-Gen. Sir Charles Compton William, 3rd Baron Chesham, ob. 1907, and one to John Hampden, given by Mr. James Griffin, of Tring, and unveiled in July, 1912. At the top of the square, near the statue of John Hampden, stands a Cross of Sacrifice, executed in Portland stone, the design of which is based on those erected in the British cemeteries in France: it stands on a paved platform, and is flanked with parapet walls and partially enclosed with iron posts and chains; two bronze electric lamp standards are incorporated in the design; bronze tablets are fixed on the parapets, on which are recorded the names of over 200 men of Aylesbury who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. In the Market place is a statue of the Earl of Beaconsfield, erected in 1923.

The Market, held every Wednesday and Saturday, is abundantly supplied with meat, grain, cattle, pigs, poultry and other agricultural produce, and is well attended. Sales of fat stock are held on Wednesdays. The Cattle Market was opened in March, 1927, at a cost of £10,086, the scheme being prepared by the borough surveyor; the market is now capable of holding 450 head of cattle, 820 sheep, and there are 111 pens for pigs and calves; the walls, sheds and buildings are constructed of brickwork and slated roofs; the floor of the market is paved with granite setts. The Wool Fair is held on the 2nd Wednesday in July; the Fat Cattle Fair on the 2nd Wednesday in December.

The clock tower, erected in the Market place in 1876-7, of blue stone with Bath stone dressings, is 70 feet in height. The illuminated clock, presented to the town in 1857 by Acton Tindal esq. when he purchased the manor, was originally placed in the Market House erected by the Marquess of Buckingham in 1806, on the site of an earlier edifice built by Sir John Baldwin, Lord Chief Justice of the Common Pleas, in 1530, for which Henry VIII. gave the timber. Temple street and square are said to derive their names from the Temple family of Stowe, and Bourbon street from Louis XVIII. who during the usurpation of Napoleon I. resided at the mansion of Hartwell, about 2 miles from Aylesbury.

The Bucks Architectural and Archaeological Society, established in 1848, has its head quarters here; the building was enlarged and a muniment room added in 1934. The Museum of the Society is situated in an Early Georgian building in Church street, which was acquired in 1906; the contents are almost entirely confined to objects having a more or less direct connection with Buckinghamshire. There are very good collections of flint implements, Roman and Anglo-Saxon antiquities, local fossils, birds and mammals and an exceptionally complete series of the Trade Tokens issued in Bucks in the 17th and 18th centuries. The library of the Society contains most of the books relating to the history of the county. This is reserved for the use of members of the Society, but on application to the curator genuine students are afforded opportunity for research. The museum is open free daily. The museum is now the recognised muniment room approved by the Master of the Rolls for the deposit of manorial records.

The Literary Institute, in Temple street, previously, and from 1840, the Mechanics' Institute, built entirely at the expense of the 1st Baron Rothschild, from whom it is held at a peppercorn rent, was opened in 1880, and has about 250 members; it contains a reading room and a library of 2,500 volumes, fitted with oak and glass bookcases, the gift of Lady Rothschild. In 1903 a club was built, with caretaker's quarters attached, and is now conducted as a separate institution. The Victoria Club for Working Men, instituted by the late Baron Ferdinand J. Rothschild M.P. and erected at a cost of £4,000 as a memorial of the Jubilee of Queen Victoria, was opened on Whit Monday, 1887, and was extended in 1926 at a cost of £2,000; it contains a reading room, with a reference library of about 400 volumes, billiard and committee rooms, lecture hall, bar and steward's apartments; there are now about 500 members.

Bucks County Library head quarters is in Pebble lane, and is under the control of the Bucks County Council, from which books are distributed to about 300 centres; there are about 90,000 volumes for circulation. Students' books can be borrowed from the headquarters library and fiction and general books from the Aylesbury centre.

On the south-east of the Market square is the County Hall, a large and imposing structure of red brick, with stone dressings, erected about 1724, and containing the offices of the clerk of the peace and County Council, the public assistance officer, registration of electors and the county inspector of weights and measures, and the county record office in addition to the respective courts of justice and judges' lodgings. The assizes, quarter sessions, county council meetings and some divisional petty sessions are held here and the general county business is also transacted here. The offices of the chief constable of the County Police are in Exchange street.

Bucks County Council offices were opened in 1929 and considerable additions were made in 1939. The site has a frontage of 230 feet facing Walton street; the building is faced with multi-coloured bricks and reconstructed Portland stone dressings. It contains suites of offices for the following departments of the County Council:—Public health and taxation departments, education, highways, county treasurer, agricultural organiser, county architect, county land agent and county planning officer, a room for the chairman of the County Council and committee room.

Amongst many houses in the town of the 16th and 17th centuries (some of which are disguised by fronts of a later date) is the "King's Head" hotel, belonging to the middle of the 15th century, and retaining two bays of the original hall and a large window with some original coloured glass. This is now the property of the National Trust and under the control of the People's Refreshment House Association Ltd.

His Majesty's Borstal Institute for Girls, built in 1845 on rising ground midway between Aylesbury and Birtton, provides for approximately 380 inmates: there are at present about 160.

The Masonic Hall, in Ripon street, was erected in 1882 on the site of the old Fives Court; the upper portion of the building is used for masonic purposes and the lower for entertainments &c.; the concert hall will seat 200.

Walton Parish Hall, in Walton street, adjoining the church of Holy Trinity, was opened in 1927: it is governed by a body of trustees of whom the vicar is chairman.

The Corporation Public Swimming and Slipper baths were erected in 1895. The swimming bath is 62 feet by 21 feet, and there are 19 dressing boxes and 9 slipper baths.

The Aylesbury open-air swimming bath, in the Vale Sports ground, was opened in July, 1935.

The Aylesbury and District Sports Club, with grounds on the Wendover road, laid out in 1894, comprises 28 acres, with facilities for cricket, tennis and bowls.

The making of pillow lace, for which the county has long been famous, has, like several other handicrafts, largely succumbed to the influence of machinery; it is, however, still carried on in a number of villages, and lace goods are produced in considerable quantities; straw plaiting, more recently adopted here, seems in many places to have superseded lace making; but this industry, like many others, has suffered from foreign competition. The printing works of Messrs. Hazell, Watson and Viney Limited, in the Tring road, opened here in 1867, employ over 1,200 hands, and connected with these is an institute in Britannia street and a sports ground in Victoria Park; about 20 acres of land near to the works have been laid out as a recreation and sports ground and allotment gardens for use of the staff, the allotments being cultivated by over 150 members. Cottages have also been provided. At the junction of Walton and Tring roads stands a memorial erected to the 66 members of the staff who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. Messrs. Hunt, Barnard & Co. Ltd. have printing works, built in 1927, in

Stoke road. The Hunt, Barnard Sports Club, for the use of their employees, was also opened in 1927. The cottagers in the neighbourhood villages are partly employed in raising early ducks for the London market, but this business is not so extensive as formerly.

The Nestlé's Milk Products Ltd. have branch works erected here in 1872, and considerably enlarged in 1899; many of the farmers in the adjacent districts supply this company with milk daily. The company, originally established in 1866, has its head office at 6 and 8 Eastcheap, London.

The Royal Buckinghamshire Hospital, founded in 1830, and carried on until 1862 in premises originally private, now occupies a range of buildings at the west end of the town, the foundation stone of which was laid in 1861 by Lady Verney (d. 1890), sister of Florence Nightingale. These are of red brick with stone facings, the principal front being about 220 feet in length, with a pillared portico, and four storeys in height, with a basement containing kitchens, store rooms and a servants' hall; on the ground floor is the entrance hall and secretary's office; on the first floor are small private wards for paying patients, and above are the "Aubrey Fletcher" and "Hazel" wards and four private maternity wards: the entire east wing is occupied by the "Verney" and "New" wards and below them are the casualty receiving theatre and casualty wards; the west wing contains the "Lee" ward, below which are dining rooms, nurses' lecture room, and a board room; the north wing, a later addition, contains the main operating theatre, X-ray department, sterilizing rooms and the Rothschild ward for children &c. In the grounds is a fully-equipped laundry, an electric power house and a detached mortuary. A new out-patients' department complete with operating theatre, consulting and dressing rooms, dispensary and pathological laboratory, massage and electro-therapeutic departments, orthopaedic department, waiting hall, almoner's and records office &c. was erected in 1936. The hospital provides for 120 in-patients. In the entrance hall is a bust of Miss Florence Nightingale, and in the board room are portraits of the Right Hon. Sir Harry Verney bart. P.C., D.L., J.P. (d. 12 Feb. 1894), Robert Ceoley esq. F.R.C.S. Dr. Lee LL.D. Sir Lancelot Aubrey Fletcher bart. Col. F. T. Higgins-Bernard D.L., J.P. Mr. Ralph C. Hazell J.P. and Lt.-Col. F. W. Watson M.C., D.L., J.P. In 1921 a home was erected for sisters and nurses opposite the hospital, on the Bicester road; this was extended in 1926 and again in 1935. The institution is managed by a body of governors, and is maintained chiefly by annual subscriptions and collections. The governors are represented for business purposes by a board of management and house committee.

Charities.—John Bedford, in the year 1619, gave a real estate, now yielding about £650 yearly, to the poor and for the repairs of the highways of this parish; the management is vested in trustees, incorporated by Act of Parliament under the name of "The Incorporated Surveyors of the Highways of Aylesbury": Thos. Hickman, gent. gave by will, in 1695, a real estate in this parish, now worth about £150 a year, besides almshouses for the habitation of poor people, to be disposed of by the trustees, churchwardens and overseers of the town of Aylesbury for the time being, to such poor people as do not receive parish relief; there are also doles distributed by this charity to the extent of about £50. There are also Holloway's charity of £44 and Clements' of £40 yearly; Eman's charity for widows amounts to about £60 a year; Harding's charity of £506 a year, left in 1719, is for apprenticing poor children and providing clothes for Walton poor; there are besides some small charities more closely connected with Walton. Simon Miles gave 16 acres of land and two tenements, vested in trustees, to repair the highways belonging to Walton: this charity amounts to £60 a year. The land has been sold, and the proceeds invested in the name of the Official Trustee of Charity Lands for the benefit of the Charity.

In the year 1818 upwards of 200 human skeletons were discovered in a field on the right side of the Buckingham road, near Holman's Bridge, and about a mile from the town; these appeared to have been buried in a confused manner, and are supposed to have been the remains of persons who fell in the battle fought here in 1642 between the Royalists from Oxford, under Prince Rupert, and Sir William Balfour, the commander of the Parliamentary garrison of Aylesbury, when the latter was victorious; after the lapse of more than a century and a half, the bones were collected by the late Lord Nugent and buried carefully in Hardwick churchyard, and a tablet erected over the spot. In September, 1861, human remains were found on the premises of the late Mr. Robert Gibbs, in Church street, but without any traces of coffins: the site is supposed to have once been a cemetery, connected with some ancient hospital or religious house. In 1914 remains were found in Parson's Fee.

The manor of Aylesbury passed in 1802, by purchase, from Sir John Pakington D.O.L. eighth baronet, who died 6th Jan. 1830, to Richard, second Marquess of Buckingham K.G. whose descendants, in 1849, sold the estates to Acton Tindal esq. who sold in 1884 to J. Parker esq. of High Wycombe. The lord of the manor parted with his franchise as the owner of the tolls of the market and fairs to a company, incorporated by Act of Parliament in the year 1863, called the Aylesbury Market Company; but the rights of this company were purchased in 1900 by the Urban District Council. The chief landowners are the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, Lord Carrington, Ralph C. Hazell esq. J.P. and the trustees of the Bedford and Harding charities. The Manor House, on Bieron Hill, was built by the late Acton Tindal esq. The Prebendal House was sold from the prebendal estate about the year 1801 to redeem the land tax of the landed property: this house was for some time the residence of the notorious John Wilkes, the satirist, who represented the borough of Aylesbury in Parliament in 1757: it is now used as a school.

The area is 3,288 acres.

The population of the municipal borough and civil parish in 1931 was 13,387.

The ecclesiastical population in 1931 was 7,298.

EDUCATIONAL.

Aylesbury Grammar school was originally founded & endowed about 1598 with £8 yearly by Sir Henry Lee, of Ditchley: in 1714 Henry Phillips esq. bequeathed the sum of £5,000 for the augmentation of the benefaction; the school was opened upon the increased foundation on the 3rd of October, 1720, then providing instruction for 15 boys in Latin & 135 in reading, writing & arithmetic: in 1862 the Charity Commissioners sanctioned a new scheme, dividing the school into upper & lower: in 1903 by a new scheme of the Board of Education, the lower school was closed, and new buildings erected in 1906-7, in Walton road: in 1932 a new wing was added including a gymnasium: the buildings include a house for the head master & will hold 350 boys & girls. There are about 40 scholarships or special places awarded annually, open to pupils from the elementary and private schools in the town and neighbourhood. Workshops & cookery school were added in 1911. The school is controlled by a body of 19 governors, of which Canon F. J. Howard is chairman; head master, G. P. Furneaux M.A.Oxon

BARTON HARTSHORN is a parish on the borders of Oxfordshire and on a feeder of the Ouse, 1½ miles east of Finnera station on the Great Western railway, 4 west-south-west from Buckingham station on the Verney Junction and Banbury branch of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, and 8 north-east from Bicester, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred, petty sessional division, rural district, county court district, rural deanery of Buckingham (Buckingham portion). Electricity is available. The church of St. James is an ancient cruciform structure in the Early English and Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, nave, transept, south porch and a western turret containing 2 bells; the transept was added in 1841 by W. H. Bracebridge esq. then patron; the clock, placed in the west gable, was given by the late Dr. Clark. The register dates from the year 1567. The living is a vicarage, annexed with that of Chetwode, joint net yearly value £325, including 3 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of trustees and held since 1934 by the Rev. Oswald Kenneth Ferguson B.A. of Trinity Hall, Cambridge, who resides at Chetwode. Barton Hartshorn Manor is the seat of the Hon. Mrs. Trotter O.B.E. who is lady of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is clay; subsoil, clay. The land is arable and pasture in about equal portions. The area is 892 acres; the population in 1931 was 83.

BEACHAMPTON is a parish and village on the borders of Northamptonshire—the river Ouse forms the boundary between the counties—5 miles south-west from Wolverton station on the London, Midland and Scottish railway, 5 north-east from Buckingham station on the Verney Junction and Banbury branch of the same line, and 2½ south-west from Stony Stratford; it is in the Buckingham division of the county, petty sessional division of Stony Stratford, hundred, rural district and county court district of Buckingham, rural deanery of Wolverton and archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. The Church of the Assumption of the Virgin Mary, erected at the beginning of the 14th century, is a small edifice of stone mostly in the Decorated style, and consists of chancel, nave of four bays, aisles, south porch and a tower containing 5 bells: the east window is Perpendicular: in the church is a monument, with bust, to Sir Simon Bennet bart. sometime lord of this manor, who died in 1631; it was erected 128 years after his death by University College, Oxford, to which foundation he had been a great benefactor; there is also a handsome marble monument to Simon Bennet esq. Lord Mayor of London, nephew to Sir Simon Bennet above mentioned, whose daughter and heiress Frances married James (Cecil), 4th Earl of Salisbury: the stained east window was erected to the memory of Bishop Wilberforce (d. 19th July, 1873), whose kneeling effigy appears in the lower portion: there are brasses to William Baldwyn, 1600, and to Alice, wife of George Baldwyn, d. 21 Feb. 1611: and memorial windows to Lady Mary Russell and the Rev. Richard Norris

Russell, a former rector: there is an oak memorial in the chancel to the two men of this parish who lost their lives, and others who served overseas, in the Great War, 1914-18: the reredos, an elaborate work in alabaster, contains in the centre a representation of "The Crucifixion": the organ was presented by Lady Mary Russell: the choir stalls and sittings are of carved oak: the church was completely restored in 1873-4: there are 200 sittings. The register dates from the year 1628. The living is a rectory, annexed in 1922 to that of Thornton with Nash, joint yearly value £500, with residence, in the gift of Caius College, Cambridge, and Col. H. W. Harris alternately, and held since 1936 by the Rev. Marmaduke Warner M.A. of Gonville and Caius College, Cambridge, hon. C.F. who resides at Nash. There are a few charities amounting to £27 yearly, the bequest of Sir Simon Bennet bart.; also £35 from Elmer charity, which is distributed amongst four parishes. The Hall farm, formerly Beachampton Hall, is picturesquely situated on the banks of the Ouse, but the greater part of it was pulled down in the 18th century, the materials being utilised to construct the present outhouses and barns. The banqueting hall is panelled to the ceiling with oak. The farmers are the principal landowners. The soil is strong clay; subsoil, limestone. The chief crops are wheat, oats, beans and barley. The area is 1,520 acres of land and 8 of water; the population in 1931 was 118.

BEACON'S BOTTOM, see Stokenchurch.

BEACONSFIELD is a picturesque and rapidly growing town and parish on a hill near the Wooburn stream, with a station on the main line of the Great Western and London and North Eastern Joint railway, and is 23 miles from London, 10 north from Windsor, 5½ north-east-by-east from Wycombe, 2½ north-east from Loudwater, and 8 north from Slough, in the Aylesbury division of the county, hundred and petty sessional division of Burnham, county court district of High Wycombe, rural deanery of Burnham, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. The town was governed by a Local Board under the "Public Health Act, 1848," from July, 1850, until the "Local Government Act, 1894," established an Urban District Council. This place gave the title of Viscountess (1868) to Mary Anne, wife of the Rt. Hon. Benjamin Disraeli P.C. and of Earl (1876) to that distinguished statesman himself, who was also Viscount Hughenden, but both titles became extinct on his death, 19th April, 1881. Gas and electricity are available. Water is supplied by the Amersham, Beaconsfield and District Water Co. The church of St. Mary and All Saints is an edifice of flint with Bath stone dressings in the Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel with aisles, clerestoried nave of five bays, aisles, north and south porches, vestry, and an embattled western tower with pinnacles and turret, containing a clock and 8 bells: the tower and two arches in the nave date from the 15th century: the north porch was erected in 1872 to James and Madelina Du Pre, of Wilton Park, by their son: on the south wall of the nave is a tablet to Edmund Burke, the distinguished statesman, who lived at Butler's Court, formerly "Gregories," in this parish 1769-97, and died here, 9th July, 1797, to his wife and Richard, his son: on 9th July, 1898, another memorial, erected to him and including a portrait in relief, was unveiled by the Earl of Rosebery, and on his grave is a brass: there is also a slab, with incised effigies, to Thomas Waller, 1626, and Dorothy, his wife, and on the north wall a memorial to Robert Lee, 1572: the stone pulpit was presented in memory of John and Catherine Eliza Charsley by their children. In the chancel is a very fine altar-tomb of the late 15th century, and another one of the early 16th century bearing the arms of Bulstrode: in the north aisle is a fine iron chest of the 17th century. The panels of the pulpit were carved by Miss Matilda Charsley, one of their daughters. The font was presented by Edmund Waller. The stained east window and others are memorials: there are tablets on the north wall to Field Marshal Lord Grenfell, and the second Lady Grenfell, and two on the south wall to nephews of Viscount Burnham: the church was restored in 1869; the south porch was erected in 1886, in memory of the Rev. Samuel James Bowles M.A. rector 1867-85: there are 450 sittings: in the churchyard is a marble sarcophagus, with four urns and a pyramid in the centre, to Edmund Waller, the poet, who lived at Hall Barn and died here 21st October, 1687. The register dates from the year 1631. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £678, with residence, in the gift of Magdalen College, Oxford, and held since 1937 by the Rev. Robert Francis Reginald Routh M.A. of that college, and surrogate. The church of St. Michael and All Angels was completed in 1917 with the exception of the chancel and one bay of the nave. The building will eventually be cruciform in shape: it now comprises a nave, divided into five bays, north and south transepts, organ chamber and a side chapel: there will be 650 sittings. The Rev. Ronald John Eteson Dix M.A. of Cambridge University, is priest in charge. Near the parish church of St. Mary and All Saints is an old timbered building, occupying three sides of a square and until 1863 the Rectory; it was erected between 1500 and 1525 as a sub-priory to the abbey of Burnham, and was restored by the 1st Baron Burnham K.C.V.O. of Hall Barn, being dedicated to parochial purposes in January, 1901. The Roman Catholic Church, dedicated to St. Theresa of the Holy Child Jesus, in the Warwick road, was erected in 1926; it will seat about 350. The Berlase Hall was built in memory of the late Mrs. Berlase, and is used as a parish hall. There is a Congregational chapel, built in 1874, with 400 sittings; the old chapel, built in 1800, is now used as a school room. The Methodist Reform chapel, built in 1900, will seat 250 persons. A Union Baptist chapel, in Baring road, was completed in 1916. The war memorial, erected in 1922, is of the type known in Brittany and Normandy as "Lanterneaux Mortes;" the panels bear the names of 80 men who fell in the Great War, 1914-18, and the north face has a calvary carved upon it; the whole monument is surmounted by a stone lantern in the Decorated style, which contains four electric lamps. The Council building was opened in 1936. The police station, with sergeant's residence attached, was built in 1872. Burnham Hall, built by the 1st Baron Burnham in 1886, will seat 400 persons. A fair is held on the 10th of May. The charities amount to about £278 annually; three of the donors were Edmund Waller, who, in 1699, gave £7 10s. yearly; E. Waller, in 1810, a benefaction of about £30 yearly, and F. Waller, another of £12 6s. yearly; Lady Hyde's charity of £45 15s. is distributed annually to widows and orphans; Mary Tompson's charity, left to the parish about 1898, produces £131 10s. yearly and Charles Harford's charity of £40 11s. 8d. yearly provides food, clothes, medical or other aid in sickness. The Right Hon. Edmund Burke, M.P. for Wendover 1765-74, purchased an estate here on which he resided at a house named "Gregories," but afterwards called "Butler's Court," where he died 9th July, 1797, aged 68, and was buried in the church; his widow, who died in 1812, disposed of the property, and the house was burnt down about a year after her death. The present mansion of this name is the residence of Shirley Sutton Timmis esq. J.P. Hall Barn, formerly the residence of Edmund Waller, and the property for many years of the Waller family, but now the seat of Brigadier Hon. Edward Frederick Lawson D.S.O., M.C., T.D., D.L. is a mansion of brick with stone dressings, seated in a beautifully wooded park of about 400 acres in extent, with extensive and well laid out gardens and pleasure grounds, and an ornamental water of 2 acres, well stocked with fish: in the grove is an old flint structure known as Milton's Cave, where he is supposed to have written portions of "Paradise Regained;" the grove is also noted as the spot where the poet Waller sat to compose many of his poems. Wilton Park, the property of Lt.-Col. William Baring Du Pre D.L., J.P. is a spacious stuccoed mansion with a long terrace on the south side, standing in an extensive and well-wooded park of 250 acres. Brigadier Hon. Edward Frederick Lawson D.S.O., M.C., T.D., D.L. who is lord of the manor, Lt.-Col. W. B. Du Pre D.L., J.P., Earl Howe P.C., C.B.E., R.D., V.D. and Lord Kemsley are the principal landowners. There is an eighteen-hole golf course laid out by Mr. H. S. Colt and adjoining the clubhouse is a railway halt. A considerable quantity of beech wood is grown here, hence the name of the parish, i.e., the field of the beeches. The soil is gravelly loam; sub-soil, chalk. The area of the civil parish and Urban District is 5,310 acres of land and inland water; the population in 1931 was 4,949.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, the urban district was extended to include parts of the parishes of Burnham, Taplow and Wooburn.

BIDDLESDEN is a parish on the Northamptonshire border, 2 miles north-by-east from Fulwell and Westbury station on the Banbury and Bletchley section of the London, Midland and Scottish railway and 6 north-west from Buckingham, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred, rural district, petty sessional division, county court district, rural deanery and archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available.

The original church of St. Margaret stood near to the Cistercian abbey, which was destroyed by Henry Sayer, the owner, who also demolished the church, or chapel of St. Margaret, and desecrated the burial ground; when rebuilding the house he set apart a large room to serve the purpose of the parish church; this was at the beginning of the 18th century; Henry Sayer died prematurely and his son John was murdered when still a minor. The present church is a plain edifice of red brick with stone dressings, with a turret containing one bell: there are some tablets to the Morgan family, whose vault is under the chancel: the church affords 140 sittings. The register dates from the year 1695. The living is a vicarage, annexed to the rectory of Shalstone, joint net yearly value £320, including glebe, in the gift of Adml. R. P. Purefoy C.B.E., M.V.O., D.L., J.P. who has two turns, and Lt.-Col. T. R. Badger, one turn, and held since 1936 by the Rev. Sidney Herbert Collins M.A. of Pembroke College, Oxford, who resides at Shalstone. At EVERSHAW, in this parish, was formerly a chapel dedicated to St. Nicholas. Biddlesden Park, the property and residence of Lt.-Col. Thomas Reginald Badger, is about 500 acres in extent and thickly wooded; the house, a substantial building of stone, built in 1723 from stone taken from Biddlesden Abbey, occupies the site of an abbey of the Cistercian Order, founded here in 1147 by Ernald de Bosco, and colonised from Garendon, Leicestershire. It was dedicated to SS. Mary and Nicholas, and at its dissolution had 12 monks and 51 servants, and revenue valued at £135; the mansion is surrounded by pleasure grounds with 2 lakes. The land is mainly owned by the farmers. The soil is chiefly gravel; subsoil, limestone; the land is arable and pasture, three-quarters pasture, quarter arable, with about 180 acres of woodland. The area is 3,201 acres; the population in 1931 was 47. Letters through Brackley (Northants). Syresham nearest T. & M. O. office

BIERTON, with BROUGHTON and BURCOTT.

BIERTON is a parish and scattered village, on the road from Aylesbury to Leighton Buzzard, one mile and a half north-east from Aylesbury station, on the Great Western, London, Midland and Scottish and London and North Eastern Joint railway, in the Aylesbury division of the county, hundred, petty sessional division, rural district, county court district and rural deanery of Aylesbury, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. The Aylesbury and Cheddington branch of the London, Midland and Scottish railway and the Grand Junction canal pass through the parish. Gas and electricity are available. Water is supplied by the Chiltern Hills Water Co. The church of St. James is a cruciform structure of local lias stone in mixed styles, erected about 1280, in the Early Decorated period, but very much altered in the Perpendicular period; it consists of chancel, nave, aisles, transepts, north porch and an embattled central tower, with small spire, and containing a clock and 6 bells: on the north side of the chancel is an aumbry with trefoiled arch, now used as a credence table, and on the south a piscina with plain shafts and a good fluted basin: the arcades of the nave are Decorated, the east window Late Perpendicular: there is a plain Norman font with cable moulding, and a curious monument, the inscription on which states that it "was erected and set vpp at the proper coste and charges of Mrs. Cæcily Bosse, the widowe of the late Mr. Samvel Bosse," who died 21st December, 1616, and that he had nine sons and four daughters; the monument represented the deceased and his lady kneeling opposite each other, with their children in the same position, the sons behind the father and the daughters behind the mother: on the pillar of the north transept are two oval shaped tablets to the Rev. Timothy Shaw, vicar of Bierton for 34 years, who died in 1786, and to his wife: the interior of the church was repaired and reseated and the gallery removed in 1852, and in 1885 the chancel was restored by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners: in 1926 the lady chapel was restored, the floor of the nave laid with wood blocks and the church reseated with chairs: in 1927 a new pulpit was set up, being a reproduction of the 17th century pulpit at Nether Winchendon: in 1929 the roof was partially restored: amongst the church plate is a rare and valuable 14th century paten: there are 150 sittings. In the churchyard, near the entrance, is a cross of grey Cornish granite, standing on a concrete base, and erected as a memorial to the men connected with the parish who lost their lives in the Great War, 1914-18; there are three steps at its base, on which are bronze tablets, bearing the names of the fallen. The register dates from the year 1560. The living is a vicarage, with that of Quarrendon annexed, and united with the rectory of Hulcott in 1930, joint net yearly value £570,

Oxford and the Dean and Chapter of Lincoln alternately, and held since 1935 by the Rev. William Henry Hatchard Elliott M.A. of Christ's College, Cambridge, who is a surrogate. The Baptist chapel, erected in 1831, was enlarged in 1885, and will seat 200 persons. The Methodist chapel, built in 1877, has a stained window, placed to commemorate the introduction of Methodism into Bierton; there are seats for 225 persons. There is a recreation ground, 4 acres in extent, presented by the Rothschild family; the pavilion thereon was erected by public subscription as a memorial to the men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. Hill's charity, founded in 1723, was in 1911 re-arranged under a new scheme of management by which Bierton has four trustees and Wendover four trustees and the vicars of those two parishes as ex-officio representatives; the income is £200 yearly, derived from Consols &c.; of this one-third is devoted to education, one-third for apprenticing boys and one-third for any other charitable purpose which the trustees think fit; the Fcoffees' charity (given in lieu of the old Bierton Common Rights) produces £42 yearly, one-third of which, by order of the Charity Commissioners, is expended in church restoration, and the remainder in the relief of the poor; Bosse's charity of £2 is given yearly in sixpences; Reeves charity of £15 annually, derived from two cottages and one acre of ground, is for the poor of the hamlet of Broughton; Mr. Allen left, in 1832, £100 Consols, the dividend to be given in bread (sixpenny loaves) on Christmas Eve. Part of an urn, 15 inches in diameter and 12 in depth, found about 1870 on a farm occupied by Mr. Bell, was presented by him to the museum of the Bucks Archaeological Society. In January, 1861, excavations were made in a pigstie belonging to Mr. James Bonham, 85 paces eastward of the church and abutting on the road: in this little field were found the remains of at least two distinct generations of men, separated from each other by long intervals of time, and comprising eight skeletons, lying in various positions: three rectangular openings were also discovered about 5 feet below the surface, which contained ashes, and on a level with these were undoubted traces of a Romano-British interment, consisting of a circular excavation 1 foot 9 inches in depth and about the same in diameter, fitted with a large sepulchral urn of lead; in a circle at a radius of 3 feet from this were found a number of mortuary urns and 10 feet distant another: a number of Rechen Pfenning or Nuremburg tokens, a testoon or shilling of Henry VIII. a halfpenny of James I. one of William III. and other coins were met with on the same spot. In the "Old Orchard Piece" implements of war, coins, human bones &c. have been discovered from time to time. About 1830 three halberts, a breast plate and bones of horses and men were found here; one of the three halberts measured eight feet six inches in length, the head is 32½ inches long, and fastened to the staff by four screws, and it weighs eight pounds eleven ounces: all the spears found here were of the Stuart period; on the skeleton of one man two large buttons, gilt beneath and hollow, still remained. The land is in the possession of several owners, and practically all the farmers own their farms. The soil is clay with a portion of stone brash, but chiefly loam; subsoil, clay and limestone. The chief crops are wheat, beans, barley and clover. The area is 2,466 acres of land and 9 of water; the population in 1931 was 637 in the civil parish and 935 in the ecclesiastical parish, including 159 persons in H.M. Prison and State Inebriate Reformatory. Broughton, 2 miles south, and Burcott, half a mile south, are hamlets in this parish.

BISHOPSTONE, see Stone.

BLEDLow-cum-SAUNDERTON is a civil parish formed by the Bucks Review Order, 1934, comprising the former parishes of Bledlow and Saunderton, together with part of Horsendon; it is in the Aylesbury division of the county, hundred of Aylesbury, petty sessional division and rural district of Wycombe and county court district of High Wycombe. The area is 6,211 acres; the population in 1931 was 1,382. The parish includes BLEDLow RIDGE, PITCH GREEN, half a mile north, ROUTS GREEN, 2½ miles south, FORTY GREEN, 1½ north-west, SKITTLE GREEN, three-quarters of a mile north-west, and HOLLY GREEN, 1 north. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Rural Districts Water Co. Ltd.

BLEDLow is an ecclesiastical parish, on the borders of Oxfordshire, with a station 1 mile north of the village, on the Thame and Oxford branch line of the Great Western railway, 44 from London, 2½ west-south-west from Princes Risborough and 5½ east-south-east from Thame in the rural deanery of Aylesbury, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. The Princes Risborough and Watlington section of the Great Western railway passes through and trains stop at Bledlow Bridge to take up and set down passengers. The church of the Holy Trinity is an ancient structure of flint and stone, in the Transition Norman style with Decorated windows and clerestory added; it consists of chancel, clerestoried nave of four bays, aisles, south porch and a western tower containing 5 bells, four of which date back to 1865, the fifth having been recast in 1841: the inner doorway of the south porch is very fine, consisting of a pointed arch with small circular shafts of Early English date; on the right of this door there is an unusually large holy-water stoup; over the outer door is a dial and near the entrance the stone base of an ancient cross: the north aisle contains a canopied niche and a double piscina, and the south aisle has also a piscina and retains traces of two recessed tombs: in the chancel is a brass of a former vicar (1525) in Eucharistic vestments: the walls of the nave and aisles bear traces of some ancient paintings: the font and a doorway on the north side are Norman; the former has a large fluted basin and some elaborate carved work: there are tablets of the early part of the last century to members of the Blancs family: in 1919 stained windows were inserted: the church was restored in 1876 at a cost of £1,400, and again in 1909, when the tower was repaired and the bells were also quarter-turned and rehung; during the course of the work an aumbry was uncovered in the south aisle and on the south side of the chancel the tympanum of a Norman door: also some 13th century stained glass in the chancel, which was cleaned and re-leaded: a memorial window was erected in 1912 in the north aisle to the memory of the Roberts family, and there is another to the memory of the Rev. John William Cruikshank, vicar 1904-16; there are 211 sittings: the churchyard is bounded on the east by a deep and woody glen, into which several springs of water fall, forming a small lake called "The Lyde," in which large quantities of watercress are grown for the London markets. The register dates from the year 1592. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £350, including 2 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of Lord Carrington, and held since 1930 by the Rev. John William Paddock Chapman A.K.C.L. An addition to the churchyard was consecrated in 1908. There is a small Methodist chapel here, and another at Bledlow Ridge. The school of the Wycombe Public Assistance Committee situated here occupies what was formerly the work-house; adjoining are four acres of land used as a playground; the girls do most of the domestic work. The charities produce about £58 yearly, inclusive of rent for the poor's land of 25 acres and five cottages, distributed in fuel, and the dividend of Slaughter's charity distributed in bread; the principal testators have been—Henry Smith in 1608, John Blancs in 1671, Marg. Babham in 1672, and Edmund Slaughter in 1831. On a lofty hill in this parish is a Greek cross, cut into the turf, and measures 75 feet transversely, with arms about 15 feet in breadth. Lord Carrington and the Provost and Fellows of Eton College are lords of the manor and principal landowners. The soil is in some parts chalk loam, other parts stiff clay; subsoil, chalk or ragstone and clay. The chief crops are wheat, beans, peas, oats, barley and roots. The population in 1931 was 531

BLEDLOW RIDGE, see Bledlow-cum-Saunderton.

BLETCHLEY (lesser known as Fenny Stratford) is a small market town, on the old Roman Watling Street and close to the Roman station "Magiovinium," with a station on the main line of the London, Midland and Scottish railway and another (Fenny Stratford) on the

Bedford branch line; it is $\frac{6}{8}$ miles south-east from Stony Stratford, $\frac{1}{2}$ east from Buckingham, 5 south from Newport Pagnell, 6 north from Leighton Buzzard, and $\frac{4}{8}$ miles from London by rail and 44 by road; it is in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred of Newport Pagnell, county court district of Bletchley and Leighton Buzzard and petty sessional division of Fenny Stratford. The ecclesiastical parish (Fenny Stratford) is in the rural deanery of Bletchley, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. The northern side of the High street is in Simpson parish. The Grand Junction canal and river Ouzel form part of the south-east boundary. Gas and electricity are available. Water is supplied by the Bletchley Urban District Council from works at Sandhouse, Woburn, Beds, which also supplies Old Bletchley, Little Brickhill, Sympton (or Simpson), Walton and Woughton-on-the-Green. An antiseptic sewage scheme was completed in 1903 at a cost of £22,000.

By Local Government Board Order No. 32,776, which came into operation July 1st, 1895, the civil parishes of Fenny Stratford and Sympton (or Simpson), were constituted an Urban District, and under the provisions of the Local Government Act, 1894 (56 and 57 Vic. c. 73), are governed by an Urban District Council of 12 members, formerly known as Fenny Stratford, but on May 16th, 1911, changed to Bletchley.

By Local Government Board Order No. 37,157, which came into operation April 1st, 1898, the Urban District was extended to include Old Bletchley, and the district divided into three wards.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, the Urban District was further extended to include Water Eaton, and the number of wards increased to four. By the same Order, the parishes of Bletchley, Fenny Stratford, Simpson and Water Eaton were amalgamated to form the new parish of Bletchley, co-extensive with the urban district.

The church of St. Martin, a structure of red brick with stone dressings, in a debased Gothic style, was erected in 1724-30, chiefly through the exertions of Dr. Browne Willis F.S.A. the antiquary, on the site of a chapel dedicated to St. Margaret, consisting of two or three aisles and an embattled tower, which had been destroyed, and its burial ground desecrated during the Civil War: the present church was consecrated by Dr. Richard Reynolds, Bishop of Lincoln, 27th May, 1730, and was originally 67 feet in length and 25 in width; in 1823 it was enlarged by the addition of a south aisle, and in 1866 by the erection of a new nave and large chancel, the former nave becoming a north aisle, separated from the later work by an arcade of three bays: a south aisle was added in 1903: in 1908 the nave was lengthened and a south chancel added at a cost of £1,800: the church, therefore, now consists of a chancel, nave with aisles, vestries, south porch and an embattled south-western tower containing a clock and 6 bells: the chancel is enriched with diaper work, and a stained east window: the ceiling of the north aisle is divided into forty compartments, ornamented with the arms of the various original contributors: in April, 1884, the west window was filled with stained glass as a memorial to the Rev. Francis de Lacy White B.A. vicar 1881-3, and in the same year the church was restored, an illuminated clock being at the same time placed in the tower: in 1898 the organ was renovated and two memorial windows inserted: a children's corner, with carved oak panels and curtains of local work, in memory of an old parishioner, was dedicated in 1931; on St. Martin's day, Nov. 11th, 1938, a new chapel was consecrated by Bishop Roscoe Shelden for the Bishop of Buckingham, behind the Browne Willis chapel. This is in memory of the late Mr. Dan Quinby: there are 600 sittings: since the cemetery has been opened the churchyard has been very prettily laid out with flower-beds. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £430, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Oxford, and held since 1934 by the Rev. Cyril Arthur Wheeler M.A. of Queen's College, Oxford. St. Margaret's (previously known as St. Martin's) Mission church, erected in 1886 and enlarged in 1888, is now used for services: the Rev. James Osborne Snell M.A. of Selwyn College, Cambridge, is priest in charge. The Roman Catholic church is dedicated to St. Thomas Aquinas. The Spurgeon Memorial Baptist chapel, Aylesbury street, is a structure of red brick with white stone facings, erected in 1892 at a cost of about £3,000, and has 750 sittings; the chapel was formed in 1800. The Methodist chapel, in Albert street, built in 1896, seats 240 persons, and that in Bletchley road was erected in 1909, at a cost of £2,500, and will seat 350. The Salvation Army has barracks in Church street. The Temperance Hall, in George street, a red brick and stone building, opened in 1892 and enlarged in 1905, seats 350 persons. The Cemetery, situated in Manor road, to the south of the town, and opened in 1860, is 6,233 square yards in extent, and contains a mortuary chapel in the Gothic style: it is controlled by the Urban District Council. The celebration of St. Martin's day, November 11th, regularly maintained by Dr. Browne Willis during his life, is still observed here; formerly, the proceeds from two cottages in Aylesbury street, left by the doctor, were used for the purpose; these cottages have now been destroyed and the money otherwise invested; Divine service is held in the church and a special sermon is preached in the evening, a fee of one guinea being paid to the preacher: a dinner takes place after the service, in St. Martin's Hall, the occasion being also marked by repeated salvoes from six little pieces of ordnance of curious size and shape, used from time immemorial, and known as the "Fenny Poppers." A cattle market is held every Thursday, and the fairs are held on April 19th and October 11th. Considerable quantities of fruit and flowers are grown in the extensive nurseries here and sent to all parts of the Kingdom; straw plait and lace were at one time made here in large quantities, but of late years these handicrafts have nearly ceased; brush making and coiled paper making are extensively carried on here. There are charities of about £30 yearly for bread, blankets and clothing, and a sum of £1 for distribution. Dropshort, to the east of the town, is supposed to have been the Roman station "Magiovinium," numerous Roman coins and other remains having been discovered here; in 1911 a trial excavation of the site was made, which resulted in important discoveries. There is a recreation ground of 10 acres, with band stand, and one of 5½ acres with 4 tennis courts, and miniature golf course. Sir Everard P. D. Pauncefort-Duncombe bart. D.S.O., D.L., J.P. who is lord of the manor, is the principal landowner.

The area of the Urban District and civil parish is 4,466 acres; the population in 1931 was 6,338; the populations of the wards in 1931 were:—Fenny Stratford (Bletchley), 4,582; Bletchley (Old), 1,045; Simpson, 531; Water Eaton, 180. The population of the ecclesiastical parish (Fenny Stratford) in 1931 was 4,602.

BLETCHLEY (OLD) is a parish and village, 11 miles east from Buckingham, 8½ south from Newport Pagnell and 46 from London, in the archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. About half a mile from the village, but in the parish of Fenny Stratford, is Bletchley station on the London, Midland and Scottish railway, being the junction of the Bedford and Cambridge and the Banbury and Oxford branches with the main line. Gas and electricity are available. Water is supplied by the Bletchley Urban District Council. The church of St. Mary, approached through a fine avenue of very ancient yews, is built of stone, mostly in the Perpendicular style, and represents the work of the 12th, 13th, 14th and 15th centuries; it was founded between 1100 and 1155, but the only Norman decoration that remains is the arch of the south doorway: it consists of a large chancel with north aisle, forming a chantry of the Grey de Wilton family, clerestoried nave of four bays, aisles, south porch, and a fine embattled western tower containing 8 bells, which replaced the old 5 bells in 1712, cast by Abraham Rudhall; in 1924 the bells were hung on a new iron frame: the church was restored by Dr. Browne Willis in 1704, at a cost of £1,345, in accordance with the prevailing taste, but quite out of character with the style of the building: in the chancel are four early sedilia, all of which, hidden by the restoration of 1704, have since been uncovered: five of the windows are stained, four of them in memory of members of the Selby-Lowndes family: the stalls are of carved oak: between the chancel and the north chapel is an ancient table tomb, with an effigy, in white marble, to Richard de Grey, sixth Baron Grey de Wilton, who died at Water Hall in 1442, and was buried here, and also his son and grandson; the effigy was repaired and recast by Weston the statuary, at Dr. Browne Willis's expense; there is a funeral helmet of a later Lord de Grey hung on the wall near: in the chapel, which is also the mortuary of the family of Willis, is a raised table tomb to the wife of Dr. Browne Willis, who died at Whaddon Hall in 1724, and in the chancel are two large marble memorial tablets to the parents of Dr. Willis; and in the north wall of the chancel is a very curious brass with effigy to Thomas Sparke D.D. a former rector, who died in 1616; there is also an incised slab to the Rev. E. Taylor, 1693: the church was restored in 1867-8, the windows and doorways of the chancel, which had been modernized and misplaced, being reset, the body of the church fitted with oak seats, and the tower pinnacles, set up by Dr. Willis, removed: the pulpit was put in at the time of this restoration: a new organ, by Kirkland, was put in in 1911: there are 463 sittings. The register dates from the year 1577. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £800, with residence, in the gift of the Rev. F. W. Bennett M.A. and held since 1934 by the Rev. Archibald Harry Partridge M.A. of Emmanuel College, Cambridge, rural dean of Bletchley, hon. C.F. and surrogate. There is a granite column at the cross roads, opposite the entrance to the church, erected to the memory of the 30 men of the parish who lost their lives in the Great War, 1914-18. A Methodist chapel was erected here in 1895. Sir Everard Philip Digby Pauncefort-Duncombe bart.

D.S.O., M.A., D.L., J.P. is lord of the manor. The ownership of the land is divided. The soil is strong clay; subsoil, clay and gravel. The land is chiefly in pasture. The population of the ecclesiastical parish in 1931 was 1,046.

WATER EATON is a hamlet of the parish: the Grand Junction canal and the river Ouzel run by this part of the parish. There is a Methodist chapel and a village hall here.

BOARSTALL is a scattered village and parish, in a hilly district on the borders of Oxfordshire, 3 miles south-west from Brill and Ludgershall station on the Great Western railway, 7 north-west from Thame station on the Maidenhead and Oxford section of the Great Western railway, and 8 south-east from Bicester stations on the Great Western railway and Bletchley and Oxford branch of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, 1½ west from Brill, on the road from that place to Oxford, from which it is about 11 miles north-east;

it is in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred and petty sessional division of Ashendon, rural district of Aylesbury, county court district of Thame, rural deanery of Waddesdon, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford.

Electricity is available. The church of St. James, rebuilt in 1818 by Sir John Aubrey bart. on the foundations of the original structure, is a small edifice of stone in the Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel and nave, with a turret at the intersection, containing one bell: in the chancel are two marble monuments to the Aubrey family, and the stained east window bears the arms of Sir John Aubrey bart. D.C.L. and M.P. for Bucks, impaling those of his two wives Mary (Colebrook) and Martha Catherine (Carter); he died 1 March, 1826, being then father of the House of Commons: the baronetcy became extinct on the death without issue (before 1859) of Sir Thomas Digby Aubrey 7th bart.: the church was restored in 1884 by J. A. Aubrey esq. at a cost of £1,635, and affords 200 sittings: on Saturday, Dec. 5, 1812, the church was entered and a silver chalice and paten, and some pewter vessels stolen: in the churchyard are the remains of an ancient cross, and also a memorial of stone to the men connected with this parish who lost their lives in the Great War, 1914-18. The register dates from the year 1640. The living is a vicarage annexed to Brill, joint net yearly value £340, in the gift of Maj. Sir Henry Lancelot Aubrey-Fletcher bart. D.S.O., M.V.O., D.L., J.P. and held since 1936 by the Rev. Lionel Arthur Templeman Speer C.F. (Res. of Officers), of the Royal Military College, Camberley, who resides at Brill. There are charities amounting to £20 a year, left by Edward Lewis esq. and Lady Penelope Dynham, the former of £12 yearly, to be distributed amongst the poor, and the latter of £8, for the purpose of apprenticing poor boys. During the Civil War, Boarstall House was garrisoned for the King in 1644, and on its evacuation by the Royalists the Parliamentary party at once seized it, and used it as an effective basis of attack against the King's forces at Oxford; being again taken by the Royal forces, under Col. Gage, it successfully resisted the Parliamentary troops, under Skippon and Fairfax, until 1646, when, after a siege of 18 hours, on the 10th of June in that year, it was surrendered to Fairfax by Sir William Campion, the governor; the massive gateway, three storeys in height, with octagonal embattled towers at the front angles, still remains, and is an interesting relic of 14th century work, with later alterations: two turrets have rooms in them, and two others contain spiral staircases communicating with apartments over the gateway, which is entered by a wide segmental-headed doorway, from the stone bridge now crossing the moat; the gateway was until recently occupied as a farmhouse, and still presents an interesting and strikingly picturesque appearance on entering the village from Brill. Maj. Sir Henry Lancelot Aubrey-Fletcher bart. D.S.O., M.V.O., D.L., J.P. is lord of the manor and chief landowner. The soil is gravel and stiff blue clay; subsoil, loam and gravel. The chief crops are wheat, barley and beans; about two-thirds of the land is in pasture. The area is 3,072 acres of land and 6 of water; the population in 1931 was 148.

BOW BRICKHILL is a scattered village and parish, with a motor halt, on the Bletchley and Bedford section of the London, Midland and Scottish railway; it is 2½ miles east from Fenny Stratford station on the same line and 7 south from Newport Pagnell, in the Buckingham division of the county, county court district of Bletchley and Leighton Buzzard, hundred, petty sessional division and rural district of Newport Pagnell, rural deanery of Bletchley, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Newport Pagnell Rural District Council. The church of All Saints, conspicuously situated on the edge of a steep hill, on the side of which the village lies, is an ancient structure of sandstone, built in the early fifteenth century, consisting of chancel, nave of three bays, aisles, south porch and an embattled western tower containing 3 bells; the fabric was repaired by Dr. Browne Willis, the well-known antiquary, in 1757, and the interior was restored in 1883: a new organ was provided in 1911: there are 150 sittings. The register dates from the year 1653. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £412, with residence, in the gift of the Rev. R. Conyers Morrell M.A. and held since 1937 by the Rev. Leopold Arnold Christopher Roberts M.A. of Christ's College, Cambridge, A.K.C.L. There is a Congregational chapel here, erected in 1810, to hold 100, and is endowed by Miss Hillier with £50 a year. The Church Mission Hall, erected in 1898, will seat 150. In the village is a stone cross, erected as a memorial to the men of this parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-1918. The charities for distribution amount to £16 yearly. The Duke of Bedford K.G., K.B.E. who is lord of the manor, and Capt. Ernest Fuller Victor Deyns are the principal landowners. The soil is clay and sand; the subsoil is chiefly clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley and beans. The area is 1,843 acres of land and 5 of water; the population in 1931 was 388.

BRADENHAM is a parish on the high road from High Wycombe to Princes Risborough, 1 mile from Saunderton station and $1\frac{1}{2}$ north-west from West Wycombe station on the main line of the Great Western and London and North Eastern Joint railway, $4\frac{1}{2}$ north-west from High Wycombe and $4\frac{1}{2}$ south from Princes Risborough, in the Aylesbury division of the county, hundred and petty sessional division of Desborough (second division), rural district of Wycombe, county court district of High Wycombe, rural deanery of Wycombe, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by High Wycombe Rural District Council. The church of St. Botolph is a small building of flint and stone chiefly in the Late Decorated style, consisting of chancel, nave, north chapel, south porch, with a fine Early Norman doorway, and a low Norman embattled western tower containing a clock and 3 bells, the second of which is by Michael de Wymbris, who died in 1310, and the third by Thomas Mear, 1799: a portion of the nave and the whole of the chancel were rebuilt in 1863 in the Decorated style: there is an ancient brass to Richard Redeber, rector 1521, vested in full Eucharistic vestments (buried here) and in the east window of the chapel are some remains of old glass: here also is a marble tablet to the parents of Lord Beaconsfield, Isaac D'Israeli esq. D.C.L. author of "The Curiosities of Literature," and his wife Maria; he resided for many years at Bradenham House, where he died 19 Jan. 1843, and was interred in a vault under the chapel, which was built by Lord Windsor as a memorial chapel: the west window was erected in commemoration of the Jubilee of Queen Victoria in 1887, and there are four others: in the chapel is an altar tomb to the Hon. Charles West, eldest son of the Rt. Hon. Charles, Lord Lewarr and also to Elizabeth (Pye) his wife: there are 100 sittings. The register dates from the year 1627. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £275, with 15 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of Mrs. Tempest, and held since 1939 by the Rev. Charles Martin M.A. of Christ's College, Cambridge. Bradenham was for many years a seat of the noble family of Windsor, having been purchased in 1500 by Sir Andrew Windsor kt. created in 1529 Baron Windsor of Bradenham. Bradenham House, built by William, second Baron Windsor K.B. is a large mansion with gardens, overlooking an extensive green and adjacent to the church: it is now the seat of Mrs. Tempest O.B.E. who is lady of the manor and principal landowner. The Earl of Beaconsfield K.G. who died in 1881, spent the earlier years of his life here, and went from this house to High Wycombe to deliver his first political speech in the year 1832. Lord Windsor, above mentioned, died 20 August, 1558, and was buried here with great pomp: Sir Edward Windsor, third baron, entertained Queen Elizabeth here in 1566, on her return from visiting the University of Oxford. The soil is light; subsoil, chalk and flint. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats; the area is 1,101 acres; the population in 1931 was 134 in the civil and 119 in the ecclesiastical parish.

BRADWELL, with NEW BRADWELL.

BRADWELL is a parish one mile south from the Wolverton station on the main line of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, $3\frac{1}{2}$ south-east from Stony Stratford and $4\frac{1}{2}$ from Newport Pagnell, in the Buckingham division of the county, county court district of Bletchley and Leighton Buzzard, hundred, petty sessional division and rural district of Newport Pagnell, rural deanery of Wolverton, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Gas and electricity are available. The church of St. Lawrence, given in 1275 to the priory of St. Mary at Tickford, is an ancient edifice of stone in the Early English and Decorated styles, consisting of small chancel, nave, south aisle, with an arcade of three bays, north porch and a western tower containing 4 bells, of which two were made by de Wymbris about 1300: in 1909 the bells were restored, and their number increased to six, the gift of Charles Baily esq. in memory of his father, but the upper part of the tower has been removed: remains of a 13th century inscription still appear on the chancel arch: the church was restored in 1868, and affords 170 sittings. The register dates from the year 1577. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £320, with residence, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1927 by the Rev. Conway Davies M.A. of Selwyn College, Cambridge. There is a small Methodist chapel and a Baptist chapel, built in 1859, with 250 sittings. There is a charity of about £13 17s. a year, left by the Rev. J. Hume for distribution to poor householders and for the education of six children; there are also 15 acres of land awarded to the poor in lieu of common rights when the parish was inclosed in 1788, the rent of which is given in coals. Lt.-Col. W. Selby-Lowndes O.B.E., T.D., J.P. is lord of the manor, and Messrs.

Wylie Brothers are the chief landowners. The soil is light clay; subsoil, clay and stone. The chief crops are wheat, oats, barley and beans. The area is 677 acres of land and inland water; the population in 1931 was 421.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, New Bradwell was amalgamated with Wolverton to form the new parish of Wolverton, co-extensive with the urban district. Post Office, Bradwell. Letters through Bletchley. New Bradwell nearest M. O. & Wolverton nearest T. office

NEW BRADWELL is an ecclesiastical parish, through which the river Ouse flows, formed 31 March, 1919, and annexed to Stantonbury; for local government purposes it is attached to Wolverton, under Wolverton Urban District Council, of which it is a ward; it is situated on the north-east side of the Wolverton railway works, and is principally inhabited by the men employed there. There is a station here on the branch of the London, Midland and Scottish railway from Wolverton to Newport Pagnell, opened in 1867. New Bradwell is supplied with water and gas from works the property of the Railway Company. St. James' church, erected in 1860, for New Bradwell and Stantonbury, is a building of stone in the Geometric style, consisting of chancel, nave of four bays, aisles, south chapel, south porch and a tower at the north-west angle, containing one bell: a north aisle was added in 1898: there are sittings for about 500 persons. Owing to the "instrument" substituting the rights and privileges of St. Peter's to St. James's consecrated in 1850, being lost, or never made out, a special Act of Parliament had to be passed legalising 1,000 marriages on a fresh instrument title, the old church thus, on July 1st, 1909, becoming the chapel of a conventional district.

The ancient church of St. Peter's, STANTONBURY, is situate close to the river Ouse and possesses many features of architectural interest, including a richly carved Norman arch between the nave and the chancel: a sanctus bell, a pedestal and arches separating the north aisle from the nave, undated, and an altar and credence table of mediæval date, were found in 1910: services are held here only during the summer months. A new organ was installed in 1930. The register dates from the year 1053. The living is a vicarage, with that of Stantonbury annexed, joint net yearly value £300, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Oxford, and held since 1908 by the Rev. Allan Newman Guest M.A. of Trinity College, Dublin. The church and schools, with residences, were built principally by the shareholders of the London and North Western (now London, Midland and Scottish) Railway Company, and opened in 1860. There is a Methodist chapel in Thompson street, built in 1865, with 200 sittings; also a Baptist chapel in North street, built in 1936, a Gospel hall in Caledonian road and a Salvation Army hall. There is a Working Men's Social Club and Liberal and Radical Club, and the Bradwell and Wolverton Good Samaritan Society. The manor of Stantonbury, originally called Stantonbarry from the 14th century till the early part of the 17th century, is recorded in Domesday Book as belonging to Miles Crispin, whose subfeudatory here was Ralph. Ralph's descendants bore the name of Barre, and from them this manor obtained its appellative name of Barry in addition to Stanton, being held by them till the end of the 14th century. The manor of Stantonbarry subsequently was held by the families of Vaux, Temple, Wittewrong, Spencer and now belongs to that of Wylie. The London, Midland and Scottish Railway Co. are the principal landowners.

BRADWELL ABBEY, formerly extra-parochial, is now a parish 2 miles south from Wolverton station, on the London, Midland and Scottish railway, 4 south-east from Stony Stratford and 5 from Newport Pagnell, in the Buckingham division of the county, county court district of Bletchley and Leighton Buzzard, hundred, petty sessional division and rural district of Newport Pagnell. Electricity is available.

About a quarter of a mile west from Bradwell stood the Benedictine priory of St. Mary, founded about 1155 by Mainfelin, Baron of Wolverton, originally as a cell to the monastery of Suffield, the revenue of which in the 23rd of Henry VIII. was £53 11s. 2d.; the priory appears to have been partly rebuilt as a mansion, and is now a farmhouse; it was formerly moated and approached through an avenue of trees. Near the house is a small chapel now disused; it is about 10 feet long and 12 wide, with a south doorway of the Late Decorated period, good mullioned window at one end and similar windows on either side. Wolverton Industrial and Provident Society Ltd. are the principal landowners. The soil is cold clay; subsoil, stone and clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley and beans. The area is 447 acres; the population in 1931 was 18.

GREAT BRICKHILL is a parish and village on the Brickhill hills, on the borders of Bedfordshire, the river Ousel forming its eastern boundary, 3 miles south from Bletchley station on the London, Midland and Scottish railway, 3 south-east from Fenny Stratford, 10 south from Newport Pagnell, and 4 north from Leighton Buzzard, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred and petty sessional division of Newport Pagnell, rural district of Wing, county court district of Bletchley and Leighton Buzzard, rural deanery of Bletchley, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity and main water are available. The church of St. Mary is a building of stone of the Early English and Decorated periods, consisting of chancel with side chapels, nave of four bays, aisles, south porch and a central tower with turret containing 6 very fine bells and a clock: in the chancel is a small piscina: there are numerous tablets to the Duncombe family, as well as to the families of Barton, Pouncefort and Chase: the roofs of the church and chancel were heightened and the whole fabric thoroughly restored in 1867, chiefly at the cost of Sir Philip Duncombe Pouncefort-Duncombe bart. (d. 1890), in whose memory his widow presented the organ: there are 300 sittings. The register dates from the year 1558. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £370, with residence, in the gift of Sir Everard P. D. Pouncefort-Duncombe bart. D.S.O., D.L., J.P. and held since 1923 by the Rev. David Richard James B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter. Close to the church is a decorated cross of stone, erected in memory of the men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. There is a Baptist chapel, built in 1812, and seating 100 persons, and a Methodist chapel, erected in 1877, with 80 sittings. The Reading and Recreation Institute was erected in 1898 by Lady Pouncefort-Duncombe in memory of her husband, and this and a cricket ground, was presented to the Parish Council in 1935 by her son, Sir Everard Philip Digby Pouncefort-Duncombe bart. D.S.O., D.L., J.P. There are several small charities, amounting to about £17 yearly, which sum is distributed in bread, meat and money. The feeoffes' charity, yielding about £23 yearly, is appropriated to the general uses of the poor, and 16 cottages occupied rent free. The poor's land of 8 acres produces £10 yearly for fuel. Sir Everard Philip Digby Pouncefort-Duncombe bart. D.S.O., D.L., J.P. is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The sand hills here are of great elevation and picturesquely planted. The soil is various, some sand, other clay; subsoil, clay and gravel. The crops are chiefly pasturage, some wheat, oats and barley. The area is 2,333 acres of land and inland water; the population in 1931 was 375.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, parts of Soulbury and Stoke Hammond were added to Great Brickhill, and parts of Great Brickhill transferred to those parishes.

LITTLE BRICKHILL is a parish and village on the borders of Bedfordshire, on the London and Holyhead road and the old "Watling Street," 2 miles south-east from Fenny Stratford station on the Bletchley and Bedford section of the London, Midland and Scottish railway and 9 miles south from Newport Pagnell, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred, petty sessional division and rural district of Newport Pagnell, county court district of Bletchley and Leighton Buzzard, rural deanery of Bletchley, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. Water is supplied from Sandhouse by the Bletchley Urban District Council's Water Works and from the Great Brickhill reservoir; a new reservoir was completed in 1935 to hold 400,000 gallons. The church of St. Mary Magdalene, standing on the brow of a hill, below which runs the Roman Watling Street, is an ancient building of local stone, chiefly in the Perpendicular style, and consists of chancel, nave of four bays, south aisle with chapel, south porch and an embattled western tower, supported by four large buttresses, containing a clock and 4 bells: the chapel at the end of the south aisle contains a piscina and aumbry, and has a hagioscope: the chapel which opens into the chancel is now used as a vestry, and has hanging on the wall a curious framed and coloured panel, containing an account of a certain William Bennett, son of an alderman of Chester, who died here in 1658 on his way from London to Chester: on the north side are some remains of an ancient chantry chapel, with a trefoil-shaped piscina of the 14th century; this chapel, supposed to have contained the tomb of the founder of the church, was blown down in the year 1710, after having been for some time used as a village school; the south doorway is

Decorated and there is a cylindrical Norman font and a small brass to Robert Seling, 1696: there is a stained east window to Frances, widow of the Right Hon. Sir George Henry Rose G.C.H. clerk of the parliaments, and mother of Field Marshal Lord Strathnairn G.C.B., G.C.S.I. and of his brother, Sir William Rose K.C.B.; she died 12th October, 1861: there are other memorial windows to Rev. Thomas Pym Williamson, vicar 1860-86, and to his wife: the church has been repaired at various times; about 1700 it was renovated through the munificence of Dr. Browne Willis, and more completely in 1864, the chancel being rebuilt by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners: it now affords 200 sittings: the churchyard was enlarged in 1870 and 1931; on the south side is a tomb inscribed to "True Blue": here also is a stone pillar bearing a Calvary in lead as a memorial to the men of this parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. The register dates from the year 1559, and between the years 1561 and 1618 contains the names of 42 persons who "suffered death and were buried," no doubt referring to their being hanged in connection with assizes held here, one of the victims being "Cecily Revis, burned in 1596"; there are two entries relating to the Civil war, one the burial of a woman "Agnes Potter, of Dunstable, wounded at the battle of Edge Hill," and the other that of a soldier of the King's army, slain by the Parliamentarians, August 27th, 1644. There is a record of the vicars of this parish from the year 1227 to date. The living is a titular vicarage, net yearly value £260, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Oxford, and held since 1939 by the Rev. Robert George Lancelot Spurgin M.A. of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge. There is a small Methodist chapel here. This village, was formerly the first place in the county at which the judges arrived on going the Norfolk circuit, and from 1433 to 1638 the assizes and general gaol deliveries for Bucks were held here on account of its being the nearest spot in Bucks to the metropolis, with a good road and accommodation for man and horse; an election as well as other county meetings were also convened here. There are charities of £5 for educational purposes, the Church and Poor Charity of £23 10s. is divided between the provision of coal for the poor and the church expenses, the Poor Allotment Charity of £16 yearly is also for coals, Penrose's of £3 for blankets, and Abdy's of £8 5s. for coal and education for the poor; most of these charities are derived from money invested in Consols, the results of the sales of land and houses left by the benefactors; the vicar and churchwardens and four others are the trustees. The history of the manor dates from the 12th century, it having belonged to the Giffard family, Earls of Buckingham, in 1164. Amongst the names of the owners appear Humphrey, Duke of Buckingham, killed at Northampton, 27 July, 1460, Sir Henry Marney kt. 1st Baron Marney, d. 24 May, 1523, William Carey, Sir Thomas Neville Abdy bart. d. 20 July, 1677, Sir Charles Duncombe kt. d. 1711, Sir William Rose, Lord Strathnairn and Adml. Douglas. The manorial rights have ceased. The Duke of Bedford K.G., K.B.E. and Sir Everard P. D. Pauncefort-Duncombe bart. D.S.O., D.L., J.P. are the principal landowners. The situation of this village on the highest part of the Brickhills (fr. Brichelle) and adjoining the Woburn plantations is picturesque and eminently healthy. The soil for the most part is light on the hill and heavier below; subsoil, clay and lower greensand. The chief crops are wheat, oats, beans and barley. The area is 1,367 acres; the population in 1931 was 241.

BRILL is a parish, formerly an ancient town and now a large village, situated on a hill 600 feet in height, 2½ south from Brill and Ludgershall station on the Great Western railway, 7½ north-west from Thame, 12 north-east from Oxford, 8½ south-east from Bicester and 13½ west from Aylesbury, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred and petty sessional division of Ashendon, rural district of Aylesbury, county court district of Thame, rural deanery of Waddesdon, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. The village is seated near the Oxford border of the county. Electricity is available. The church of All Saints is an ancient edifice of stone, in the Norman, Early and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel, restored in 1883, nave, south porch and a plain and low western tower of Perpendicular date with a small lead-covered spire and containing 6 bells, a sanctus bell and a large chiming clock, placed in 1894, at the cost of Mr. T. H. Sergeant, of London: at the east end of the north aisle there is an Early English window; and there are also two Norman doorways: the font consists of a seven-sided basin on a hexagonal base: an addition was made on the north side of the church in 1838, when the old Saxon wall on that side was removed: the church was restored in 1889-1901: the Saxon wall on the south side was removed and a south aisle corresponding to the north built: all the old features of the church were retained: in the sanctuary are panels of oak to the memory of thirty men connected with this parish who lost their lives in the Great War, 1914-18: the communion plate includes chalices and patens dated 1570 and 1685: there are 300 sittings. The register dates from the year 1569. The living is a vicarage, with that of Boarstall united, joint net yealy value £340, with residence, in the gift of Maj. Sir Henry Lancelot Aubrey-Fletcher bart. D.S.O., M.V.O., D.L., J.P. and held since 1936 by the Rev. Lionel Arthur Templeman Speer, C.F. (Res. of Officers), of the Royal Military College, Camberley. There is a Congregational chapel, built in 1841, and seating 350 persons; a Methodist chapel, built in 1841, with sittings for 140, and a Congregational chapel at Little London, built in 1847, and seating 150. There are two almshouses endowed by Alice Carter in 1591. A sum of £300 a year, derived from the rental of a farm at Boarstall, is distributed yearly to the poor of Brill and Oakley; also Lewis's charity of £8; Pym's free school charity is for the education of 10 children; Sir John Aubrey's charity is an endowment of £60 a year on behalf of the National schools; Hart's charity is for apprenticing poor boys. In the immediate neighbourhood of the village, at the foot of Dorton hill, is a mineral spring, the waters of which are chalybeate, and have been successful in the cure of various complaints. On the common is a 17th century windmill which is a familiar landmark for many miles round. The manor was once part of the ancient demesnes of the Crown; and the Palace was said to have been a favourite residence of King Edward the Confessor. King John spent his Christmas here in 1205, and Henry II. and Henry III. also held their courts here. Major Sir Henry Lancelot Aubrey-Fletcher bart. D.S.O., M.V.O., D.L., J.P. is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is various; subsoil, various. The land is principally used for pasture. The area is 2,730 acres; the population in 1931 was 869. By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, part of this parish was transferred to Oakley.

BROUGHTON, see Bierton.

BROUGHTON is a parish and village on the road from Newport Pagnell to Woburn, 3 miles south-south-east from Newport Pagnell terminal station of a branch from Wolverton of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, in the Buckingham division of the county, county court district of Bletchley and Leighton Buzzard, hundred, petty sessional division and rural district of Newport Pagnell, rural deanery of Bletchley, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Newport Pagnell Rural District Council. The church of St. Lawrence is a small building of stone, chiefly in the Early Decorated style, and consists of chancel, nave, south porch and an embattled western tower containing a clock and 4 bells: upon the walls are late 14th and 15th century paintings of the "Last Judgment," the "Disemberment of Christ," "St. George and the Dragon" and two figures, St. Eloy and Queen Helena: at the north-east angle of the nave is a good staircase turret: in the chancel are two memorial windows, the east window being in memory of Rev. John William Irving, curate and rector of Broughton for 50 years, and within the communion rails are three brasses to Agnes, wife of John de Broughton, son of Robert de Broughton, 1399; to John de Broughton, son of Robert de Broughton, 1403, and to Mary (Edmonds), wife of Thomas Duncombe esq. 1655, with four sons and three daughters;

there are also memorials to the family of Chester: on the north side is a stained window to W. Ridgway: on the south side a modern window to the memory of Mrs. Irving, the wife of Rev. John Wm. Irving M.A. rector 1854-93: in the church, attached to two old desks, are chained copies of Jewel's "Defence of the Apology of the Church of England," 1567, and Erasmus's "Paraphrase of the New Testament," placed here in 1632; there is a brass tablet in memory of the men connected with the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18: the church was thoroughly restored in 1880-1, at a cost of £1,225, and affords 112 sittings. In the churchyard is an ancient coped stone coffin-lid. The register dates from the year 1720; and there is a list of rectors from 1294, in which year Benet de Feriby held the rectory. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £298, with 11 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of trustees, and held since 1928 by the Rev. Victor F. Honniball M.A. of Birmingham University. The charity of Thomas Duncombe esq. left in 1673, and added to by Francis Duncombe in 1716, amounts to about £60 yearly, which sum is equally divided for educational purposes, church repairs and for the general use of the poor. Mrs. Good J.P. is lady of the manor. Mr. Ronald George Adams is the principal landowner. The soil is mixed; subsoil, gravel and clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and roots. The area is 937 acres; the population in 1931 was 86. Letters through Bletchley.

BUCKINGHAM

BUCKINGHAM is a municipal borough and market town, giving its name to a rural district; it is the head of a petty sessional division and county court district and includes in the parish the chapelry of Gawcott, the hamlets of Bourton and Bourtonhold, and the precincts of PREBEND END, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred, rural deanery and archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. It is on the London road to Birmingham, 57 miles from London by road and 60½ by rail, 17 north-west from Aylesbury, 24 north-north-east from Oxford and 8 east-by-south from Brackley, and has a station on the Bletchley to Banbury branch of the London, Midland and Scottish railway.

Buckingham is a place of very considerable antiquity, and once had a castle. A branch of the Roman Akeman Street from Chesterton, in Oxfordshire, crosses part of the hundred and parish of Buckingham, and many Roman coins have at different times been dug up in the vicinity. At the time of the Domesday survey Buckingham was included with the hamlet of Bourton.

The seignior of Buckingham was for a long period held by the Staffords, Earls and Dukes of Buckingham from whose crest the borough derives its arms, viz.: "per pale gules and sable, a swan, wings endorsed, argent."

On 15th March, 1725, a dreadful conflagration broke out which consumed 138 houses, or more than a third part of the town as then existing, and no uniformity was subsequently observed either in the setting out of the streets or the rebuilding of the houses; the town is pleasantly situated on the river Ouse, which environs it on every side except the north, and is crossed by three substantial bridges. The Grand Junction canal has a branch to this town, but is not navigable within three miles of the borough.

Gas and electricity are available. Water is supplied by the Buckingham Corporation.

In the reign of Edward III. Buckingham was governed by a mayor and two bailiffs, and in that of Henry VIII. by a bailiff and burgesses, but was not regularly incorporated till the reign of Queen Mary, whose charter, dated 27th Jan. 1553, was renewed by Charles II. in 1684. By the Municipal Corporations Act, 1835 (5 & 6 William IV. c. 76), the government was vested in a mayor, four aldermen and twelve councillors, the corporate body being styled Mayor, Aldermen and Burgesses of the borough and parish of Buckingham, in the county of Buckingham. The Borough has a Commission of the Peace.

The borough sent two representatives to Parliament from 36 Henry VIII. (1544-5) until the passing of the Representation of the People Act, 1867 (30 and 31 Vict. c. 102), which reduced the number to one, and by the Redistribution of Seats Act, 1885 (48 and 49 Vict. c. 23), the representation of the borough was merged in that of the county.

The most conspicuous building in Buckingham is the church of SS. Peter and Paul, erected in 1777-81 on a hill of natural rock, supposed to be the site of an ancient castle built by one of the Giffards, Earls of Buckingham, prior to the Conquest, parts of the foundations of which are occasionally uncovered and constitute its only vestiges. The old church, a cruciform edifice, had a lofty spire, 163 feet in height from the ground, which collapsed on the 7th Feb. 1699; the building remained for a series of years in a dilapidated state, until on the 26th March, 1776, the tower fell, and the whole structure was thereupon removed and the present church erected on a new site: the site of the old church was used as a burial ground for many years and contains some quaint epitaphs and head stones; on the right side of the path connecting Hunter street with Church street is the remains of the old stone market cross, which marks the western entrance to the old church. A large and ancient well, substantially lined with stone, was discovered near the church several years since by some workmen, and is assumed to be St.

Rumbold's well. In 1877 some good masonry was revealed under the bank on the south-east side of the hill. The church, begun in 1777, was completed in four years at an expense of £7,000, the greater part of which was contributed or raised by Richard, Earl Temple K.G.; it is constructed of stone, and consists of chancel with aisle, nave of 6 bays, aisles, south porch and a battlemented western tower with pinnacles and a light tapering spire, which rises to the height of 150 feet from the ground, and containing 8 bells and clock: the interior was originally designed in the Classic style, with columns and arched ceiling, richly ornamented: the altar piece, presented by a former Marquess of Buckingham, being a copy of Raphael's "Transfiguration;" but from 1862 extensive repairs and alterations were made from plans by Sir George G. Scott R.A. who was a native of Gawcott, a hamlet of this parish, and these were continued under the direction of his son, John Oldrid Scott esq.: the nave was completely reconstructed, with new windows, buttresses and parapets of the Early Decorated style; a noble chancel was added at the cost of the last Duke of Buckingham and Chandos K.G. (d. 1889), and a spacious chancel aisle, the gift of the 1st Lord Addington, erected to serve as an organ chamber and vestry; the total cost, including the chancel, amounted to about £15,000: the side-chapel, begun in 1916 and completed in 1926, is the gift of Mrs. Harrison in memory of her husband, Mr. J. T. Harrison, the author of an interesting history of the town of Buckingham; it was designed by Sir Charles Archibald Nicholson bart. F.R.I.B.A.: in the side chapel were placed old choir stall ends from the old church, dated 1626: the handsome candelabra were presented by Browne Willis, the historian of Bucks, in 1702, on his election to Parliament: in the church is also to be seen the manuscript bible given by John Rudyng, prebend of Buckingham in 1471, which at one time was chained to a desk in the chancel: there are many stained windows, which include one to the Rev. H. Roundell, a former vicar, who died on St. Stephen's Day, 1863; another to a former curate, who died at Zanzibar, and the stained east window, presented in 1890, at a cost of over £400, by the Buckingham Needle and Thread Society: in 1883 the high pews were removed and the side galleries taken down: in 1888 the organ was enlarged by private subscription, and in 1890 the chancel floor was laid with black and white marble at a cost of £110: the total cost of the various restorations from 1873 to 1890 amounted to £6,383: since that date the floor of the sanctuary has been repaved with marble, a chiming apparatus fixed in the tower, and the whole of the carving in the chancel completed at a cost of £4,200: attached to the church is an endowment of £18 rrs. yearly, given by the late Mr. Box for the repair and maintenance of the organ, which has since been considerably enlarged at the cost of an anonymous donor: a reredos of interesting character was given by the Needle and Thread Society in 1904; the design is the Nativity of our Lord; on the scroll are the words "Peace on earth, good will towards men;" a chancel screen of Gothic style was presented in 1921 by Mrs. Rogers in memory of her husband, Charles Alfred Rogers, who was mayor of the borough on seven occasions and also High Steward: there is a carved oak panelling erected by all ranks of the Royal Bucks Hussars to the memory of Captain and Adjutant Charles Henry Bennett M.O. who was drowned in the "Leasowe Castle" when she was torpedoed by an enemy submarine in 1918: there is also a memorial tablet to the 157 officers and other ranks of the Royal Bucks Hussars who fell in the Great War, 1914-18: there are 960 sittings. In the churchyard is a cross of stone erected in 1920 as a memorial to the men of the borough who lost their lives in the Great War, 1914-18. The register of baptisms and burials dates from the year 1561; marriages, 1559. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £505, with glebe and residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Oxford, and held since 1929 by the Rev. Ronald Frank Bale M.A. of Queens' College, Cambridge, F.S.A. rural dean of Buckingham, and surrogate. Before 1445 Buckingham was a chapelry attached to the neighbouring church of King's Sutton, but was at that date made a separate vicarage; the great tithes, together with the manor of Gawcott, were appropriated to a prebendal stall in Lincoln cathedral, called the prebend of Sutton-cum-Buckingham, once held by the illustrious William of Wykeham, but surrendered to the Crown in 1547. The old Vicarage house, in Church street, is an ancient building, supposed to have been built in the reign of Charles II.; it stands on a site originally given to the benefice when it was first constituted a vicarage in the year 1445, and the vicarage garden, sloping down to the river Ouse, appears to be precisely the ancient "Field of Walnuts," of that early date; in the large dining room of the house is a beautiful and massive chimney piece, finely designed and carved out of slabs of rude marble, discovered in the parish and presented by the Marquess of Buckingham to the Vicarage. Adjoining the vicarage is the Manor house, formerly the Prebendal; much of it belongs to the late 15th and early 16th centuries, and an extremely fine twisted chimney of the latter date remains in good order. A school chapel of stone in the Early English style, after a design by the late G. E. Street esq. R.A. was erected in 1865 to serve the joint purpose of a day school and a mission chapel for the working people of that portion of the town, but is now used as a reading and recreation room.

The Roman Catholic College of St. Bernardine of Siena, in the London road, was founded in 1894 by the Rev. Father Thaddeus O.F.M.; the existing church was erected in 1911 from designs by Messrs. Pugin and Powell, at a cost of £1,500: further additions were made to the College in 1933; the church was enlarged and two new wings were added to the college in 1938.

The Congregational chapel was first founded in 1700; the present structure, built in 1857 at a cost of £1,995, is an edifice with a gabled front of Cosgrove stone and Bath stone dressings in the Early English style, and consists of nave and an aisle separated by an arcade of four Pointed arches resting on circular pillars and has an open arcaded porch: there are 460 sittings. In 1876 Sunday schools were erected at a cost of about £1,300; and class rooms in 1879 at a cost of £380; they will hold 250 children.

The Methodist chapel, built in 1834, will hold 350 persons; the Salvation Army hall, formerly a Methodist chapel, built in 1840, has sittings for 250.

The Cemetery, established in 1856 by the parish, acting through a burial board, is about a quarter of a mile from the town, on the Brackley road, and now consists of $4\frac{1}{2}$ acres of land, an additional $1\frac{1}{2}$ acres having been added in 1897, planted with shrubs and surrounded by a brick wall surmounted by a light iron railing; the mortuary chapels are of red and white brick, with quoins of Bath stone, in the Decorated and Early English styles; the sexton's house forms a lodge at the entrance: it is under the charge of a burial board of nine members.

The chapel of St. John's Royal Latin school, now incorporated with a secondary school, under the management of governors, was re-founded by Edward VI. who endowed it with the revenue of a dissolved chantry belonging to the guild of the Holy Trinity, and appropriated to its use; the chapel was originally founded in 1260 by Matthew Stratton, archdeacon of Buckingham, and dedicated to S. John the Baptist and S. Thomas à Becket, probably in the memory of that prelate's visit to Buckingham as chancellor in 1160: in 1470 it was partly rebuilt by John Ruding, archdeacon of Lincoln and prebendary of Buckingham; in the year 1776 a new roof, constructed principally from the timbers of the old church, was placed by Earl Temple, and the chapel was used for divine service during the erection of the present church on Castle hill: there was a house for the master, built in 1690 by Alexander Denton esq.: the original Norman doorway still remains and is deeply recessed and profusely adorned with the characteristic zig-zag ornament, the arch being supported on niche shafts, with cushioned capitals. In 1875 a thorough restoration of the school room was carried out from designs by Sir George Gilbert Scott R.A. when a new stone bell-cot was erected, the large window in the south-eastern gable filled with suitable mullions and tracery and two new windows inserted in the south wall. New school premises, situated in a acres of garden and playing grounds, were erected in Chandos road in 1907; the buildings, which are of dark red brick, comprise a central hall, class rooms, lecture rooms, woodwork, cooking, laundry and first aid rooms and laboratory. The old Chantry Chapel has been purchased by the National Trust for the Preservation of Ancient Monuments; this is now used for entertainments &c.

The Town Hall, nearly in the centre of the town, is a plain but spacious and lofty building of red brick surmounted by a clock and bell-turret of wood covered with lead, on the top of which, standing with wings expanded on a golden ball, is a large carved and gilded swan of copper, chained, and adopted as the device of the borough from the Stafford crest; the ground floor contains offices for the borough and county magistrates and a private council chamber; on the first floor is a large room used at elections and on other public occasions, and a court room in which the petty sessions and county court business is transacted: the hall will hold about 600. The municipal insignia include a mace, mayor's chain and badge and seals: the mace, of silver gilt, is historically of much interest, having been made or converted in the Commonwealth period, and re-converted at the restoration; it is 3 feet 4 inches long and has a plain shaft with three knobs and a spreading base: three brackets support the head, the surface of which is divided into three compartments displaying: 1. A swan with wings expanded, and gorged with a coronet and chained, amid foliage. 2. A harp. 3. A rose. Surmounting the head is an elaborate cresting of open work, from which rise three gilt feathers curved inwards and meeting at their extremities, and on these rests a square cushion carrying a crown: on the raised flap top are the royal Stuart arms between the letters C. R.: at the base of the mace is an inscription and the date 1660. The chain and badge, of silver gilt, were presented in 1884 by Sir E. H. Verney 3rd bart. (d. 1910) and Lady Verney, of Claydon House: it consists of 81 quatre-foil links, each enclosing a Tudor rose, and united by smaller links: the circular badge displays the borough arms within a wreath of laurel. Of the two seals, the older, of silver, bears the arms of the borough as confirmed by William Harvey Clarenceux, in 1565: the modern brass seal is similar.

The building formerly used as the borough gaol and afterwards as the borough and county lock-up, stands at the bottom of Market square, facing the town hall, and was erected by Lord Cobham in 1748 at his own expense; before the year 1839 the principal front of the building was on the north side, but in that year the south side was rebuilt in a castellated style with square towers and battlements at a cost of £1,500, and on the outside is a tablet recording the restoration of the summer assizes to this town in 1748; they continued to be held here from 1748 to the month of July, 1848, when they were removed to Aylesbury: the building contains 9 cells and a police office, not now in use. The police station, in Moreton road, was erected in 1892.

The Masonic Hall, in Hunter street, was previously the headquarters of the Royal Bucks Yeomanry.

There is a Reading Room in the Town Hall containing books of reference and a library of about 1,000 volumes.

The market is held on Tuesday for live stock and also for corn. On the 1st Saturday in September a sheep fair, and a statute pleasure fair on the Saturday after Old Michaelmas day and a second fair on the following Saturday. Foal show and sale last Tuesday in September, and dairy show and sale first Monday in October, and a large fat stock fair Saturday nearest 13th December.

A mansion in this town, called "Fowlers and Lam-bard's," but now "Castle House," was anciently the residence of John Barton, founder of the hospital already mentioned; here, in 1514, Edward Fowler entertained Queen Catharine of Arragon; and in 1644, being then in the occupation of Sir Edward Richardson, who was knighted at Welbeck, 10th Aug. 1619, it was for some days the residence of Charles I.

At the north end of the town is a Hospital, originally established in 1668 in connection with the parish church, but since May, 1897, it has been undenominational: the present building was presented by the 1st Lord Addington, in commemoration of the preservation from death of his eldest son, who was thrown from his horse: it is a handsome and well-arranged structure, pleasantly situated on the side of a hill, and was opened in 1887. The Hospital is supported by voluntary contributions, and the medical men of the town give their services free.

There is a water and steam corn and flour mill; the poorer female inhabitants are employed in making pillow lace.

The Buckingham general charities are divided into three branches, viz.:—Alms-houses, Educational and Eleemosynary. The alms-house branch comprises Christ's Hospital, founded in 1597 by Queen Elizabeth, and rebuilt in 1897 at a cost of about £800, and again rebuilt in 1910 at a cost of about £700, and Barton's Hospital, founded in 1431 by John Barton, sen. of Buckingham. Each of these almshouse buildings contains residences for six poor women, who receive 5s. each weekly. The income of the almshouse branch proper is only about £31, and the balance required to meet the above payments is taken from the Eleemosynary branch. The Educational branch comprises Newton's charity of £26 for education and clothing; Hart's of about £9 and Sir Richard Temple's of about £13, each for apprenticeships. The Eleemosynary branch includes Lady Penelope Osborne's charity of £12; Sir Simon Bennett's of about £17; Higgins's of about £73; Lady Bagot's of £11; an unknown donor's of 6s. 8d.; Agard and Dayrell's of about £83; Groves's of £210s.; Pittam's of £111s. 8d.; Adkin's of about £33 and West's of £17 6s. 4d. Besides all the charities included in the above branches there is an Organ charity, the income of which, £15 15s. is applied in aid of the salary paid to the church organists. Harrison's charity of about £8 5s. for paralytics, and the Poor's allotment, 14 acres near Gawcott Wood, producing about £20 yearly, which is expended in coal for the poor.

Buckingham conferred the title of Duke upon the family of Grenville-Temple until it became extinct by the death in 1889 of the last Duke of Buckingham and Chandos K.G.

Rev. the Hon. Luis Chandos Francis Temple Morgan-Grenville is lord of the manor of the prebend of Buckingham with Gawcott.

The principal landowners in Buckingham are E. T. and H. Hawes esqrs. and T. Stacey esq. J.P.

The area of the civil parish and municipal borough is 5,367 acres of land and inland water; the population in 1931 was 3,164; the population of SS. Peter and Paul ecclesiastical parish in 1931 was 2,640.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, the borough was extended to include parts of Maids Moreton and Radclive.

BOURTON is a hamlet in the parish of Buckingham, three-quarters of a mile east. Bourton House was fortified in 1642 by Sir Richard Minshull kt. for Charles I. but was taken and sacked by Robert (Greville), and Baron Brooke. E. T. and H. Hawes esqrs. and exors. of C. Verey esq. are the principal landowners.

BOURTONHOLD is a hamlet forming part of the town.

Gawcott with Lenborough in this civil parish have been formed into an ecclesiastical parish, and will be found in this Directory, under the letter "G."

BUCKLAND, or Bocheland, land held in Domesday by Walter from Remigius, Bishop of Lincoln, is a parish, on the Herts border, 2½ miles west-north-west from Tring town, 4 from Tring station, on the main line of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, and 4 east-south-east from Aylesbury stations, on the Great Western, London, Midland and Scottish, Metropolitan District and London and North Eastern railways, in the Aylesbury division of the county, hundred, petty sessional division, rural district and county court district of Aylesbury, rural deanery of Wendover, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. The Grand Junction canal intersects the parish at two points. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Chiltern Hills Water Co. The church of All Saints, erected in 1294, is a building of stone and flint in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, north aisle, south porch and a low embattled western tower (rebuilt in 1804) containing a clock and 3 bells, dated respectively 1675, 1693 and 1708: the nave arcade has circular piers with octagonal capitals: the font is Norman and has a fluted basin: the church was restored in 1869, and the chancel in 1881: there are 173 sittings; in the churchyard is a plain cross of Portland stone, erected in memory of the men connected with this parish who lost their lives in the Great War, 1914-18. The register dates from the year 1660. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £340, with 2½ acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of H.M. the King, and held since 1934 by the Rev. Percy William Henry Kettlewell M.A. of Keble College, Oxford. There is a Methodist chapel, built in 1831 and seating 100 persons. At Buckland wharf is a meeting room of the Brethren erected in 1930; it will seat 100 persons. The ownership of the land is divided. The soil is loam and chalk; subsoil, chalk and clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats, peas and beans. The area is 1,228 acres of land and inland water; the population in 1931 was 403.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, part of this parish was included in the new parish of Cholesbury-cum-St. Leonards.

BURNHAM is a large parish comprising the liberties of Britwell, East Burnham and Town-and-Wood, and is head of a petty sessional division (held at Beaconsfield), in the Wycombe division of the county, hundred and rural deanery of Burnham, rural district of Eton, county court district of Windsor, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. The parish extends 6 miles from a line $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles north of the Thames, and is intersected by the Great Western railway. The village, which is three-quarters of a mile north of Burnham station and 1 mile and a half north-east from Taplow station on the main line of the Great Western railway, 4 north-west from Eton, and 5 from Windsor, is a place of considerable antiquity. Gas and electricity are available. Water is supplied by the Burnham, Dorney and Hitchin Waterworks Co. Ltd. The church of St. Peter is a large edifice of flint with stone dressings, in the Norman, Early English and Decorated styles, consisting of chancel, nave of four bays, aisles, north transept, south porch and a tower at the east end of the south aisle, with oak shingled spire, and containing a clock and 8 bells, rehung in 1930: the south aisle retains a double piscina: the rood screen is a reproduction of an earlier one, some remains of which had been preserved: during repairs in 1939 an early 13th century tomb recess was discovered in the north transept: there are five stained windows; the reredos and the stained window in the transept were erected in 1864 by Anne, Lady Grenville, in memory of her husband, the Right Hon. William Wyndham Grenville, first and only Baron Grenville D.C.L., F.R.S., F.S.A. the distinguished statesman, who died 12 Jan. 1834, his sister and brother; there is also in the chancel a monument with demi-effigies, to George Evelyn, 1657, and his wife, 1661; another with emblematic figures by Bacon to the Hon. Mr. Justice Willes, d. 14 Jan. 1787; one to Bridget, wife of William Friend, 1721; a brass with effigies to Thomas Eyre, four sons and three daughters, dated 1581; another, with effigies to Gyles Eyre, c. 1500, and Elizabeth, his wife; one to Edmund Eyre, 1563 and five children; to Thomas Eyre, 1581, three wives and 7 children, and to William Aldriche and Gyles Eyre (no date): the whole fabric has been restored, and the interior reseated; and in 1891-2 the spire was renovated, 3 bells added, making the present total of 8, and other restorations effected: the exterior of the church was again restored in 1925: there are 500 sittings. The register dates from the year 1561. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £384, including 25 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of Eton College, and held since 1937 by the Rev. Hugh Stanley Hely Read M.A. of Magdalen College, Oxford. There is a Congregational chapel here, built in 1790 and enlarged in 1859, having 140 sittings, and a small Methodist chapel at LENT RISE. A cemetery of 1 acre was formed in 1885, at a cost of £400; it was afterwards, by vote of the parishioners, transferred to the vicar, and forms an addition to the churchyard, which it adjoins. A new workmen's institute, in place of that established in 1876, was opened in 1903; the building having been built by S. R. Christie-Miller esq. J.P. then of Britwell Court. The charities for distribution amount to £150 yearly. There is a fire brigade, comprising chief officer, 2nd officer, 3rd officer and 13 firemen, with motor and manual fire engines, fire escape and tender. A market was formerly held here.

Burnham Beeches, a romantic spot in this locality, often resorted to by the poet Gray, and unequalled as a fragment of English forest scenery, has been purchased by the Waste Lands Committee of the Corporation of London under the provisions of the Open Spaces Act of 1878 (41 and 42 Vic. c. 127).

Burnham Priory is the property and residence of Sydney Jones esq. John Beville Fortescue esq. M.A.,

CADMORE END, with LEWKNOB-UP-HILL, is an ecclesiastical parish formed April 2nd, 1852, out of portions of the parishes of Fingest, in the county of Buckingham, and the civil parishes of Lewknor and Stokenchurch, in the county of Oxon, but by the County of Buckingham (Stokenchurch) Order, 1895, the Oxfordshire portion was, March 31, 1896, transferred to Bucks, and the whole is now in the latter county; it is 4 miles south-west from West Wycombe station, on the Princes Risborough and Maidenhead section of the Great Western railway, 8½ south-east from Watlington ter-minial station on a branch of the same line from Princes Risborough, and 5½ north-west from Great Marlow, in the Wycombe division of the county of Oxford, chiefly in the hundred of Lewknor, and in the petty sessional division, county court district and rural deanery of Wycombe, and the archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Marlow Water Co. The church of St. Mary-le-Moor, erected in 1851, in place of the little church at Ackhampstead, commonly called "The Moor chapel," and then taken down, is a small building of flint with

Bath stone quoins and dressings, in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch, vestry and a small western turret containing one bell: all the windows are stained, the east window being a memorial to Mrs. Elizabeth F. Perry, and the west window to Mrs. Mary Perry; four on the south side were erected to the Rev. Frederick Robert Perry M.A. a former vicar, d. 1 Dec. 1863: Mrs. S. A. Rosanna Paterson, Mr. & Mrs. Green and R. Bruce Dickson respectively, and three on the north side to Mrs. Curtis, Mr. Benjamin Gale and Miss Elizabeth A. Perry: the present organ was subscribed for in 1912: a reredos of oak was erected at Easter, 1893, in memory of Thomas Bernard Gunston esq.; there are 140 sittings. The churchyard was enlarged in 1887 and 1929: the ruins and site of the old church are carefully preserved. The register of baptisms, formerly belonging to Ackhampstead chapel, dates from 1786, the other registers date from the year 1852. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £290, with 7 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Bishop of Oxford, and held since 1924 by the Rev. William George Smylie M.A. of Trinity College, Dublin. Lord Farmoor P.C., K.C.V.O. is the principal landowner. The soil is flinty and friable sand with chalk; subsoil, gravel, chalk and clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The population in 1931 was 300.

CALVERTON is a scattered village and ecclesiastical parish, separated from Northamptonshire by the river Ouse, 3 miles south-west from Wolverton station on the London, Midland and Scottish railway, 1 south-west from Stony Stratford, $7\frac{1}{2}$ south-west from Newport Pagnell, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred of Newport Pagnell, petty sessional division of Stony Stratford, rural deanery of Wolverton, arch-deaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Calverton was united with the parish of Wolverton in 1927. A tributary of the Ouse, forms the boundary between this county and Northamptonshire. By a Local Government Board Order dated March 25, 1883, a detached part of the old parish of Calverton, known as Stratford Bridge Meadows, was amalgamated with Stratford St. Giles. Electricity is available.

The church of All Saints, rebuilt of stone in 1818, has since been further restored and a south aisle added by the Rev. the Hon. Charles George Perceval, rector 1820-58; it is an edifice in the Middle-Pointed and Norman styles, and consists of chancel, nave of three bays, south aisle, south porch and a fine western tower containing 6 bells, a sixth having been added in 1905, when also the other 5 were re-hung: in 1897 a flagstaff was erected on the tower in commemoration of the Diamond Jubilee of Queen Victoria: there is a brass dated 1519 to John Rokys and his wife Joan: in the course of the restoration the chancel was decorated in polychrome, the stained glass of the east window renewed, and the panels of the pulpit filled with figures of St. John the Baptist, St. Paul, St. Peter and St. Barnabas: the west door, for a long time blocked, was re-opened, and the font placed in the lower stage of the tower, which now serves as a baptistery: all the windows are stained: the area is seated with open benches and paved with encaustic tiles: the reredos is adorned with mosaics, representing the Adoration of the Magi: there are 220 sittings. The register dates from the year 1559. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £315, with residence, in the gift of the Earl of Egmont, and held since 1931 by the Rev. Raymond Bathurst Ravenscroft. Near the church are six almshouses, erected by the Rev. the Hon. C. G. Perceval, a former rector, who died 26 July, 1858, and there are charities amounting to about £12 yearly for distribution in coal, besides about £29 for apprenticing and £1 for general purposes. The Manor house, near the church, is a stone building of about 1500, with additions made in the 17th century. At the time it was built it belonged to the De Veres, Earls of Oxford, who held the manor as heirs of Hugh de Bolebee, the owner at the time of Domesday. There is also a coat charity for supplying nine coats annually to men belonging to the parish. The Earl of Egmont and Mr. Robert F. Fountaine are the principal landowners. The soil is light and stiff clay; subsoil, clay and stone. The chief crops are wheat, oats, beans and barley. The population of the ecclesiastical parish in 1931 was 283.

LOWER WEALD, which adjoins Calverton on the west, and MIDDLE WEALD half a mile south-east, and UPPER WEALD 1 mile south-east, are parts of this parish.

Calverton End, in the ecclesiastical district of St. Mary, Wolverton, is about $\frac{1}{2}$ mile to the north of the church and adjoins Stony Stratford, under which heading particulars and the names of residents are given.

CASTLE THORPE is a village and parish separated from Northamptonshire by the river Tove, with a station on the main line of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, $5\frac{1}{2}$ miles from London, $7\frac{1}{2}$ west-north-west from Newport Pagnell, 4 north from Stony Stratford, 11 from Northampton and $3\frac{1}{2}$ north from Wolverton, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred, petty sessional division and rural district of Newport Pagnell, county court district of Bletchley and Leighton Buzzard, rural deanery of Wolverton, arch-deaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. The church of SS. Simon and Jude stands within the enceinte of a large earthwork, consisting of a mount and bailey fortress, held in the days of King John by a Mauduit, from whom it was captured by Fulk de Brent during the Wars of the Barons: it is an ancient edifice of stone, in the Transitional and later styles, consisting of chancel, nave of three bays and aisles, west porch and a low embattled western tower with pinnacles, and containing one bell: the font is large and ancient, with two human heads at the two western corners, and there are sedilia and a piscina: in the chancel is a monument to Sir Thomas Tyrrell knt. a justice of the Common Pleas, who died 8 March, 1672, erected by his 3rd wife and widow, Dame Bridget (Harrington): there are 180 sittings. The register dates from the year 1562. The living is a chapelry annexed to Hanslope, joint net yearly value £384, including 21 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Bishop of Oxford, and held since 1930 by the Rev. James Percy Taylor, who resides at Hanslope. Near the entrance to the churchyard is an obelisk, erected in 1921, at a cost of about £240, as a memorial to the men connected with this parish, who lost their lives in the Great War, 1914-18; inscribed on the front are the names of the fallen, and on the other three sides, the names of those who served in that war. An inscription on the monument above mentioned records that Dame Bridget Tyrrell gave £10 yearly to the poor of the place, which has been invested in the purchase of 18 acres of land, producing £36 yearly, and by a scheme of the Charity Commissioners this sum is applied as follows: half for keeping in repair the nave of the church, £1 for an annual sermon to be preached in the church on March 8th, in memory of Sir Thomas Tyrrell, and the remainder in doles for the poor. There is a Methodist chapel here, which was restored in 1888. The estate of Castlethorpe, granted by Charles II. in 1663 to Sir Thomas Tyrrell, is now held by Joseph Evans Whiting esq. J.P. who is lord of the manor. Lord Carlington is the principal landowner. The parish was inclosed in 1793 by Act of Parliament. The soil is mixed; subsoil, stone and gravel. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and roots. The area is 1,360 acres of land and 12 of water; the population in 1931 was 461. Post, M. O. & T. Office. Letters through Blechley Railway Station

CHACKMORE, see Radclive.

CHALFONT ST. GILES is a village and parish on the little river Miss or Misbourne, $3\frac{1}{2}$ miles south from Chalfont River station on the Metropolitan and London and North Eastern Joint railway, 4 miles north-west from Gerrard's Cross station on the London and North Eastern and Great Western Joint railway, $5\frac{1}{2}$ south-west from Rickmansworth, 4 north-east from Beaconsfield and $3\frac{1}{2}$ south from Amersham, in the Aylesbury division of the county, hundred and petty sessional division of Burnham, rural district of Amersham, county court district of Chesham, rural deanery of Amersham, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Gas and electricity are available. Water is supplied by the Amersham, Beaconsfield and District Water Co. Ltd. The church of St. Giles is an ancient structure, chiefly in the Decorated and Perpendicular styles, with remains of Norman work, and consists of chancel, nave of three bays, aisles, and an embattled western tower, containing 6 bells and a sanctus bell, now used for the clock: the bases of two piers in the south aisle are Norman: there is a good Early English window in the chancel; the communion rails, the gift of Bishop Hare, dean of St. Paul's, are said to have come from that cathedral: the tower, originally Norman, but restored in the Decorated style, and again restored in 1862, contains a clock made in 1710, but repaired and improved in 1869: the original one hand of the clock is preserved at Milton's Cottage: there is an elegant and curious east window, a quatre-foiled piscina and a recess for an Easter sepulchre: the font is Norman and square and has been renewed with supporting columns of Purbeck marble: in the church was buried Sir Philip de la Vache, a friend of the Black Prince, and there are brasses to the Gardiner and Fleetwood families, including in the south aisle, where was once the Grove chantry, an altar tomb with brass effigies to William Gardyner esq. 1558, Anne, his wife, and 9 children: and in the chancel, at the east end, brass effigies of Thomas Fletewode, 1570, his 2 wives and 18 children; here also is a small brass effigy of a priest, c. 1470: there is also a palimpsest brass, for many years nailed against the Stone House, but now in a hinged frame attached to the wall of the north aisle: it bears on the obverse an inscription to John Salter, d. 12 Ap. 1523, and Elizabeth, his wife, and on the reverse a slightly mutilated inscription to Thomas Bridham, d. 25 . . . 1521, and Anne, his wife: Francis Hare, Bishop of Chichester, 1731-40, who married the heiress of the Claytons, is buried here, and there are monuments with arms to the Clayton family, the Rev. W. Jones, Admiral Sir Hugh Palliser bart. d. 19 March, 1796, and Thomas Allen esq. and stained windows to the Mair, Fawcett, Palmer, Moore and Lloyd families: a tablet of mosaic and marble was erected in 1884 to John Milton, d. 8 Nov. 1674: the church was restored in 1862-3 under the direction of G. E. Street esq. R.A.; during the restoration many interesting objects were brought to light, including some mural paintings of architectural designs over the chancel arch, and others on the south wall of the south aisle, depicting scenes of the Old and New Testaments: in the same wall was discovered an arched recess, now inclosing remains of stone coffins found under the pews in the nave; a number of interesting specimens of old tiles bearing figures and devices of flowers were relaid: in the north and south aisles are thirteen slabs, containing the matrices of brasses: the church was re-opened June 7th, 1863: the south aisle was extended, an organ chamber erected, and a new organ provided by the parishioners in 1884 as a memorial to the Rev. Charles Lloyd B.A. 24 years rector, 1859-83, and hon. Canon of Christ Church: in 1935 the organ was rebuilt and enlarged: in 1880 the nave roof and belfry were restored, and the bells rebung: a porch of English oak was built in 1895, as a memorial to Samuel Sanders esq. of The Grove: there are 400 sittings, all free: an ancient lych gate passing under the upper storey of a timber framed house leads from the street into the churchyard. The register dates from 1584, but has been mutilated in several places, and the years 1642 to 1653 are missing. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £550, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Oxford, and held since 1902 by the Rev. Herbert Oakes Fearnley Whittingstall M.A. of New College, Oxford, who is a surrogate. The Congregational chapel, Deanway, was first founded in 1662; the present building, erected in 1854, had a new front and porch added in 1901, and will seat 180 persons; the Methodist chapel, Deanway, erected in 1865, has 270 sittings; and the meeting house for the Society of Friends, one of the first established in England, and known as "Jordans," seats 120 persons (closes, summer 8 p.m.; winter, 5 p.m.). Allen's charity of £10 yearly is for bread; Jones's charity of £20, Sandford's of £3, Malloy's of £20, Sir Hugh Palliser's of £34, and Fawcett's charity of £60 yearly, are for the poor of the parish, Sunday school prizes and prizes for children at the school. Harewood Downs golf links are in this parish; they comprise 18 holes and extends to a length of 5,900 yards. The Vache, the seat of James Shaw Robertson esq. stands in an extensive park, and is stated to have been originally built in the year 1277; a great part of the ancient structure still remains, and some portions date from the 16th century. The place takes its name from the family of De la Vache, who came from Normandy with the Conqueror and settled here: from them in 1564 the estate passed to the Fleetwoods, one of whom married Bridget, daughter of Oliver Cromwell and widow of Henry Ireton; his grandson, having signed the warrant for the execution of Charles I. lost the property, which reverted to the Crown and was subsequently granted to Sir Thomas Clayton, varden of Merton College, from whom it was passed to Dr. Francis Hare, Bishop of Chichester 1731-40, and in 1771 it was sold by that family to Adml. Sir Hugh Palliser bart. on whose death, 19 March, 1796, The Vache descended by bequest to his natural son George, and was purchased in 1825 by Thomas Allen esq. of Newlands; it passed to his son, Thomas Newland Allen, in 1829, who left it to his daughter, Mrs. Edmund Stevens, in 1898. It was purchased by the present owner, James Shaw Robertson esq. in 1902; Dr. James Fleetwood, Bishop of Worcester, 1675-83, was born in this house. Roughwood Park is the residence of Harold Davenport Price esq. The Grove is the residence of Richmond Watson esq.; William Russell's farm house (1618), now known as Old Jordans Hostel, is celebrated as having been the place in which the Society of Friends held their earliest meetings previous to the building of the meeting house, 1688, where a number of Quakers have been interred, including William Penn, the founder of Pennsylvania (who died at Ruscombe, Berks, 30th July, 1718), his two wives and five children. During the great plague in 1665, Milton retired to this village, and here he finished "Paradise Lost" and commenced "Paradise Regained;" the cottage in which Milton resided still remains, and appears, from the arms above the doorway, to have been built by the Fleetwoods. In 1887 it was purchased by public subscription, and dedicated to the use of the public for ever, and has been conveyed to a body of trustees, who also form the committee of management: it is now used as a museum for objects connected with Milton and other local interests, and contains first editions of "Paradise Lost" and "Paradise Regained," "History of Britain," "Eikonoklastes" &c. some cannon balls fired into the church by Cromwell's troops when encamped in an adjoining field during the Civil War, and several curious pikes, formerly kept in the church. Alterations were made to the cottage in 1927 to reincorporate the adjoining dwelling. In a field on Mr. Robert Moore's farm, two ancient middens, probably over 2,000 years old, have been laid bare. Bottrells, an old timber framed house, renovated and added to about 1904, is now occupied by I. C. Sanderson esq.: the house was formerly occupied by Thomas Ellwood, the Quaker, during the time he was acting as a tutor in the Pennington family. Pollards Park is the residence of Charles Hare Leonard esq. The land formerly formed part of the estates united by the marriages of Agnes Grove, of Grove Place, and Robert Gardiner, of The Vache, towards the end of the 15th century. About that time the branch of the family to which Mr. Grove belonged migrated to York, which city his ancestor, Hugh Grove, represented in Parliament in 1571. The mill is supposed to be the oldest in the county, and in the cottage adjoining is a painted ceiling dating from 1665 and having a figure of "Britannia;" the walls were also painted, but have been partially papered over; four subjects, viz. the "Peach Tree," "Dish of Fruit," "Farm Yard," and "The Windmill" are still visible. James Shaw Robertson esq. who is lord of the manor, Mrs. Bertram Mills, Richmond Watson esq. and Charles Hare Leonard esq. are the principal landowners. The soil is gravel, loam and chalk; subsoil, chalk and gravel. The land is arable, meadow, pasture and woodland. The area is 3,598 acres of land and inland water; the population in 1931 was 2,747.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, parts of this parish were transferred to Amersham and Chalfont St. Peter, and part of the latter parish was added.

CHALFONT ST. PETER is a village and parish bounded on the east by Hertfordshire; it is on the high road from Wendover to London, and on the Misbourne stream, $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles north-west from Gerrard's Cross station on the main line of the Great Western and London and North Eastern Joint railway, 4 east-north-east from Beaconsfield, 5 south-south-east from Amersham and 6 north-north-west from Uxbridge, in the Aylesbury division of the county, hundred and petty sessional division of Burnham, county court district of Chesham, rural district and rural deanery of Amersham, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford.

Gas and electricity are available. Water is supplied by the Uxbridge and Rickmansworth Valley Water Co. The church of St. Peter, erected in 1714, on the site of an earlier church, which collapsed in 1708, is an edifice of red brick with stone dressings, and consists of nave and an embattled western tower containing a clock and 6 bells, dated 1726: windows have been inserted in the chancel and nave, and a south chapel and south porch added in the Decorated style: there are eight memorial windows to the Hibbert and Wills families, to the wife of the Rev. G. M. Bullock B.D. vicar 1863-88, and others, besides five brasses from the 14th to the 16th centuries, removed from the old church, and including a palimpsest brass with the effigy of a priest in eucharistic vestments, c. 1440: in this case the figure "has been slightly altered by the addition of shading and rounding of the toes." After this a new inscription was added to Sir Robert Hanson, vicar here, d. 1545. The communion plate dates from the 17th century, and is made of pewter: a new organ was provided in 1911: there are 300 sittings: the burial ground was given by J. N. Hibbert esq. D.L., J.P.; it contains a memorial, erected at a cost of £400, to parishioners who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. The registers date from the year 1538: there is a record of vicars from the 13th century. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £805, with $8\frac{1}{2}$ acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of St. John's College, Oxford, and held since 1933 by the Rev. Alexander Cameron McKenzie M.A. of that college. The church of All Saints, in Oval way, erected in 1914, is a building in the Gothic style; it at present consists of chancel, nave and vestries: there are 225 sittings. St. Paul's chapel of ease, at HORN HILL erected by subscription in 1866 at a cost of £800 is an edifice of brick consisting of nave with porch, and has about 40 sittings. There is a Roman Catholic church in Austen Wood, erected in 1915. There is a Baptist chapel at Gold Hill, founded in 1774, and seating 450 persons. At Horn Hill is a village hall, built in 1911. The Memorial Hall, built to commemorate all those who fell in the Great War, was opened in 1920. The Greyhound inn, built over the Misbourne stream, is a hostelry dating back to the fifteenth century; in 1924 some remarkable oak beams, which have been preserved, were brought to light during restoration works. The charities amount to about £28 17s. rod. yearly. The Chalfonts and Gerrard's Cross Hospital, established in 1871, contains 30 beds and six private wards. An X-ray department was opened in 1938. The Chalfont Colony for Epileptics, situated here, was established in 1894 by the National Society for Employment of Epileptics, now called the National Society for Epileptics, the object of which is to establish and maintain homes on the colony system for persons suffering from epilepsy and generally to promote the welfare of those afflicted with this malady. The site of the colony consisted originally of a farm of 135 acres, known as Skipping's Farm, and purchased with a sum of £4,000, given by J. Passmore Edwards esq. (d. 1911), to which has been added Tubbs Farm, comprising 74 acres, and Roberts' Farm, of 148 acres. The institution consists of nineteen homes for men, women and children, providing in all for about 580 colonists, together with an administration home, workshops, farm buildings, laundry, central hall, school for children and other buildings. A large part of the land has been planted with fruit trees. Garden and farm work form the principal occupation of a large number of the male colonists, others being employed in the various branches of the building trade, or in boot making, tailoring &c. The chief employment of the women colonists is laundry work, and needlework of all kinds. Patients are received not only from every part of the British Isles, but also from the most remote colonies and dependencies of the Empire. The London office of the Society is at Denison House, Vauxhall Bridge Road S W 1. Gott's Monument was built in 1875 as a hunting mark for George IV. when out with the Royal Buckhounds, by Sir William T. Gott, and was restored in 1879 by William Brown. The Rev. Cyril A. G. Moore M.A. is lord of the manor. The principal land-owners are Lady Edgar C.B.E. Rev. Cyril A. G. Moore M.A. the Watson Investment Co. and the Chalfont Colony. The soil is mixed gravelly loam; subsoil, chalk; the land is arable and pasture. The chief crops are oats, wheat and barley; the area is 4,473 acres of land and inland water; the population in 1931 was 6,163 in the civil and 6,217 in the ecclesiastical parish, including 493 inmates and officials in the Home for Epileptics.

By Local Government Board Order No. 32,795. Oct. 1, 1895, part of Chalfont St. Peter was, with parts of other parishes, taken to form the civil parish of Gerrard's Cross.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, parts of Chalfont St. Giles and Gerrard's Cross were added and parts of Chalfont St. Peter transferred to those parishes.

Gold Hill, half mile west, and Gravel Hill, half north-east, are places in the parish.

CHARNDON, see Twyford.

CHARTRIDGE is a parish on the south-west, west and north-west sides of the parish of Chesham, from which it was formed by an Order of the Buckinghamshire County Council, under the Local Government Act of 1894, which was confirmed April 1, 1899; it extends from 1 to $3\frac{1}{2}$ miles north-west from Chesham station on the Metropolitan and London and North Eastern Joint railway, in the Aylesbury division of the county, and is in the hundred of Chesham, rural district, petty sessional division and county court district of Amersham, ecclesiastical parish of Chesham, rural deanery of Amersham, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. The parish consists of a number of extensive ridges and valleys running in a north-westerly direction. The ridges are known as Chart-ridge, Ashridge, Hundridge, Dundridge, Bellington, Pednor and Hyde Heath. Gas and electricity are available. Water is supplied by the Rickmansworth and Uxbridge Valley Water Co. There is a Baptist chapel, built in 1844, and rebuilt in 1885, and also a reading room and club, erected in 1903, on the site of the old smithy, as a memorial of the Coronation of King Edward VII. Chartridge Lodge, at present (1939) unoccupied, stands in grounds of about 100 acres. Great Hundridge farm is a late 17th century house standing in front of a desecrated chapel with the remains of 13th century windows. The principal landowners are William F. Lowndes Frith Lowndes esq. M.B.E., J.P. and Wilfrid George Garrett-Pegge esq. J.P. The soil is clay upon chalk. The area is 4,184 acres; the population in 1931 was 791.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, part of this parish was transferred to the parish and urban district of Chesham.

Ashridge is a hamlet $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles north, Bellington $2\frac{1}{2}$ north, and Hundridge $2\frac{1}{2}$ south. Hyde Heath is partly in this parish and partly in Great Missenden. There is a Congregational chapel at Ashridge, erected in 1891, with 70 sittings, and a Church Mission Room at Bellington.

CHEARSLEY is a small village and parish on an affluent of the river Thame, $4\frac{1}{2}$ miles north-east from Thame station, on the Princes Risborough and Oxford section of the Great Western railway, 4 north-east from Haddenham station on the London and North Eastern and Great Western Joint railway, and 8 south-west from Aylesbury, in the Buckingham division of the county, petty sessional division and hundred of Ashendon, rural district of Aylesbury, county court district of Thame, rural deanery of Waddesdon, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford.

Electricity is available. The church of St. Nicholas, anciently a chapel to Crendon, is a small building of stone, originally Early English, but now chiefly in the Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch and a fine embattled western tower, with angle turret, containing 3 bells: the ancient font is Norman, with fluted basin and adorned above with cable ornament and other carved work and in the chancel floor are several brasses of the 15th century, including one to John Frankleyn, 1462, and Margaret his wife: the church affords 130 sittings. The register dates from the year 1570. The living is a perpetual curacy, with Nether Winchendon united, joint net yearly value £300, in the gift of Mrs. F. T. H. Bernard, and held since 1937 by the Rev. Charles Elliot Wigg M.A. of Keble College, Oxford. There is a Baptist chapel, built in 1854 and seating 100 persons. In the centre of the village is a cross erected in memory of the men of the parish who lost their lives in the Great War, 1914-18. A Parish room was erected in 1909 by Lt.-Col. F. T. H. Bernard D.L., J.P. of Winchendon Priory. Chearsley Hill, the property of Lady Lochore, is pleasantly situated on an eminence and commands extensive views of the surrounding country. Richard Roadnight esq. is the principal landowner. The soil is clay and light loam; subsoil, clay and limestone. The chief crops are wheat, barley and turnips. The area is 943 acres; the population in 1931 was 240.

CHEDDINGTON is a village and parish $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles north-west from Ivinghoe, $5\frac{1}{2}$ south from Leighton Buzzard, $4\frac{1}{2}$ north from Tring and 36 from London, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred of Cottesloe, petty sessional division of Linslade, rural district of Wing, county court district of Bletchley and Leighton Buzzard, rural deanery of Ivinghoe, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. The London, Midland and Scottish railway has a station at Cheddington Junction, where the Aylesbury line branches off. The Grand Junction canal also intersects the parish. Electricity is available. Water is supplied from a reservoir, erected in 1908 at a cost of about £2,000, and fed from artesian wells; it was presented to the inhabitants by the 5th Earl of Rosebery in memory of the Countess of Rosebery. The church of St. Giles, situated a short distance from the village, on elevated ground, surrounded by trees, is a plain edifice of stone in the Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisle, south porch and an embattled western tower containing 6 bells: the octagonal font is of Decorated character, and the pulpit of ancient carved oak: a stained east window was presented in 1866 by the Rev. Arthur Perceval Purey-Cust M.A. rector here 1853-62 and dean of York, and his wife, Lady Emma Purey-Cust; the reredos, of glass mosaic, was presented by the Rev. Lionel Digby William Dawson-Damer M.A. rector here 1862-69; and in 1894 a stained window and a carved oak screen were erected, in memory of the Rev. Frederick Burn Harvey S.C.L., J.P. rector here 1869-93: a silver cross and two silver candlesticks were presented in 1926 by Lady Powell in memory of Sir Douglas Powell, formerly senior physician to the King: the pedestal alms-box, which stood in the church from 1615-1854, was found in a dealer's shop, and was restored to the church in 1935: the church was restored in 1858: there are 200 free sittings. The register dates from the year 1538. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £450, including 10 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Earl of Rosebery D.S.O., M.C. and held since 1935 by the Rev. William Thomas Rees B.D. of St. David's College, Lampeter. There is a Methodist chapel. To the south-west of the village, on the hill-side facing east, are three wide terraces or liches, created, as some people think, by the use of the plough in one direction only on successive strips of land; a spit of earth was thus carried to the outer edge of the strip at every ploughing. The Earl of Rosebery D.S.O., M.C., J.P., M.F.H. is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is Oxford clay; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats, beans and roots. The area is 1,426 acres; the population in 1931 was 533 in the civil and 539 in the ecclesiastical parish.

CHENIES (sometimes styled Isenhampstead Cheneys to distinguish it from the neighbouring village of Isenhampstead Latimers) is a village and parish, and stands on a chalk hill near the Chess stream which separates the parish from Hertfordshire, $\frac{1}{4}$ miles north-west from Chorley Wood station on the Metropolitan and London and North Eastern Joint railway, 5 south-south-east from Chesham, $\frac{3}{4}$ north-north-west from Rickmansworth, in the Aylesbury division of the county, hundred of Burnham, rural district of Amersham, petty sessional division and county court district of Chesham, rural deanery of Amersham, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Gas and electricity are available. Water is supplied by the Amersham, Beaconsfield and District Water Co. The church of St. Michael, restored in 1861 by the Duke of Bedford, and again in 1887, is chiefly of the Perpendicular period, and consists of chancel with mortuary chapel, nave, south aisle, south porch, and an embattled western tower with turret, but destitute of parapet, containing 6 bells, recast in 1826: there is a clock facing the east: the nave is separated from its aisle by three pointed arches of Decorated work on octagonal columns, and there are two-light windows of the same period in the chancel, the rest of the church being Perpendicular: the font is Norman and cup-shaped, with foliated scrolls round the border, and stands on a square base: opening from the chancel on the north side is the Russell chapel, and below it is the vault where lie the remains of most of the family who have borne the name for three centuries and a half, including Earl Russell, the distinguished statesman, who died 28th May, 1878, and his son John, Viscount Amberley M.P. for Nottingham, who died 9th Jan. 1876, and here also was buried Francis, 10th duke, d. 23 March, 1893: on a stone tablet in the chapel are the words:—"Thys Chapel ys built by Anne, Countesse of Bedford, wyfe to John Erle of Bedforde, according to ye last will of the sayde Erle A.D. 1556;" the earliest monument in the chapel is the tomb of Lady Anne, 1558, and of her husband, 1554, one of the finest of its kind in Europe; it is of beautiful pink-veined alabaster and bears the recumbent figure of the earl, in plate armour, with coronet, collar of SS. and sword and of the countess in ermined robes; on the sides of the tomb are the arms of both, with the Russell motto, "Che Sara Sara" and inscriptions: the faces are evidently careful likenesses, for the earl had lost an eye in action and here the eyelid droops over the socket as in life; the monument of the second earl, Francis K.G. "with the big head," ob. 28th June, 1585, and Margaret (St. John) his wife, adjoins, but is altogether inferior to that of his father and mother; it has also recumbent effigies of alabaster, but coloured according to the taste of the 17th century, in white, red and gold, while at the head of the figures is a raised frame with the arms, coronet and supporters; here also is another altar tomb, consisting of a slab of black marble, supported on four columns and bearing the effigy of a lady in scarlet and ermine robes, with a coronet and a profusion of ornaments and inscribed to Anne, wife of Ambrose (Dudley) Earl of Warwick and daughter of the above-named Francis, Earl of Bedford, and to her brothers and sister; the panels around the sides of the tomb enclose various shields of arms; in the middle of the south aisle is a gorgeous tomb, with similar recumbent figures, to Francis, second Lord Russell, of Thornough and afterwards fourth Earl of Bedford, ob. 9th May, 1641, and his Countess, Catherine (Brydges), 1653; behind the principal figures, within two niches in the wall, are other figures and inscriptions to their daughters Frances, 1612, and Elizabeth, 1616; and around the monument the arms of Russell, Chandos and others; at the west end is the tomb of William, first Duke of Bedford K.G. ob. 7th September, 1700, and his Duchess, Anne (Carr), ob. 1680; it has a circular basement, supporting a pavilion of grey marble, upon which are the sitting figures of the Duke and Duchess in an attitude of violent grief, their bodies flung back and their heads buried in their hands, in the anguish of petrified despair; medallions of their children are ranged on either side in perpendicular rows, and in the centre is that of the eldest, William, Lord Russell, beheaded in Lincoln's Inn fields, July 21, 1683; the execution of this medallion is exceedingly good and the likeness to extant portraits remarkable: on the north wall is a monument, with reclining effigy, to Frances, wife of Gyles, Lord Chandos, 1623; the memorial to Wriothesley, second Duke of Bedford K.G. d. May, 1711, and Elizabeth (Howland) his wife, d. 1724, is an allegorical work by Sir W. Chamon R.A. and stands on the south side: in the chapel there is also a large black marble slab resting on four columns of white marble commemorating Lady Frances Bourchier, daughter of William, third Earl of Bath, d. 1612, and similar to this is the monument to John, Earl Russell K.G., P.C. d. 28 May, 1878; above is a memorial to Odo, 1st Baron Amphil G.C.B. d. 25 Aug. 1884; there are also various other memorials, besides inscriptions to various members of the house of Russell on the tombs above mentioned; in the chancel is a mural tablet to the Rev. William Morris M.A. 29 years rector of Chenies, d. 1824; in the north aisle is an inscribed tablet to Mary, widow of Samuel Attomi, of Islington, esq. d. 1721, and there are brasses to John Walliston, smith, ob. 1469, with his wives Isabella and Joan; Edmund Molyneux esq. ob. 1484, and his wife Agnes, with effigies under a canopy; Anne, widow of Sir David Phelip, ob. 1510, with figure holding a heart, from which issue two scrolls, and on either side are pinnacles with shields of arms, supporting a crocketed ogee canopy; Agnes Johnson, widow, mother of Robert Leyss, rector, ob. 1511, with veiled effigy; Elizabeth, daughter of John Broughton esq. ob. 1524, with effigy, shields and marginal inscription; Richard Newland, rector, ob. 1494, with effigy and an inscription; Sir Nicholas Smythe, parson, of Latimer, ob. 1517; in the chapel is the upper half of an ancient stone statue of a man in armour, boldly sculptured in hard, cross-grained stone; the pointed bascinet, mail gorget and emblazoned surcoat indicate the date of the effigy to be of the later 14th or beginning of the 15th century; two martlets only, of the heraldic bearings, remain, but the figure is supposed to represent Sir John Cheyne, lord of this manor, who died about 1440; lying beside this is the figure of a lady, somewhat mutilated, dressed in a long robe, over which is the peculiar jacket worn at the beginning of the 15th century; the head is attired in a caul and rests on a lozenge-shaped pillow; the date is probably about 1413: the Bedford chapel was restored in 1906: there are now 150 sittings: in the churchyard is an altar tomb, with arms and inscription, to John Vernon, gent. ob. 1622. The register of baptisms dates from the year 1592, and that of marriages and burials from 1593, and it contains many entries relating to the Russell family. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £448, and residence, in the gift of the Duke of Bedford K.G., K.B.E. and held since 1934 by the Rev. Frederick Harold Smith D.D. of London University, and Fellow of King's College, London. There is a Baptist chapel, erected in 1789, and seating 200 persons. Ten almshouses, founded and endowed here in 1603 by Anne Countess of Warwick, daughter of the second Earl of Bedford, were sold in 1886 to the 9th Duke of Bedford K.G. and demolished in 1888: the pensioners now receive money instead of house-room. Under an order of the Charity Commissioners, the trust was dealt with as follows:—a portion was settled on the parish of Wotton-under-Edge, in Gloucestershire, and another portion on the parish of Northaw, in Hertfordshire, both of which parishes claimed a right to present to the almshouses; the remaining portion, including a sum realised by the sale of the almshouses, was settled on the parish of Chenies, and the interest, amounting to about £62, is divided among pensioners in the parish. In 1891 the Duke of Bedford made a gift to the funds of the charity, by which the income was increased £18 a year. The Old Manor House, now occupied as a farmhouse, is a portion only of the structure reared by the first Earl of Bedford on the site of an old castle of the Plantagenet kings, and consists of a single wing, which is so well constructed and of material so admirable that it looks as if it had been recently completed; though but a fragment, it is a fine specimen of Tudor masonry, and its high-pitched roofs and clusters of curiously twisted chimneys have evidently served as models for the architecture of the village. The country around is richly wooded. Woodside House is the residence of Mrs. Stafford Charles. Chenies House is the residence of H. S. Loebel esq. The Duke of Bedford K.G., K.B.E. is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is gravel, flint and chalk; subsoil, gravel and chalk. The chief crops are wheat and barley. The area is 1,470 acres of land and inland water; the population in 1931 was 278.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, part of this parish was transferred to Amersham.

CHEPPING WYCOMBE, see High Wycombe.

CHESHAM, in Domesday "Cestreham," is a large parish and market town, distant by road from London 28 miles, Uxbridge 14 north-west, Amersham 3 north, Aylesbury 13 south-east and Buckingham 30, and has a terminal station controlled by the London and North Eastern and Metropolitan Joint Committee; it is the head of a petty sessional division in the Aylesbury division of the county, hundred of Burnham, High Wycombe and Chesham county court district, rural deanery of Amersham, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Chesham derives its name from the river Chess, a feeder of the river Colne, which flows through the town from two spring heads, one in the park of William F. Lowndes Frith Lowndes esq. M.B.E., J.P. and the other in Higham Mead.

The town was governed by a local board of nine members from the year 1885, until the establishment by the Local Government Act, 1894, of an Urban District Council. Gas and electricity are available. Water is supplied by the Chesham Urban District Council. This place gives the title of baron to a branch of the Cavendish family. The church of St. Mary is a cruciform building chiefly in the Early English and Decorated styles, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave, aisles, south porch with parvise, transepts and a central embattled tower with octagonal spire, containing a clock, with Cambridge quarter chimes, 6 bells recast in 1812, and a sanctus bell, hung in 1370 and rehung in 1790; the curfew is regularly rung from the first Sunday after New Michaelmas day until the Saturday evening immediately preceding March 10: the earliest existing portion is perhaps, a portion of the north transept, retaining half a Norman window, the lower stage of the tower, the arcades of the nave and a lancet in the north aisle are Early English, the Decorated porch has a groined roof and upon it a parvise, reached by a turret stair from the south aisle, and also retains a stoup; the chancel is also of this period, but the clerestory and many of the windows are Perpendicular: the south transept was formerly the burial place of the Cavendishes of Latimer, and contains a monument to Sir John Cavendish K.B. a younger son of the first Earl of Devonshire, 1618, and an altar tomb with a lofty pyramidal structure above to Mary (Banks), wife of Sir Francis Whichcote bart. 1728: on the north side of the chancel is a monument, with effigy in the act of preaching, to Richard Woodcock, a former vicar, 1623; and one to Richard Bowle, 1626; the two latter were restored in 1887 at a very considerable cost by William Lowndes esq.; in the chancel are memorials to Nicholas Skotowe, 1798, by Bacon, and several inscribed stones to members of the Lowndes family: in the north transept is a brass, inscribed to George, son of Major William Wade, 1738; a brass is also recorded to the family of Eggerley: the entire building was restored in 1869; the external walls were partly refaced, and in doing this many fragments of worked stone, proving the Norman character of the building, were met with; the area of the north aisle was enlarged and the nave roof cased in the Perpendicular style, those of the south aisle and transepts restored and a new roof of the original pitch placed on the chancel: the new font, in the Early English style, was the gift of William Lowndes esq. of the Bury, and the lectern that of the Misses Suthery; the organ, erected in 1852, was enlarged and improved in 1869; the stained east window was presented by the 9th Duke of Bedford K.G. others by the Misses Nash and Mrs. Lowndes; there are memorial windows to Mrs. Morton, Miss Aylward, Richard Clare and Mary his wife, the Rev. A. F. Aylward, 25 years vicar of Chesham, who fell a victim to a terrible epidemic of fever in the parish, Nov. 12, 1871, while visiting his parishioners, and to William Lowndes esq. of The Bury: a mural brass, erected by the poor of the parish, has been placed above the prayer desk: during the restoration several ancient paintings were discovered on the north and south walls and on the north-west pier of the tower, one of these being a colossal figure of St. Christopher: in 1898 an oak lobby was erected in commemoration of the Diamond Jubilee of Queen Victoria: there are 800 sittings. The register dates from the year 1538. The living is a vicarage, net income £554, with residence, in the gift of the Peache Trustees, and held since 1939 by the Rev. Lawrence Phillips Sheath L.Th. of Durham University. Emanuel church, in New Town, erected in 1887, was further enlarged about 1898, and will seat 200 persons.

The Baptist chapel in the Broadway was founded in 1706 and will seat 900 persons. The Hinton Baptist chapel was erected in 1701 and rebuilt in 1898, and affords 520 sittings. Zion Baptist chapel, in Red Lion street, was founded in 1867; the present building was erected in 1873, and will seat 450 persons; there is also a Baptist church in Berkhamstead road, erected in 1927, which affords 450 sittings. The Congregational chapel, erected in 1724 and rebuilt in 1886, is of red brick and cut flint with stone dressings, in the Gothic style: there are sittings for 350 persons. The Methodist church in Broad street has sittings for 300 persons. The Methodist church, in Bellington road, was erected in 1907; and in Broad street are Salvation Army barracks, opened in 1898. The Cemetery covers 7 acres with two mortuary chapels, and is under the control of the Chesham and Chartridge Joint Burial Committee. There is a memorial, situated in the Broadway, which, together with a gift for the extension of the Cottage Hospital, commemorates the men of the town who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. The Town Hall, the property of a syndicate of local tradesmen, is an oblong structure of brick supported on arches; the upper part is used for meetings and public entertainments, and the open part below as a market. The Chesham Town Social Club is in the Higham road, and there is a Temperance Hall in Church street. The house known as 54 and 56 Church street belongs partly to the 14th century; the wooden tracery of the original window-head is visible in the gable facing the street. The annual fairs are held on the 21st April, 22nd July and 28th September. The country around the town is beautifully diversified and very picturesque, and is famous for the growth of the beech tree, from which various articles are made, such as chairs, malt, shovels, brush blocks and covers, hoops in sizes, bowls, churn heads and cheese vats and all kinds of small dairy utensils. In the town is a brewery, and there is a considerable trade in shoe making for the army and home and foreign trades and toy making; straw plait was formerly manufactured, but the trade is now nearly extinct. Some copious springs near the town form a fine expanse of water, supplying the river Chess, which falls into the Colne near Rickmansworth, working several flour mills on its course; on the road to Amersham is a chalybeate spring, similar to the Tunbridge Wells water. Weedon's almshouses, endowed with 100 acres, producing £40 yearly, were built in the reign of James I. by Thomas Weedon, citizen and draper of London, who died in 1624; these houses are for four persons, each of whom receives seven shillings per week with other gratuities. The Earl and Countess of Devonshire's charity of £11 yearly; J. Cheyney's of £2, given by deed in 1555; and Cawdery's £3, bequeathed in 1670, are for distribution in money, to be divided between 7 persons by the vicar and churchwardens for the time being; Mrs. Johnson's gift of the interest of £500 is attached to the Board and Parish schools, and the interest of £500 to the Dorcas Society; Butterfield's gift of £2 15s. yearly provides for certain sermons. Chesham Bury, built in the year 1716 by William Lowndes esq. secretary to the Treasury in the reign of Queen Anne, is the seat of William F. Lowndes Frith Lowndes esq. M.B.E., J.P.: in 1853, during excavations then being made for the foundations of an east wing, 13 human skeletons were found about 4 feet below the surface. Lord Chesham and the trustees of the late John Stratton Fuller esq. who are lords of the manor, Wilfrid George Garrett-Pegge esq. J.P. and William F. Lowndes Frith Lowndes esq. M.B.E., J.P. are the principal landowners. The soil is chalk, clay and flint. The area of the parish and Urban District is 3,489 acres of land and inland water; the population in 1931 was 10,230.

The population of St. Mary ecclesiastical parish in 1931 was 8,927.

By Local Government Board Order No. 34,772, which came into operation April 1st, 1897, part of the civil parish of Chesham was constituted a new civil parish called Ashley Green. By Order No. 38,750, which came into operation April 1st, 1899, further parts of Chesham were formed into the civil parishes of Chartridge and Latimer. By Order No. 41,337, which came into operation October 1st, 1900, part of Ashley Green civil parish was added to the civil parish and Urban District of Chesham.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, the parish and urban district was extended to include parts of Ashley Green, Chartridge, Chesham Bois and Latimer.

WATERSIDE, through which the river Chess flows, is on the south-east of the town, and was formed into a separate ecclesiastical parish in 1865. Christ Church is a building of flint and Bath stone, in the Early English and Decorated styles, consisting of chancel, vestry, nave, south aisle and south porch, and there is one bell at the western end: the church was consecrated on the 18th of August, 1864, and restored in 1913: the three Early English windows at the east end are filled with richly stained glass to the memory of the wife of G. Gosset Hill esq.; those on either side of the chancel are memorials respectively to Josepha Martha Collis and Frederick Joseph Tyler: there is also a mural tablet to the memory of the two sons of Mr. Ernest Climpson, who fell in the Great War, 1914-18, and a brass tablet, erected in 1921, containing the names of 30 men of the parish who also fell: there are 300 sittings. The register dates from the year 1864. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £350, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Oxford, and held since 1929 by the Rev. Herbert Heath Summers M.A. of Oxford University, hon. C.F. St. George's chapel of ease, at TYLER'S HILL, within the ecclesiastical parish of Christ Church and civil parish of Latimer, will seat upwards of 100 persons: in 1913 the church was underpinned and the fabric thoroughly restored by Lord Chesham in memory of his parents, and in 1931 the chancel was rebuilt. Chesham Cottage Hospital, standing on an eminence at Waterside, was opened in 1869; it has since been enlarged and has 20 beds and 3 cots: it is managed by a committee, of which Lord Chesham is president: accidents are admitted at all times. A building with class-rooms for the Church Sunday School and other church purposes was completed in 1885, and restored in 1921 at a cost of £400. There are three flour mills; the making of boots and shoes, wood turnery, including shovels for brewers and maltsters, brush handles and boards and spoons of all sizes is carried on. There are also several duck farms and extensive watercress beds. The population of the ecclesiastical parish in 1931 was 1,504.

The Chairman, for the time being, of the Chesham Urban District Council is an ex-officio magistrate Clerk to the Magistrates, John Earley Francis, High street.

Petty Sessions held at Police Station every first & third wednesday, & every week day throughout the year except saturdays, Christmas Day, Good Friday & bank holidays, for the purposes of the "Summary Jurisdiction Act, 1879," at 11 a.m. The places in the division are:—Chesham, Chesham Bois, Chenies, Cholesbury-cum-St. Leonards, Cholesbury, Hawridge, Ashley Green, Latimer & Chartridge

CHESHAM BOIS is a parish on a high table-land 1 mile from Amersham station on the Metropolitan railway, in the Aylesbury division of the county, hundred of Burnham, petty sessional division and county court district of Chesham, rural district and rural deanery of Amersham, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Gas and electricity are available. Water is supplied by the Amersham, Beaconsfield and District Water Co. The church of St. Leonard is in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave and aisles of seven bays, south porch and a tower containing a clock and 3 bells: there is a carved Jacobean pulpit, and brasses with effigies to Benedict Lee, 1520, a chrisom child; Robert Cheyne, 1552, and Elizabeth, his wife, 1516: the church was restored in 1881 at a cost of £1,300, and a north aisle and a new tower at the south-west angle were built in 1884: the nave and north aisle were extended and a vestry added in 1911: the church contains sittings for 250 persons. The register dates from the year 1542. The living is a rectory, yearly value £430, with 2 acres of glebe, and residence, in the gift of the Peache trustees, and held since 1923 by the Rev. George Henry Lawrence M.A. of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge. There is an iron mission room on the The Moor, erected in 1889, which will hold 100 persons. The Roman Catholic church of Our Lady of Perpetual Succour, on the New road, was built in 1915, and seats 100. Chesham Bois Manor is the property and residence of Wilfrid George Garrett-Pegge esq. M.A., J.P. who is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is clay; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat,

was transferred to the parish and urban district of Chesham.

CHETWODE is a parish separated from Oxfordshire by a feeder of the river Ouse, 2½ miles from Fimmere station on the London and North Eastern Railway, 5 south-west from Buckingham and 6 north-east from Bicester, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred, petty sessional division, rural district, county court district, rural deanery of Buckingham (Buckingham portion), archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. The church of SS. Mary and Nicholas is formed out of the chancel of an Augustinian priory church formerly standing on the site; consequently the present nave and chancel are not separated in any way: a north chapel was added about 80 years after the rest of the building, or in 1330: there is a low tower at the north-west angle containing one bell: the chancel is a fine example of Early English: the whole east end is occupied by five graceful lancets with bold mouldings and slender shafts: the north and south aisles are lighted by triplets of similar character, and on the south side is a rich arcade with light shafts supporting foliated caps and the toothed ornament in the mouldings: one arch of this arcade serves as a priest's doorway, and other arches as sedilia; the remains of ancient stained glass in the eastern windows, representing five figures, were some time since removed to the south window of the chancel; this glass dates from the 13th and 14th centuries, and is the earliest and best preserved for its date of any in the county: in the chancel is a slab inscribed to Risley Risley, 1755: during repairs to the church about 1868, portions of the original tiled paving of the church were discovered, both below the existing floor and in the yard in front, formerly covered by the nave of the conventual church: in the middle of the south aisle, close to the wall, a slab was found, incised with an eight-cusped floriated cross, and with a marginal inscription in Norman-French, which, when perfect, ran, "Sir Jon Giffard gist icy De sa alme Dieu pur sa pitie eit mercy," and supposed to refer to Sir John Giffard, of Twyford, c. 1350; one of the tiles found appears to bear the arms of this family, viz.: 3 silver lions passant, on a field, gules: in or about 1822 the north chapel and the walls of the chancel, except part on the south side, were taken down and rebuilt: there is a tablet to the memory of Sir John Chetwode bart. who died Dec. 17, 1845, and was buried here: there are 120 sittings. The register of baptisms dates from the year 1779, that of marriages from 1756. The living is a vicarage, with that of Barton Hartshorn annexed, joint net yearly value £325, including 3 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of trustees, and held since 1934 by the Rev. Oswald Kenneth Ferguson B.A. of Trinity Hall, Cambridge. There was a priory of Augustine canons, founded either by Bishop Grossete, of Lincoln, in 1240, or by Sir Ralph de Norwich, in 1244, in honour of St. Mary and St. Nicholas: it was dissolved on account of its poverty in 1460 and annexed to the abbey of Notley; but in 1480, on account of the dilapidated state of the parish church, that of the priory was opened for divine worship. The old parish church of St. Martin, which stood a quarter mile east of the priory, was pulled down in the reign of Queen Elizabeth. There was also here a hermitage, dedicated to SS. Stephen and Lawrence, founded by a member of the Chetwode family. The Chetwodes have held this manor from the time of Henry II. and the Rhyne toll custom is traditionally derived from the alleged slaughter of a great wild boar, long the terror of these parts, by one head of the Chetwode family, and this tradition was singularly corroborated in 1810, by the discovery of the remains of a boar of an enormous size beneath a large mound of earth, overgrown with gorse and underwood, in the parish of Barton Hartshorn and within a mile of Chetwode Manor House; the mound was surrounded by a ditch, known to the country people as "Boar's Pond:" these remains, exhibited at Buckingham in 1855, are in the possession of Field Marshal Sir Philip W. Chetwode bart. G.C.B., O.M., G.C.S.I., K.C.M.G., D.S.O., D.L., J.P. the lord of the manor, who claims suit and service by prescriptive right over this place and the neighbouring townships and hamlets of Barton, Tingewick, Preston with Cowley, Hillesden, Gawcott, Lenborough and Bucks Prebend End, and accordingly can require the constables of all these villages, which are said to be included within the limits of an ancient forest of 1,000 acres called Rockwood, to be sworn at his court, held here at Easter. Chetwode Manor House is the residence of Louis Fleischmann esq. C.B.E. Chetwode Priory, mentioned above, was rebuilt in 1832 and brought up-to-date in 1930; a feature of the grounds is the old monks' garden, which still survives; it is the seat of Peter Lindsay esq. O.B.E., M.C. The principal landowner is Field Marshal Sir P. W. Chetwode bart. G.C.B., O.M., G.C.S.I., K.C.M.G., D.S.O., D.L., J.P. The soil is a heavy clay; the greater part of the land is in pasture, the remainder arable. The area is 1,171 acres of land and inland water; the population in 1931 was 128.

CHICHELEY is a small parish on the road from Newport Pagnell to Bedford, $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles north-east from the Newport Pagnell station, and $6\frac{1}{2}$ north-east from the Wolverton station, both of which are on the London, Midland and Scottish railway, and 10 south-west from Bedford, in the Buckingham division of the county, county court district of Bletchley and Leighton Buzzard, hundred, petty sessional division, rural district and rural deanery of Newport, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Newport Pagnell Rural District Council. The church of St. Lawrence is an edifice in the Early English style, and consists of chancel, clerestoried nave of three bays, north aisle, south porch, with a room over it, and a central tower containing a clock and 6 bells, restored and rehung in 1905: the tower is of the time of Henry VII. the aisle dates from that of Richard II. the nave is of the 12th century, and the chancel was erected in the 18th century, and is said to have been designed by Sir Christopher Wren: a vestry was erected at the north of the chancel in 1914. The original holy water stoup remains at the south entrance: there are six stained windows: on the north side of the church, on the floor, is a brass, with effigies to Sir Anthony Cave, a merchant of the staple of Calais, dated 1558, another of remarkable character to Sir Anthony Chester, dated 1635, and a brass, representing a skeleton in a shroud, with a Latin inscription undated, but c. 1560, as well as a mural monument to Anthony Cave, erected in 1576: there is also a mural monument to the Cranmer family: the road above the balustrade of the ringers' gallery was given by Mrs. Easson, wife of the present rector, in 1907 as a memorial to her mother: there are 200 sittings. The register dates from the year 1539, and there is a list of vicars from the year 1264 to the present date. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £250, with residence, in the gift of

A. B. Chester esq. and held since 1903 by the Rev. Utten James Easson M.A. of Jesus College, Cambridge.

In this parish there are three charities; Lady Mansell left a rent-charge of 32s. for distribution every Good Friday and 20s. every St. Thomas' Day to widows and widowers past work; the Rev. Samuel Thomas Townsend, vicar from 1830, left 14 guineas, one half to be distributed on January 1st, the other half on July 1st; and the Rev. William Cotton left £2 18s. 9d. to be distributed on July 1st among the old, poor and infirm. Chicheley Hall, completed in 1704 by Sir John Chester, and now the property of A. B. Chester esq. who is lord of the manor and principal landowner, is a fine mansion of red brick faced with white stone in the Italian style; it is now occupied by the Misses Farrar. Among the treasures preserved here are the seals of Cardinal Wolsey and Archbishop Laud: a MS. believed to be the original composition of Charles I.: a Hebrew MS. of the book of Esther: early editions of Ben Jonson and Hooker: and a curious collection of old tracts, including the "Natural History of the Hanover Bat." One of the rooms of the mansion is wainscoted with oak panelling of a date antecedent to the rest of the house, and over the fireplace is a beam with the inscription, "Cave ne Deum offendas, cave ne proximum lēdas, cave ne tua negligentia familiam deseras, 1550": this wainscot and beam no doubt formed part of a house known to have been built by Anthony Cave, some of the foundations of which may still be traced. A cross was erected in the village in 1921 by public subscription in memory of the men of the parish who lost their lives in the Great War, 1914-18. The soil is clay; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, beans and roots. The area is 2,070 acres; the population in 1931 was 162.

CHILTON is a small village and parish, 4 miles north from Thame station on the Paddington and Oxford section of the Great Western railway, 3 miles south from Wotton stations on the London and North Eastern railway, 3 south-east from Brill and 10 west from Aylesbury, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred and petty sessional division of Ashendon, rural district of Aylesbury, county court district of Thame, rural deanery of Waddesdon, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford.

Electricity is available. The church of St. Mary is an ancient stone edifice in the Early English and Perpendicular styles, and consists of chancel, nave of three bays, south aisle, south transept, south porch, and a low tower with turret on the north side of the nave containing 3 bells: in the exterior east wall is the effigy of a knight in chain mail, placed vertically, and no doubt at some time removed from the interior: in the Croke chapel are some monuments and brasses to the Croke family: that of Sir John Croke, who died in 1608, and Elizabeth, his wife, d. 1611, has recumbent effigies of both, and rising from the altar tomb are columns of black marble supporting a canopy; below are 11 figures of kneeling children; a screen of the 16th century divides this part of the aisle from the rest: the chancel has been thoroughly restored and a stained window (the gift of Mrs. Chetwode) has been placed at the east end: the organ was the gift of Mr. Augustus Chetwode: in 1907 the church was restored by Sir Henry Aubrey-Fletcher bart. (d. 1910), and a new pulpit given by Agnes Lady Aubrey-Fletcher: there are 200 sittings. The register dates from the year 1730. The living is a vicarage, with that of Dorton united, joint net yearly value £420, and residence, in the gift of Maj. Sir Henry Lancelot Aubrey-Fletcher bart. D.S.O., M.V.O., D.L., J.P. two turns and Earl Temple one turn, and held since 1938 by the Rev. Cyril Herbert Charles Edwards A.K.C.L. In 1920 a club, containing a large dancing and concert hall, was erected at a cost of £8,000. This parish has the right of sending inmates to the almshouses at Studley, Oxon. Almond's charity of £36 yearly is for fuel. Chilton House is the property of Maj. Sir Henry Lancelot Aubrey-Fletcher bart. D.S.O., M.V.O., D.L., J.P. who is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The land is principally used for dairy farming, not more than one-third being arable. The soil is loam and clay; subsoil, clay. The area is 2,069 acres; the population in 1931 was 293.

CHOLESBURY-cum-ST. LEONARDS is a civil parish formed by the Bucks Review Order, 1934, comprising the former parishes of Cholesbury and Hawridge, and parts of the parishes of Aston Clinton, Buckland and Drayton Beauchamp; it is in the Aylesbury division of the county, hundred of Cottesloe, rural district of Amersham, petty sessional division and county court district of Chesham. The area is 2,225 acres; the population in 1931 was 735. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Chiltern Hills Spring Water Co.

CHOLESBURY (or Choulesbury) is on the borders of Herts, 4 miles north-west-by-north from Chesham station, on the Metropolitan and London and North Eastern Joint railway, 4 from Tring station on the London, Midland and Scottish railway, and 5 from Berkhamsted, ecclesiastically united with Hawridge, in the rural deanery of Wendover, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. The name is said to be derived from "Ceolweald's-bury," the "fort of the Ceolwealds." The church of St. Lawrence, formerly a chapel of ease to Drayton Beauchamp, is an edifice of dressed flint in the Early English and Decorated styles, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch and a western turret containing one bell: the east, west and south windows are stained: the south porch has an Early English doorway: some pieces of the old font of the same date are now placed at the entrance to the churchyard under the yew arch: there is a piscina in the chancel: the church was restored in 1873: there are 110 sittings. The register dates from the year 1583. The living is a vicarage, united with the rectory of Hawridge, joint net yearly value £380, including 20 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Oxford, who has two turns, and Neale's Trustees, who have one turn, and held since 1938 by the Rev. Barter Alexander Duke M.A., L.Th. of Hatfield Hall, Durham; attached to the living is a lectureship, yearly value £60, in the gift of Mr. Neale's trustees. There is a tolerably regular succession of rectors from 1230 to 1416, after which the vicarage seems to have been served by the Knights of St. John until the Reformation. A parish room, built in 1895, is used during the winter months as a reading room and for club purposes. There is in the parish an ancient "plateau-camp" covering slightly over 15 acres with its defences: the ramparts are over 34 feet high in places, but it appears to have been an early British oppidum, such as is described by Caesar: within its limits is a pond, called "Bury pond," or "the pond of the fort," from which the camp was no doubt supplied with water, and is said never to fail. Malcolm Stewart esq. who is lord of the manor, and the farmers, are the principal landowners. The soil is clay; subsoil chalk. The chief crops are wheat and barley. The population in 1931 was 337.

EAST CLAYDON and BOTOLPH CLAYDON, two villages, half-a-mile apart, are on rising ground and command extensive views of the surrounding country; they form the parish of East Claydon, 1½ miles from Verney Junction station on the Oxford and Bletchley branch of the London, Midland & Scottish railway; the parish is 2½ miles south-west from Winslow and 7 south-east from Buckingham, in the Buckingham division of the county, Ashendon hundred, Winslow petty sessional division and rural district, Buckingham county court district, rural deanery of Claydon, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity and main water are available. The church of St. Mary, at East Claydon, is an ancient fabric of stone in the Decorated and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel, nave, north aisle, south porch and an Early English chapel on the south side which retains a piscina, and an embattled western tower containing a clock and 5 bells, which were recast and rehung in 1929: it was thoroughly restored in 1871, the chancel being restored at the expense of the Rt. Hon. Sir Harry Verney bart. P.C. the patron: there is a monument to the Abel family and a tablet recording the restoration: a stained east window and an oak reredos were erected to the memory of the Rev. Thomas Huntley Greene M.A. vicar 1879-87; there is an illuminated and framed record of the men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18: there are 250 sittings. The register dates from the year 1583. The living is a vicarage annexed to the rectory of Middle Claydon, joint net yearly value £627, with residence, in the gift of Sir Harry C. W. Verney bart. D.S.O. and held since 1931 by the Rev. William Samuel Hazledine M.A. of Queen's College, Oxford, hon. C.F. who resides at Middle Claydon. Near the church is the White House, where Edmund, son of Sir Ralph Verney, lived after his marriage with Mary Abell in 1662. The Free Public Library, opened in 1900, is under the Public Libraries Act of 1892, the cost, about £1,500, being defrayed by Sir Edmund Hope Verney bart. It contains over 4,000 volumes; the building includes an assembly hall, seating 200 persons. There are charities of £8 12s. yearly for distribution; Abell and Griffiths' charity, left in the 18th century, consists of £5 every six years for the apprenticing of boys. The old Manor House, now a farm house, is an edifice of the 17th century. Sir Harry C. W. Verney bart. D.S.O. is lord of the manor and sole landowner. The soil is medium clay loam; subsoil, clay and gravel. The land is chiefly in pasture, dairy farming being largely carried on, but wheat, beans, roots and oats are also grown. The area is 2,396 acres; the population in 1931 was 276.

MIDDLE CLAYDON is a village and parish, 1 mile south-east from Claydon and 2 south-west from Verney Junction stations on the Oxford and Bletchley branch of the London, Midland & Scottish railway, about 3 east from Calvert station on the London and North Eastern railway, 4 west-south-west from Winslow, 6 south-east from Buckingham, 13 north-north-west from Aylesbury, and 56 from London, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred of Ashendon, petty sessional division, rural district and county court district of Buckingham, rural deanery of Claydon, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Claydon House Estate. The church of All Saints is a small edifice of stone in the Decorated and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch and an embattled western tower containing 3 bells; in the church are monuments and brasses to the Verney and Giffard families; among them is a monument to Sir Edmund Verney, Knight Marshal and standard-bearer to King Charles I. who fell at the battle of Edgehill, 23rd Oct. 1642; a Jacobean monument, with kneeling effigies at a desk, to Urian Verney, 1608, and Lettice, his wife, and a brass medallion to the Rt. Hon. Sir Harry Verney bart. P.O., M.P. d. 1894; the chancel was built by Roger Giffard or Gyfford in 1519, and is divided from the nave by a beautiful 16th century carved oak screen, and on its north wall is a brass to him, 1543, and Mary (Verney), his wife, with brass effigies of unusual size, and also of 18 children: there is also a brass with effigy to Alexander Anne, the last chantry priest, 1526, one to Isabel Giffard, 1523, and in the chancel an altar tomb with a recumbent effigy in alabaster to a lady of this family, 1539: a framed roll of honour, beautifully illuminated, records the names of the men connected with the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18: there is a piscina in the south wall of the nave: the church was thoroughly restored in 1871: there are 120 sittings. The register dates from the year 1630. The living is a rectory, with the vicarage of East Claydon annexed, joint net yearly value £627, with residence, in the gift of Sir Harry C. W. Verney bart. D.S.O. and held since 1931 by the Rev. William Samuel Hazledine M.A. of Queen's College, Oxford, hon. O.F. A cemetery of three-quarters of an acre was formed in 1877, at a cost of £250, from land given by Sir Harry Verney 3rd bart. and is under the control of the Parish Council. There are almshouses for six aged persons, erected by Sir Ralph Verney, 1st bart. who died in 1696. Sir Ralph Verney's charity of about 21 acres, producing £48 yearly, and Mrs. Verney's £24 yearly, and Baroness Fermanagh's charity of £12 are all now administered under a scheme issued by the Charity Commissioners; clerk to the trustees, C. B. Rawlings. The free public library, established in 1893 under the Public Libraries Act of 1892, contains about 4,300 volumes. Claydon House, the seat of Sir Harry Calvert Williams Verney bart. D.S.O. lord of the manor and owner of all the land with the exception of a small portion belonging to the railway, is a noble mansion of brick and stone, surrounded by a beautiful park of about 300 acres in which are three fine pieces of water. The soil is clay loam, with beds of sand and gravel; subsoil, clay. The land is chiefly pasture. The area is 2,627 acres of land and 13 of water; the population in 1931 was 160 in the civil and 436 in the ecclesiastical parish. Post Office. Letters through Bletchley. Steeple Claydon nearest M. STEEPLE CLAYDON is a parish and village, with a station half a mile south-east from the village on the Oxford and Bletchley branch of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, 58 miles from London, 5½ miles west from Winslow, 6 south from Buckingham and about 2 miles north-east from Calvert station on the London and North Eastern railway, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred, petty sessional division, rural district and county court district of Buckingham, rural deanery of Claydon, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford; part of the village is pleasantly situate on an eminence commanding an extensive view of the surrounding country; the river Ouse has its source in the neighbourhood and flows through the parish, which was inclosed by Act of Parliament in 1795. Electricity is available. The church of St. Michael is an ancient building of stone, consisting of chancel, nave of three bays, north aisle, transepts, south porch and a tower with spire containing a clock and 6 bells, and was repaired and considerably enlarged in 1842 and 1861: the spire was erected to General Sir Harry Calvert bart. G.C.B., G.C.H. who died 3rd. Sept. 1826: the chancel was restored in 1875, and again in 1930, and has a Decorated east window: a stained glass window was placed in the church by the Rev. C. and Mrs. Bass in memory of their son, Capt. Charles Harold Bass, who lost his life in the Great War, 1914-18: in 1938 a window was dedicated to the Rev. Charles Bass, vicar for over 30 years until 1934: the church was entirely restored in 1930: there are 380 sittings. The register dates from the year 1575, and contains a list of the first twelve vicars between the years 1536 and 1741. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £325, including 55 acres of

glebe, with residence, in the gift of Sir Harry C. W. Verney bart. D.S.O. and held since 1934 by the Rev. George Francis Clement Dobson M.A. of Sidney Sussex College and Ridley Hall, Cambridge. The Methodist chapel, built in 1862 and enlarged in 1893, will seat 130 persons. The Temperance Hall is a small building formerly used as a day school for boys. The Village Hall and Library, controlled by the Parish Council, was erected in 1902 at a cost of £1,600, by Sir Edmund Hope Verney bart.; it is a red brick building with reading and billiard rooms, and a large hall with stage for entertainments; the library contains 4,500 volumes, and let into the wall, in a stone frame, is a cheque for £50 presented by Miss Florence Nightingale for this library. Mary (Verney), Baroness Fermanagh in her own right, who died 15th Nov. 1810, left £4 10s. yearly for apprenticing. Miss Martha Rogers also left a sum of money, which the Rev. L. J. Kenyon-Stow, vicar here 1895-1901, invested in the Radcliffe Infirmary, Oxford, for the parishioners of Steeple Claydon not receiving poor-law relief. The Camp, the residence of Peter Bell esq. J.P. is a modern structure of brick in the Early English style, erected on the site where the Parliamentary army under Cromwell encamped in March, 1644, previous to the attack on Hillesden house; in the wall of the coach house is a brass recording the fact; the house is pleasantly situated at the summit of the village and commanding extensive views of the surrounding country. Sir Harry C. W. Verney bart. D.S.O. great-grandson of Gen. Sir H. Calvert bart. who assumed the name of Verney on succeeding to the estates of the Baroness Fermanagh, is lord of the manor. The chief landowners are Sir Harry Calvert Williams Verney bart. D.S.O. and the Bucks County Council. The soil is heavy loam; subsoil, clay. Most of the land is used for grazing dairy cattle, but wheat, oats and beans are grown to a small extent. The area is 3,321 acres of land and 8 of water; the population in 1931 was 708.

CLIFTON REYNES is a small parish on an eminence overlooking the river Ouse and the town of Olney, nearby where there is a station on the Bedford and Northampton branch of the London, Midland & Scottish railway; the parish is 6 miles north-north-east from Newport Pagnell and 10 west from Bedford, in the Buckingham division of the county, county court district of Northampton, hundred, rural district and rural deanery of Newport, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Newport Pagnell Rural District Council. The church of St. Mary the Virgin is an edifice of stone, chiefly in the Decorated style, consisting of chancel with north chapel separated from it by an arcade of two arches, nave, aisles, south porch and an embattled western tower containing 6 bells, rehung in 1905; the chancel retains a piscina and sedilia; in the north chancel aisle, which is known as the Reynes aisle, is a low altar tomb of Decorated work placed under a canopied arch, with good hanging tracery, upon which recline two figures carved in oak, representing a knight in armour of the early 14th century, with crossed legs, his head resting on two cushions and his feet on a dog; the left hand holds the scabbard, and the right grasps the sword: the other figure is that of a lady in wimple, veil, and a sleeveless gown, falling in folds to her feet; the monument has neither date, inscription nor armorial bearings, but is assumed to commemorate Sir Ralph Reynes (1310) and Amabel, his wife: under the easternmost arch of the chancel arcade is an extremely elegant altar tomb of soft white stone, supporting two recumbent effigies, boldly and elaborately executed in the same material; the figure of the knight is habited in chain and plate armour, over which is a jupon emblazoned with the arms of Reynes; that of the lady has a reticulated headdress and veil, and a long flowing robe; there is neither date nor inscription, but the tomb is supposed to be that of Sir John Reynes and his first wife, Catherine (Scudamore); each side of the tomb is richly sculptured and divided by buttresses into eight lofty niches with canopies, over which runs a hollow cornice; under the westernmost arch is a third altar tomb, ornamented on each side with five shields surrounded with tracery, upon which are two other recumbent effigies carved in oak and much resembling the first two, the male figure bearing a shield; this tomb, like the former, is undated and has no inscription; it is about 1325, and bears on the south side quarterings of the arms of Green and Drayton and on the north side the arms and quarterings of the Chamberlain family; there is also a brass to Sir John Reynes, with effigy and an inscription dated 1428; and another with shrouded effigies to a man and his wife, c. 1590, and perhaps representing John Reynes and Agnes his 2nd wife; the north or Reynes chapel is now a memorial chapel to five men from this parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18: it contains a carved oak screen, on the panels of which are engraved the five names: a new high altar of stone, erected in 1923, is also a memorial to these men: the octagonal stone font is ornamented on each side with the figure of a saint under a Gothic canopy; in the church are several marble tablets to the memory of the Small family, who formerly possessed this place, and there is a tablet to James West Scorer, erected in 1938; there are traces of ancient colour decoration over the chancel arch; the eastern end of the south aisle is pierced by a hagioscope: the Wake chapel here was originally part of the old Manor of Clifton, and dates from the time of the Conquest: the church was restored in 1883-4, and in 1905 a new arch was added in the north chancel; the two windows in the north aisle were renewed in 1939: the church affords 150 sittings. The register dates from the year 1653. The living is a rectory, with that of Newton Blossomville annexed, joint net yearly value £700, and residence, in the gift of A. M. Sutthery esq. and Denis H. Farrer esq. J.P. alternately, and held since 1901 by the Rev. Christopher William Fullmer M.A. of St. Edmund Hall, Oxford, rural dean of Newport, and surrogate. Kite's closes, containing 19 acres, annexed to the rectory, were originally given to maintain a lamp burning in the church; the income, amounting to about £12 a year, is subject to a charge, varying in amount, for bread, cheese and ale, supplied to the parishioners about old St. Stephen's day; this custom is still in force, and residue of the rent, usually estimated at £6, is retained by the rector; the parish allotment produces £4 yearly. W. F. Finn-Kelcey esq. is the principal landowner. The soil is gravel, stone and loam; subsoil, chiefly stone. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats, beans and turnips. The area is 1,443 acres of land and 11 of water; the population in 1931 was 104.

COLD BRAYFIELD is a small parish on the river Ouse and borders of Bedfordshire, 2 miles from Turvey (Beds), on the Bedford and Northampton branch of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, 8 west from Bedford, 8 north-east from Newport Pagnell and 13 from Northampton, in the Buckingham division of the county, county court district of Northampton, hundred, petty sessional division, rural district and rural deanery of Newport, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. The church of St. Mary is a small ancient edifice of stone of Norman date, consisting of chancel and nave, south porch and a low tower containing 3 bells: the stained east window was presented by Lady Tierney, widow of Sir Matthew Edward Tierney, 3rd and last bart. who died in Dec. 1860, in memory of her parents; and in 1902 a brass was placed in the chancel to George Denis Farrer esq. (d. 1901), by his sister, Lady Tierney: the church was restored in 1881, and further restoration was carried out in 1893: there are 100 sittings. The register dates from the year 1693. The living is annexed to the rectory of Lavendon, joint net yearly value £280, in the gift of H. G. R. Soames esq. and held since 1933 by the Rev. George Edward Fermor Leggatt, who resides at Lavendon. Brayfield House is the residence of Maj. Denis Herbert Farrer J.P. who is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is various; subsoil, stone, gravel and clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley and beans. The area is 737 acres of land and 7 of water; the population in 1931 was 92.

COLESHILL, see Amersham.

COLNBROOK, formerly a municipal borough and market town, is an ecclesiastical parish, formed 1853 out of the parishes of Stanwell, in the county of Middlesex, and Horton and Langley St. Mary, or Langley Marish, and Iver, in Bucks, on the road to Slough and Maidenhead, and has a station on the Staines branch of the Great Western railway; it is 2 miles south-east from Langley station on the main line of the Great Western railway, 33 south-east from Slough, 5 east from Windsor, 22 from Reading and 17 from London, in the Wycombe division of the county, hundred and petty sessional division of Stoke. county court districts of Windsor and Uxbridge, rural deanery of Burnham, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Gas and electricity are available. Water is supplied by the Slough Water Co. The river Colne runs through the town, dividing the counties of Middlesex and Bucks. The town was incorporated in the reign of Henry VIII. 1543, and the charter was renewed in 1632, but the corporation and market have long since become obsolete. The old church of St. Mary, not now existing, stood on another site, and was built in 1790 to replace a still earlier building. The church of St. Thomas, erected in 1849 and completely renovated in 1926, is an edifice of flint in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, with oak stalls, nave of four bays, north aisle, west porch and a western bell gable containing one bell: the original clock, supposed to be of considerable antiquity, is on the bell gable of the existing church: it was the gift of the 1st Duke of Marlborough when his mansion here was pulled down, on his taking possession of Blenheim: the chancel is divided from the nave by a carved oak screen of Flamboyant design, erected in 1880: the east window, two Early English windows on the south and one on the north side are stained: the reredos—a triptych—is carved in dark oak, relieved by a profusion of gilding: the communion table is of white cedar, elaborately carved, made from wood brought from Lebanon for the purpose by Dr. Alfred Meadows, of Poyle Manor, at whose expense the reredos, screen and stalls were also erected and the mural decoration carried out: the pulpit, of carved oak on a marble base, was erected in memory of Dr. Meadows, who died in 1887: the War Memorial chapel in the north aisle was consecrated in 1934, in honour of those who fell in the Great War, 1914-18: it has an English altar under a carved oak beam carrying the four quarters of the Royal Standard on medallions, with a centre medallion representing the Lamb of God: the names of the fallen are carved on the pillar, which is formed into the south side of the chapel: there are 543 sittings. The churchyard was closed for burials by Order in Council, in 1909. The register dates from the year 1760. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £380, with 4 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Oxford, and held since 1932 by the Rev. John Alfred Hultgren A.K.C.L. There is a lectureship, value £80, connected with the Townshend foundation at Pembroke College, Oxford. The Baptist chapel here, built in 1708, will seat 275 persons; there is also a Methodist chapel. The charities for distribution amount to £42 yearly. Messrs. Sykes Bros. Rayner Bros. and Richard Rayner esq. are the principal landowners. The soil is loam: subsoil, gravel. The chief crops are wheat, oats and barley. The population in 1931 was 1,781.

COWLEY, see Preston Bissett.

CRAFTON, see Wing.

NORTH CRAWLEY is a parish and village on an eminence on the borders of Bedfordshire, $\frac{3}{4}$ miles east from Newport Pagnell terminal station of a branch of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, $\frac{6}{8}$ from Olney station on the Bedford and Northampton branch of the same railway, 11 south-west from Bedford and 18 from Northampton, in the Buckingham division of the county, county court district of Bletchley and Leighton Buzzard, hundred, petty sessional division, rural district and rural deanery of Newport Pagnell, arch-deaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Newport Pagnell Rural District Council. The church of St. Firmin, first bishop of Amiens (one of the only two in England so named, the other being in Lincolnshire), is a very ancient edifice of stone, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave of five bays on the south side and four on the north, aisles, south porch and an embattled western tower, containing a clock and 6 bells: the whole external appearance of the nave is Perpendicular: the chancel is Early Decorated, with an east window of three lights and Geometrical tracery: on the south side is a double piscina and near it a fine doorway, with shafts and mouldings on the outside; the roofs of both nave and chancel are open-timbered and of the Perpendicular period with moulded ribs and bosses: the piers and arches of the nave arcades are Early Decorated, some of the former being octagonal and others clustered: the chancel is said to have been built by Peter de Guildford, rector, who died in 1321: on the outside wall, under the east window, is this inscription:—

"Petrus cancellum tibi dat Firmine novellum Ut cum lauderis Deo, Petri memoreris."

A finely carved oak screen remains in a perfect state and is a rich specimen of open screen work of the Decorated period; the whole screen is divided into sixteen compartments and in the panels at the base are painted as many figures, well drawn and in excellent condition, representing royal and ecclesiastical personages, and all, with the exception of the four on the doors, carry inscribed scrolls; there is also an ancient stone octagonal font covered by a carved oak canopy bearing the date 1635 and the initials T.L.: on the south wall of the chancel is a brass to John Garbrand D.D. 1589, a former rector; in the floor is another to Thomas Hackett esq. 1689; a third is recorded to Robert Latymer esq. 1547, and Catherine his wife, and one to Elizabeth, wife of Nicholls Hackett esq. 1690, and on the chancel floor a memorial to Elizabeth (d. 1687), wife, first of Thomas Giffard (d. 1638) and secondly of Thomas White: there are 260 sittings, partly free. The register of baptisms and burials commences in 1558, marriages 1565, and there is a list of the names of the rectors from 1294 to the present time. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £283, with 30 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of Reginald Harvey esq. and held since 1933 by the Rev. Collett John Tovey M.A. of Hatfield College, Durham. By the lych gate of St. Firmin a stone cross was erected in 1919 by the parishioners and J. I. Boswell esq. M.D., J.P. as a memorial to 16 men of this parish who lost their lives in the Great War; their names are inscribed on the base. There is a Congregational chapel, erected in 1821, with 200 sittings. The Village Hall, built in 1910, will seat 150; there is also an Institute, which is used as a village club. A cemetery of half an acre was formed in 1885 at a cost of £200, but without a mortuary chapel; it is under the control of the Parish Council. Bryan's charity of £7 16s. 4d. yearly is for apprenticing and there is £6 5s. 4d. from the same charity for clothing: there is the town lands charity of £20 a year for public uses and one of £5 for bread. Crawley Grange, now the property and residence of Ian Irvine Boswell esq. was once connected with a priory at Hardmead. The house is said to have been built by Cardinal Wolsey, and it certainly belongs to that period. It was confiscated by Henry VIII. and passed into the hands of the Hackett family, by whom it was sold to the family of Selby-Lowndes, who again transferred it to Thomas David Boswell, a younger brother of Johnson's biographer: the park is about 40 acres in extent and the estate comprises about 1,500 acres in the parishes of North Crawley and Astwood. The Moat farm, anciently the Manor House, is enclosed by a moat. Ian Irvine Boswell esq. is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is strong clay; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, oats and beans. The area is 3,366 acres; the population in 1931 was 482.

CRESLOW is a parish $1\frac{1}{4}$ miles north-east from Whitchurch, about 5 miles south-east from Winslow station on the Oxford and Bletchley section of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, 11 miles south-east from Buckingham, and 6 from Aylesbury, in the Aylesbury division of the county, hundred of Cottesloe, petty sessional division of Winslow, rural district and county court district of Aylesbury. Creslow contains but two cottages and one farmhouse. The farmhouse is the ancient manor house of the time of Edward III. formerly in possession of the Knights Templars of the order of St. John of Jerusalem: it retains an octagonal tower and a groined undercroft. The church, desecrated during the Civil War, is now used as a coach house: the north doorway is a fine example of Norman work. A stone discovered here in 1903 bears the date 1341. The rectory was suppressed by Queen Elizabeth. The inhabitants attend the church at Whitchurch. Lord Clifford of Chudleigh is sole landowner. The soil varies; the uplands are rich loam resting on beds of limestone; the valleys are strong clay. The area is 887 acres of excellent pasture land, one pasture known as Great Ground measures 320 acres; the population in 1931 was 6.

CUBLINGTON is a village and parish on rising ground and commanding an extensive view of the surrounding country, 6 miles south-west from Leighton Buzzard and 7 miles south-east from Winslow station on the London, Midland and Scottish railway and 7 north-north-east from Aylesbury, in the Aylesbury division of the county, hundred of Cottesloe, petty sessional division of Linslade, rural district of Wing, county court district of Aylesbury, rural deanery of Mursley, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. The church of St. Nicholas is an edifice of stone in the Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, nave, with west gallery, south porch and an embattled western tower containing 2 bells and a clock added in 1927: in the church is a copy of "Foxe's Book of Martyrs," which was formerly chained to the desk on which it was placed in 1568: a brass in the chancel commemorates John Dervyle, 1410, first rector of the church: the church, partly restored in 1861, was repaired externally and furnished with a new tiled roof during the year 1887: on the north wall is a marble tablet bearing the names of those men of the parish who lost their lives in the Great War, 1914-18: the church was again restored in 1927: there are 120 sittings. The register dates from the year 1556. The living is a vicarage, united to that of Aston Abbots, joint net yearly value £400, with residence, in the gift of the Rector and Fellows of Lincoln College, Oxford (two turns) and the Overstone Trust (one turn), and held since 1934 by the Rev. Cecil White Morris M.A. of Lincoln College, Oxford, who resides at Aston Abbots. The Methodist chapel, built in 1850, will seat 80 persons. J. Westear esq. of the adjoining parish of Creslow, by his will, dated 1832, left £500 in trust, the interest to be given away in clothes to the most necessitous and deserving poor, the distribution to be made by the resident clergyman and the occupier of Creslow jointly. In a field at the west end of the village is the site of the ancient village and church, marked now by a large fortified mound and traces of foundations. Maj. Lionel Nathan de Rothschild O.B.E., J.P. is lord of the manor and chief landowner. The soil is loamy; subsoil, clay. The land is chiefly pasture; some wheat, barley and oats are grown. The area is 1,223 acres; the population in 1931 was 130.

CUDDINGTON is a parish on the river Thame, about 4½ miles north-east from Thame station on the Maidenhead and Oxford section of the Great Western railway and 2 north-west from Haddenham station on the London and North Eastern and Great Western Joint railway, 6½ south-west from Aylesbury, in the Aylesbury division of the county, hundred, petty sessional division, county court district, rural district and rural deanery of Aylesbury, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Chiltern Hills Water Co. The church of St. Nicholas is an ancient building of stone in mixed styles, chiefly Early English and Decorated, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, south porch and an embattled western tower with turret, containing a clock and 6 bells: there is an elegant alabaster reredos: all the windows in the chancel are stained, one being a memorial to John Franklin esq.: in the south aisle is a piscina: the font and south doorway are Late Norman: there is a memorial to Nicholas Almond esq. ob. 1643, a benefactor mentioned below: the church was thoroughly restored in 1857 and affords 275 sittings. At the entrance to the churchyard is a Cornish granite cross, of ancient design, erected to the memory of the men of the parish who gave their lives in the Great War, 1914-18: the names are inscribed on the base of the cross. The register dates from the year 1651. The living, united with Dinton, is a vicarage, net yearly value £500, with 22½ acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Rochester two turns, and the Lord Chancellor one turn, and held since 1931 by the Rev. Claudius William Chisnell Drury M.A. of Pembroke College, Oxford: the vicarage house was erected in 1934. The Methodist chapel, rebuilt in 1894, will seat 100 persons; the Baptist chapel, built in 1831, will seat 160. The Rev. John Willis, a former vicar, left the interest of £600 Consols to be laid out in coals to be distributed to the poor of the parish every January. A piece of freehold land, about 6 acres, producing £13 a year, clear of tithes and rates, was left to the poor of the parish by Nicholas Almond esq. of Thame, who died in 1643, and this sum is now distributed in money at Easter. Near the church stands a considerable portion of an old house of the late 16th century formerly the residence of a branch of the Tyringham family and still the property of their heirs; it is occupied as a village clubroom; the panelling of the dining-room has been removed. Bernard Hall, near the church, was built in 1929 by Lt.-Col. F. T. Higgins Bernard D.L., J.P. as a memorial to his grandfather, Sir Thomas Tyringham Bernard bart. and his parents, J. N. Higgins Q.C., D.L., J.P. and Mrs. Higgins. Mrs. F. T. Higgins Bernard is the principal landowner. The soil is mostly light loam; subsoil, mostly ragstone. The chief crops are wheat, barley and turnips. The area is 1,297 acres of land and 11 of water; the population in 1931 was 418.

DATCHET (or Datchet St. Helen's) is a parish and village with a station on the Windsor branch of the Southern railway, 21 miles from London by rail and 20 by road, $1\frac{1}{2}$ east from Eton and $1\frac{1}{2}$ north-by-east from Windsor, in the Wycombe division of the county, hundred and petty sessional division of Stoke, rural district of Eton, county court district of Windsor, rural deanery of Burnham, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford; it is prettily seated on the north bank of the Thames, which is spanned here by two bridges—the Victoria Bridge, of one arch, connecting it with Windsor, and a reinforced concrete bridge built in 1924 to replace the Albert Bridge, of two unequal span arches, connecting it with Old Windsor; the view from either is of great interest and beauty, comprising Windsor Castle, Eton College, the Royal Park and the windings of the river. Gas and electricity are available. Water is supplied by the Slough Corporation. The church of St. Mary is a building of stone in the Decorated style, and was rebuilt on an enlarged plan on the former site in 1857-60; it consists of chancel, nave of five bays, aisles, south porch, north transept (recently converted into the sanctuary of a side chapel) and an octagonal tower with spire on the east side of the north transept and containing a clock and 5 bells: all the windows are stained, three being memorials to H.R.H. the Prince Consort: there is a brass to Katherine Lady Berkeley, ob. 1559, and one to Richard Hanbery, 1593, and Ales, his wife, with kneeling effigies: an oak reredos was erected in 1906 as a memorial to the Rev. Canon J. H. Thompson, vicar 1868-1902: there are 650 sittings. In the churchyard is a Celtic cross erected by the women of this parish in memory of Datchet men who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. The register dates from the year 1559. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £400, with residence, in the gift of the Dean and Canons of Windsor, and held since 1923 by the Rev. Thomas Reginald Russell Potter M.A. of Merton College, Oxford, and rural dean of Burnham. The Baptist chapel, built in 1841, is endowed, and will seat 60 persons. The Cemetery, situated on the common, comprises two acres of land given by the Dowager Duchess of Buccleuch, and has one mortuary chapel, erected at the cost of Mrs. John Crane; the cemetery is under the control of a burial board of five members, formed in 1895. The Working Men's Club, known until its enlargement in 1888 as the Village Hall, was opened Nov. 7, 1881 by Princess Christian. The Volunteer Fire Brigade consists of a chief officer and 14 men. In the centre of the village is a drinking fountain and trough, erected in 1886 by Lady Georgiana Needham, of Datchet, and a stone cross, 25 feet in height, erected at the cost of Mrs. John Crane in commemoration of the Diamond Jubilee of Queen Victoria in 1897. There is also a memorial here, erected in 1920, to the men of the parish, who fell during the Great War, 1914-18. The Robert Barker's Bridge House Trust consists of an inn and a house and 6a. 2r. 20p. producing £456 yearly for the maintenance and repair of the fabric of the parish church and defraying the cost of specified parish expenses: the poor's land of 5a. 2r. produces £27 yearly, and there are several small charities amounting to £25. Near the Albert Bridge are some remains of St. Helen's priory. F. Barker esq. and the Commissioners of Woods and Forests are the principal landowners. The soil is very fertile loam; subsoil, gravel. The chief crops are wheat, oats and barley. The area is 1,649 acres of land and inland water; the population in 1931 was 2,519.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, part of Stoke Poges was added to this parish, and parts transferred to Horton and Wraysbury.

DENHAM, see Quainton.

DENHAM is a parish and village with a station on the Great Western and London and North Eastern Joint railway, $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles north-west from Uxbridge terminal station on the Great Western railway, 7 north-east from Slough and 7 south-east from Beaconsfield. in the Wycombe division of the county, hundred and petty sessional division of Stoke, rural district of Eton, county court district of Uxbridge, rural deanery of Amersham, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford; the Grand Junction canal passes through here and the river Colne separates the parish from Middlesex. The church of St. Mary, standing in a churchyard planted with and surrounded by fine trees, is a Perpendicular building of flint, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave of three bays, aisles and an embattled western tower containing a clock and 8 bells: the east window and two lancet windows are stained: the font is ancient: there are several monuments of the Peckhams, including one with recumbent figures, dated 1564, to Sir Edmund Peckham, cofferer in the King's house, knighted 18 Oct. 1537, and Anne his wife; there is another to Sir Robert Peckham, knighted 1553, privy councillor to Queen Mary, who died in 1569, being then on his travels, and was buried in the church of St. Gregory at Rome, his heart being deposited at Denham, pursuant to his own request; there is also a monument to Sir Roger Hill kt. 1729, several tablets to the Bowyer family, baronets, of Denham Court, a brass to Agnes Jordan, last Abbess of Sion, in the parish of Isleworth, Middlesex, who was buried here in 1545, another of the 15th century to Walter Durdent, his two wives and 21 children, and a palimpsest brass, long supposed to have been lost: the earlier figure on the reverse side is that of a friar, in gown and hood, with his hands folded within his sleeves and a knotted cord hanging from his girdle, but his feet have been cut off; below is an inscription in Latin to John Pyke, a native of Langport, between the letters M.J.P.S. perhaps for "Johannes Pyke Magister Scholæ;" the date is c. 1440; the figure on the obverse side is that of a lady in a long-sleeved robe and pedimental head-dress, and below an inscription to Amphilis, daughter of Sir Edward Peckham kt. d. 13 March, 1445; under this is a quartered shield of arms; there is also a brass effigy of a priest, 1612, and a slab incised with a figure of a man in a gown, to Philip Edelen, 1656: the south wall exhibits remains of a painting: the Early English font has an octagonal basin, supported on a central shaft surrounded by eight smaller ones: there are 250 sittings. The register dates from the year 1564. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £730, including 40 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of Roger Way esq. and held since 1939 by the Rev. Charles Parry Way M.A. of St. John's College, Cambridge. The Methodist chapel here was opened in 1820. The old school, a picturesque building on the north side of the churchyard, is now a private residence, and there are several interesting old houses in the village. Biddle's and Stanley's charities each produce £12 yearly. Denham Court, is reached through a fine avenue of limes; tradition gives this as the place where Charles II. was once concealed by Margaret (Weld), wife of Sir William Bowyer, 1st bart. Denham Place, the residence of Sir Robert Gilbert Vansittart G.C.B., G.C.M.G., M.V.O. is a fine example of a house finished in 1700, with original plaster-work and other fittings, and was anciently the abode of the Peckham family, and retains some good tapestry; the house, known as Savehay, the residence of Sir Oswald Ernald Mosley bart. is an excellent example of a timber-framed house of the 14th and 15th centuries.

Roger Way esq. is lord of the manor. The principal land-owners are the Buckinghamshire County Council and Sir Robert Gilbert Vansittart G.C.B., G.C.M.G., M.V.O. The soil is loam and gravel; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are oats, barley and wheat, and some land is in pasture. The area is 4,033 acres of land and inland water; the population in 1931 was 2,597, including Denham New Town.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, part of Gerrard's Cross was added, and part of Denham transferred to that parish.

DINTON (in Domesday "Dunigton" or "Donyngton") is a parish. 17 miles in circumference, 4 miles south-west from Aylesbury station, 3½ miles north-east from Haddenham station on the London and North Eastern and Great Western Joint railway, 4 south-west from Aylesbury and 5½ north-east from Thame, in the Aylesbury division of the county, hundred, petty sessional division, rural district, county court district and rural deanery of Aylesbury, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford.

Electricity is available. The church of SS. Peter and Paul is an ancient building of stone, chiefly in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, south aisle and a massive embattled western tower, with octagonal turret rising over the parapet, and containing 6 bells, and south porch; an arcade of five Early English arches on octagonal piers separates the nave and aisle: the south doorway is Norman, and is ornamented with zigzag and billet mouldings and spiral shafts: in the tympanum, inclosed with an intertwined guilloche, is a rude carving of two wyverns devouring fruit from a tree, and below these another rude carving of St. Michael thrusting a cross into the mouth of a winged monster, a kind of dragon: there are also two inscriptions: in the chancel are two piscinæ and a hagiocope, and there is a piscina in the south aisle: the pulpit dates from 1600; an old oak table, dated 1606, and a chest dated 1612, are still preserved: the porch is Perpendicular and the font Early Decorated: the whole edifice was restored in 1868, when the chancel was almost entirely rebuilt, and the east window, a fine triplet of lancets, widely separated, filled with stained glass, partly under the direction of Lady Eastlake, to the memory of the Rev. John Harrison, vicar 1833-65, and other members of his family, 1853-68, and presented by his daughter, Mrs. Acton Tindal, of the Manor house, Aylesbury: the west window was erected by Mr. Sackville Phelps to his wife, Matilda (Goodall), 1867: there is also a memorial window placed by the Rev. Charles Henry Burton M.A. vicar, 1869-79 and Lydia Helen, his wife, to their daughter, Emilie Lydia, 1871: the ancient monuments, formerly in the chancel, were re-erected in the tower: the brasses, now in the south aisle, include one to the father of Simon Mayne, one of the judges who condemned King Charles I. and Colubery, his wife, 1617-28: there are others to John Compton, 1424, and wife; Thomas Grenewey and wife, 1539, both figures headless; Richard Greenway, 1551 and Joan, his wife; John Lee, of Morton, 1500; William Lee and Alice, his wife, 1486; Francis Lee, 1558, and his wife; and Elenor, wife of Sir Thomas Lee, of Morton, 1633: the communion plate includes two flagons, given by Sir John Vanhattem knt in 1772, and a salver given by Thomas Ingoldsby and Benjamin Gatton, vicar, in 1721: the old pews were replaced with fine open seats, under the superintendence of G. E. Street esq. R.A., F.S.A. diocesan architect, and the church reopened December 8th, 1868, by the Bishop of Oxford: there are 350 sittings: in the churchyard are remains of a cross. At the entrance to the churchyard is a cross of Portland stone, resting on a bed of concrete with three steps leading up to the base, on which are inscribed the names of the men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. The register dates from the year 1562. The living, united with Cuddington, is a vicarage, net yearly value £500, in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Rochester two turns and the Lord Chancellor one turn and held since 1931 by the Rev. Claudius William Chisnell Drury M.A. of Pembroke College, Oxford, who resides at Cuddington. The Baptist chapel, erected in 1847, is now used as a reading room &c. and there is a Baptist Mission hall, built in 1883, with 150 sittings. The Raper charity realizes about £46 yearly, and is principally devoted to the support of the school. In 1881 Mrs. E. Goodall left by will the sum of £200, the interest producing £5 ros. for the use of the poor. In 1927 Maj. Malcolm Goodall gave a site for a new village hall. Dinton Hall, the property of Maj. Malcolm Goodall and the residence of Sir William Crawford Currie B.A., C.A. is picturesquely seated near the church and surrounded by an old-fashioned herbaceous garden; the mansion exhibits various styles of domestic architecture; the north front, with its gables, mullioned windows and noble chimney shafts, seems to indicate a Jacobean origin; the south front is later: some carved stone work in the cellar is said to date from the time of Edward the Confessor and there is no doubt a house has existed on the same site from very early times: this house is an object of great interest both from its historical associations and on account of the various antiquities which have been discovered in the neighbourhood and now preserved in Aylesbury Museum: the manor was formerly held by Simon Mayne, one of the judges of the Commission Court at the trial of King Charles I. to whose death warrant he affixed his signature and seal; at the Restoration he concealed himself in Dinton Hall, but afterwards surrendered, and was tried with other regicides at the Old Bailey, October 16th, 1660, and committed to the Tower, where he died in the following year, and was buried in the church, April 18th, 1661; in 1727, Simon Mayne, his grandson, sold the manor to John Vanhattem esq. father of Sir John Vanhattem, knighted by George III. January 23rd, 1761, and from whom Maj. Goodall is descended; amongst other curiosities in the house is a basket-hilted sword used by Cromwell at the battle of Naseby: in the windows are heraldic shields of William Warham, Archbishop of Canterbury (1503-33) and of the Poynings and Dayrell families, the royal arms of Henry VIII. and another coat unknown, but they are not old.

John Bigg, better known as the "Dinton Hermit," was employed as joint secretary to Simon Mayne, the regicide, and Col. Dick Ingoldsby, also a regicide, of Waldridge, in this parish; he was brought up for the medical profession, and is popularly believed to have been the actual executioner of Charles I.; after the Restoration he became melancholy, and betaking himself to a reclusive life, dwelt for many years in a cave underground in this parish without ever changing his clothes, which he mended by placing pieces of cloth or leather over the decayed parts; one of his shoes preserved at the hall was thus mended till the leather became more than tenfold its original thickness: the fellow to it Sir John Vanhattem gave to the Ashmolean Museum at Oxford, where it still remains. The Dinton Album, commenced in 1772 by Sir John Vanhattem, contains a statistical account of the parish from the MSS. of Browne Willis and others, together with paintings by Mr. Britten, architect, and the Rev. William Goodall. Near the Aylesbury and Thame road is a small ruin called Dinton Castle, built in 1765, as a summer house for Sir John Vanhattem, and surrounded by fir trees. During the summer of 1852 excavations were made on the site by the late J. G. Akerman esq. F.S.A. and on 14th June a number of skeletons were discovered; the spot was further explored during the following October by the late Rev. James Joseph Goodall M.A. of Dinton Hall, and other skeletons were met with, as well as a quantity of broken pottery and a kind of well, 5 or 6 feet deep, closely packed with stones; in digging the foundations of the now ruinous building called "Dinton Castle," a number of skeletons, arms of various descriptions, a very beautiful Saxon drinking glass and a glass bottle of the time of Edward II. were exhumed. The "fritillaria meleagris," or snake's head lily, grows abundantly at Waldridge. There are seven sub-manors in the parish. Sir Wm. Currie B.A., C.A. who is lord of the manor, Lt.-Col. F. W. Watson M.C., M.A., LL.B. and Mr. Frederick Abbott Roads are the chief landowners. The soil is clay, sand and limestone; subsoil, limestone and clay. In many parts of the parish, between the surface and the rock, is a deposit of friable lime varying from one to several feet in thickness, generally known as the "Wych earth," but more commonly called "Dinton marble;" when puddled with water and chopped straw it is used for the walls of cottages and out-houses. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats, beans, turnips and a large proportion of grass. The area is 3,886 acres of land and 11 of water; the population in 1931 was 606.

FORD is a scattered hamlet belonging to this parish, situated $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles south of the village, and contains a Baptist chapel, erected in 1716 and enlarged in 1852, to seat 250 persons. The Mission hall at Dinton was erected in 1847, and has 120 sittings. In the wall near the letter box at Ford is a stone tablet, erected in memory of the men of the parish who gave their lives in the Great War, 1914-18.

DODDERSHALL, see Quainton.

DORNEY is a village and parish on the north bank of the Thames, $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles south-east from Taplow station on the main line of the Great Western railway, 2 west from Eton and 3 north-west from Windsor, in the Wycombe division of the county, hundred and petty sessional division of Burnham, rural district of Eton, county court district of Windsor, rural deanery of Burnham, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Burnham, Dorney and Hitcham Waterworks Coy. Ltd. The church of St. James consists of chancel, nave, north chapel, south porch and an embattled western tower of the Tudor period, containing 4 bells: portions of the church date from the 12th century: there is a vest gallery, bearing the date 1634: the font is Norman: the east window is stained: in the north chapel is a fine monument with effigies of Sir William Garrard kt. ob. Nov. 17, 1607, his wife and their 15 children: under the gallery is a small stained glass window which contains a picture of Charles I. inserted in his honour in accordance with the will of J. H. Moriarty, Lieut. R.G.A. who was killed in action in 1915: there is a litany desk presented to the church in memory of five men connected with the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18; on this desk is a brass plate with the names of the men inscribed: there are 100 sittings. The register dates from the year 1538.

The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £340, with residence, in the gift of Capt. Philip Palmer, and held since 1930 by the Rev. Richard Fitz-Thomas Fleming M.A. of Trinity College, Dublin. Mrs. Parker Sedding left money producing £10 16s. 4d. yearly for the poor, and Mrs. Elizabeth Sedding, money yielding £7 10s. 4d. yearly for poor widows. Dorney Court is an ancient mansion, retaining the great hall of the 15th century and other original work; some of the fireplaces, wood-work &c. have been brought from elsewhere; it contains many old historical portraits, and an illuminated pedigree of the Palmer family, who have been the owners since 1629, the present representative being Capt. Philip Palmer, who is lord of the manor. Eton College and Capt. Philip Palmer are the principal landowners. The soil is light; subsoil, gravel. The chief crops are oats, wheat, barley, peas and beans. The area is 1,378 acres of land and inland water; the population in 1931 was 497.

By the Slough Urban District (Extension) Order, 1929, part of this parish was transferred to the parish and urban district of Slough.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, the new parish of Dorney was formed comprising those parts of the former parish not transferred to Burnham, that part of Boveney not transferred to Eton, and part of Hitcham.

DORTON is a pleasant village and parish, bounded on the north-west by Chinkwell Wood, $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles south-west from Wotton station on the London and North Eastern and Great Western Joint railway, 6 north from Thame, and about 11 west from Aylesbury, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred and petty sessional division of Ashendon, rural district of Aylesbury, county court district of Thame, rural deanery of Waddesdon, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. The church of St. John the Baptist is a small building of stone, in the Decorated style, consisting of chancel, nave, south aisle, south porch and a western turret covered with lead and containing 3 bells: there are 90 sittings. The register dates from the year 1694. The living is a vicarage, annexed to that of Chilton, joint net yearly value £420, in the gift of Maj. Sir Henry Lancelot Aubrey-Fletcher bart. D.S.O., M.V.O., D.L., J.P. who has two turns, and Earl Temple, one turn, and held since 1938 by the Rev. Cyril Herbert Charles Edwards A.K.C.L. who resides at Chilton. At the foot of Brill hill is a celebrated chalybeate spring or spa. Dorton House, erected in 1627 on the foundations of an earlier structure, is of red brick in the Early Elizabethan style; it stands in its own park; it was formerly the residence of Sir John Aubrey, 6th bart. and M.P. for Bucks, who died 1 March, 1826: the title became extinct on the death, before 1859, of the 7th bart.: the mansion, now (1939) unoccupied, is the property of Maj. Michael Wentworth Beaumont J.P. who is lord of the manor and sole landowner. The soil is clay; subsoil, clay. The land is principally used for pasture. The area is 1,477 acres; the population in 1931 was 133.

DRAYTON BEAUCHAMP is a village and parish on the borders of Herts, $3\frac{1}{2}$ miles from Tring station on the main line of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, and about the same distance north from Wendover station on the Metropolitan and London and North Eastern Joint railway, and 6 south-east from Aylesbury, in the Aylesbury division of the county, hundred of Cottesloe, petty sessional division, rural district and county court district of Aylesbury, rural deanery of Wendover, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. The suffix is derived from the Beauchamp family, who anciently held the manor.

Electricity is available. The church of the Virgin Mary, erected in the year 1213, is an edifice of stone, chiefly (excepting the earlier portion) in the Decorated style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, north porch and a western embattled tower containing 3 bells: the font is Norman, with a series of roundheaded arches panelled on it; the arch of the north door is of the same period: on the north side of the chancel is a large monument to William Cheyne, 2nd and last Viscount Newhaven, who died Dec. 14, 1728; the monument includes a reclining figure of the viscount, attired in his robes and in the full-bottomed peruke and lace ruffles of the period; in the background is a pyramid of veined marble, between two pilasters, supporting a pediment with the arms of Cheyne; on a pedestal lower than the monument is an effigy of his second wife Gertrude (Pierrepoint), resting on the verge of the mattress on which reposes the statue of her lord, her face reclining on her hand; on a cushion near her feet is a large coronet in white marble: on the south side of the chancel is a stone, with brass effigy nearly four feet in length and inscriptions to Thomas Cheyne esq. who for his faithful and valued services as armour-bearer to Edward III. had the grant of Drayton Manor conferred upon him in the year 1368, and this property remained with his descendants till 1732; there is also a brass, with effigy, to William Cheyne esq. dated 1375, and other memorials of the same family, and the brass effigy, now headless, of Henry Fazakerley, priest, 1531: the stained east window, a work of the 15th century, represents in compartments the 12 Apostles, with one of the articles of the creed over each; of these figures eight are original, the remaining four having been added in place of the missing figures: the six stained windows in the aisle and the west window were inserted between 1872 and 1908 by Mr. James Griffin as memorials of relatives: in 1919 a brass tablet was affixed in the church in memory of the men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18: in 1887 an oak reredos was placed in the chancel, to the memory of the Rev. Henry Harpur Crewe M.A. vicar 1866-84, by his numerous friends. The "learned and judicious" Richard Hooker D.D. author of the "Ecclesiastical Polity," became rector here in 1584, and a carved oak pulpit has been erected to his memory; in the church is a list of rectors dating back to 1220: there are 200 sittings. The register dates from the year 1538. The living is a rectory, the tithe being commuted at £305 gross, including 26 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of Major Stewart William Jenney V.D., J.P. and held since 1939 by the Rev.

The charities amount to £10 10s. yearly. Drayton Lodge, the property of Major Stewart William Jenney V.D., J.P. is a large brick mansion of the Georgian period, standing in a park of 66 acres, on the old main road from Aylesbury to Tring. Maj. S. W. Jenney V.D., J.P. is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is chalk and stiff, and in places flinty loam; subsoil, chalk and clay. The land is mostly under pasture. The area is 1,113 acres; the population in 1931 was 146 in the civil and 158 in the ecclesiastical parish.

By Local Government Board Order, 19,622, dated March 25, 1886, a detached part of Drayton Beauchamp, known as Buttermilk and Helsthorpe Farm, was transferred to Wingrave, and under the provisions of the Divided Parishes Act, Whittle Farm was added to Tring from Drayton Beauchamp.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, part of Drayton Beauchamp was included in the new parish of Cholesbury-cum-St. Leonards.

DRAYTON PARLOW (or Passelew) is a parish $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles east from Swanbourne and $4\frac{1}{2}$ miles west from Bletchley stations on the Oxford and Bletchley branch of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, 5 north-east from Winslow, 5 south-west from Penny Stratford and 13 miles from Buckingham, in the Buckingham division of the county, Cottesloe hundred, petty sessional division and rural district of Winslow, county court district of Bletchley and Leighton Buzzard, rural deanery of Mursley, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. The place derives its suffix from the Passelew family, who held the manor in the reigns of William I. and II. Electricity is available. The church of the Holy Trinity, dating from the 12th century, is a stone building, chiefly in the Decorated style, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch and a western tower containing 6 bells and a service bell: three bells were added in 1935, and a ringing chamber installed, the greater portion of the expense being defrayed by the Rev. William Wycliffe Lucas LL.M., M.A.: there is a 15th century font, adorned with crocketed niches, and a slab with fragments of brasses to the Blakenoll family, 1535, consisting of two groups of children, the effigies of the parents having disappeared: there are also the remains of an altar to St. Catherine, and the shaft of an ancient churchyard cross: the church possesses a solid silver communion cup with cover dated 1569: the church was enlarged and thoroughly restored and reseated in 1863: the stained east window was erected in 1884 as a memorial to the Rev. Benjamin Spurrell M.A.: there are 150 sittings: there is a list of rectors from the year 1232. The register dates from the year 1560. The living is a rectory, yearly value £380, derived from 125 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Canford School Ltd. and held since 1934 by the Rev. William Wycliffe Lucas LL.M., M.A. of Trinity Hall, Cambridge. The Baptist chapel, built in 1830 and enlarged in 1883, will seat 150 persons; the Methodist chapel, built in 1847, is now used as a village hall and a new chapel was built in 1912 to seat 200. A recreation ground of 5 acres was given in 1914 by the late Marquis of Lincolnshire K.G., P.C., G.O.M.G. Of the glebe, 32 acres are let out in allotments. There are 36 acres of land allotted at the Inclosure in 1798 for the benefit of the poor, now let in allotments to poor persons living in the parish. Lord Carrington is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is mould and clay; subsoil, sand and clay. The land is chiefly used for pasture and poultry farming. The area is 1,750 acres; the population in 1931 was 313.

DROPMORE is an ecclesiastical parish formed Feb. 5, 1867, out of the civil parishes of Burnham, Dorney, Hitcham and Taplow, near the river Thames, 5 miles north-east from Maidenhead, 4 north from Taplow station on the main line and 2½ miles from Wooburn Green station on the Maidenhead and Wycombe branch of the Great Western railway, in the Wycombe division of the county, hundred and petty sessional division of Burnham, county court district of Windsor, rural deanery of Burnham, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. The church of St. Anne, erected and consecrated in 1866, is an edifice in the Gothic style of the 14th century, consisting of chancel, nave, north transept, south porch and a western turret containing one bell; the transept was erected in 1877, by Lady Louisa Fortescue, as a memorial to the Hon. George Matthew Fortescue, who died Jan. 24, 1877; the nave and chancel are divided by a screen, and there is a font of various English and foreign marbles presented in memory of Anne (Pitt), Lady Grenville, who died Jan. 13, 1864; and Louisa Susan Anne, daughter of the founder and former patron of the living, the Hon. G. M. Fortescue and wife of William Westby Moore esq.; she died March 30, 1864: there are three stained windows, and a brass to Anne, Lady Grenville: the church affords 180 sittings. The register dates from the year 1866. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £300, including 5 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of G. M. Fortescue esq. and held since 1929 by the Rev. Harry Dewdney B.A. of London University. Dropmore, originally the property of Lord Grenville, the distinguished statesman, and now (1939) unoccupied, is situated about 2 miles from the village of Burnham, in a finely wooded park, with a pinetum containing a fine collection of specimen trees, including a cedar planted in 1794, pleasure grounds and gardens of 900 acres, and the view from the south front extends over 30 miles of beautifully wooded country. G. M. Fortescue esq. who is lord of the manor, and Lord Kemsley are the principal landowners. The soil is loam; subsoil, gravel. The population in 1931 was 262.

DUNTON is a parish and small village 5 miles south-east from Winslow station on the Oxford and Bletchley section of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, 8 north-east from Aylesbury and 12 south-east from Buckingham, in the Buckingham division of the county, Cottlesloe hundred, Winslow petty sessional division and rural district, county court district of Buckingham, rural deanery of Mursley, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Main water is available. The church of St. Martin is a small building of stone, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch and a western tower of Early English date, containing 3 bells: there is a flat tombstone on the floor of the chancel to two infant sons of Dr. Charles James Blomfield, Bishop of London (1826-56), who held the living of Dunton, which was his first benefice, from 1810: in the chancel are two low-side windows, a piscina and an aumbry; under the chancel arch is a brass, with part of an inscription to . . . wife of

Richard Collys, 1510; on a slab are figures of a man and woman without name, but about 1420, and on the same slab another brass to John Sotton (1518) and Augnet, his wife: the ancient font, divided into two portions, and for many years made to serve as a doorstep to the tower, was rescued and restored by the Rev. T. J. W. Fisher B.A. rector 1904-7, who also provided an oak reredos: on the old western gallery are the names of all the rectors since 1576; the first recorded rector was John Pernfour, 1221; the present rector is the fiftieth: there are brasses to three men of the parish who lost their lives in the Great War, 1914-18: outside the church is a Norman doorway, now blocked, on which is a carving of "The Temptation": the church affords 95 sittings; the seats are 18th century box pews. The register dates from the year 1577. The living is a rectory, united with that of Hoggston, joint net yearly value £600, with residence, in the gift of the Provost and Fellows of Worcester

College, Oxford, who have two turns, and Lord Carrington, one turn, and held since 1935 by the Rev. George Street M.A. of Worcester College, Oxford, hon. C.F. Lord Carrington is lord of the manor and sole landowner, except of the glebe land. The soil is rich loam; subsoil, various. The land is chiefly in pasture. The area is 1,197 acres; the population in 1931 was 68.

EDLESBOROUGH is a village and parish 1 mile in width and 5 miles in length, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred of Cottosloe, petty sessional division of Linslade, rural district of Wing, county court district of Bletchley and Leighton Buzzard, rural deanery of Ivinghoe, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Edlesborough village is on the Beds border, 4 miles west from Dunstable station on the London, Midland and Scottish and London and North Eastern railways, $\frac{3}{4}$ miles north-east from Ivinghoe and $\frac{5}{8}$ miles south-east from Leighton Buzzard. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Bucks Water Board. The church of St. Mary, situated on elevated ground, and originally belonging to the monastery of Bonhommes at Asheridge, founded in 1283, is a noble edifice of stone in mixed styles, and consists of chancel, clerestoried nave, aisles, north and south porches and a massive embattled western tower, about 70 feet high, containing a clock and 6 bells: the spire was destroyed by lightning Friday, March 21, 1828, when the whole interior work of the tower, and all the bells but one, became a complete wreck: the lower part of the tower is Early English: the chancel is fitted with ancient desks and seats, some of the latter having carved misereres, and has a trefoil-headed piscina and a plain recessed sedile, and there is another piscina in the south aisle: the nave is separated from the aisles by arcades of four arches on either side, springing from octagonal pillars: the roof stairs remain, and there is a fine screen exhibiting good tracery of Perpendicular date: the pulpit, 14 feet high, is an exquisite example of Decorated wood carving and retains a fine pyramidal canopy highly ornamented and terminating in a graceful finial; attached is an hour-glass stand: the font is octagonal, and has panelled sides, relieved by quatrefoils: there are brasses to John Rufford esq. with his effigy in armour, 1540, and to his three wives, Brygett, Anne and Elynore; and an inscription only to Henry Brugis, 1647, and Frances (Pygott), his wife, on the wall of the vestry. There are also two brasses, one of a rose, with inscription to John Killingworth, 1412, and another of John de Swynstede, 1395, the last rector here. There are other monuments to Margaret, wife of the Rev. Thomas Bayley S.T.P. principal of New Inn Hall, Oxford, 1701, and to various members of the Theed family, 1686-1701: the north chancel aisle is the burial place of the Ruffords, and besides the brass named above there are memorials to Thomas Rufford esq. 1572, and Philippa, his wife, and Thomas Rufford esq. 1599, and Anne, his wife: in the east wall, on a large stone corbel or bracket, is the sculptured figure of a dragon, and near it a man in armour holding a shield: there are some monuments also to the families of Hutchinson and Granger, 1632-1819: there is an ancient fireplace high up in the west wall of the north aisle: the church affords 270 sittings. The register dates from the year 1567. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £450, with residence, in the gift of Lord Brownlow, and held since 1936 by the Rev. Lionel Henry Lake M.A. of Selwyn College, Cambridge. The church hall opposite the vicarage was built in 1906 by the 5th Lord Brownlow to the memory of his mother, Lady Marion Alford. The Methodist chapel was built in 1858. The charities include Burghope's of about £4 6s. 8d. for distribution, and Colemare's of 10s. for education, expended in prayer books for deserving children. Randall's charity consists of 49 bushels of wheat yearly. Jos. Chennell's charity, producing about £2 10s. is expended in bread, distributed on 1st Jan. by the vicar and churchwardens to agricultural labourers. Thomas Ginger's charity, producing £5 yearly, is expended in the purchase of bread and distributed by the trustees at Christmas amongst the poor resident in Edlesborough and Northall, in shares varying according to the size of the families. In the parish there is a fine old tythe barn of the 16th century. Messrs. John Pratt, John Marshall Lyon and S. J. Reeve and the trustees of Ashton's charity are the principal landowners. Edlesborough Green, comprising several acres of land, is now let for grazing. The soil is chalk; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are barley, wheat, oats and beans. The area of the parish is 3,781 acres; the population in 1931 was 885 in the civil parish.

ELLESBOROUGH is a parish, 2 miles west from Wendover station on the Metropolitan and London and North Eastern Joint railway, 1 mile east from Little Kimble station on the Great Western and London and North Eastern Joint railway through Wycombe to Aylesbury and the North, 5½ south from Aylesbury and 3 north-east from Princes Risborough, in the Aylesbury division of the county, hundred, petty sessional division and county court district of Aylesbury, rural district of Wycombe, rural deanery of Wendover, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Rural Districts Water Co. Ltd. The church of SS. Peter and Paul, restored in 1854 and 1871, is an ancient embattled structure in the Late Decorated and Perpendicular styles, situated on a hill close to the ancient Icknield way, and consists of chancel, nave of four bays, south aisle, south porch and a lofty embattled western tower, with octagonal stair turret at the south-east angle, containing 6 bells: there is a piscina in the south wall of the chancel, also stained windows north and south of the chancel and memorial windows in the nave to the Lovett family: in the south aisle, within a recess, is a marble tomb in the Italian style of the 17th century, with a recumbent figure, to the memory of Brigetta, wife of Sir H. Croke, d. 1638: on the south wall are brasses, with effigies, to Thomas Hawtrej, d. 1544, and Sybell, his wife, 11 sons and 7 daughters: a shield belonging to this brass is palimpsest: the font is of the Decorated period, and is lined with lead: there is a richly-carved oak pulpit and lectern: the chancel was rebuilt in 1871 at the cost of Mrs. Frankland-Russell Astley in memory of her husband, and her sons in 1901 caused an elaborate reredos and an east window of stained glass to be erected as a memorial to their mother: there are 230 sittings. The register dates from 1659. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £300, with residence, in the gift of the Chequers Trustees, and held since 1936 by the Rev. Cyril Norman White A.L.C.D. The church of the Resurrection, at DUNSMORE, was built in 1897, chiefly by Lady Sutton, as a chapel of ease to the parish church, and will hold 60 persons, and there is also an iron Mission hall. There is a Congregational chapel at CHALKSHIRE, built in 1873 and seating 100 persons. A parish hall was erected at Butlers Cross in 1903 at a cost of about £1,000, and is used as a reading and recreation room and for all parochial purposes. There are almshouses for two old men and two old women, founded in 1746 by

Margaret Lady Dodd and endowed with £2,456 India Stock; each inmate receives 5s. weekly and £2 yearly for clothing; and four out-pensioners receive 6s. per week each; the almshouses are managed by five trustees, under the direction of the Charity Commissioners. The poor's allotment is 46a. 2r. 36p. In 1858, during some digging operations in King's Field, at Terriek, in this parish, the foundations of a building were discovered, lying north-east and south-west, the whole spreading over an area of about 1,600 square feet; in a kind of cesspool, at the north-east corner, some remains of earthen jars were found: a communication on this discovery, made to the Bucks Arch. Soc. in Dec. 1858, is printed, with a ground plan, in the Society's Transactions for 1863: Roman coins have been met with in this field on several occasions. Chequers, an early Tudor mansion, was largely rebuilt in 1565 by Mr. William Hawtrej, whose ancestors had previously lived here for over 300 years; the house derives its name from the fact that its original owner, in the time of Henry II. was keeper of the King's exchequer; Lady Mary Grey, sister of Lady Jane Grey, was imprisoned here, by order of Queen Elizabeth, from 1565 to 1567: in 1909 Chequers was acquired by Viscount Lee of Fareham (then Mr. Arthur Lee M.P.), who completely restored the house, removing its late Georgian additions and decorations, and carefully reviving its Elizabethan character; in 1917 Lord and Lady Lee executed a deed of gift (confirmed by a special Act of Parliament), bequeathing and endowing Chequers, with all its contents and the surrounding estate of some 1,500 acres, to the nation, to be used, after their death, as the official country residence of successive British Prime Ministers. In October, 1920, Lord and Lady Lee decided to bring their scheme into immediate operation, and the Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George, the then Prime Minister, took up his residence as first official occupant of Chequers from New Year, 1921: in November, 1922, he was succeeded in the occupancy by subsequent Prime Ministers. The house contains notable collections of art and historical relics, but is not open to the public. The park, some 700 acres in extent and from 500 to 800 feet above sea level, is of great beauty, with extensive beech woods and three remarkable box-clad ravines called "Velvet Lawn," "Silver Springs" and "Happy Valley;" it also contains "Cymbeline's Castle" or "Mount," an earthwork of the "mount and bailey" type, and the reputed birth-place of Caractacus in A.D. 1. Coombe Hill, in this parish, the highest point in the county and of the Chiltern

Hills, was presented by Lord Lee to the National Trust in 1912 as a recreation ground for the public. On it is the monument, erected by public subscription in 1904, to the men of Buckinghamshire who fell in the South African war. In January, 1938, it was completely shattered by lightning, and was rebuilt during the same year by the County Council. A short distance north of the church is a small wooded dell, into which five springs of water issue from the hill, supplying a moderate-sized lake; below are some fish pools. There is an 18-hole golf course. The Chequers Trustees occupy the office of lord of the manor, and are the principal landowners. The soil is variable, principally chalk and flint on the uplands and a dark loam on lower lands. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 3,522 acres; the population in 1931 was 628.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, part of this parish was transferred to Stoke Mandeville.

EMBERTON is a parish and a pretty village separated from Olney by the Ouse and on the road from Newport Pagnell to Olney; it is 2 miles south from Olney station on the Bedford and Northampton branch of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, 4 north from Newport Pagnell, 12 west from Bedford, 12 from Northampton and 10 from Stony Stratford, in the Buckingham division of the county, county court district of Northampton, hundred, petty sessional division, rural district and rural deanery of Newport, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Gas and electricity are available. Water is supplied by the Newport Pagnell Rural District Council. The church of All Saints is a building in the Decorated style, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave of five bays, aisles, north and south porches and an embattled western tower containing 6 bells: a new bell was presented in 1899 by Campbell G. Hulton esq.: the tower was restored in 1914 at a cost of £180: there are piscina and sedilia in the south wall of the chancel: the stained east window, given by the Rev. C. Hulton, is a memorial to Thomas Fletcher esq.: the church also contains eleven other stained windows and a mural brass to John Morden, a former rector, c. 1410: the church was thoroughly restored in 1869: from the resemblance between the churches of Emberton and Olney they are supposed to be the work of the same architect: an organ, the gift of C. M. Tatham esq. was erected in 1899: in 1919 an alabaster figure of an angel, standing on a rosso pedestal, was set up as a memorial to those parishioners who fell in the Great War, 1914-18: there is a tablet in the chancel to the memory of the Rev. George Frederick Sams M.A. who was rector here for 43 years: new oak pews were installed in 1931, some by Kenneth Sams esq. in memory of his father, some by the Rev. C. B. Hulton and his brothers, in memory of Campbell Hulton esq. J.P.; some others in memory of Mrs. G. F. Sams, installed by her children: there are 250 sittings: there is a list of rectors from the year 1219. The register of baptisms dates from the year 1659; marriages, 1674; burials, 1673. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £450, with residence, in the gift of the Rev. Campbell Blethyn Hulton M.A. and held since 1933 by the Rev. Edward Frank Circuit M.A. of St. Catharine's College, Cambridge. Miss Hughes' charity of £1 5s. yearly is distributed in bread; Mrs. Knight Millar's charity of £1 5s. is for the benefit of widows, and Hill's of £1 10s. for education; Mr. and Mrs. Jessop Hulton's coal fund, consisting of the income on £100, is for the purchase of coal and bread for distribution on Christmas Eve amongst the poor of Emberton and Petsoe, irrespective of their religion belief. The Feoffee estate of 7 acres and 9 cottages with the school and school house produce nearly £50 yearly, which is distributed among various charities. In the village is a clock tower, erected by the Rev. Thomas Fry, rector from 1804 to 1860, to the memory of Margaret, his wife; this was restored in 1845 and a bell was presented by Miss Hughes: on the north side of this tower is a marble tablet bearing the names of all those parishioners who served in the Great War, 1914-18. The farmers are the principal landowners. The soil is gravel and clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley, beans and roots. The area, with Petsoe manor, is 1,880 acres of land and 7 of water; the population in 1931 was 399.

Post & T. Office. Letters through Olney, nearest M. O. office

Petsoe End is also in this parish.

PETSOE MANOR, 2 miles east from Emberton, has been annexed to Emberton for ecclesiastical purposes. The Manor House, now a ruin, was partly built of the stone of the old church. The population in 1931 was nil; the area is 411 acres.

By Local Government Board Order, 18,130, dated March 25, 1886, Ekeney, once a small village west of Olney, was united to Hardmead.

ETON

ETON is a parish on the north bank of the Thames, an iron bridge over which connects it with Windsor, from which station it is half a mile distant, 21 miles from London via the Great Western railway and 25 miles from London by the Southern railway, 1½ south from the Slough Junction (Great Western), 5 south-east from Maidenhead and 5 north-west from Staines; it is in the Wycombe division of the county, hundred and petty sessional division of Stoke, county court district of Windsor, and gives its name to a rural district, in the rural deanery of Burnham, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Gas and electricity are available. Water is supplied by the Windsor Corporation. The town was controlled by a Local Board of Health from October 19, 1849, but under the "Local Government Act, 1894," it is now governed by an Urban District Council. The district is divided into North, South and West wards.

By Local Government Board Order. No. 39,611, amended by Order No. 42,617, dated October 1st, 1900, a part of Upton-cum-Chalvey was added to Slough, and by an Order. No. 39,609, dated October 1st, 1900, a further part of Upton-cum-Chalvey and part of Eton Wick parish were annexed to Eton civil parish and Urban District.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, the civil parish and urban district was further extended by the inclusion of the parish of Eton Wick and part of the parish of Boveney.

The church of St. John the Evangelist is a building of stone in the Early Decorated style, and was erected and consecrated in 1854, in place of the old chapel of ease to the College chapel, built in 1769, by the Rev. William Hetherington, fellow of Eton, the College chapel having up to that time served as the parish church: in 1875, the connection between the parish and College of Eton being dissolved, this building was constituted the parish church, and consists of chancel with aisle, nave of six bays, aisles, north and east porches and an eastern tower with lofty spire containing one bell; the reredos is of alabaster and mosaic, and there is a piscina and sedilia: the chancel is paved with black and white marble, and is separated from its aisle by a traceried oak screen, and a similar screen, designed by A. Y. Nutt esq. divides the chancel and nave: the east window was erected by subscriptions in 1865 as a memorial of the Prince Consort, and on the south side of the chancel is another to Mrs. Forbes, a great benefactress to the parish: there are 728 sittings. The old parish register contains entries of baptisms from the year 1594; marriages and burials from 1603 and of banns from 1769 to 1808; there is also a register of persons touched for the King's Evil from 1686-1688. The living is a vicarage, with the chapelry of Boveney annexed, net yearly value £580, with residence, in the gift of the Provost and Fellows of Eton College, and held since 1935 by the Rev. Oliver Buxton Parsons M.A. of Keble College, Oxford, hon. C.F. Queen Victoria in 1875 gave assent to a scheme prepared by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners for England in pursuance of the Public Schools Act, 1868, for relieving the Provost of Eton from the spiritual charge of the parish of Eton and for constituting the same parish a distinct vicarage, in the gift of the Provost and Fellows of Eton, and providing an endowment for the same. The freehold of the church and chapel of ease at Eton Wick are vested in the vicar. The cemetery, with mortuary chapel at Cotton Hall, consists of about 1½ acres and was consecrated in 1846, and is vested in the vicar. There is a Roman Catholic church, dedicated to Our Lady of Sorrows, which was built by Lord Braye in 1914: it is a building wholly in the 18th century Classical style, overlooking the South meadows: the floors and pillars are of marble, and there are six side chapels; the church contains some fine paintings by old Italian masters, and a credence composed of marble from the palace of Constantine: it has sittings for 100 persons and is served by the Order of the Canons Regular of the Lateran, who have a residence and a school in the parish of Datchet. The Bridge Trust House, at the top of High street, erected in 1891, is a building of red brick with stone dressings in the Tudor style, and contains the board room and offices of the Urban District Council. The Eton Fire Brigade station, in High street, was built by the Urban District Council in 1904; there is also a sub-station. The Godolphin Almshouses, in King Stable street, are for 10 widows. The Eton Poor Estate provides about £200 yearly for apprenticing boys and for other charitable objects. Baldwin's Bridge Trust has a yearly income of £512, the surplus, after necessary expenditure on the bridge and property, is devoted to various charities in the parish; the trustees have also the management of the Pote and Benwell legacies for distributing bread among the poor; the Pory endowment of about £140 yearly is applied to the support of the Elementary Schools. The kennels of the Eton College Beagles are in this parish; W. S. Brownlow esq. is master; the pack comprises 18 couples of 15 inch beagles; hunting days, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays; Windsor and Slough are convenient centres; Datchet, Slough and Windsor are the nearest stations to the kennels. The Provost and Fellows of Eton College are the principal landowners.

The area of the civil parish and Urban District is 993 acres of land and inland water; and the population in 1931 was 3,058, viz.: North Ward, 709; South Ward, 1,296 and Western Ward, 1,053. The population of the ecclesiastical parish in 1931 was 3,094.

ETON WICK, to the west, formerly a hamlet of Eton, was constituted a civil parish in 1894, under the provisions of the "Local Government Act, 1894," from the rural part of Eton civil parish, but by the Bucks Review Order, 1934, it was added to Eton. The church of St. John the Baptist, at Eton Wick, a chapel of ease to the parish church, was consecrated in 1869 and is a structure of red brick with stone facings in the Gothic style, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch, and a turret containing one bell; the church will seat nearly 200 persons. There is also a Methodist chapel. The Eton College Sanatorium, also at Eton Wick, is a spacious building of red brick, erected in 1843, and several times enlarged since, and has sixteen rooms for the reception of patients belonging to the college. There is also a bungalow, erected in 1897, for patients from the college.

BOVENEY is a liberty in the parish of Eton, now ecclesiastically annexed to Eton by Order in Council, dated May 26th, 1911, and is 2 miles west from Eton. The chapel of St. Mary Magdalene, in the liberty of Boveney, is mentioned in Domesday Book: it is an ancient chalk building, consisting of chancel and nave, and was restored in 1892-3 by Mrs. Fitzadam, of Bartlett's, Poyle: there were originally 4 bells, but the Purveyor of the King's works of His Majesty's honour and castle of Windsor in 1552 is recorded as having taken one away: the chapel affords 60 sittings.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, part of Boveney civil parish was added to Eton, and the remainder taken into the new parish of Dorney.

ETON COLLEGE.

Eton has long been celebrated for its great college, which has maintained its pre-eminence amongst the public schools of England since its foundation by Henry VI. 11th October, 1440, as "The King's College of Our Lady of Eton beside Windsor"; the Parochial church of Eton was declared on the 13th of the same month to be a Collegiate church and these formalities were ratified by Pope Eugenius IV. in January, 1441: the buildings are mostly of red brick with stone dressings, and consist of two large quadrangles communicating by a tower gateway; the chapel occupies the south side of the front quadrangle, in the centre of which is a statue of Henry VI.; the cloisters surround the second quadrangle, adjacent to which are the provost's lodge and the hall, which, in 1858, was munificently restored by the Rev. J. Wilder; three large fire-places of early date, discovered behind the 16th century panelling, were again brought into use, a new high pitched roof constructed, and a fine Perpendicular window filled with stained glass representing scenes in the history of the college was inserted in the west wall; richly carved oak panelling, bearing the arms of successive provosts, was placed immediately below this window and at the east end a carved screen was erected; the portraits of many eminent men educated at Eton adorn the walls: the kitchen is also of the 15th century. The oldest schoolrooms are the Lower School (15th century) and Upper School (1690) on the north and west sides of the school yard; five or six blocks of modern schoolrooms have been built since 1861. In the colonnade under Upper School are inscribed on a bronze frieze the names of 1,157 Etonians who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. In 1868 an Act was passed authorizing certain Commissioners to draw up new constitutions for Eton and other public schools, in pursuance of which a "Governing Body," to consist either of 9, 10 or 11 members, was appointed for Eton in 1870, and in 1872 the whole body of statutes drawn up by Henry VI. was repealed; the Governing Body now consists of the provost and eleven fellows, and the foundation comprises the provost, vice-provost and bursar, the head master, the lower master, at least 70 scholars, and not more than two chaplains or conductors; the vice-provost and bursars are elected annually by the provost and fellows; there are also six lay clerks and 16 choristers; the total number of boys is upwards of 1,100. There are 25 boarding houses held by masters. Attached to the college are ten poor almshouses, appointed by the provost, who receive such emoluments as may be assigned them by the governing body. The endowment of the foundation is said to be over £20,000 a year, and the provost and fellows are the patrons of many livings. Foundation scholars are educated and lodged in college during school time at the expense of the college; there are about 12 vacancies yearly; the emoluments of the scholars are proportioned to their need of assistance. The scholarships and exhibitions tenable after leaving are the New-castle scholarship of £50 for three years, tenable at either University, one Chamberlayne scholarship of £75 for four years, three Reynolds scholarships of £75 for four years, two Davies scholarships of £60 for four years, the Berriman scholarship of £60 for four years, the Bryant scholarship of £60 for four years, two postmasterships at Merton College, Oxford, for four years, and some others, besides four or five scholarships yearly at King's College, Cambridge, open to Collegers and Oppidians alike; the election to these takes place annually in July; the Rous scholarship at Pembroke College, Oxford, and the Latimer Neville scholarship at Magdalene College, Cambridge; there are also numerous exhibitions and prizes. Oppidians pay an entrance fee of £21 and an annual inclusive fee of £45. The College Library contains a large and valuable collection of about 23,000 volumes of books and MSS. In 1908 King Edward VII. opened a memorial hall and library, erected in memory of those Etonians who lost their lives in the war in South Africa; the building is used for concerts, lectures &c. and will seat about 500. The Boys' Library contains nearly 6,000 volumes, and there is a museum in Keate's lane containing zoological and geological collections. New science schools, music rooms, racquet courts and fives courts have been added in recent years. The college playing fields extend in a northerly direction to the outskirts of Slough. The chapel, dedicated to the Assumption of the Virgin, resembles in general outline that of King's College, Cambridge, and stands near the site of the old parish church, which, on the foundation of the college, was enlarged and adapted to the requirements of the collegiate body; the building as it now exists constitutes only the choir of the church projected by Henry VI.; the ante-chapel was added 1479-1482 by William of Waynflete, the first head master, when

Bishop of Winchester; the building is 175 feet in length, 90 feet high and 40 feet wide, and consists of ante-chapel, chapel and north porch, with a small vestry adjoining, the whole being of the finest period of Perpendicular work; there are turrets at the eastern angles with curious wooden cupolas (1690), and the building is surrounded by a pierced parapet with pinnacles; it was considerably altered in 1700 at a cost of £3,200, and the whole interior was restored in 1847-9 under the direction of Mr. Deeson; in the course of the work, the walls of the three western bays on both sides of the choir were found to be covered with paintings executed between 1479 and 1487, illustrating the legendary miracles of the Virgin; the upper portion of these was almost wholly destroyed and the remainder has now been exposed to view by the removal of the modern stall canopies in 1923; they rank as the finest wall paintings yet discovered in England; all the windows are stained; the great east window was presented by the boys in 1847 at a cost of £2,000; two others in the ante-chapel are memorials to Etonians who fell in the Crimean War, and 14 memorial windows were contributed by the Rev. John Wilder M.A. fellow of Eton College; the two easternmost windows on either side of the choir were contributed by the assistant masters and Mr. W. A. Carter; another window was given by the Ven. Edward Balston D.D. head master 1862-8, and Mrs. Balston: the fine altar and tapestries are part of a memorial to Etonians who fell in the South African war; a remarkable feature is the picture "Sir Galahad," by G. F. Watts R.A. which hangs on the south wall; at the west end of the chapel is a memorial screen of Caen stone, designed by G. E. Street esq. R.A. richly carved with coats of arms and adorned with memorial brasses to those officers who were killed during the Afghan and South African campaigns, and unveiled on June 5, 1882, by King Edward VII. then Prince of Wales. The panelling of the ante-chapel is almost completely covered with memorial brasses to members of the school, especially those who fell in the Great War, 1914-18; there are also many on the organ screen. The colours of the 14th (Prince of Wales' Own) Regiment were deposited here in 1877. In the ante-chapel are marble statues of King Henry VI. by Bacon, and Provost Goodall, by Weekes; that of Provost Thomas Murray is by the altar; there is also a black marble slab with singular inscription to Sir Henry Wotton, ambassador to Venice and provost of Eton (1639); a memorial to Sir Henry Savile, provost, and warden of Merton College, Oxford, ob. 19 January, 1622, and a cenotaph with recumbent marble figure of the Rev. Edward Craven Hawtrey, provost from 1853, who died January 27, 1862; in 1893 a monument was erected by old Etonians to the Ven. Archdeacon Balston D.D. who died in 1891, consisting of a recumbent marble effigy on an altar-tomb of stone and alabaster. The ante-chapel and other parts of the building contain a large number of brasses of the 15th, 16th and 17th centuries, including those of Dr. Thomas Barker, elected provost in 1489; Henry Bost, provost 1503; Roger Lupton, provost 1536, and founder of Sedbergh school, N. W. Yorks, and Richard, Lord Grey, 1521; there is also a three-quarter effigy of Thomas Edgcomb, fellow and vice-provost of Eton, 1545, in academical dress, with inscription in Latin verse; the figure is palimpsest, the reverse showing portions of an earlier inscription: the brass, with effigy and inscription, to Elizabeth, wife of Robert Stokys, 1560, is also, as regards the inscription, a palimpsest, the reverse having an inscription to Walter Haugh, 1505, and his wives, Margaret and Isabel: in November, 1894, a memorial tablet was erected on the wall of the porch to the south-west door of the ante-chapel to the Rt. Rev. Henry John Chitty Harper D.D. Bishop of Christchurch, New Zealand, who died at Christchurch on Dec. 28, 1893; a small statue of William of Waynflete, placed in a niche on the outside of the west wall, and erected by Sussex Etonians, was unveiled June 5, 1893: the chapel will seat about 700. The Lower chapel, in Keate's lane, completed in 1891, contains a beautiful set of windows by Kempe: the interior has been largely remodelled as a War Memorial, and furnished with a set of four tapestries illustrating the story of St. George.

Eton Montem.—This ancient and singular annual ceremony was abolished in 1847.

Visitor, Right Rev. the Lord Bishop of Lincoln

FARNHAM ROYAL is a parish 3 miles north by west from Slough junction, on the Great Western railway, $\frac{1}{2}$ north from Eton and $\frac{1}{2}$ from Windsor. in the Wycombe division of the county, hundred and petty sessional division of Burnham, rural district of Eton, county court district of Windsor, rural deanery of Burnham, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Gas and electricity are available. Water is supplied by the Burnham, Dorrey and Hitcham Waterworks Co. Ltd. The church of St. Mary is a building of flint, consisting of chancel, nave of three bays, aisles and a western tower containing 8 bells, 2 of which were added to commemorate the Diamond Jubilee of Queen Victoria: the chancel, which is the only remaining part of the original edifice, supposed to date from the 12th century, retains a Norman window and a piscina of Early English date; the nave, aisles and tower are modern, the latter having been erected in 1868: in the church is a brass to Eustace Mascoll, "Clarke of the works of Frisewide in Oxford for Cardinal Woolsey and after chefe clark of accomps for xvii yeares for all the bulding of Kinge Henry ye VIII his plasis wthin xx myles of Londõ, and depected thys life pistell reder in Winsor Castell the xxxi day of Januarii Aº M.D.LXVII." there are nine stained windows and a font of Perpendicular character: the iron screen and chancel decoration and the churchyard cross were the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Carr-Gomm: the church affords 347 sittings. The register dates from the year 1635. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £891, with 12 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the Provost and Fellows of Eton College, and held since 1934 by the Rev. Godfrey Hamlyn James M.A. of Keble College, Oxford: at the time of the inclosure more than half the parish was exonerated from tithe and 327a. 1r. 5p. partly woodland, allotted in lieu thereof, 105 acres of which has since been sold. The old rectory house, a building of considerable antiquity, was bought by A. H. E. Allhusen esq. in 1893, together with about 100 acres of glebe. A new rectory house was bought in the same year. The church of St. John the Evangelist, Farnham Common, erected in 1908, and since enlarged, is a plain building of brick with stone dressings: there are 250 sittings: it is served by the clergy of St. Mary's. There is a Gospel hall at Farnham Common, built in 1843 and seating 130, and a Methodist chapel, built in 1867, with sittings for 150 persons. In 1926 the laboratories of the Imperial institute of Entomology were established here: they deal with the biological control of obnoxious insects and weed pests in all parts of the empire and come under the jurisdiction of the Imperial Agricultural Bureau. In the centre of the village is a Celtic cross of Aberdeen granite, erected by local subscription, as a memorial to the men connected with the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. The charities are of about £30 yearly value. The manor was held from 1318 by the Barons Furnival by the "service of standing at the king's right hand at his coronation, supporting his right arm while he held the royal sceptre, and bringing one glove for his (the lord of the manor's) right hand:" this service was transferred to the manor of Worksop by Henry VIII. Farnham Park is the seat of Lord Kemsley. The Duke of Leeds, who is lord of the manor, and Lord Kemsley are the principal landowners. The soil is gravel and loam; subsoil, gravel, loam and sand. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 1,055 acres; the population in 1931 was 1,854 in the civil and 8,008 in the ecclesiastical parish.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, parts of Burnham, Hedgerley, Hedgerley Dean and Stoke Poges were added to this parish.

FAWLEY is a parish of scattered houses, near the borders of Oxfordshire and on the Thames, 3 miles north from Henley-on-Thames terminal station of a branch of the Great Western railway, and 7 west from Marlow, in the Wycombe division of the county, Desborough hundred, Desborough 1st division petty sessional division, county court district of Henley, rural district and rural deanery of Wycombe, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Marlow Water Works. The church of the Virgin Mary is a small building of cut flint with stone dressings, which has been much altered, and consists of chancel, nave, transepts, organ chamber and an ancient western tower containing 3 bells: the tower was restored in 1867 and its lower stage forms a porch: the nave was thoroughly restored and a north transept with organ chamber and vestry added in 1883: the south transept, formerly used as a vestry, is thrown open to the church. On the steps leading to the chancel is a brass dated 1347 and bearing an inscription in Norman-French to Richard de Aldbourne, a former rector, who rebuilt the then existing chancel. The church contains a fine canopied monument of black marble, with recumbent figures in stone, erected by Sir Bulstrode Whitelocke kt. keeper of the Great Seal during the Protectorate, to his parent, Sir James Whitelocke kt. Justice of the King's Bench, ob. 22 June, 1632, and his wife Elizabeth (Bulstrode); the monument is surmounted on either side with figures of Mercy and Justice and is adorned with escutcheons of arms; the carving on the pulpit and elsewhere in the church is said to be by Grinling

Gibbons, and came from the private chapel or parish church of the Duke of Chandos estate at Canons, Middlesex: there is a complete list of rectors dating from 1313 to the present time: there are 200 sittings: in the churchyard is a mausoleum for each of the families of Freeman and Mackenzie; a lych gate of oak and stone was erected in 1885 by his relatives in memory of the Rev. Henry Almack D.D. rector 1843-85. The register dates from the year 1573. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £350, with residence and 22 acres of glebe, in the gift of Maj. W. R. D. Mackenzie D.L., J.P. and held since 1907 by the Rev. Walter Capel Young M.A. of Trinity College, Cambridge. There is a Village Hall, erected by subscription. Fawley Court, the seat of Maj. William Roderick Dalziel Mackenzie D.L., J.P. is a noble mansion in the Palladian style, and was erected, it is said, from designs by Sir Christopher Wren; it stands in a well-timbered park, and has four fronts, the principal entrance being on the west, through a colonnaded portico of the Ionic order; the house contains some fine apartments, and commands a view of the Deer park, of the Chiltern Hills on the north-west; the river Thames is on the south-east, Hambleden on the north and Henley on the south; in the dining-room hangs the celebrated picture, by Salter, of the Waterloo banquet at Apsley House, and on the staircase are numerous portraits of the guests; the possessor of this estate in the reign of Charles I. was Sir James Whitelocke kt. one of the judges of the King's Bench, whose only son (Sir Bulstrode Whitelocke kt.), previously mentioned, sold it to an ancestor of the late W. P. Williams Freeman esq. of Pylewell Park, Hants, by whom the estate was in turn disposed of to the late Edward Mackenzie esq.; an extensive wing in the same style was built in 1883 at the north-east angle; it comprises a study, billiards and smoking rooms, lavatories and numerous bedrooms; a handsome balustraded terrace on two levels has also been constructed round the whole mansion, the walls of which have also been renewed in brick and stone. Maj. William Roderick Dalziel Mackenzie D.L., J.P. is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is of a chalky nature; subsoil, chalk and gravel. The chief crops are wheat, barley and some pasture land. The area is 2,204 acres of land and 9 of water; the population in 1931 was 209.

FENNY STRATFORD, see Bletchley.

FINGEST is a parish on the verge of Oxfordshire, surrounded by steep hills and dense woodlands, 6½ miles south-west from High Wycombe, 6 north from Henley, 6 north-west from Great Marlow and about 5 south-west from West Wycombe station on the Great Western and London and North Eastern joint railway, in the Wycombe division of the county, hundred of Desborough, petty sessional division of Desborough, 1st division, rural district and county court district of Wycombe, rural deanery of Wycombe, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford; most of the houses are at Lane End and Cadmore End in this county, a mile and a half east, which, with parts of Fingest, Stokenchurch and Lewknor, was formed into an ecclesiastical parish, April 2, 1852, and is given under the head of Cadmore End. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Marlow Water Co. The church of St. Bartholomew is an ancient stone building in the Norman and Early English styles, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch and a western tower containing 1 bell: the tower is Norman and has a 14th century double-gabled roof: between the nave and chancel is a carved pine screen with a pediment supported by Corinthian pilasters: the Perpendicular font has an octagonal basin on a modern base: the chancel was restored in 1849: there are 130 sittings. The register dates from the year 1607. The living is a rectory, united with that of Ibstone, joint net yearly value £300, which includes 21 acres of glebe and residence, in the alternate gift of the Bishop of Oxford and Merton College, Oxford, and held since 1931 by the Rev. Bernard William Mackie, of Lichfield Theological College, hon. C.F. who resides at Ibstone. The charities for distribution amount to £9 15s. yearly. Norman P. Gold esq. is the principal landowner. Mrs. Montefiore is lady of the manor. The soil is chiefly chalk. The chief crops are wheat and oats. The area is 2,163 acres; the population in 1931 was 1,594 in the civil and 303 in the ecclesiastical parish.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, parts of Great Marlow, Hambleden and West Wycombe were added to this civil parish.

FLACKWELL HEATH, see Loudwater.

FLEET MARSTON is a small parish consisting of three farms and several cottages, on the road from Aylesbury to Bicester, about 3 miles north-west from Aylesbury stations on the Great Western, Metropolitan and London and North Eastern Joint and London, Midland and Scottish railways, in the Aylesbury division of the county, petty sessional division, rural district and county court district of Aylesbury, hundred of Ashendon, rural deanery of Waddesdon, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. The Aylesbury and Buckingham section of the Metropolitan and London and North Eastern Joint railways sweeps round the eastern boundary of the parish, passing very near the church. The parish lies in the low flat, where the watershed from Stewkley and Whitchurch receives the drainage from the high ground of Quainton and Oving, and passing underneath the elevated ridge of Upper Winchendon, forms a tributary of the Thame, hence the name of Fleet Marston, or "running marsh town." The church of St. Mary is a small but ancient building of stone chiefly in the Early Decorated style, consisting of chancel, nave, with fine 15th century roof, north porch and a western turret containing one bell: the stained east window was the gift of Mrs. Bickersteth, wife of the Very Rev. Edward Bickersteth D.D. Archdeacon of Buckingham 1853-75, and subsequently Dean of Lichfield: the font is cylindrical and quite plain: the church was thoroughly restored in 1868-9, at a total cost of between £700 and £800: the pulpit and all the chancel fittings are of oak: a carved oak lectern was erected in memory of the men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18: there are 50 sittings. The register dates from the year 1630. The living is a rectory, forming part of a united benefice with Waddesdon and Over Winchendon, and held since 1933 by the Rev. George Dixon B.A. of Exeter College, Oxford, who is rural dean of, and resides at, Waddendon. The patron is William Brimblecombe esq. The principal landowners are Christ Church and New College, Oxford. The soil is heavy, stiff clay; subsoil, same; the land in nearly all grazed upon. The area is 934 acres; the population in 1931 was 37.

FOSCOTT (or Foxcott) is a parish extending on the east to the river Ouse, nearly 2½ miles north-east from Buckingham station on the Bletchley and Banbury section of the London, Midland & Scottish railway, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred, petty sessional division, rural district, county court district, rural deanery of Buckingham (Buckingham portion), archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. The church of St. Leonard, originally Norman, is a small but ancient edifice of stone, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch and a small wooden turret containing one bell: in the chancel is a brass to Edward Grenville esq. who died in 1661; and a mural tablet placed by Lawrence Robert Hall esq. (d. 1891) to the memory of his father, Lawrence Hall, who died in 1866: there is a Norman archway at the south entrance and a low side window: in the chancel is a stained glass window, erected to the memory of Lawrence Robert Hall esq. by his widow in 1891: the church was restored in 1887, and affords 80 sittings. The register dates from the year 1587. The living is a rectory, annexed to that of Maids Moreton, joint net yearly value £350, with residence, in the gift of the trustees, and held since 1932 by the Rev. Edward William Yates A.K.C.L. who resides at Maids Moreton. In 1840 the remains of a Roman villa with a tessellated pavement were discovered, together with a bath, a very thick leaden pipe, some boars' tusks and antlers of large stags. Foscott Manor House (formerly the residence of the Grenvilles) was rebuilt in 1639, and underwent a thorough restoration in 1868; it is now the seat of Mrs. Heyworth, who is lady of the manor and sole landowner. The soil is clay; the land pasture and arable. The whole area, including 50 acres of woodland, is 716 acres of land and 3 of water; the population in 1931 was 32.

FULMER is a parish 4½ miles south-east from Beaconsfield, 4 north from Slough station on the main line of the Great Western railway, about 2½ south from Gerrard's Cross station on the Great Western and London and North Eastern joint railway, 7 miles from Windsor, in the Wycombe division of the county, hundred and petty sessional division of Stoke, rural district of Eton, county court district of Uxbridge, rural deanery of Amersham, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Rickmansworth and Uxbridge Valley Water Co. The church of St. James is a small building of brick and stone, chiefly in the perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, nave of three bays, south aisle, north porch and an embattled western tower containing 6 bells, and a clock, presented by Sir John C. Willoughby bart. in commemoration of the Diamond Jubilee of Queen Victoria in 1897: the church was rebuilt in 1610 at the expense of Sir Marmaduke Darell kt. of Fulmer, ob. March 22, 1631, and whose remains were here interred: in the chancel is a carved marble monument to him, and including recumbent figures of himself and Dame Ann (Lennard), his wife; in 1877 Mrs. Dent, of Fernacres, erected at her expense a new chancel, and added a vestry and organ-chamber in memory of her son, Lancelot William Dent; during the years 1878, 1882 and 1884 a new chancel was built, a south aisle added, the church, including the belfry and bells, restored, and the interior re-seated in solid oak as a memorial to Mrs. Dent: there are 200 sittings, 120 being free. The register dates from the year 1700. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £342, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Oxford, and held since 1934 by the Rev. John Edward Thomas Evitt M.A. of Queens' College, Cambridge. Fulmer was anciently a chapelry to the vicarage of Datchet, but was separated therefrom and made a distinct parish in the reign of Edward VI. Sir Marmaduke Darell kt. left £20 yearly for the poor and the repairs of his monument: there are other charities of about £23 yearly value. Fulmer Hall is the residence of Harold John Colebrook esq. Fulmer Place is the seat of Comdr. John Arthur Lambert Hay R.N. (ret.), who is lord of the manor. Comdr. John A. Lambert Hay R.N. (ret.), Harold John Colebrook esq. and Lt.-Col. Frederick Henry Allhusen C.M.G., D.S.O., J.P. are the principal landowners. The soil is light; subsoil, gravel. The chief crops are oats, wheat, barley and some land in pasture. The area is 1,367 acres of land and inland water; the population in 1931 was 465.

By Local Government Board Order No. 32,795, Oct. 1, 1895, part of Fulmer civil parish was, with parts of other parishes, taken to form the civil parish of Gerrard's Cross.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, parts of Gerrard's Cross, Langley Marsh and Stoke Poges were added to this parish, and parts of Fulmer transferred to Gerrard's Cross and Wexham.

A large portion of Bulstrode Park extends into this parish; for particulars see Gerrard's Cross, which is partly in the parish, but will be found under a separate head.

GAWCOTT (with Lenborough) comprises an ecclesiastical parish, formed Nov. 4, 1862, out of the parish and within the liberty of the borough of Buckingham; it is 1 mile south-west from that town, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred, petty sessional division, county court district, rural deanery and archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Gas and electricity are available. Water is supplied by the Buckingham Corporation. The church of the Holy Trinity, built by subscription, and opened in 1828, consists of chancel, south porch, with western tower containing one bell: in 1895 the church was restored at a cost of about £800: there are 300 sittings. The register dates from the year 1806. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £350, with residence, in the gift of five trustees, and held since 1938 by the Rev. Frederick Nash Bird M.A. of Trinity College, Dublin, who is also rector of Radcliffe. Sir George Gilbert Scott R.A. the distinguished architect, was born in 1811 at Gawcott vicarage, his father being then incumbent of the chapelry. There is a small Methodist chapel. Mr. John West left £600 to the poor of the hamlet, the interest arising from which, formerly distributed in meat at Easter, is now distributed in May, when 600 lbs. of meat are given to the poor. A runic cross, on which are inscribed the names of 18 men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18, was erected in 1922 at a cost of £80. The sum of £17 yearly is also distributed in coals. The land is mostly in pasture. The ownership of the land is divided. The population in 1931 was 443.

LENBOROUGH (Lethenborough) is a hamlet in the parish of Gawcott, 1 mile south from Buckingham railway station. Lenborough House became in 1445 a seat of the Ingoldsbys, an ancient Lincolnshire family, of whom one, Francis, represented the town in parliament; Henry Ingoldsby, son of Sir Richard Ingoldsby kt. of Lenborough, and some time an officer in the Parliamentary army, was created a baronet by the Protector in 1658; and subsequently having espoused the royal cause, received the same dignity from Charles II. in 1661; he died in Ireland in 1701. The property afterwards belonged to Gibbons, the historian, whose grandfather had bought it. The land is mostly in pasture. Corbett Roper esq. is the principal landowner.

GERRARD'S CROSS is a civil parish formed out of five adjoining parishes—Fulmer, Chalfont St. Peter, Iver, Langley Marish and Upton-cum-Chalvey, with a station on the Great Western and London and North Eastern joint railways, 17½ miles by rail from London, in the Wycombe division of the county, hundred of Burnham Stoke, petty sessional division of Burnham, rural district of Eton, county court district by the Rev. Edmund Henry Warren Leachman M.A. of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, who resides at Stoke Goldington. Gayhurst, the seat of Sir Walter Carlile bart. O.B.E., D.L., J.P. is an Elizabethan mansion of stone dating from c. 1500, but one side was rebuilt by George Wrighte esq.: here was born (June 11, 1603) the famous Sir Kenelm Digby kt. F.R.S. who was imprisoned at Winchester House and subsequently released; Sir Everard Digby, his father, one of the conspirators in the Guy Faux plot, who was executed January 30, 1606, concealed some of his accomplices here; the mansion stands in a delightful and well-wooded park of 250 acres, containing three large fish ponds, and in view of the main road between Newport Pagnell and Northampton; in the garden is a sundial with the date 1670 and the motto "Nul que une." Sir W. Carlile bart. O.B.E., D.L., J.P. is lord of the manor and Lord Hesketh is the principal landowner. The soil is various; subsoil, limestone. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and turnips. The area is 1,337 acres of land and 14 of water; the population in 1931 was 83 in the civil parish and 521 in the ecclesiastical parish.

By Local Government Board Order 18,130, dated March 25, 1886, a detached part of Lathbury was added to Gayhurst.

of Uxbridge, rural deanery of Amersham, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Gas and electricity are available. Water is supplied by the Rickmansworth and Uxbridge Valley Water Co. The ecclesiastical parish was formed April 16, 1861. The church of St. James, situated on the south side of the London and Oxford road, was erected by the Misses Reid in memory of their brother, Maj.-Gen. Reid, formerly

M.P. for Windsor, and is a cruciform building in the Byzantine style of various coloured bricks and stone, from designs by Sir William Tite knt. architect, and consists of chancel, nave, transepts, an octagonal dome rising above the intersection surmounted by a gilt cross and flanked by four turrets, and a campanile containing a clock with three dials and 5 bells: there are sittings for 440 persons, 200 being free. The register dates from the year 1861. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £680, with residence, in the gift of Simeon's Trustees, and held since 1938 by the Rev. John Holland Pain M.A. of Wadham College, Oxford. There is a Methodist chapel in Oak End way. In 1922 a Congregational chapel was built in Station parade and a Church Hall in 1930. The Pilgrim Home, for fifteen aged persons, was endowed with about £250 yearly by Sir John Wallis Alexander bart. who died 25 Oct. 1888. On the common is a hall, erected in memory of the men connected with this place who fell in the Great War, 1914-18: it contains billiard rooms, club rooms and a kitchen, and stands in its own grounds, where are a bowling green and tennis courts: the cost of erection was about £3,500. Bulstrode, in this district, is the seat of Sir John Frecheville Ramsden bart. D.L., J.P. The mansion, built by the 12th Duke of Somerset, in 1870, is constructed of deep-toned brick relieved by facial ornaments of vitrified brick and Bath stone dressings in the Old English Domestic style; crowning the north tower is a bronzed bull supporting a weathercock. The Rev. Cyril A. G. Moore M.A. is lord of the manor. The ownership of the land is divided. The soil is gravel; subsoil, chalk. The area is 2,702 acres of land and inland water; the population in 1931 was 3,011.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, parts of Gerrard's Cross were transferred to Chalfont St. Peter, Denham and Fulmer, and parts of those parishes, together with parts of Hedgerley Dean, were added.

GRANBOROUGH (or Greneburgh) is a parish and village 2 miles south-west from Winslow station on the Bletchley and Oxford section of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, 8 south-east from Buckingham and 8½ north from Aylesbury, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred of Ashendon, petty sessional division and rural district of Winslow, county court district of Buckingham, rural deanery of Claydon, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. The church of St. John the Baptist, originally dedicated to God and St. Alban, is an ancient edifice of stone largely in the Early English style, but restored in the Perpendicular period, and consists of chancel and nave and an embattled western tower containing 5 bells, rehung in 1902, and a clock, erected in 1923: it was formerly a possession of the Abbey of St. Albans; some portions appear to date from the time of Richard II. or from an even earlier date: there is a low side window and piscina in the chancel, and a remarkable alabaster panel of the 15th century; in 1880 a small metal chrismatory, about 6 inches long, with three cruet, was discovered in a niche in the wall near the chancel arch; this very rare and interesting relic, anciently used in the ceremonies of baptism, confirmation and extreme unction in the Roman Catholic church, is preserved in a glass case in the church: a stained east window was erected in 1889 to the memory of the Rev. Arthur Newcombe M.A. vicar 1884-7; the church was restored in 1880-1: there are 120 sittings. In the churchyard is a stone cross with octagonal shafting and a three-tier base, on which are inscribed the names of those men of the parish who lost their lives in the Great War, 1914-18. The register dates from the year 1538. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £300, including 35 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of Sir Harry C. W. Verney bart. D.S.O., J.P. and held since 1929 by the Rev James Walter Monks A.K.C.L. There is a Methodist chapel, erected in 1871 and rebuilt in 1904, when a schoolroom was added; it has accommodation for 100 persons. The Village Hall and Library, opened in 1911, comprises a large hall, capable of seating 200 persons, which is used as a billiard and club room and also for entertainments, dances &c. and approached by an external staircase; above this hall is the reading room and library, committee room, store room &c. The total cost of the building was about £1,000, which sum was provided by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Verney, together with a subscription of £200 from the late Andrew Carnegie esq. of Skibo Castle, N.B. The poor's land consists of 5a. 2r. 22p. and that of the church of 1 acre and 10 poles; 7 acres of the glebe has been let by the vicar to the labourers in half-acre allotments and 27 acres in grass holdings. Lt.-Col. William Selby-Lowndes O.B.E., T.D., J.P. is lord of the manor. Mrs. Dickens is the principal landowner. The soil is clay, with veins of gravel; subsoil, clay and marl. The land is chiefly in pasture, only about one-tenth being arable. The area is 1,580 acres; the population in 1931 was 222. Post & M. O. Office. Letters through Bletchley. GREAT KINGSHILL, see Prestwood.

GRENDON UNDERWOOD is a village and parish 3 miles south from Calvert station on the London and North Eastern railway, 2½ miles west from Akeman Street station on the London and North Eastern and Great Western joint railway, 4½ north-west from Quainton Road station on the Metropolitan and London and North Eastern joint railway, 3½ south-east from Marsh Gibbon station on the Oxford and Bletchley branch of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, and 4 north-east from Brill and Ludgershall station on the Banbury and Birmingham section of the Great Western railway, 9½ south-west from Winslow, 7 east from Bicester and 11 north-west from Aylesbury: it is in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred and petty sessional division of Ashendon, rural district of Aylesbury, rural deanery of Claydon, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. The church of St. Leonard is an ancient building of mixed styles, and consists of a chancel, nave, and an embattled western tower with turret containing 3 bells, dated 1621, 1644 and 1677: the edifice dates from the latter half of the 12th century, with the exception of the tower, which is of the 15th century, and the chancel, which is of the early part of the 14th century: the interior was restored in 1866, when a five-light window, carefully renewed from the mutilated remains of its predecessor, was placed at the east end; the nave roof was also repaired, an open-timbered roof placed over the chancel, the chancel arch restored and the fittings in the chancel renewed; the pulpit, dated 1620, was set up afresh on a pedestal of Bath stone, and the font repaired in a similar manner; the nave was seated with oak benches and a lectern introduced: in 1902 the exterior was restored: an organ was provided in 1914: the church contains monuments to Lord and Lady Saye and Sele and to the family of Pigott: in the chancel and nave are piscinæ in good preservation; and on the south side is a doorway of 1220: the church plate includes a cup dated 1569 and a paten dated 1570. There are 150 sittings. The register dates from the year 1560 for marriages and 1592 for burials and baptisms. The living is a rectory, with that of Edgcott united in 1930, joint net yearly value £660, and residence, in the gift of Lady Pigott-Brown and O. G. Field Marsham esq. T.D., J.P. alternately, and held since 1913 by the Rev. Sidney Hugh Charles Wynne, of London University. This living has been in the gift of the Pigott family from 1519. There is a small Baptist chapel at KINGSWOOD, in this parish, erected in 1851, and seating 80 persons. A technical institute was erected in 1911. The charities are: Thomas Pigott's charity of £2 yearly for apprenticing; Dame Anne's Pigott's of £4, half for providing Bibles for children on their leaving the school and the rest for educational purposes; and Lady Saye and Sele's, which provides an annual sum for apprenticing three or four lads at a premium of £40 each. On a hill behind the village in a park of about 120 acres stands Grendon Hall, now the residence of Charles David Wilson esq.; it is a mansion in the Elizabethan style, with a frontage of 150 feet towards the south-west, and contains some old oak carving. Shakespeare Farm is an ancient Elizabethan house, formerly an inn, where it is said Shakespeare occasionally slept when journeying between Stratford and London: the comedies of "A Midsummer Night's Dream" and "Much Ado About Nothing" are said to have been inspired here and the former partly written in the adjoining woods. The land is mostly owned by the farmers. The soil is clay; subsoil, clay. The land is principally pasture. The area is 2,565 acres; the population in 1931 was 302.

By Local Government Board Order 19,622, dated March 25, 1886, the Crooked Billet Inn was transferred from Waddesdon.

GROVE is a parish on the borders of Bedfordshire, 2 miles south from Leighton Buzzard station on the London, Midland and Scottish railway, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred of Cottesloe, petty sessional division of Linslade, rural district of Wing, county court district of Bletchley and Leighton Buzzard, rural deanery of Ivinghoe, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. The Grand Junction canal and the London, Midland and Scottish railway pass through the parish. The church of St. Michael is a very small stone edifice in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave and porch and a western bell-cote containing one bell, dated 1676: it retains an ancient font: the church was thoroughly restored in 1883, when it was re-seated with open benches, a new pulpit and reading desk provided and a porch added: the church now affords 50 sittings, but was once a considerably larger structure, since some continuous foundations of the walls have been met with in the churchyard. The register dates from the year 1689. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £45, including glebe, in the gift of the Bishop of Oxford, and held since 1932 by the Rev. Ernest Crane, who is also vicar of Wing, where he resides. Stephen Gardiner LL.D. master of Trinity Hall, Cambridge, and Bishop of Winchester 1531-52 and 1553-6, was sometimes rector here. An Isolation Hospital for the North Bucks Joint Hospital Board was built in 1897 with three separate wards for cases of diphtheria, scarlet fever and typhoid; there are about 40 beds and every modern convenience: during the past few years it has been greatly enlarged, an observation block having been added. Anthony Gustav de Rothschild esq. D.L. and Frank Warren esq. are the principal landowners. The soil is loam; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, beans and barley. The area is 427 acres of land and 10 of water; the population in 1931 was 29.

HADDENHAM is a very large and populous village and parish, with a station on the Great Western and London and North Eastern joint railway, opened to this village in 1906, and lies on the borders of Oxfordshire and on the road from Thame to Aylesbury, which forms the boundary of the parish on the north side, 3 miles north-east from Thame, 5 north-west from Princes Risborough, 7 south-west from Aylesbury and 3½ from London (by rail), in the Aylesbury division of the county, hundred and petty sessional division of Princes Risborough, rural district of Aylesbury, county court district of Thame, rural deanery of Aylesbury, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. The church of St. Mary the Virgin, which dates from about 1215, is an ancient edifice of stone in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, with Lady chapel, nave, aisles, north porch and a western tower containing 8 bells and a clock: the upper part of the tower has Early English arcading: there are two piscinæ in the church, and a third in the Lady chapel; the font is of very earliest first-pointed work, with Romanesque features: there is a monument in black marble and alabaster, in the Classic or Renaissance style, to the memory of Sir Richard Beke, of Haddenham, ob. 8 Jan. 1627: there is a brass, with effigy, to Thomas Nash, vicar 1428: the brass demi-effigy of another ecclesiastic, c. 1420, and an inscription only to Gylles Wodbyrge and Elizabeth, his wife, both ob. 3 Aug. year not given, but early 16th century: on the south wall of the chancel is a marble monument to John Marriott M.A. ob. 1716, and members of his family: the silver paten and chalice, dated 1707, were his gift: suspended in the Lady chapel is an Elizabethan helmet which shows traces of having been richly gilded; in 1929 the roof of the north and south aisles were restored with oak and the interior of the western tower was reconstructed for use as a choir vestry: in 1935 a set of new hangings for the altar and sanctuary was presented by parishioners, and in the course of other renovations an ancient oak communion table dated 1707 was discovered and restored to its former use: behind this is a large recess known as an Easter Sepulchre, one of the very few to be seen in this country: the east window in the Lady chapel was restored in 1928 in memory of the men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. There are 350 sittings. The register dates from the year 1603. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £415, with residence, in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Rochester, and held since 1926 by the Rev. Percy Edward Hughes M.A. of Oxford University, Mus.Bac. Queen's College, Oxford, who is a surrogate. The Baptist chapel, built in 1810, will seat 500 persons; the Methodist chapel, built in 1822, affords 300 sittings. Near Fort square is the Friends' burying ground, used from 1682 to 1872. Charities:—The alms corn charity, consisting of 16 bushels of barley and 8 of wheat, was originally appropriated to small occupiers of land, and was given as seed corn; it is now distributed on Good Friday to the poor; the apprentice charity, chargeable on an estate at Easington, Oxon, is of the annual value of £2 13s. which sum is devoted to the apprenticing of poor boys belonging to the parish of Haddenham; a benefaction to the church consists of three-quarters of an acre of land at Bradmoor, now producing £2 yearly, which is devoted to church expenses; a charity of the original value of £50, left by George Francklin esq. many years ago, but now reduced to £37 3s. 8d. annually distributed to the poor inhabitants in bread. Willis's charity, being the interest of £900 Consols, is for coals, but in 1903 a part of this charity was withdrawn and invested in the purchase of an allotment field for £650: the total sum now derived from both sources is £26. On the green, opposite the church, is an obelisk of Portland stone 14 feet in height and standing on a large base, built at a cost of £200 by the parishioners in memory of those men from the village who gave their lives for their country in the Great War, 1914-18; the memorial was unveiled by the Marquis of Lincolnshire K.G., P.C., G.C.M.G. in October, 1921. In this parish are two mineral springs, one at Dadbrook and the other on the Manor Farm. Magdalen College, Oxford, are the principal landowners. Grenville Manor was a small ancient manor in the parish. The soil is loam and limestone; subsoil, clay, gravel and limestone. The chief crops are wheat, barley, beans and turnips. The area is 3,261 acres of land and 13 of water; population in 1931, 1,361.

HALTON is a parish and small village in the Aylesbury division of the county, 2 miles north-by-east from Wendover station on the Metropolitan and London and North Eastern joint railway, and 5 south-east from Aylesbury; it is in the hundred, petty sessional division, rural district and county court district of Aylesbury, rural deanery of Wendover, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. A branch of the Grand Junction canal and a portion of the Icknield Way run through this parish. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Chiltern Hills Spring Water Co. The church of St. Michael and All Angels is a small building of stone, chiefly in the Early English style, consisting of sanctuary, clerestoried nave of five bays, aisles, south porch and an embattled western tower containing 4 bells; it was rebuilt in 1813, and was restored throughout in 1886-7, and again in 1914: on the north wall of the sanctuary is a brass with effigy to Henry Bradshaw, chief Baron of the Exchequer, ob.
27 July, 1553; and there is another to the Rev. Herbert Alfred Grantham, rector of Halton 1883-95: there are 130 sittings. The registers dates from about the year 1606. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £280, in the gift of the Oxford Diocesan Board, and held since 1895 by the Rev. Charles Edmund Roberts M.A. of St. John's College, Oxford, rural dean of Wendover, and surrogate, who resides at The Limes, Stoke Mandeville. Bradshaw's charity amounts to £20 yearly, Lambert's to about £4, Turpin's to 20s. and Dagnall's 6s. 8d. The land, which is owned by the Crown, is utilised by the Government for military purposes. The soil is chalky; subsoil, chalk, clay and gravel. The chief crops are wheat, barley, beans &c.

The area is 1,444 acres, of which there are about 500 acres of beechwood and 12 of water; the population in 1931 was 3,332 (including that part of the B.A.F. camp in the parish).

HAMBLEDEN is a pretty village and widely scattered parish, in a fertile valley, sheltered by extensive woods on the east and west and bounded by the Thames on the south, 4 miles north-north-east from Henley-on-Thames terminal station on a branch of the Great Western railway, 5 west from Marlow and 11 south-west from Wycombe: it is in the Wycombe division of the county, hundred of Desborough, petty sessional division of Desborough or Marlow, county court district of Henley, rural district and rural deanery of Wycombe, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Marlow Water Co.

The church of the Virgin Mary is a cruciform structure of flint and stone, in the Decorated style, but much altered and modernised, consisting of chancel, nave, transepts, south porch and an embattled western tower, built in 1721, with four turrets and vanes, containing a clock and 6 bells: the font and a door in the north transept are Norman: the stained east window is a memorial to Anna Susanna Nixon, and was erected by her daughter Augusta Eliza Scott-Murray, of The Manor House; there are three other stained windows in the chancel, as well as piscina and sedilia: in the north transept is a monument of alabaster to Sir Cope D'Oyley kt. D.L. of Chiselmhampton, Oxon, and justice of Oyer and Terminer, who died 4th Aug. 1633, and to Martha (Quarles) his wife, who died in 1618, with kneeling effigies of both and of five sons and five daughters; there is also a marble monument to John Greene esq. lord of the manor of Ewdon, alias Greeneland, dated 1687: there are three stained windows in the north transept, and in the south transept a memorial window to Augusta Eliza Scott-Murray, erected by her daughter, Augusta Eliza Anna Murray and one to Rear-Admiral William Coddington C.B. d. 1888; two others erected in the nave in 1899 are a memorial to the Rt. Hon. W. H. Smith M.P. d. 6 Oct. 1891; one in the tower is to the Rev. Canon W. H. Ridley M.A. rector here 1840-82; there is a marble monument to Edward Marjoribanks, of Greenelands, dated 1868; in the nave are several monuments and fragments of brasses; and at the west end, under the tower, are other fragments of brasses and a large carved oak chest, said to have been formed from Cardinal Wolsey's bedstead: here also is a canopied monument of freestone, supported by two fluted pillars, to "Raffe Scrope esq. cousin unto Henry, Lord Scrope, of Bolton," dated 1572: in 1883 the tower was raised 10 feet, refaced with flint, and stone buttresses added, the bells being also rehung: the church itself had been previously restored in 1858-9: the lady chapel was built out of a portion of the south-east transept known as the "Sheepfold" in 1914, in memory of the Rt. Hon. W. H. Smith M.P. and Emily Viscountess Hambleton, his widow, by their family: in 1925 the sanctuary was resteped and repaved with York and Portland stone by the 2nd Viscount Hambleton in memory of his father (Rt. Hon. W. H. Smith M.P.), and in 1930 the choir was paved, oak choir stalls and organ screen erected in memory of William Frederick, 2nd Viscount Hambleton, by his family and friends: there are 500 sittings: in the churchyard is a mausoleum to members of the Kenrick and Clayton families and a marble memorial to the Rev. Canon William Henry Ridley M.A. rector 1840-82: a new graveyard was opened in 1889, an acre of land having been presented for the purpose by the Rt. Hon. W. H. Smith M.P. to whose memory the lych gate at the entrance was erected in 1893 by the inhabitants of Hambleton and Remenham, and to whom there is also a granite cross. The register dates from the year 1566. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £600, with residence, in the gift of Viscount Hambleton, and held since 1937 by the Rev. Wilfred Edward Watts M.A. of Selwyn College, Cambridge. St. John the Evangelists' chapel of ease, at FRIETH, in the north of the parish, is an edifice of flint, with stone dressings, in the Gothic style, erected by the Rev. Canon W. H. Ridley M.A. then rector, in 1848 and enlarged in 1872, when the south aisle was added; it now consists of chancel, nave, south aisle, north porch and a bell-cote containing one bell: in the chancel are two stained windows, one of which, by the late Mr. Kempe, is a memorial to Frederick Edward Cripps; there are others to Mrs. C. A. Cripps, of this parish, and H. W. Cripps esq. Q.C. Chancellor of the diocese of Oxford, d. 14 Aug. 1899, and to Arthur D. Cripps, his son, d. 30th Dec. 1903; at the west end is a memorial window to the Rev. Henry Colborne Ridley, rector here from 1804, and another at the west end of the aisle to the

Rev. Canon W. H. Ridley M.A.: there are 220 sittings. In the museum at Hambleton, built by Viscount Hambleton, are many exhibits of a Roman house excavated in this parish in 1912. A stone cross has been erected to the memory of those of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. At FRIETH is a village hall, erected by Lord Parmoor P.C., K.C.V.O. as a memorial to his first wife. The charities for the poor in Hambleton parish amount to about £30 yearly, those for education to £4 10s. and the church charities to £30 a year. The Working Men's Institute at Hambleton, erected in 1890 by the Rt. Hon. W. H. Smith M.P. on a site given by C. A. Scott-Murray esq. J.P. contains reading, games and lecture rooms and a small library. A home of rest for aged persons on his estate was erected in 1897-9 by Viscount Hambleton as a memorial to his father, and in commemoration of the Diamond Jubilee of Queen Victoria. Greenlands, the seat of Viscount Hambleton, stands on the banks of the river Thames, and has extensive flower gardens tastefully laid out; the grounds contain some fine cedars of Lebanon and a splendid Wellingtonia: the house was fortified during the Civil War and stood a six months' siege in 1644; during the enlargement of the house in 1853, and again in 1894, several cannon balls were dug up. The Manor House, built by Emmanuel (le Scrope), first and only Earl of Sunderland of this family (d. 1630), is the property of Viscount Hambleton: Charles the First is said to have taken refuge here in 1646 after his escape from Oxford, then invested by Fairfax: Lt.-Gen. James Thomas Brudenell, 7th Earl of Cardigan K.C.B. who led the famous charge of the Light Brigade at Balaklava, was born at this house 16th Oct. 1797, and died 27 March, 1868. Hambleton was the birth-place of St. Thomas de Cantelupe, bishop of Hereford, 1275-82, who was baptized in the Norman font still existing in the church. Parmoor, the property and residence of Lord Parmoor P.C., K.C.V.O. is a building which is said to have belonged to the Knights Templars; portions of the present building are of considerable age, but the house has been renovated and partly rebuilt in recent years. The house is a very fine one, and stands in a park and extensive gardens, and commands fine views over the Chiltern Hills and the downs of Berkshire and Hampshire. Yewden Manor, which probably takes its name from the avenues of ancient yews, at least 400 years old, in its grounds, is the property of Viscount Hambleton and residence of Mrs. Bulteel; Bactres, also the property of Viscount Hambleton, is the residence of Miss Maud Grenfell J.P. and has been much enlarged. Viscount Hambleton, who is lord of the manor, and Lord Parmoor P.C., K.C.V.O. are the principal landowners. The chief crops are wheat, barley and some pasture land. The soil is light and chalky. The area is 6,517 acres of land and inland water; the population in 1931 was 1,257 in the civil and 1,272 in the ecclesiastical parish.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, part of this civil parish was transferred to Fingest.

SKIRMETT is a hamlet 3 miles north. The church of All Saints, built in 1887, is a structure of flint and brick, with a belfry containing one bell, and affords 144 sittings. There is also a small Gospel Hall. PARMOOR is 2 miles north-east; Frieth is 2½ miles north-east; MILL END one mile south; ROCKALL END is 1½ miles north-east; PHEASANTS HILL is 2 miles north-east of Skirmett and has a Congregational chapel, built in 1807, and seating 200 persons.

GREAT AND LITTLE HAMPDEN form a parish in the Aylesbury division of the county, in the hundred and petty sessional division of Aylesbury, rural district and county court district of High Wycombe, rural deanery of Aylesbury, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Great Hampden is 4 miles south-east from Princes Risborough station on the Metropolitan and Great Central (Joint) railway, from Baker street, London, 5 south-south-west from Wendover and 6 north from High Wycombe. By a Local Government Board Order which came into operation March 25, 1885, parts of Little Hampden and Stoke Mandeville were amalgamated with Great Hampden, and the latter so altered was designated Great and Little Hampden. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Rural Districts Water Co. The church of St. Mary Magdalen is an ancient structure of flint and stone in various styles, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave of three bays, aisles, large south porch furnished with stone seats and a small embattled tower at the south-west angle containing 3 bells: the chancel is Perpendicular, and retains a piscina with shelf and drain; on either side of the chancel arch is a hagiostope: the piers and arches of the nave arcade are Decorated and the lower part of the tower is Early English, the upper stage Perpendicular: the porch retains a portion of the ancient stoup: there are many memorials to the Hampdens, including brasses to John Hampden esq. with effigy in armour, 1496, and Elizabeth his wife, also with effigy, and figures of four sons and six daughters; Sir John Hampden, knt, 1553, also in armour, with effigies of two wives and three daughters; Griffith Hampden esq. 1591, and Anne (Cave) his wife, 1594, with a quartered shield above the inscription; and to William Hampden esq. son and heir of above, 1597, with a shield displaying twelve quarterings; John Hampden, who received his death wound at Chalgrove Field, June 18, 1643, and died at Thame, June 24, was buried in this church the next day, June 25, as appears from the parish register; a fine monument representing the wounded patriot falling from his horse, with the church and village of Chalgrove in the background, was erected to his memory by the Hon. Robert Trevor, who succeeded to the estates on the death of John Hampden esq. the last male heir, in 1754: on the south side of the chancel is a mural monument to Elizabeth (Simeon), first wife of John Hampden the patriot, who died 20 Aug. 1634: the inscription was written by Hampden himself, and a memorial east window has also been presented: on July 21, 1828, a body, believed to be that of Hampden, was disinterred in the presence of Lord Nugent and other gentlemen, in order to ascertain beyond dispute the cause of his death, and from the evidences then presented it is believed that the statement of his having been mortally hurt by the bursting of his over-charged pistol is correct; great doubt has however been expressed as to whether the remains thus examined were in fact those of John Hampden; there are, besides, monuments of this family 1634-1754, and others to Thomas Kempthorne esq. 1738, and Anne (Hampden) his wife; John Mosse LL.D. rector, 1785, and Jane and Anna Maria, his wives; to the family of Welch, 1722-3: the lady chapel was restored and a stained glass window inserted in 1939 in memory of Alan Cameron Gardner: in 1894 the church was restored and in 1899-1900 the exterior walls at the west end of the church and tower were renovated, a dry area dug all round the building, and the old oak roof of the nave thoroughly repaired: there are 200 sittings: in the churchyard are brick tombs to Robert Viscount Hampden, 1783, and Constantia, his wife, 1761: the lands for which the patriot, John Hampden, refused to pay ship money are in this parish, which see. The register of baptisms and burials dates from the year 1557; marriages, 1559. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £370, in the gift of the Earl of Buckinghamshire, and held since 1931 by the Rev. Lionel Wm. E. C. Somers-Cocks Branford B.A. of University College, Durham. The Hampden memorial, a plain stone, surmounted by a Maltese cross, was erected in 1863 near to Honor End farm, and bears the following inscription:

"For these lands in Stoke Mandeville

was assessed 20s. ship money, levied by command of the King without authority of law, 4th August, 1635. By resisting this claim of the King, in legal strife, he upheld the rights of the people under the law, and became entitled to grateful remembrance. His work on earth ended after the conflict in Chalgrove field, the 18th of June, 1643.

A road across the common was made by the inhabitants to commemorate the villagers who fell during the Great War, 1914-18, an inscribed tablet is erected at the side of the road. Hampden House, owned by the Earl of Buckinghamshire, at present a girls' school, is a large embattled mansion, occupying the site of the ancient house, and standing in extensive grounds; the principal front, erected by Robert, first Viscount Hampden, is over 200 feet in length: the interior presents an arrangement of convenient rather than magnificent apartments and contains a portrait of Oliver Cromwell, a painting on wood, by Zuccero, of Princess Elizabeth, and other portraits: the remains of the Hampden library include a large 4to Bible, formerly belonging to Philip Cromwell and containing minute records of that family: the parish church is situated in the grounds nearly adjoining the house. The manor was originally granted by Edward the Confessor to the family of Hampden, in which it continued until 1754, when it passed to the Trevor family. In 1824 the property passed to the then Earl of Buckinghamshire. The Earl of Buckinghamshire, who is lord of the manor, and whose ancestor, Sir John Hobart K.B. married, c. 1655, Mary, 2nd daughter of John Hampden, is the principal landowner. The soil is clay and gravel; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, oats and barley. The area of the united parish is 3,095 acres; the population in 1931 was 332 in the civil and 281 in the ecclesiastical parish.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, parts of Hughenden, Monks Risborough, Princes Risborough and Wendover were added to the civil parish, and part transferred to Great Missenden.

LITTLE HAMPDEN is a village 7 miles north from High Wycombe, 5 east from Princes Risborough railway station on the Great Western and London and North Eastern Joint railway and on the Wycombe, Thame, Oxford and Aylesbury branch of the G. W. railway and 3 south-east from Great Missenden station on the Metropolitan and Great Central Joint railway. The church (dedication unknown) is a very small but ancient building of stone and dating from about 1250, and consisting of chancel, nave and north porch with bell chamber over containing one bell: the chancel was rebuilt in 1859; on the south side of the chancel is a handsome piscina and an ancient stone figure of a bishop with a crozier in his left hand; his right hand being uplifted in the act of benediction: the original altar slab still exists: in 1907 some ancient frescoes were uncovered, one representing St. Christopher, another St. Peter and St. Paul, the remainder are fragmentary; further frescoes have since been discovered: the church was in part new roofed in 1906, and affords 50 sittings. In an addition to the churchyard, given by Llewellyn Atkinson esq. is a limestone cross, erected in memory of the men of Little Hampden who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. The register dates from the year 1660. The living is consolidated with the rectory of Great Hampden. Mrs. Trevor-Battye is lady of the manor, the principal landowners are Mrs. Trevor-Battye, Lt.-Col. William Francis Challinor D.S.O., T.D., J.P. and Clifford Henry Figg esq. Letters through Great Missenden, nearest M. O. & T. office

HANSLOPE is a large parish and village on the borders of Northamptonshire, $4\frac{1}{2}$ miles north from the Wolverton station, and 2 north from Castle Thorpe station, both on the London, Midland and Scottish railway, $6\frac{1}{2}$ north-west from Newport Pagnell, 5 north from Stony Stratford, and 10 from Northampton, in the Buckingham division of the county, county court district of Northampton, hundred, petty sessional division and rural district of Newport Pagnell, rural deanery of Wolverton, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. Water is available. Water is supplied by the Newport Pagnell Rural District Council. The church of St. James the Great is an ancient edifice of the Norman, Early English and Perpendicular periods, consisting of chancel with aisles, nave, clerestory, lighted by six windows on either side, aisles, north and south porches, and a lofty battlemented western tower, with octagonal panelled and crocketed pinnacles at the angles, and containing a clock and 6 fine bells, a sixth having been added in 1906; the spire, built of Ketton stone, A.D. 1391, by Thomas Knight, then rector, and reaching, together with the tower, a height of 200 feet, was struck by lightning June 23rd, 1804, and subsequently rebuilt, the total height now being 180 feet; flying buttresses, pierced with quatrefoils, support the spire, which has two tiers or windows and richly crocketed ribs; in the chancel are considerable remains of Norman work, including the chancel arch, above which there is a coat of arms of King Charles II. and a doorway in the north wall, with zigzag and other ornament; two 12th century stone coffins were found during the restoration of the side chapel: the nave is separated from the aisles by arcades of four arches; the chancel arch is plain Norman; only two Early English windows now remain, and part of the church, including the tower, is Perpendicular; in the Troughton chapel are some memorials to that family, including a brass to the parents of Richard Troughton, and a second to Maria, daughter of Thomas Birchmore, 1602, besides four stones from which the brasses have been removed: in March, 1884, a memorial window was placed in the chancel, and in 1893, another was presented by Lingard Monk esq. of Fulshaw Manor, Cheshire, in memory of his daughter: there is a stained glass window in the south aisle, below which is a stone tablet inscribed with the names of 20 men connected with the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18: there are 600 sittings. The register dates from the year 1570. The living is a vicarage with the chapelry of Castle Thorpe annexed, joint net yearly value £384, and residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Oxford, and held since 1930 by the Rev. James Percy Taylor. There are two Baptist chapels, one erected in 1809 and seating 200 persons, now closed, and another, built in 1867, with 100 sittings: there is also a Methodist chapel, with 200 sittings. A working men's club, containing bagatelle, card and reading rooms, was opened in 1896. In 1932 a recreation ground of seven acres was purchased by the Parish Council. The feeoffee estate of 61 acres produces £182 yearly for upkeep of the church, educational purposes and gifts to the poor. Several small charities have been merged into the united charities, the income of which is about £22 per annum; this amount is used to supply bread, clothing and medical attendance. Hanslope Park, the property and residence of Robert Poore-Saurin-Watts esq. J.P. is about 322 acres in extent and contains two small ponds. The manor of Tathall anciently belonged to the family of Tathall and afterwards to the Lanes; it was sold by Sir William Wake bart. who inherited it by female descent from the Lanes, to Edward Watts esq. who acquired also by purchase from the Howe family the manors of Stoke and Singleton, which formerly belonged to the Pigott family. Robert Poore-Saurin-Watts esq. J.P. is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is mixed; subsoil, stones, gravel and clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley and roots. The area is 5,783 acres of land and 18 of water; the population in 1931 was 1,161 in the civil and 1,622 in the ecclesiastical parish.

By an Order of the Joint Committee of the Bucks and Northamptonshire County Councils, confirmed by Local Government Board Order, 15 Oct. 1894, that portion of Hanslope parish in Northamptonshire was transferred to Hartwell parish in that county.

HARDMEAD is a parish 5½ miles north-east from Newport Pagnell terminal station on a branch of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, 8 south-east from Olney station on the Bedford and Northampton branch of the same railway, and 8 from Bedford, in the Buckingham division of the county, county court district of Bedford, hundred, petty sessional division, rural district and rural deanery of Newport, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Water is supplied by the Newport Pagnell Rural District Council. The church of St. Mary, built in the 12th century, is a small edifice of stone, chiefly in the Early English style, and consists of chancel, nave of two bays with clerestory, aisles, south porch and low embattled western tower of Perpendicular date containing 3 bells, only 2 of which are now in use: the church was restored in 1861 and contains some memorials of the Catesbys, including a brass, with effigy in a furled robe, to Francis Catesby, youngest son of Antony Catesby, of Whyston esq. 1556, with effigy in civil dress and an inscription;

and the recumbent effigy of another Francis Catesby, 1636: there is a scroll, framed in oak, containing the names of 6 men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18: there are 96 sittings. The register dates from the year 1536. There is a list of rectors from the year 1223. The living is a rectory, united with that of Astwood, joint net yearly value £380, and held since 1939 by the Rev.

The payment in lieu of the Town Land amounts to £2 yearly, which is distributed in coal. Rt. Rev. Roscow G. Shedden D.D. is the principal landowner. The soil is clay. The chief crops are wheat, oats, beans, barley and roots. The area is 1,211 acres; the population in 1931 was 83.

By Local Government Board Order 18,130, dated March 25, 1886, a detached part of Hardmead was added to Emberton for civil purposes.

HARDWICKE is a parish, on the road to Buckingham, 4 miles north of Aylesbury station, on the Great Western, Metropolitan and London and North Eastern Joint and London, Midland and Scottish railways, and 13 south-east from Buckingham, in the Aylesbury division of the county, hundred of Cottesloe, petty sessional division, rural district and county court district of Aylesbury, rural deanery of Mursley, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. The church of St. Mary is a building of stone of various dates, a window over the north door is of pre-Conquest date; it consists of chancel, nave, south aisle, south porch and a western square embattled tower containing a clock, 6 bells and a sanctus bell and a south porch: in the south aisle is a very curious monument to Sir Thomas Lee knt. dated 1616: there are also seven tablets to former rectors of this parish: at the east end of the aisle is a curious circular window and a piscina: the church was restored in 1872-3, when several stained windows were inserted, principally through the munificence of Peter Reid esq.: there is also a memorial window to the Rev. Christopher

Erle M.A. rector from 1833, and a brass eagle lectern has been placed in the church as a memorial to Philip Cazenove esq. by his son, Henry Cazenove esq. who died 1894: on the north side of the nave is a stained window commemorating the silver wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Cazenove: a font was presented about 1893 by Miss C. M. Yonge, and in 1901 a reredos was erected in memory of the Rev. W. H. Biggwith, rector 1870-99: there is a Crusaders' jug in the south wall at the end of the nave: there are 360 sittings: in the churchyard is a lych gate, and on the south side is a monument recording the re-interment by Lord Nugent of 247 persons killed at the battle of Aylesbury, March 21st, 1642, which had been found in a field near Aylesbury. The registers date from the 16th century and are very imperfect. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £820, and residence, in the gift of New College, Oxford, and held since 1939 by the Rev. Thomas Eric Bleiben M.A. of that college. In the churchyard is a stone cross erected in memory of the men of the parish who gave their lives in the Great War, 1914-18; their names are inscribed on the base of the memorial. There is a Mission hall, built in 1883, and seating 150 persons. Two charities of £3 each are annually distributed in bread to the poor; there are also small charities left by Dr. Barker and Dr. Dummer, rectors in the 17th century, one left by T. C. Howland esq. in 1882, and one by W. B. Brown esq. in 1915. Some gigantic Saurian and other fossil remains discovered here were presented by a former rector to the Museum of Practical Geology, in London. The Warden and Fellows of New College, Oxford, are lords of the manor. The ownership of the land is divided. The soil is clay and gravel; subsoil, clay. The land is principally in pasture. The chief crops are wheat, beans and hay. The area is 1,213 acres; the population in 1931 was 144 in the civil and 426 in the ecclesiastical parish.

WEEDON is a hamlet of the ecclesiastical parish of Hardwicke, 3 miles north from Aylesbury and 14 south-east from Buckingham. A service is held at the school at stated times by the rector of Hardwicke. The Methodist chapel, built in 1854 and restored in 1913 at a cost of £1,000, has a burial ground attached; in the churchyard is a stone cross of the same design as that in the churchyard at Hardwicke, erected in memory of the men of the parish who gave their lives in the Great War, 1914-18; the Methodist chapel, built 1892, will seat 150 persons. The poor's allotment of 28 acres is under the management of the Parish Council and Weedon Union Benefit Club, to whom a part belongs. The poor of the hamlet have £20 yearly distributed to them, principally in coal, and they also share in the Hardwicke charities. The principal landowners are Miss Heap, G. A. Pratt esq. Joseph Mortimer Paine esq. J.P., T. James esq. and New College, Oxford. Lilies the seat of Miss Heap, is a mansion of red brick with stone dressings, erected in 1870 and standing in a well-wooded park and grounds of about 100 acres, containing fine trees and shrubs; some of these trees have at the foot a stone in the shape of a chair, each with the name of a prominent man of the day inscribed thereon; the trees were presumably planted by Lord Nugent when one of the former mansions was his property, and is called "the circle of friends;" one stone has a Latin inscription to the effect that it was hoped the friends would often meet there. The area is 1,790 acres of land and 6 of water; the population in 1931 was 282.

HARTWELL is a parish 2 miles south-west from Aylesbury station on the Great Western, Metropolitan and London and North Eastern Joint railway and London, Midland and Scottish railway, and 7½ north-east from Thame, in the Aylesbury division of the county, hundred, petty sessional division, rural district, county court district and rural deanery of Aylesbury, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Chiltern Hills Water Co. The church, which is named in honour of The Assumption of the Virgin Mary, and stands in Hartwell Park, was rebuilt, on the old foundations, after the model of the chapter-house at York, by Sir William Lee, 4th bart. his uncle, Sir William Lee kt. P.C. Lord Chief Justice of the King's Bench, who contributed £1,000, and his uncle Sir George Lee kt. P.C., LL.D. who gave £500; the structure, completed in 1756, is an octagon, of fine stone, with square towers on the east and west, the former constituting the chancel and the latter serving as a vestibule: there are 3 bells: in the east window are shields of the arms of the Hampden, Lee and Harcourt families, and at the intersections of the mullions the crests of Ramsden and Lee: a memorial window was erected by the Misses Lee in memory of their eldest brother,

Lee Percival Lee, who died at Versailles; there is another to John Lee LL.D. who died Feb. 25th, 1866; one placed in 1899 by Col. E. D. Lee J.P. and his sisters to their mother, and one to Col. E. D. Lee J.P. inserted 1911 by Mrs. Goodall and Miss Lee: the ceiling, richly ornamented with tracery, is a splendid piece of workmanship in imitation of that of King's College, Cambridge: the font is of marble, on a wooden pedestal, and the pulpit and reading desk are of oak: the church affords 80 sittings. The register dates from the year 1551. The living is a rectory, annexed to the vicarage of Stone, joint net yearly value £630, in the gift of , and held since 1932 by the Rev. William Harry Wiggett M.A., L.Th. of Durham University, who resides at Stone. The interest on £117 given to the poor of this place by King Louis XVIII. of France is distributed in cash. The interest on £100 in Consols, bequeathed in 1868 by John Lee LL.D. of Hartwell House, and on a sum given by Miss F. O. Lee, is distributed to the poor in coals. In this parish are several remarkable springs, one of which has attracted much notice on account of a building constructed over it, which is in the Egyptian style, from a design by Mr. Joseph Bonomi A.B.A. and bears inscriptions composed after the style of the sacred hieroglyphics of the Mizraimites by Dr.

S. Birch, formerly of the British Museum; the cost of erection was defrayed by the late lord of the manor. Hartwell House stands in a park of 123 acres and is approached by a fine avenue of trees; it came into the possession of the Lee family in 1570 through a female branch of the Hampden family; the present building, a spacious mansion, was modernised by Sir William Lee, 4th bart. and contains a large apartment, formerly used as a private chapel; the interior of the house is richly adorned with carved work, the grand staircase and muniment room deserving particular notice; in the grounds are several statues and monuments, including an equestrian statue of Frederick Lewis, Prince of Wales, who died 31st March, 1751. Louis XVIII. of France, during his exile, resided in this house from 1807 to 1814; it is now (1939), unoccupied. The soil is rich loam; subsoil, sand, limestone and Kimmeridge clay. The chief crops are wheat, beans and oats, but the land is principally grazed upon. The area is 913 acres of land and 5 of water; the population in 1931 was 100.

HAVERSHAM-cum-LITTLE LINFORD is a civil parish formed by the Bucks Review Order, 1934, comprising the former parishes of Haversham and Little Linford; it is in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred, petty sessional division and rural district of Newport Pagnell, county court district of Bletchley and Leighton Buzzard. The area is 2,361 acres; the population in 1931 was 209.

HAVERSHAM is a parish in a fertile valley on the river Ouse, 1½ miles north-east from Wolverton station on the London, Midland and Scottish railway, 14 from Northampton, 16 from Bedford and 3½ south-west from Newport Pagnell, in the rural deanery of Wolverton, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. The church, dedication unknown, is an edifice of stone, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave, aisles, south porch and an embattled western tower containing 4 bells; the tower was restored and the bells rehung in 1903; the tower, south porch, piers and arches of nave, and one or two windows, are Early English; the south aisle, chapel, porch and the chancel windows are Decorated, and the clerestory and remaining parts of the church Perpendicular; there are eight stained windows; during the restoration in 1857 a window, with decoration of c. 1170, was found above the tower arch, and piscina in the chancel, and sedilia in the lady chapel were discovered; attached to the pulpit is a curious iron hour glass frame, supposed to date from the time of the Protectorate; on the north side of the chancel is an altar tomb of alabaster, standing under a lofty and elegant double-feathered arch, enriched with crockets, and lined with panelled tracery; on the tomb is the recumbent effigy of a lady, her head resting on cushions supported by angels, and her feet on a lion; the side of the tomb is divided into six trefoil-headed niches, each containing a statuette, and above each, along the hollow verge of the tomb, a rose; the figure is believed to represent Elizabeth (de la Plaunch), who married 1st, Robert 5th Baron Grey of Rotherfield, and on his death in 1387 became the 2nd wife of Sir John de Clinton, 3rd Baron Clinton, who died in 1423; the tomb was repaired by Dorothy, wife of Maurice Thompson esq. in 1665; there is a brass to Alicia Payn, 1427, wife of Thomas Payn esq. one with a skeleton to John Maunsell, gent. 1605, several tablets to former rectors and members of the Greaves family, and a memorial window, erected in 1897, to the Rev. Arthur Bruce Frazer M.A. rector 1856-89; a carved oak eagle lectern was presented in 1867 by Miss Hooper; the organ dates from 1664 and was originally erected in Hackney parish church; in the north aisle is a brass plate on a marble mural tablet, on which are inscribed the names of 6 men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18; there are 220 sittings; the churchyard was enlarged in 1869 by a portion of land, the gift of the lord of the manor. The register of baptisms dates from the year 1665, that of marriages from 1685, and that of burials from 1670. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £350, including 7 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Church Pastoral Aid Society Board of Patronage Trust, and held since 1929 by the Rev. Samuel Hilton M.A. of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge. A. G. O. Randall esq. Oscar Souster esq. and R. Bruce Knapp esq. are the principal landowners. The soil is mixed; and the crops are wheat, oats and beans. The population in 1931 was 164.

HAWRIDGE is a parish and village on the borders of Herts, 3 miles north from Chesham terminal station on the Metropolitan and London and North Eastern Joint railway, 3½ miles west from Berkhamsted station on the London, Midland and Scottish railway, 4 south from Tring and 11 from Aylesbury, in the Aylesbury division of the county, hundred of Cottesloe, rural district of Aylesbury, petty sessional division and county court district of Chesham, rural deanery of Wendover, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Chiltern Hills Spring Water Co. The church of St. Mary is an edifice of cut flint with stone dressings, in the Early English style, rebuilt in 1856, consisting of chancel, nave, transept, south porch and small western bell turret containing 4 bells; there is a circular Norman font, some memorials of the Seare family, and a monument to Dorothy (Kitson), wife of Sir Thomas Pakington kt.; she died in 1577; the church affords 115 sittings. There is a list of rectors from 1227. The register of baptisms and marriages dates from 1725, that of burials from 1727. The living is a rectory, with the vicarage of Cholesbury annexed, joint net yearly value £380, with residence and 30 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Bishop of Oxford two turns and Neale's Trustees one turn, and held since 1919 by the Rev. Barter Alexander Duke M.A., L.Th. of Hatfield Hall, Durham, who resides at Cholesbury. Lady Hadden is the principal landowner and Malcolm Stewart esq. B.A. is lord of the manor. The soil is clay; subsoil, clay and chalk. The chief crops are wheat, oats and barley. The population in 1931 was 337.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, this civil parish was included in the new parish of Cholesbury-cum-St. Leonards.

HAZLEMERE, a scattered parish surrounded by a dense woodland of great beauty, was formed in 1847 under 1 and 2 Will. IV. cap. 38, from the adjoining parishes of High Wycombe, Penn and Hughenden, and is now, under Lord Blandford's Act, a separate ecclesiastical parish; it is on the road from High Wycombe to Amersham, 2 miles north-east from Wycombe station on the Great Western and London and North Eastern Joint railway, in the Aylesbury division of the county, hundred of Desborough, and division of Desborough petty sessional division, county court district of High Wycombe, rural deanery of Wycombe, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Gas, electricity and main water are available. The church of Holy Trinity, erected in 1845, is a very small edifice of brick, in the Romanesque style, consisting of an eastern apse, nave and a bell cote over the western entrance containing 3 bells: there is a memorial window to Dr. Barnes, founder of the Royal Botanic Society, and two to Alfred Leadbetter esq.: carving and panelling were added in 1935 and decorate the altar, altar screen, pulpit, lectern and choir stalls: the vestry was added in 1938: the church affords sittings for 150 persons: Sir William Ramsay, the great scientist, is buried here. The register dates from the year 1846. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £350, including 3 acres of glebe, and residence, in the gift of trustees, and held since 1932 by the Rev. Leon Edgar Mackney M.A. of St. John's College, Durham. There is a Methodist chapel, erected in 1906. On a site laid off from the churchyard stands a plain cross of Portland stone, with a base on which are inscribed the names of the men connected with the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. The Ecclesiastical Commissioners are lords of the manor. The land is mainly owned by the farmers. The soil is chiefly clay; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley and clover. The population in 1931 was 2,012.

'Widmer End, Totteridge & Primrose Hill are in this parish for ecclesiastical purposes only; for the names see Hughenden

HEDGERLEY is a village and parish $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles west-west from Gerrard's Cross station on the Great Western and London and North Eastern Joint railway, 6 north from Eton and 7 north from Windsor, in the Wycombe division of the county, hundred of Stoke, petty sessional division of Burnham, rural district of Eton, county court district of Uxbridge, rural deanery of Burnham, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available.

The church of St. Mary the Virgin, standing on the brow of a hill, is a structure of flint and rubble in the Early English and Decorated styles, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch and an embattled western tower containing 5 bells, and was built in 1852 at a cost of

£1,800, replacing a twelfth-century church which was pulled down; the pulpit, the gift of Sir John Stewart Stewart-Wallace C.B. was given in 1937; the seats are all of oak: King Charles II. is said to have visited this church, and noticing that the communion table was without a frontal, took off his cloak and laid it on the table; part of the cloak has been framed and glazed, and now hangs on the walls of the church: there is a palimpsest brass with, on the obverse, an effigy of Margaret, wife of Edward Bulstrode, 1540, and a group of 10 sons and 3 daughters, with a mutilated shield and inscription; on the reverse is another inscription to Thomas Totyngton, Abbot of Bury St. Edmund's, who died in 1312, though the engraving is later; the group of children has been cut out of the effigy of a bishop or abbot, c. 1530; on the reverse of the shield is a representation of the Resurrection; there are also brasses to Robert Fulmer, 1498, and Joanna his wife, and a mural tablet to the men of this parish who lost their lives in the Great War, 1914-18: under the tower is a table of the Ten Commandments, painted on canvas and dated 1664, with an illustration of a breach of each: the Perpendicular font has an octagonal basin, adorned with a Tudor rose and other carvings: there are 200 sittings. The register dates from the year 1538. The living is a rectory, net income £360, with residence, in the gift of Mrs. Hugh Norris, and held since 1938 by the Rev. David Jonathan Jones B.Sc. of University College of Wales, R.N. (ret.). Traces of a Roman camp are to be seen in Bulstrode Park. Richmond Watson esq. who is lord of the manor and Lord Kemsley are the principal landowners. The soil is rich loam and gravel; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are oats and wheat and some land is pasture. The area is 1,129 acres of land and inland water; the population in 1931 was 260.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, the new parish of Hedgerley was formed comprising those portions of Hedgerley and Hedgerley Dean not transferred to Farnham Royal, Gerrard's Cross and Stoke Poges, and a portion of Burnham.

HEDSOR is a parish on the rivers Thames and Wick, 1½ miles south from Bourne End station, on the Maidenhead, Wycombe and Oxford branch of the Great Western railway, 3½ south-west from Beaconsfield, 6 south-east from High Wycombe and 4 north from Maidenhead, in the Wycombe division of the county, hundred of Desborough, petty sessional division of Marlow, county court district, rural district and rural deanery of Wycombe, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford.

Electricity is available. The church of St. Nicholas, one of the smallest in the county, is beautifully situated on a hill 213 feet above the level of the sea, within Hedsor Park, and is a structure of chalk and flint with stone facings in the Decorated style, consisting of chancel, nave, north aisle, baptistery, west porch and a belfry: according to a somewhat eccentric inscription on a tomb at the west end of the church, it was "re-edified" by Roland Hynd, then owner of the manor, in 1575: a north aisle was added and the church restored generally by George, 4th Lord Boston, in 1862, and a reredos of stone enriched with mosaics has since been erected; the chancel screen, of oak with brass gates, is a memorial to Florence George Henry, 5th Lord Boston, who died 3rd January, 1877: there are several memorial windows, a tablet to Roland Hynd and one erected by Frederick, 2nd Baron Boston, in 1801. to Nathaniel Hooke, author of a Roman History, who died 19th July, 1763, and is buried here: in 1886 considerable alterations were made in the church, a baptistery was erected on the site of the old porch, and a new porch built at the west end of the aisle: the stone pulpit was adorned with quatrefoils, mosaic work and marble bosses, and the interior rearranged and decorated: the church affords 150 sittings: the churchyard presents an unusually simple appearance, from the fact that all the tombstones are level with the turf, which custom has always prevailed here, these are only from 12 to 18 inches square, and simply bear names and dates. The register dates from the year 1678; many earlier entries are included in the registers of Little Marlow. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £300, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Oxford, and held since 1937 by the Rev. Ernest Patrick Horton. There are charities of £2 annual value. Hedsor Park, rebuilt in 1860, the residence of Phillip Shephard esq. is a mansion of white brick with stone dressings, in the Italian style, and stands 303 feet above sea level: the house is surrounded by extensive grounds, in which, on the summit of a hill, stands an ornamental castellated building overlooking Cookham: the square tower was erected by George, 3rd Baron Boston, in memory of King George III. The soil is gravelly loam; subsoil, sand. The land is wood, arable and pasture. The area is 531 acres of land and 11 of water; the population in 1931 was 207 in the civil and 215 in the ecclesiastical parish.

Under the provisions of the Divided Parishes Act, Well End has been transferred from Hedsor to Little Marlow for civil purposes.

HIGH WYCOMBE will be found under the letter "W."

HILLESDEN is a parish 3½ miles south from Buckingham and 4 south-west from Padbury stations on the Verney Junction and Banbury branch of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, and about 5 north from Calvert station on the London and North Eastern railway, 7 west from Winslow and 12 north-east from Bicester, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred, petty sessional division, rural district and county court district of Buckingham, rural deanery of Claydon, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. The church of All Saints, rebuilt, except the tower, in 1493 by the monks of Notley Abbey, and in great part restored in 1875 by Sir George Gilbert Scott R.A. who presented the fine vaulted ceiling of the porch and its four pinnacles, is a very fine specimen of the Perpendicular style, built both within and without of wrought ashlar, and is one of those rare churches which bear evident tokens of having been designed and erected under some special and superior influence, carried out in every part with such extreme care as to excite the greater admiration the more closely it is examined, its greatest charm lying in its beautiful grouping and in the faultless elegance of its detail: it consists of chancel with chantry chapel on the north side, nave of four bays, aisles, north porch and a western embattled tower containing 6 bells: the greater part of the building is surmounted by an embattled parapet, and at the north-east angle of the chapel is an octagonal stair turret, with a panelled and embattled parapet, at the angles of which are crocketed pinnacles, and from within these rises an open lantern, formed by crocketed ogee ribs, springing from each pinnacle, meeting in the centre and terminating in a finial; within the turret is a staircase leading to a room overlooking the church, which originally communicated with old Hillesden House: the east window contains glass of the 15th century, representing various saints, including St. Augustine and St. Chad: at the east end of the south aisle is an ancient stained window of eight lights, each of which is supposed to represent some incidents in the legendary life of St. Nicholas, to whom, according to Lysons, the church was dedicated, and has explanatory inscriptions in Latin; another window of sixteen lights, to the Judge family, consisting of subjects from the parables, was erected in 1875 by Grills; a window of three lights, by Grills, jun. was erected in 1923 in memory of three men who fell in the Great War: the earliest portion of the church is the tower, which is much less rich than other parts: the nave has good piers and arches, a clerestory lighted by a series of pierced panels extending across its whole length and a panelled roof: the north porch has a canopied niche over the outer doorway: there is a fine alabaster tomb with full-length effigies of Thomas Denton and his wife, 1560; and monuments to Dr. William Denton, 1691, physician to Kings Charles I. and II.; to Sir Alexander Denton kt. one of the Justices of the King's Bench, d. 22 Mar. 1740, and Catharine his wife, 1733; Alexander Denton esq. 1574, and Mary his wife, 1576; Alexander Denton esq. 1698, and others of that name 1701-14; Elizabeth, wife of Thomas Isham esq. 1667; Thomas Isham gent. 1676; George Woodward esq. ambassador to Poland, who died at Warsaw 1735, and is here buried; the Hon. Godfrey Boate, one of the Justices of the King's Bench in Ireland, 1722, and Mary his daughter, 1772, wife of Godfrey Clayton esq. 1745; Francis Drake esq. 1701; Mary (Rowe) Viscountess Hillsborough, 1742; Mrs. Elizabeth Hayes, 1702, and others: at the top of the chancel walls, under the ceiling, are a number of stone figures representing a choir of angels; those towards the east have musical instruments, the others have scrolls of music in their hands: there are two piscinae: a canopied rood screen divides the chancel and nave: the former contains massive oak choir stalls, and in the tower are three old paintings of Moses, Aaron, and the arms of William III, painted after the death of Queen Mary: by the side of the south door is a sundial of unusual character, carved out of a buttress: the church was restored in 1874-5, and further restorations were carried out about 1893: the church door, originally belonging to the old manor house, still retains the marks of bullets: the original Presbyterian Table, which was used by the Presbyterians until the Restoration, and from then until 1875 as the altar of the church, has been re-furnished and set up in the side chapel, as an altar, by the widow and brothers of the late Rev. J. L. Bowley M.A. rector of this parish, 1010-1932: there are 200 sittings: in the churchyard is the octagonal fluted shaft of a fine cross of the 14th century, much mutilated, rising from a bold and well-designed base of three steps, and retaining part of the beautiful group of niches; the cross is 7 feet 7 inches high and derives additional interest from its standing near the grave of the Royalists who fell at the siege of Hillesden House, March 3rd, 1643. The churchyard was extended on the north side in 1898. The register dates from the year 1594. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £300, including 5 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Christ Church, Oxford, and held since 1939 by the Rev. Eric Edwin Edwards M.A. of Keble College, Oxford. The vicarage house, which is in the Domestic Gothic style, was built in 1871 by the Rev. Robert Holt M.A. vicar 1868-1904. The parish consists of scattered farms and a few cottages. In January, 1635, and again in November, 1822, this place and the neighbourhood are said to have been visited by shocks of earthquake. Hillesden House was during the Civil war garrisoned in 1641 for the king, being then the seat of Sir Alexander Denton kt.; in 1643 it was attacked by and surrendered to the Parliamentary forces, who destroyed it by fire, Sir A. Denton and Col. Smith, besides two field officers and divers captains, being amongst the prisoners: the house was rebuilt at the Restoration, but taken down again when the estate was sold to the 3rd and last Duke of Buckingham; traces of the foundations still remain in the meadow east of the church. Mrs. Bowley, of Winslow, had in her possession a very ancient stone implement, supposed to be an unfinished quern or handmill, which she has now presented to the church, where it is kept in the room above the vestry: it is a large slab of stone, having in the centre a cup-like hollow about 10 inches in diameter, in which is inserted a lid without handle; it was found while digging a drain. A book of estate accounts relating to the Hillesden property 1661-67 was found in an old wall at the manor farm in 1866; numerous extracts from it have been printed in a series of articles which appeared in "Records of Bucks," Vol. XI. The Dean and Chapter of Christ Church, Oxford, are the owners of the tithes and principal landowners. The soil is principally clay; about three-fourths of the land is pasture. The area is 2,600 acres of land and 6 of water; the population in 1931 was 147.

HITCHAM is an ecclesiastical parish, $\frac{1}{2}$ miles north-east from Taplow station on the main line of the Great Western railway, $\frac{1}{2}$ miles north-east-by-east from Maidenhead and 6 miles north-west from Windsor, in the Wycombe division of the county, hundred and petty sessional division of Burnham, county court district of Windsor, rural deanery of Burnham, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Burnham, Dorney and Hitcham Waterworks Co. Ltd. The church of St. Mary is a small building of stone, brick and flint, of the Norman and Decorated periods, and consists of chancel, nave, south porch and an embattled western tower containing one Pre-reformation bell and 6 bells added in 1919: there are five Decorated windows retaining fragments of ancient stained glass, and four modern stained windows; the glass in the chancel windows, lately restored, dates from the year 1340: in the nave are four Norman windows: the carved pulpit is canopied, and there is an ancient oak chest: in the chancel is a monument with kneeling figures to Roger Alford, his wife, son and daughter, 1580, and another with recumbent effigy in armour, executed in alabaster, to Sir William Clarke, kt. 1624; this monument is canopied, and on either side is the figure of a knight holding back a curtain; on the front of the tomb are other figures kneeling: there is also a monument to George Cruickshank, 1765; a brass with effigies to Nicholas Clarke and three children, 1551; another brass to Sir Francis Clark knt. 1631, and one with effigies to Thomas Ramsey, 1510, and Margaret his wife: a carved stone tablet on the north wall of the chancel, commemorates the men connected with the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18: the church was restored in 1866 and again in 1907: the oak pews, the gift of Col. L. H. Hanbury, were presented in 1938: there are 100 sittings. The register dates from the year 1559; it records the burial of Dr. Friend, the celebrated writer on medical matters, and court physician; he owned the manor of Hitcham and died 1728. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £800, with residence, in the gift of the Provost and Fellows of Eton College, and held since 1930 by the Rev. Lewis Herbert Evans M.A. of Pembroke College, Oxford, hon. canon of Christ Church, Oxford, and surrogate. In 1920 a Celtic cross was erected on the green outside the churchyard to the memory of the men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. In 1927 Sir Henry Dixon Kimber bart. of Hitcham Place, bought the Elementary schools and allowed it to be used as a public hall. Hitcham House is the seat of Col. Lionel Henry Hanbury C.M.G., V.D., J.P. Fortescue esq. is lord of the manor; Lord Desborough K.G., G.C.V.O. and Col. Lionel H. Hanbury C.M.G., V.D., J.P. are the principal landowners. The soil is gravel; subsoil, loam. The chief crops are wheat, oats and barley. The population in 1931 was 858.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, parts of this civil parish were transferred to the new parishes of Dorney and Taplow, and the remainder added to the parish of Burnham.

HOGGESTON is a village and parish $3\frac{1}{2}$ miles south-east from Winslow station on the Bletchley and Oxford branch of the London, Midland and Scottish railway and $8\frac{1}{2}$ north from Aylesbury, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred of Cottesloe, petty sessional division and rural district of Winslow, county court district of Buckingham, rural deanery of Mursley, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity and main water are available. The church of the Holy Cross is an ancient edifice of stone in the Transition style of the 13th century, consisting of chancel, nave of three bays, aisles, north porch and a western tower with shingled broach spire containing 4 bells, two of which bear the dates 1585 and 1669: it was restored, the chancel rebuilt and enlarged and fitted with carved oak stalls and the nave with oak benches in 1882: there are memorials of the Mayne family, and in a niche on the north side of the chancel an effigy, presumed to represent Sir William de Bermingham, the founder of a chantry here, holding in the hands a model of a building, perhaps representing the church: the original Decorated oak and walnut framing supporting the belfry and one of the original Norman windows on the south side of nave remain, but the latter is now blocked: there is a piscina and remains of the rood stairs in south aisle and a piscina and double sedile in chancel: on the north wall is a marble tablet bearing the names of the men of the parish who lost their lives in the Great War, 1914-18: the stone cross formerly in the churchyard is now built into the wall of the porch: the church contains a specimen of the old tussock-hassocks: there are 120 sittings. The register dates from the year 1547. The living is a rectory, with that of Dunton annexed, joint net yearly value £600, in the gift of the Provost and Fellows of Worcester College, Oxford, who have two turns, and Lord Carrington, one turn, and held since 1935 by the Rev. George Street M.A. of Worcester College, Oxford, who resides at Dunton. Thomas Gataker B.D. a great scholar and divine of the reign of Charles II. and rector of this parish, who died 20th Nov. 1680, and his son and successor, Charles Gataker, equally celebrated as a critic and divine, who died Nov. 1701, are both buried in the chancel. The Earl of Rosebery D.S.O., M.C., M.F.H. is lord of the manor and principal landowner: The old Manor House, an interesting building dating from about 1620, has a good panelled room, massive oak stairs and fine chimneys, and is now occupied by Mr. John Blick Morris, in whose family it has remained for 200 years. Subsoil, clay. The land is principally in pasture, but wheat, oats and beans are grown in small quantities. The area is 1,571 acres; the population in 1931 was 81.

HORSENDEN is an ecclesiastical parish half-a-mile west from Princes Risborough station on the Great Western and London and North Eastern joint line, and 7 north-west from High Wycombe, in the Aylesbury division of the county, hundred and petty sessional division of Aylesbury, county court district of High Wycombe, rural deanery of Aylesbury, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Rural Districts Water Co. Ltd. The church of St. Michael and All Angels is a plain building of flint with stone dressings in the Perpendicular style, with a stone tower: the chancel (late 15th century) alone remains of the old church, the nave of which, having fallen into decay, was pulled down in 1765; the tower was demolished and re-erected in its present position, and other necessary alterations made at the expense of John Grubb esq. under a faculty from the Bishop of Lincoln. In 1869 the chancel was lengthened towards the east. Features of interest are the mural tablets to the Grubb family, who were lords of the manor from 1662 to 1841, including a memorial to Anne Daney, a Huguenot lady, exiled from France, who became the wife of John Grubb. There are also mural tablets in memory of Thomas Oliver Anderdon and his family, Leonard and Mary Clara Jaques, and a brass tablet to Agatha Goldingham: the east window is stained, and there are memorial windows to the Rev. W. E. Partidge and his wife, and to John Eustace and Julia Catherine Grubbe. The benches are of English oak with poppy heads; the lectern, reading-desk and pulpit are also of carved oak: the hexagonal font was shown in the Exhibition of 1851 and has emblematical carvings: there is an ancient chancel-screen, a piscina, and in the south wall a blocked "squin." There were originally three bells, of which only one remains, dated 1582: there are 50 sittings. The register of baptisms dates from the year 1663; marriages, 1707; burials, 1637. The living is a rectory, with the vicarage of Ilmer annexed, joint net yearly income £280, with glebe, in the gift of the Bishop of Oxford, and held since 1934 by the Rev. William O'Connor B.A. of Royal University, Ireland, whose address is Bloomfield, Princes Risborough. Horsenden Manor House (rebuilt in 1810) was garrisoned for King Charles by Sir John Denham; from him it passed to the Pentons and afterwards to the Grubb family, who sold it in 1838 to the Duke of Buckingham and Chandos; it is now the property and residence of Maj. Alex. Geo. Lambart Sladen M.C. who is the principal landowner with Major Cecil Stuart R.M., J.P.: a portion of the original mansion still exists, and there is a small ornamental lake in the grounds. The soil is loamy; subsoil, rag. There is good grazing ground. The population in 1931 was 93.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, parts of this civil parish were transferred to the new parishes of Bledlow-cum-Saunderton and Longwick-cum-Ilmer, and the remainder added to Princes Risborough. Letters through Princes Risborough, Aylesbury. Princes Risborough nearest M. O. & T. office

HORTON, see Irvinghoe.

HORTON is a village and parish, separated from Middlesex by the river Colne, 1 mile north from Wraybury station on the Staines and Windsor branch of the Southern railway, 4 south from Langley station on the main line and 1½ south-west from Colnbrook station on the West Drayton and Staines branch of the Great Western railway, 4 east from Windsor and 1 south from Colnbrook, in the Wycombe division of the county, hundred and petty sessional division of Stoke, rural district of Eton, county court district of Windsor, rural deanery of Burnham, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. A large portion of Colnbrook was ecclesiastically separated (June 14, 1853) from Horton to form part of the consolidated chapelry of Colnbrook. Gas and electricity are available. Water is supplied by the Rickmansworth and Uxbridge Valley Water Co. The church of St. Michael is an ancient structure of stone, faced with flint, chiefly in the Norman, Early English and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel, nave, south aisle, north porch and an embattled western tower containing a clock and 6 bells, the then existing four being rehung and two new bells added in 1898: there is north doorway of Norman date and a Tudor porch: the east window, erected in 1883, is a memorial to John Milton, the author of "Paradise Lost," who once lived here; Milton's mother, who died in 1637, is buried here, and in the chancel is a flat stone to her memory with this inscription:—"Beneath this stone lie the remains of Sarah, the wife of John Milton:" there are memorial windows to the Rev. R. G. Foot, 1876, Annetta Chatry de la Fosse, Edward and Frances Tyrell and Edmond Temple Watson: the church was thoroughly restored in 1875-6, when the south aisle was rebuilt, the church re-seated with oak benches on the entrance porch and chapel restored: the church affords 280 sittings, all being free. The register dates from the year 1571. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £700, in the gift of, and held since 1931 by, the Rev. Robert Sinnett Davies M.A. of University College, Durham. There are two charities, the interest of £420, £20 left by Mrs. Gossett and £400 by Mrs. Wagstaff, which is given away in blankets and flannel. Milton resided here at one time on his father's estate; the house was pulled down about 1798. On the village green stands a white granite cross in memory of 14 men who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. J. Rayner and Sons, and other farmers, are the chief landowners. The soil is loam; subsoil, gravel. The chief crops are wheat, oats, barley and roots. In 1931 the area of the parish was 1,300 acres, and the population was 905.

Under the provisions of the Slough Urban District (Extension) Order, 1929, part of the parish of Horton was transferred to the parish and urban district of Slough.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, parts of Datchet and Wraybury were added and part of Horton transferred to Iver.

GREAT HORWOOD (or Harwood-cum-Singleborough) is a township, village and parish, $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles north from Winslow station on the Oxford and Bletchley branch of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, 6 south-east from Buckingham and $6\frac{1}{2}$ south-west from Stony Stratford, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred of Cottesloe, petty sessional division and rural district of Winslow, county court district of Buckingham, rural deanery of Mursley, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity and main water are available. The church of St. James is an ancient building of stone, consisting of chancel, nave of four bays, aisles, two north chapels (one used as a vestry, the other as an organ chamber), north and south porches and an embattled western tower with a turret at the south-west angle, terminating in a spirelet; the tower contains a clock and 6 bells and a sanctus bell: the windows of the chancel are decorated, the nave and tower Perpendicular; the church retains four piscine, triple sedilia, a brass to Henry Virgin, priest, dated 1487, with effigy in academical dress, and two monuments of the Barker family: in the church is a painting of St. George, bearing on his shield the names of the men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18: the church was thoroughly restored in 1874 and half an acre added to the churchyard at a total cost of £5,500; in 1885 the east window was filled with stained glass, and a reredos of mosaics erected at the cost of the Rev. Simon Thomas Adams M.A. rector 1830-89: the organ was restored in 1923: there are 448 sittings. In the churchyard wall is a war shrine presented in 1917 by Mrs. Bishop; the lych-gate was presented by Mrs. Lambton in 1910. The register dates from the year 1600. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £510, including glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Warden and Fellows of New College, Oxford, and held since 1929 by the Rev. Reginald Melville Davies B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter. Miss Anne Young bequeathed £250 to the rector and churchwardens, the interest to be devoted to church repairs. The Congregational chapel, built in 1824, will seat 120 persons, and has a school attached; the Methodist chapel, erected in 1875, has 120 sittings. A village hall was erected in 1923 to seat about 250. The poor's land consists of 27a. 1r. 3p.; the other charities amount to about £13 a year. The Warden and Fellows of New College, Oxford, who are lords of the manor and hold a court baron annually at the Manor farm, are the principal landowners. The soil is stiff clay, with beds of gravel. The area is 3,271 acres; the population in 1931 was 526.

HUGHENDEN is a widely scattered parish, in a picturesque spot surrounded by a woodland of extraordinary beauty, about 2 miles north from High Wycombe station on the Great Western and London and North Eastern joint railway, in the Aylesbury division of the county, partly in the hundred of Desborough and partly in the liberty of Brands Fee, which latter lies within the hundred of Aylesbury, second division of Desborough petty sessional division, rural district and county court district of High Wycombe, rural deanery of Wycombe, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Rickmansworth and Uxbridge Valley Water Co. The church of St. Michael and All Angels, which dated from Norman times, having fallen into decay, was almost entirely rebuilt in 1874-5; it consists of chancel, with chapel, nave of three bays, north aisle, south porch and an embattled tower at the north-west angle, with low pyramidal roof and containing 8 bells, two of which date from the 15th century, and two from the reign of Charles II., the remaining four having been cast in the reign of Queen Victoria; the bells were restored in 1927: the roof throughout is new; the chancel has been entirely re-arranged and is separated from the nave by an open wrought-iron screen: there are memorial windows to Sir William Norris Young, 5th bart. lieut. 23rd Royal Welsh Fusiliers, killed at the Alma, Sept. 20th, 1854, aged 21, and his brother, Sir George John Young, 5th bart. B.A. who also died in the Crimea, Oct. 22nd, 1854, aged 19; to Lucy, wife of T. J. Reynolds esq.; Mr. and Mrs. Norris, of the Manor House; James Williams, his wife Henrietta Catherine; Ann, wife of James Walker Williams, of High Wycombe, and to James and Sarah Elizabeth Searight and their son James: in the north aisle is a stained window given by Sir Samuel Wilson to commemorate the escape of Queen Victoria from an attempt on her life at Windsor, March 2nd, 1882; in the chapel are several extremely interesting monuments to the de Montfort and Wellesburne families, and including one on the south side of a recumbent cross-legged knight in chain armour, carved in stone and supposed to represent Richard, son of Simon de Montfort: at the east end against the wall are two rudely carved figures in armour, one of whom holds a mace, and also the effigy of a knight of the 14th century: on the north side is the figure of a warrior holding in the right hand a sword and in the left a cross, and at the south-west angle a cadaver in a shroud, on the breast of which rests a figure emblematic of the departing spirit; this effigy is generally known by the name of the "Fasting Monk;" the identity of the figure is not certain, but it is thought that it may represent Almeric, fourth son of Simon de Montfort, who was a priest and chaplain to the Pope: there is one good brass to Robert Thurlow, priest, 1483; a monument to John Lane, 1621, with kneeling effigy, and other memorials to Ellen (Merret), wife of the Right Hon. Henry, 1st Earl Conyngham, 1816, by G. Gerrard R.A.; to the family of Widmer, 1782-1803, former owners of Rockhols, and to Sampson Roe, 1786: since the death of the Earl of Beaconsfield, April 19th, 1881, the interior walls of the chancel have been decorated, several stained windows inserted, and other valuable gifts bestowed upon the church as memorials to that illustrious statesman; of these, the first, in order of time, consisted of two bells, presented by Robert Warner esq. and dedicated August 20th, 1881, thus completing the peal of 8 bells: the east window was erected by Lord Rowton, the 1st Baron Rothschild and Sir Philip Rose, 1st bart. In the chancel, and near to the seat formerly occupied by Lord Beaconsfield, is the monument erected by Queen Victoria; this is of white Sicilian marble, with a central quatre-foiled panel, inclosing a profile portrait in relief of the late Earl; above are the arms of the deceased peer, and below, on a tablet surrounded by a wreath of oak leaves, wrought in marble, is the inscription following:—

THE DEAR AND HONORED MEMORY
THIS MEMORIAL IS PLACED BY HIS GRATEFUL SOVEREIGN AND FRIEND, VICTORIA R.I.

"KINGS LOVE HIM THAT SPEAKETH RIGHT."—Proverbs xvi. 13
FEBRUARY 27, 1882.

By command of Queen Victoria, the banner and other insignia of the Garter from the Earl of Beaconsfield's stall in St. George's chapel, Windsor, were removed to Hughenden, and placed over the seat formerly occupied by him in the chancel, which is marked by an inscribed brass: the family vault of Lord Beaconsfield, in which his body is laid, is at the eastern end of the De Montfort chapel, which adjoins the chancel, and outside the church and against the church wall are three granite slabs commemorating Mary Ann Disraeli, Viscountess Beaconsfield, wife of Rt. Hon. B. Disraeli, d. Dec. 15th, 1872; James Disraeli esq. third son of Isaac Disraeli, d. Dec. 3rd, 1868, and Sarah, relict of James Brydges Williams, d. Nov. 11th, 1863, who bequeathed her property to the Earl, and was here interred by her own wish: in 1892 a pulpit of marble and alabaster was erected as a memorial to James Searight esq. previously mentioned: the stone font is Late Norman and dates from about the 13th century: in 1920 a stained glass window, in memory of those connected with the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18, was installed in the north aisle: there are 324 sittings, all of which are free. The register dates from the year 1559. The living is a vicarage, net income £500, and residence, in the gift of Mrs. Sybil Calverley, and held since 1929 by the Rev. Gilliat Herbert-Jones M.A. of Worcester College, Oxford. There is a village hall and a Methodist chapel at CRYERS HILL. The Dormer family gave the parish four cottages near the churchyard, and Ellen, Countess Conyngham, who owned the manor in 1806, bequeathed the interest of £500 to be paid to the poor residing in three of them, the parish clerk to occupy the fourth; the charity failing for want of occupants and falling into disrepair, the Charity Commissioners in 1928 sold the cottages to Major Disraeli, and with the proceeds added to the Conyngham bequest, formed two charities, "Lady Conyngham's Charity for poor persons" and a "charity for the parish clerk": the same benevolent lady also left £3,333 Stock, the dividends to be paid annually in sums of £20 each to the vicar of Hughenden and four poor clergymen of Bucks whose livings were respectively less than £100 yearly; she likewise left the interest of £1,000 to be distributed in sums of £10 each to poor widows of deceased clergymen of this county: there is a sum of from £7 to £8 yearly from a farm at Towersey, left by Katherine Pye for educational purposes. When repairing the almshouses Major Disraeli discovered the complete remains of a 15th century hall. This is a relic of the time when the manor was held by the Priory of Kenilworth. The manor of Hughenden was purchased by the Earl of Beaconsfield K.G. in 1847; it was left to Maj. Coningsby Disraeli T.D., D.L., J.P., C.A. and upon his death in 1936 passed to his sister, Mrs. Sybil Calverley, by whom it was sold to Mr. W. H. Abbey. In order that a permanent memorial to Lord Beaconsfield may be established here, Mr. Abbey has generously made over to trustees the house and its contents, with some 180 acres of park land leading from the house up to the monument erected to Disraeli's father and includes the two acres of woodland known as Great and Little Tinkers. The gift has been made upon condition that within twenty years there shall be raised an endowment fund of about £10,000 to enable the National Trust to take over the property. The Manor House, standing on an eminence commanding a fine view of the Wycombe valley, is a mansion of brick with stone dressings, in a species of Jacobean style; the east front looks towards the park and contains the library, chiefly rich in historical works: portraits of friends of the Earl adorn the hall and staircase: the house was restored and considerably enlarged in 1901-2: the well-wooded park of 140 acres is watered by a stream, and on the crest of a hill, between the two Tinkers Woods, is an obelisk erected to the memory of Isaac D'Israeli, father of the Earl, who resided at the Manor House in the adjacent parish of Bradenham: on the base is an inscription to his memory, and another to the Viscountess Beaconsfield. Maj. L. William Kentish D.S.O. Arthur Davies esq. J.P. Sir Alexander Murray K.C.I.E., C.B.E. and Benjamin Seeborn Rowntree esq. C.H. are the principal landowners. The soil is chiefly gravel; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat and barley. The area is 5,222 acres of land and inland water; the population in 1931 was 3,078, of which 2,407 are in the ecclesiastical parish of St. Michael and All Angels.

By the Chepping Wycombe Corporation Act, 1927, part of this parish was included in the borough of Chepping Wycombe and parish of High Wycombe.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, parts of this parish were transferred to the borough of Chepping Wycombe and the parishes of Great and Little Hampden, Great Missenden and West Wycombe (Rural) and part of West Wycombe was added.

NAPHILL, 2½ miles north-west, has a Mission hall and a Methodist chapel; a village hall, opened in 1929, will seat approximately 250 persons; this place, and North Dean, are parts of this parish. Part of Great Kingshill, 2½ miles north-west, is included in the ecclesiastical parish of Prestwood, and Widmer End is in the ecclesiastical parish of Hazlemere.

low western turret of wood with octagonal broach spire containing 3 bells: the chancel and nave are decorated, but the piers and arches of the nave and some other parts are plain Early English: there are piscinae in the chancel and aisle; the latter has a hagioscope, and also contains a plain altar tomb, said to be that of Benedict Lee, one of the lords of the manor, buried in 1547, but the inscription has been defaced and the brasses removed: the stained windows were the gift of the Rev. Edw. Bonus LL.M. rector 1864-1907: the church was restored in 1862-3, when the roofs were renewed, the interior refitted with oak benches and the chancel with stalls: in removing the plaster from the walls, the entrance to the roof loft was discovered built up in the south-east angle of the nave: the communion table of stone and alabaster supported on Devonshire marble columns was placed in the chancel, at the cost of the Rev. E. Bonus, who in 1898 presented a window in memory of his mother, Elizabeth Ann Bonus: there is also a stained window in the chancel and one in the lady chapel: there is a complete list of rectors commencing from 1270, which hangs in the church: there are 92 sittings, 20 of which are reserved. The churchyard has an ornamental wall with open trefoiled panels and a lych gate erected in 1860 at the cost of the lord of the manor. The parish register dates from the year 1539. The living is a rectory, with the vicarage of Bier-ton with Quarrendon, united. Anthony de Rothschild esq. is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is Kimmeridge clay; subsoil, same. The greater portion of the parish is grazed by dairy and feeding stock. The area is 741 acres; the population in 1931 was 88.

IBSTONE is a parish 3½ miles west from High Wycombe station on the Maidenhead and Thame section of the Great Western and London and North Eastern Joint railway, 8½ north-west from Marlow, in the Wycombe division of the county, hundred of Desborough, Desborough (1st division) petty sessional division, rural district, county court district and rural deanery of Wycombe, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. This parish is now wholly in Bucks, the part previously in Oxfordshire having been transferred to the former county. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Marlow Water Co. The church of St. Nicholas is a small and plain building of stone in the Norman and Early English styles, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch and a western turret containing 2 bells: the doorways and chancel arch are of Norman date, the chancel and nave are Early English, but the nave roof Perpendicular: there is an old carved pulpit and a circular Norman font: there are 120 sittings. In the churchyard on the north side is an ancient yew tree, and here also lies a stone coffin.

The register dates from the year 1665. The living is a rectory, with that of Fingest annexed, joint net yearly value £300, inclusive of 21 acres of glebe and residence, in the alternate gift of the Bishop of Oxford and Merton College, Oxford, and held since 1931 by the Rev. Bernard William Mackie, of Lichfield Theological College, hon. C.F. There is Methodist chapel. Ibstone House is a stuccoed building on an eminence; Cholsey Grange is a yeall timbered house and dates back to 1660, and is now the residence of Arthur G. Porri esq.; both affords good views of the neighbourhood. The Warden and Fellows of Merton College, Oxford, who hold the manor, are the principal landowners. The soil is chalky; subsoil, gravel. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 1,121 acres; the population in 1931 was 245.

Under the provisions of the Local Government Act, 1888, by Local Government Board Provisional Order, dated September 30, 1895, the whole of Ibstone civil parish is now in Bucks.

ICKFORD is a village and parish on the borders of Oxfordshire, from which it is separated by the river Thame, 1½ miles from Tiddington station, on the Wycombe, Thame and Oxford branch of the Great Western railway, 4 north-west from Thame, 5 south from Brill, 14 west-south-west from Aylesbury and 10 east from Oxford, in the Buckingham division of the county, in the hundreds of Ashendon and Ewelme, Ashendon petty sessional division, rural district of Aylesbury, county court district of Thame, rural deanery of Waddesdon, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. The church of St. Nicholas, is a small early 13th century building of stone in mixed styles, principally Early English and Transitional, consisting of chancel, nave of three bays, aisles, south porch and a western tower, with saddle-back roof, containing 2 bells and a sanctus bell: in the chancel is an Early English piscina, with a projecting basin, and a low-side window, also an aumbry and a squint; there is a piscina in both the north and south aisles and a stoup in the south aisle, and the church still retains some remains of ancient glass, and a monument erected by Thomas Tipping to himself during his lifetime, curiously adorned with carving in low relief: a stained glass window in the south aisle, representing St. George and the Dragon, was placed there by the parishioners in memory of the men of the parish who, in the Great War, 1914-18, "did their duty even unto death"; a beautiful illuminated scroll underneath the window records their names: there are other memorial windows, including one in memory of the Rev. Vernon Staley, rector 1911-33; during 1907 the church was thoroughly repaired; there are 150 sittings. The registers date from the year 1561. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £240, including 18 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the Guild of All Souls, and held since 1933 by the Rev. Walter Edward Fagan Dodd M.A. of Caius College, Cambridge, hon. C.F. Gilbert Sheldon D.D. Archbishop of Canterbury 1663-77, was sometime rector here. The rectory is partly an Elizabethan building. There is a Baptist chapel, built in 1825 and seating 120 persons. Philip's charity of £10 yearly is for clothing. Frederick Parsons-Guy esq. J.P. who is lord of the manor, and Ralph Hoddinott esq. are the principal landowners. The soil is alluvial; subsoil, clay. The land is principally in pasture. The chief crops are wheat and beans. The area is 1,025 acres; the population in 1931 was 265 in the civil parish.

DRAYCOTT, formerly a hamlet of this parish, is in Oxfordshire; it is in the hundred of Ewelme, and forms part of Waterstock, which is in Oxfordshire, but for ecclesiastical purposes it still remains part of Ickford.

ILMER, see Longwick-cum-Ilmer.

IVER is a large parish and scattered village on the Middlesex border, with a station on the Great Western Railway about 1 mile from the village and quite close to Richings Park Estate, 16 miles from the Marble Arch, London, 2 west from West Drayton station and about the same distance north-east from Langley station on the main line of the Great Western railway, 3½ north from Colnbrook and 2½ south from Uxbridge, in the Wycombe division of the county, hundred and petty sessional division of Stoke, rural district of Eton, county court district of Uxbridge, rural deanery of Amersham, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. The river Colne flows through the parish, to the eastward of which passes the Grand Junction canal with a branch from Viewsey to Slough. Gas and electricity are available. Water is supplied by the Rickmansworth and Uxbridge Valley Water Co. The church of St. Peter, restored in 1848 is a building of flint in mixed styles, and of various dates, the earliest building dating from Saxon times: it consists of chancel, clerestoried nave, with two Norman bays on the north side and three Early English bays on the south, and an embattled western tower containing a clock and 8 bells, tuned and rehung in 1886 to celebrate the completion of the 50th year of the ministry of the Rev. William Sparrow Ward M.A. vicar of the parish 1835-89; the old wooden bell frame has been removed and replaced by a steel frame: the chancel retains marble piscinæ and sedilia; and the staircase to the rood loft also remains: in the chancel is a monument, with figure rising from a tomb, to Lady Mary Salter, 1631: a brass with effigies to Sir B. Blount, 1508, and his wife, and on the south wall two carvings in low relief and the date 1607: there are alabaster memorial windows to Mary, wife of C. J. H. Tower esq. d. 1865, Christopher Tower esq. of Huntsmore Park, d. 1884, Lady Sophia Frances (Brownlow-Cust), his wife, d. 21 Dec. 1882, and another, erected by the late Lt.-Col. Charles Meeking, to his wife, two sons and a daughter: 2 reredos and oak panelling in the sanctuary, the gift of the late Lt.-Col. Charles Meeking, was erected in 1892 to his mother, Mrs. Meeking, of Richings Park: during the period 1896-8 a new organ was provided, the west gallery removed, and a new oak lobby, vestry and staircase to the tower erected: there are 450 sittings: a lych gate was erected by the daughters of the late Lord Anslow to his memory, in 1937. The best of the ancient timber from the belfry was used for this purpose. The register dates from the year 1605. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £450, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Oxford, churchwardens and two trustees, and held since 1932 by the Rev. Digby Robert Moubray FitzGerald Creighton M.A. of Trinity College, Dublin. Thorney church, attached to the parish of St. Peter, was built in 1840. There is a Congregational church at Richings Park. A village hall was opened in 1881, and there is also a Methodist mission hall. The Cottage Hospital, opened in 1863 for the parishes of Iver, Langley and Denham, and extended in 1927 as a memorial to Col. J. Blyth, has been replaced by a new hospital, erected opposite the old site in 1937, and opened by H.R.H. The Duke of Kent K.G., K.T., P.C., G.C.M.G., G.C.V.O.: there are beds for 40 patients. The Home for Aged Poor, built in 1898 as a memorial to the Rev. W. S. Ward, vicar 1835-89, and his family, is for the reception of seven aged parishioners, viz. one couple and five single persons. The Iver United Charities produce about £80 per annum. Richings Park, now (1939) unoccupied, was formerly in the possession of Lord Bathurst and the Duchess of Somerset, and was the resort of Pope and the wits of his age; one of the walks is still known by the name of "Pope's walk." The property has been developed as a residential estate. Bangors Park is the residence of the Hon. Hildred Mosley. Miss Tompson is a principal landowner. The soil is loamy; subsoil, gravel. The chief crops are wheat, oats, beans, barley and clover. The area is 5,770 acres of land and inland water; the population in 1931 was 5,222 of which 3,612 are in St. Peter's ecclesiastical parish.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, parts of Horton and Langley Marish were added to this parish.

SHREDDING GREEN, 1 mile west-by-north, and THORNEY, 1 mile south, are hamlets.

IVER HEATH is an ecclesiastical parish, formed July 22, 1862, out of a portion of this parish. The church of St. Margaret is a structure of brick, faced with flint, in the Early Decorated style, and consists of chancel and nave, with a low embattled tower on the south side containing a clock and 2 bells: there are ten stained windows: the chancel floor has been relaid, and a new table and marble steps provided at the cost of Mrs. Summers and her sister, Miss Whip, choir stalls at the cost of Mrs. Drury Lavin and an organ presented by Mrs. Edward Tompson. The church affords 300 sittings. The register dates from the year 1862. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £350, with 3 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Oxford and trustees, and held since 1937 by the Rev. Edmund Cyril Glaisyer B.A. of London University. The population in 1931 was 1,142.

Iver Church Institute, formerly the old national schools, was opened in 1902.

IVINGHOE is a small town of considerable antiquity and a parish, comprising the hamlets of Ivinghoe Aston, and parts of Horton and Little and Great Seabrook: it is partly encompassed by the Chiltern Hills and 2 miles south-east from Cheddington Junction station on the main line of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, 33 from London, 6½ south-east from Leighton Buzzard, 4½ north-by-east from Tring, and 9 east from Aylesbury, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred of Cottlesloe, petty sessional division of Linslade, rural district of Wing, county court district of Bletchley and Leighton Buzzard, rural deanery of Ivinghoe, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. The Grand Union canal passes near here. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Bucks Water Board. St. Margaret's and Ringshall, formerly hamlets in this parish, were, by Local Government Board Provisional Orders Act No. 17, transferred to Herts, and added to Nettleden.

The church of St. Mary is a fine cruciform building mainly of the 13th century, but with windows and doorways of the 14th century, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave and transepts, aisles, north, south and west porches and a central embattled tower with spire, containing a clock and 6 bells, 5 being recast in 1875, and a sixth bell added, in memory of the Rev. William Jennings Hamilton, vicar 1845-74: the tenor bell, dated 1628, was inscribed "Sacra manet Christi plebisque religio vana"; the north and south porches have ball-flower mouldings: the carved oak roof is of the Late Decorated period, with figures of angels, monks and carved corbels: the present clerestory is Perpendicular, but traces of the original circular sexfoil windows of the old clerestory may still be seen in the nave, whilst those in both transepts are copies of the original windows: some of the benches have tall poppy heads: in the church are several monuments to the family of Duncombe, formerly of Barley End House in this parish, including a brass, with effigy, to William Duncombe, 1576, the figures of his wives and children being lost: and others to Thomas Duncombe, 1531, and John Duncombe, 1594, the effigies of their wives being missing: here also is a brass with effigies to Richard Blackhed, 1517, and Maude, his wife: there is also in the chancel a table tomb, with recumbent effigy, vested as a priest and supposed to be Peter de Chaseport rector here 1241-54, probable founder of the church: the pulpit, a richly carved and ancient piece of cinque-cento workmanship, is of oak and retains its hour-glass and stand: a stained east window was erected in 1868 to the memory of John William, second Earl Brownlow, who died at Mentone, 20th Feb. 1867: the chancel screen is of carved oak in the style of the 14th century, and has on the pediment figures of Our Saviour, St. Michael and St. Gabriel: the baptistery has oak parquet floor and a triptych, representing the "Incarnation," flanked by two cherubim, after Fra Angelico: there is a complete list of incumbents from the year 1221 to the present time: there are approximately 400 sittings. The register dates from the year 1559. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £375, with 202 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of Lord Brownlow, and held since 1931 by the Rev. Francis Seymour Hulbert M.A. of Trinity College, Cambridge. The Baptist chapel, erected in 1804, will seat 350 persons: the Methodist chapel, erected in 1865, has sittings for 500. The Town Hall is an ancient and interesting structure. Pleasure fairs are held here on the 6th of May and the 17th of October. The charities, by different bequests, amount to about £40 annually, which amount is distributed for the benefit of the parish. The church lands produce about £22 a year. According to tradition, one of the Hampdens lost this manor for striking the Black Prince a blow with his racket when they quarrelled at tennis—

"Tring, Wing and Ivinghoe
Hampden of Hampden did forego,
For striking of ye Prince a blow,
And glad he might escapen so."

Sir Walter Scott named one of the most celebrated of his novels, "Ivanhoe," from this place. In 1926 the National Trust purchased from the Ashridge Estate, for the free use and enjoyment of the public, Ivinghoe Hills, Coombe Wood, Duncombe Terrace, Pitstone and Aldbury Commons. The farmers are the chief land-owners. A large portion of the soil is chalky; subsoil, chalk and clay. The crops are wheat, barley, oats, beans, peas and roots. The area is 4,771 acres of land and 16 of water; the population in 1931 was 763 in the civil and 931 in the ecclesiastical parish.

GREAT and LITTLE KIMBLE form a parish in the Aylesbury division of the county, hundred, petty sessional division and county court district of Aylesbury, rural district of Wycombe, rural deanery of Aylesbury, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. By a Local Government Order, dated March 25, 1885, all the parish of Little Kimble and a part of Little Hampden were amalgamated with Great Kimble, the parish to be designated Great and Little Kimble. Great Kimble is a quarter of a mile south-east from Little Kimble station, on the Great Western and London and North Eastern Joint railway through Wycombe to Aylesbury, $\frac{3}{4}$ miles west-south-west from Wendover, and 6 south from Aylesbury. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Rural Districts Water Co. Ltd. The church of St. Nicholas, situated on an eminence and thoroughly restored and reseatd in 1876-81, is an ancient embattled building of flint and stone in the Decorated style, consisting of chancel with aisles of two bays, nave of four bays, aisles, south porch and a large embattled western tower, with a corbel table of heads supporting the parapet and containing 6 bells: in the chancel is a window, presented by Sir Robert Frankland-Russell bart. of Thirkleby, Yorkshire, who died 11th March, 1849: others to Mrs. Frankland-Russell Astley, Rev. John Steward, a former vicar, and one erected in 1892, by the parishioners and friends, to the Rev. Edward Keating Clay B.A. vicar 1873-91: the font is of the "Aylesbury" type, late 12th century: the chapel in the south chancel aisle was added by the Rev. Arthur Kennet Hobart-Hampden M.A. rector 1891-1909, as a memorial to his mother, Mrs. Marianne Hobart, and was consecrated by the Bishop of Oxford in 1904: an oak screen and a reredos with painted panels were erected to the memory of Canon Hobart Hampden: there are 200 sittings. A large tumulus behind the church, called "Dial hill," was opened in 1887, and found to be an ancient burial place, in which some relics were met with. The register dates from the year 1664. The living was a rectory and vicarage, but was amalgamated in 1903 as the rectory of Kimble, net yearly value £400, with 6 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Earl of Buckinghamshire, and held since 1939 by the Rev. Richard Harold Hanson, of St. Aidan's. A charity of £5 gs. 2d. per annum, derived from land in the parish of Ellesborough, is distributed in bread. The Earl of Buckinghamshire and the Chequers trustees are the principal landowners. The soil varies: on the high lands, chalk and flints; lowlands, stiff clay; sub-soil, chiefly clay. The chief crops are wheat, beans, barley and oats; a great portion of the lowlands is in pasture. The area is 3,411 acres of land and 4 of water; the population in 1931 was 662.

MARSH, $\frac{2}{3}$ miles, and KIMBLE WICK, $\frac{2}{3}$ miles north-west, are hamlets. At Marsh is a small Mission room, built in 1894, and seating about 70 persons; services are conducted here every Sunday at 3.30 p.m. by the rector. A reading-room was also added in 1897.

LITTLE KIMBLE is a village, with a station on the Great Western and London and North Eastern Joint railway through Wycombe to Aylesbury, 3 miles west-by-south from Wendover, $\frac{2}{3}$ north-north-east from Princes Risborough and $\frac{5}{8}$ south from Aylesbury. The church of All Saints, Little Kimble, is a small but ancient building of stone, probably dating from the end of the 13th century, and chiefly in the Decorated style: it consists of chancel, nave, north and south porches and a bell gable at the west end, containing 2 bells: the east and west windows are stained, and on the north side of the chancel is a memorial window to the Rev. Samuel Thomas Chapman, rector here from 1810: five other windows in the church retain fragments of ancient stained glass: the pulpit, reading desk and open seats are of oak: on the walls of the nave are some ancient paintings of the early 14th century: the floor of the chancel retains some ancient tiles, much defaced: there are two piscine, one in the east wall and the other in the south wall of the nave: the font is also ancient: the church was restored and reseatd in 1875-6, at a cost of £1,300, and affords 70 sittings. The register dates from the year 1657, but is very imperfect. The living was a rectory, united to the vicarage of Great Kimble, but in 1903 they were united as the rectory of Kimble. Here is a Union Baptist chapel. The poor's allotment consists of ra. 2r. of land, producing £2 15s. per annum, and is distributed in coal.

KINGSEY is a parish on the road from London to Thame, 2 miles north-east from Thame station on the Princes Risborough and Oxford section of the Great Western railway, and 8 south-west from Aylesbury, in the petty sessional division, and rural district of Aylesbury, rural deanery of Aston, archdeaconry and diocese of Oxford. This parish, originally partly in Bucks, was by Local Government Board Order, dated 27th October, 1894, transferred entirely to Oxfordshire, but by the Buckinghamshire & Oxfordshire Order, 1932, this was reversed, although for ecclesiastical purposes the parish remains in Oxfordshire. Electricity is available. The church of St. Nicholas, rebuilt in 1892-3, is an edifice of stone in the Gothic style, much of the material of the former church, built about 1780, being used in the reconstruction; it consists of chancel, nave, organ chamber, vestry, and a tower with spire containing 3 bells: an organ was erected in 1894: a stained east window was added in 1901: in 1923 a stained glass west window was added as a thanksgiving for the safe return of men from the parish who served in the Great War, 1914-18; below this window is a memorial stone tablet and an illuminated roll of honour commemorating those who fell: a reredos of oak was presented by P. J. D. Wykeham esq. in 1904: there are 160 sittings: part of an earlier church surmised to date from the 13th century was discovered in the belfry. The register dates from the year 1538. The living is a vicarage, net income £320, and residence, in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Rochester, and held since 1927 by the Rev. Egbert William C. Horner M.A., L.Th. of Hatfield Hall, Durham. The charities, derived from the interest of several bequests, amount to £21 6s. yearly. Magdalen College, Oxford, are the principal landowners. The soil is heavy loam; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat and beans and pasture land. The area is 1,424 acres of land and 7 of water; the population in 1931 was 118.

TYTHROP is a liberty in this parish, 2½ miles north-east from Thame station on the Maidenhead and Oxford section of the Great Western railway, in the Henley division of the county, petty sessional division of Bullingdon and county court district of Thame. Tythrop House is a handsome mansion of stone, standing in a wooded park of about 120 acres; the staircase is adorned with beautiful carvings by Grinling Gibbons. Magdalen College, Oxford, are lords of the manor and principal landowners. The soil is clay; subsoil, gravel. The chief crops are wheat, oats and potatoes, but most of the land is in pasture.

LANE END is a village and ecclesiastical parish formed February 5th, 1867, out of the parishes of Great Marlow, Hambleden, Fingest and West Wycombe, chiefly situated in the first-named, $\frac{3}{4}$ miles south-west from West Wycombe station on the Great Western and London and North Eastern Joint railway, and $\frac{1}{4}$ north-west from Great Marlow terminal station on a branch of the Great Western railway and 5 west from High Wycombe, in the Wycombe division of the county, hundred of Desborough, petty sessional division of Desborough 1st division, county court district of High Wycombe, rural deanery of Wycombe, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Marlow Water Co. The church of the Holy Trinity was rebuilt in 1878, in place of the former structure, erected about 1832: the present church is of brick and flint with Bath stone dressings, in the Gothic style of the 13th century and consists of chancel, nave, vestry, organ chamber, north porch and a tower containing 6 bells: the ancient roof of the nave was brought from an ecclesiastical building formerly standing near the bridge at Great Marlow, and is of the 14th century; there are several stained windows, one of which, on the north side, was transferred from the old church; the east window is a memorial to James Luke esq. F.R.S. and was inserted by his children; a west window to William Henry Sandby esq. was placed in 1887, and one to the memory of Mrs. Sworder was placed in 1911; and in 1901 the tower was raised 14 feet, as a memorial to H. W. Cripps esq. Q.C. by his widow: an organ was provided in 1897: in 1909 a carved oak font cover was given in memory of Walter Hobbs, a former churchwarden. There are 300 sittings. The burial ground attached to the church has been considerably enlarged. The register dates from the year 1832.

 The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £300, with residence, in the gift of the rector of Hambleden, and held since 1922 by the Rev. Thomas George Evans M.A. of Keble College, Oxford. The Methodist church was built in 1865: the old chapel is now used as a Sunday school. A Village Hall, to seat 450 persons, was erected in 1920 as a memorial to the men connected with the parish who fell in the Great War. At MOOR END is a Gospel Mission Hall, built in 1888. The inhabitants are mostly engaged in the manufacture of chairs. Capt. Sir John Lindsay Dashwood bart. J.P. and Lord Parmoor P.C., K.C.V.O., J.P. are the principal landowners. The soil is sandy; subsoil, gravelly. The chief crops are wheat and barley. The population in 1931 was 1,395.

LANGLEY MARISH (or St. Mary's) is a parish with a station on the Great Western railway, 2 miles east from Slough, 16 from London by rail and 18½ by road, in the Wycombe division of the county, hundred and petty sessional division of Stoke, county court district of Uxbridge, rural deanery of Burnham, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford, and comprises a portion of the town of Colnbrook which is included in the ecclesiastical parish of Colnbrook. Gas and electricity are available. Water is supplied by the Slough Urban District Council. The church of St. Mary is an edifice of flint and stone in mixed styles, consisting of chancel, nave, north aisle, south chapel and library, and an embattled western tower of brick, erected in 1649 and containing a clock and 5 bells; portions of the nave date from about 1200: some of the windows are decorated: the chancel is 15th century and retains sedilia of that period, and there is a late Perpendicular rood screen: the font has an octagonal basin, with quatrefoil panels: the chancel is separated from the nave by an oak screen and there are two stained windows, that in the north aisle being in memory of G. Lloyd esq. J.P.: Sir John Kederminster, a former owner of the Langley estate, obtained a grant from the Dean and Canons of Windsor about 1631 to erect a pew or chapel adjoining the church, and also gave a small library containing books of divinity, which is for the free use of the clergymen of the county and parish: the library leads out from the pew and contains the original bookcases: most of the books date from between 1400 and 1700: there is also an illuminated manuscript of the 11th century: the library is controlled by a body of trustees: in the chapel are monuments to David Harvey, 1788; Robert Bateson Harvey, 1825; a brass to Thomas Harvey, 1802; and other memorials to Louisa Harvey, 1823; Sara Richardson, 1824; Sophie Harvey, 1836; Charles Harvey, 1845; Robert Harvey esq. J.P. d. May, 1863; and Diana Jane (Creyke), wife of Sir Robert B. Harvey, d. 1866, and Sir Robert Bateson Harvey, d. 23 March, 1887: in the chancel is a monument, with kneeling figures, to John Kederminster, his wife, 2 sons and 3 daughters, 1558, and another to Edmund Kederminster, his wife, 3 sons, 5 daughters and 4 infants laid by their side, 1607: there are 460 sittings, 180 being free. The register dates from the year 1643. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £350, with residence, in the gift of the Dean and Canons of Windsor, and held since 1912 by the Rev. Frederic Thomas Herbert Shepherd M.A. of Worcester College, Oxford. The trustees of the late John Nash esq. are the lay impropriators. South of the church are the almshouses founded by Sir John Kederminster in 1617; north of the church are other almshouses founded by Henry Seymour in 1679. At Langley New Town, in Slough civil parish, is a church dedicated to St. John, built by Mrs. Jarmin in 1880 and 1890, and served from Langley. There is a Gospel Mission Hall at Horsemoor Green. There are three sets of almshouses for 14 persons, and numerous charities producing about £120 for distribution. The Village Hall, at HORSEMOOR GREEN, is used for religious and other purposes. Langley Park Working Men's Club, at GEORGE GREEN, was built in 1802 by the Misses Harvey, in memory of Sir Robert Bateson Harvey bart. of Langley Park. Langley Park, now (1939) unoccupied, formerly one of the royal parks, is mentioned in a grant by Richard III. dated 1483; in the second year of Edward VI. the Princess Elizabeth received it by grant from her brother the king: it was granted by Charles I. together with the manor of Langley, to Sir John Kederminster, who had previously at his own charge built the chief lodge therein; the present mansion of stone was built by Act of Parliament as a part of the Marlborough settlement in 1755. R. B. Harvey esq. purchased the estate in 1788 from the 3rd Duke of Marlborough: it contains a fine suite of rooms and large entrance hall and a number of valuable pictures, amongst others a full length portrait of Mrs. Siddons by Sir Joshua Reynolds, two of Lady Hamilton by Romney, and a large collection by Canaletti and Angelica Kauffmann; there are also two interesting pictures of the battle of Ramillies (23 May, 1706) and Bouchain (13 Sept. 1711), formerly the property of the Duke of Marlborough; the mansion stands in the centre of a varied and finely-timbered park of about 498 acres, containing a lake, a noble avenue of oaks and some remarkably fine cedars. In James I. time it had 140 fallow deer, about 35 of antler and about 14 bucks: at present it contains American wapiti, white red deer, fallow deer, Japanese deer, Indian swamp and hog deer and Axis deer. The Black Park, situated on rising ground at the northern extremity of Langley Park, comprises 530 acres, and is almost entirely covered with firs, traversed by sequestered walks and containing a beautiful lake. The trustees of the late Hon. Lady Harvey and the trustees of the late John Nash esq. are the principal landowners. The soil is loam and clay; subsoil, clay and gravel. The chief crops are oats and barley. Fruit growing and market gardening are extensively carried on. The population in 1939 was 8,500.

By Local Government Board Order No. 32,795, Oct. 1, 1895, part of Langley Marish, with parts of other parishes, was taken to form the new civil parish of Gerrard's Cross.

By the Slough Urban District (Extension) Order 1929, that part of Langley Marish parish known as Horsemoor Green was transferred to the parish and urban district of Slough.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, parts of Langley Marish were transferred to Fulmer and Iwer and the remainder taken into the new parish of Wexham.

LATHBURY is a parish and village pleasantly situated 6 miles north-east from the Wolverton station on the London, Midland and Scottish railway and three quarters of a mile from Newport Pagnell, on the Wolverton and Newport Pagnell branch of the same line, in the Buckingham division of the county, county court district of Bletchley and Leighton Buzzard, hundred, petty sessional division, rural district and rural deanery of Newport Pagnell, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. The river Ouse, which encompasses the parish on three sides, and separates it from Newport Pagnell, is crossed by a stone bridge of three arches and the parish is connected with Sherington by another bridge, also of three arches. Water is supplied by the Newport Pagnell Urban District Council. The church of All Saints is a stone building of the Saxon, Norman and later periods, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, south porch and a low western tower, in part of Norman date, erected about A.D. 1120, with battlements added at a later period, and containing a clock and 5 bells, rehung in 1906, when the 5th bell was added: the tower was new-roofed in 1894: on the north wall of the church is a large marble tablet, 10 feet by 4 feet, erected in memory of Henry Uthwatt esq. of Great Lynford, and his wife: the south aisle is of the time of Henry II. and the rest of the church belongs to the reign of Edward III.; one of the pillars on the south side of the nave exhibits a curious carving of an Oriental character, the design for which was perhaps brought home by some crusading knight, and represents grotesque figures of dragons: a flat carved slab, representing an attack made by the serpent or evil spirit upon some animal, was found in 1869, embedded in one of the square piers of the nave: the steps to the rood-loft are in good preservation and on the south side is a remarkable piscina: at the foot of the steps is a stone slab which must have been originally the Tympanum of the Norman porch or some other door: the subject is the Tree of Spiritual Life and Knowledge, with a lion on one side and a horse and dog on the other: the chancel windows are Decorated: there are sedilia and a piscina in the chancel, which is paved with black and white marble throughout, and has an interesting inscription to the donor, Margaret Andrewes, ob. 1680, to which ancient family the church contains many memorials: in the nave and aisles are remains of mural paintings or frescoes of the 14th and later centuries to the 17th century: there are two masons' marks on the north-west exterior of the tower; the church contains a picture representing Cain: there is an alabaster monument to a lady of the Chandflower family, 1604: brasses are recorded here to Richard Davies, of Kynant, Montgomery, gent. ob. 1661, and to Mrs. Mary Davies, ob. 1686, wife of Isiah Davies, rector of this parish and son of Richard Davies above-named: there is also a brass tablet to six men of the parish who lost their lives in the Great War, 1914-18: the church was thoroughly restored in 1869: there are 140 sittings. In the churchyard are the foundations of an old school. The register of baptisms and burials dates from the year 1690; marriages, 1754. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £330, and residence, in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Christ Church, Oxford, and held since 1938 by the Rev. Henry Adeane Byard M.A. of Keble College, Oxford, and surrogate, who is also vicar of Newport Pagnell, where he resides. The ownership of the land is divided. The soil is gravel; subsoil, limestone. The chief crops are wheat, barley and roots. The area is 1,031 acres of land and 26 of water; the population in 1931 was 115 in the civil and 124 in the ecclesiastical parish.

LATIMER is a parish, on the borders of Herts and on the River Chess, formed by an Order of the County Council, August 11th, 1898, and confirmed by Local Government Board Order No. 38,750, April 1st, 1899, out of the parish of Chesham, 1½ miles north from Chalfont Road station on the Metropolitan and London and North Eastern Joint railway, 3½ south-east from Chesham, 5½ from Rickmansworth and 4½ north-east from Amersham, in the Aylesbury division of the county, petty sessional division and county court district of Amersham, hundred of Burnham, rural district and rural deanery of Amersham, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. The ecclesiastical parish was constituted May 15, 1868. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Rickmansworth and Uxbridge Valley Water Co. The church of St. Mary Magdalene, built in 1841 at the cost of the first Lord Chesham, and rebuilt in 1867, is an edifice in the Gothic style, consisting of apsidal chancel, transepts, vestry and organ chamber, south porch and a turret over it containing one bell: the chancel has a credence and stone sedilia on each side: the prayer desk and lectern were the gift of the Rev. Burgess Bryant M.A. rector 1857-89, and the sanctuary carpet was worked and presented by Lady Chesham and other ladies: there are memorial windows in the apse to Charles, 1st Baron Chesham, d. Nov. 10th, 1863, Catherine Susan, his wife, d. Dec. 14th, 1866; and to the Hon. Algernon William Cavendish, d. April 29th, 1865, besides other stained windows on both sides and a memorial west window, erected in 1887, to William George, 2nd Lord Chesham, d. June 27th, 1882, and Henrietta Frances (Lascelles), his wife; there is also a memorial tablet to the Hon. Charles W. H. Cavendish, 17th Lancers, eldest son of the 3rd Baron Chesham, who was killed at Diamond Hill, South Africa, June 11th, 1900: there is a mural tablet in the nave and a memorial in the churchyard to Major-Gen. Lord Chesham P.C., K.C.B. (3rd Baron), who was killed in the hunting field in 1907: there is also an alabaster memorial to the Hon. Marjorie Beatrice Cavendish, daughter of the above-mentioned, who was killed by a fall from a pony in 1897; and a memorial to his widow, Beatrice Lady Chesham, ob. 1911: the church has 220 sittings: the land required for the extension of the building, as well as in part for the enlargement of the churchyard, was given by the 3rd Baron Chesham: the churchyard was further enlarged in 1930 by the consecration of a piece of additional ground, the gift of the present baron. The register of baptisms dates from the year 1782; marriages, 1755; burials, 1784; the previous registers are at Chesham. The living is a rectory, with Flaunden, Herts, annexed, net yearly value £380, with 5 acres or glebe, and residence, in the gift of Lord Chesham, and held since 1939 by the Rev. Thomas Davies Lloyd B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter, who resides at Flaunden, Herts. St. George's chapel of ease of Tyler's Hill, Ley Hill, will seat 100 persons, and is served by the vicar of Christ Church, Waterside, Chesham. Latimer House, the property and residence of Lord Chesham M.C., D.L., J.P. is a large "Elizabethan" mansion built about 1850 of red brick with stone dressings, and standing high above the village in a well-wooded park of 800 acres, through which runs the river Chess. On the village green, overshadowed by fine trees, is a pump, under an ornamental canopy, and this is the only source of refreshment possible to the visitor, for no public house is permitted. Within a plantation of fir trees, by the stream, and a short distance from the village, are slight remains of the old church of Flaunden. Lord Chesham M.C. is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is loam overlying the chalk formation. The area is 2,288 acres of land and inland water; the population in 1931 was 555 in the civil and 374 in the ecclesiastical parish.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, part of this civil parish was transferred to the parish and urban district of Chesham.

The adjoining hamlets of BOTLEY and LEY HILL are situated 3 miles north, and are on the main road from Chesham to Hemel Hempstead, and contain Methodist and Baptist chapels.

LA Vendon is a parish and large village on the road from Olney to Bedford and on the borders of Bedfordshire, 2 miles north-east from Olney, $\frac{1}{2}$ west from Bedford, 12 from Northampton and 8 north-east from Newport Pagnell, in the Buckingham division of the county, county court district of Northampton, hundred, petty sessional division, rural district and rural deanery of Newport, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Gas and electricity are available. Water is supplied by Newport Pagnell Rural District Council. The church of St. Michael is an edifice of stone, consisting of chancel, nave of six bays, aisles, north and south porches and an embattled tower, reputed to be of Saxon origin, and containing a clock and 5 bells: the east window and the easternmost on the south side of the chancel are Perpendicular and on the same side is a Perpendicular piscina: the chancel arch is plain: the south arcade of the nave consists of three acute but plain arches springing from round piers with square imposts: the arches in the northern arcade are similar but less lofty and are all of Transition Norman character: in the south aisle is a recessed niche and a piscina: the south doorway is Early English, with a Perpendicular porch and parvise over it: the font is octagonal, with panelled tracery and flowers on the sides of the basin: there are mural tablets in memory of two former rectors, dated respectively 1654 and 1670, and inscribed brasses to Katherine, wife of Thomas Newton esq. 1680, and to James, eldest son of Thomas Newton esq. and barrister of the Inner Temple, 1690: the stained east window was given by Mr. Benjamin S. Brookes, of the Grange, and another by Mr. H. Coles; a window was placed in memory of Mr. H. H. Hulse in 1938: on the west wall is a tablet in memory of the Rev. H. S. Davis, a former rector: the church was thoroughly restored in 1859: the tower was restored in 1927-8: there are 300 sittings. The register dates from the year 1574. The living is a rectory with Cold Brayfield annexed, joint net yearly value £280, with residence, in the gift of H. G. B. Soames esq. and held since 1933 by the Rev. George Edward Fermor Leggatt. In the village is a Celtic cross of Cornish granite erected in 1919 by public subscription at a cost of £350, in memory of the men connected with the parish who lost their lives in the Great War, 1914-18. There is a Union chapel here, founded in 1790, and rebuilt in 1894, seating 140 persons. A Cemetery of three-quarters of an acre was formed in 1895, at a cost of £300; it is under the control of the Parish Council. In this parish was an abbey of Premonstratensian (Pratum monstratum) monks founded in the reign of Henry II. by John de Bidun, in honour of St. John the Baptist: at the Dissolution there were 11 canons, 20 servants and 8 inferior servants, and the revenues were estimated at £79 13s. 8d.; the building appears to have become ruinous before 1534, but the bells and lead from the roof realized over £73; the abbey church is said to have stood in a close near the abbey, but no remains now exist. The rent of about 9 acres of land was left by an unknown donor for the repairs of the church and amounts to £13 yearly. Lt.-Col. Bertram Gilbert Smith O.B.E. is the principal landowner. The soil is mixed; subsoil, stone and gravel. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and turnips. The area is 2,346 acres of land and 7 of water; the population in 1931 was 597 in the civil and 700 in the ecclesiastical parish.

By Local Government Board Order, 18,130, dated March 25, 1886, a detached part of Lavendon was transferred to Warrington.

LEE (or The Lee) is a parish and small village 3 miles north-by-east from Great Missenden station on the Metropolitan and London and North Eastern Joint railway, 6½ east-by-south from Little Kimble station on the Aylesbury branch of the Great Western and London and North Eastern Joint railway and 4 south-east-by-south from Wendover and 5 north-west from Chesham, in the Aylesbury division of the county, hundred and petty sessional division of Aylesbury, rural district of Amersham, county court district of Chesham, rural deanery of Wendover, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Rickmansworth & Uxbridge Valley Water Co. & the Chiltern Hills Spring Water Co. The church of St. John the Baptist, erected in 1869, is a small edifice of brick in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, transepts, vestry, south porch and a western bell gable containing one bell inscribed, "Michael de Wymbis me fecit," and probably of the 13th century: during 1910-11 the church was enlarged by the extension of the chancel, the addition of two transepts, a baptistery and vestry: new choir stalls were added and the east wall and chancel panelled in oak: there are 200 sittings: in the churchyard, which was extended by a gift of land from the patron, is a very large and ancient yew tree. The registers date from the year 1678. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £400, with residence, in the gift of Capt. Ivor Stewart-Liberty M.C., D.L., J.P. who is lord of the manor and principal landowner, and held since 1937 by the Rev. John Francis Carter M.A. of Pembroke College, Cambridge. The old church, a small building of flint, rubble covered with rough cast, 12th century or earlier, stands in its disused graveyard a little west of the present church, on the erection of which it ceased to be used: it contains a three-light east window, filled with stained glass by Sir A. L. Liberty (d. 1917) as a memorial to John Hampden; and some 14th century glass has been preserved: the sedilia and piscina, together with old mural monuments, were removed to the new church in 1868, but have since been replaced: the church is now used as a Sunday school.

LILLINGSTONE DAYRELL is a parish, 4½ miles north from Buckingham station on the Bletchley and Banbury section of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred, petty sessional division, rural district and county court district of Buckingham, rural deanery of Buckingham, Buckingham portion, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. The church of St. Nicholas is an ancient edifice of stone, chiefly in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave of three bays, aisles, south porch and a plain western tower containing 3 bells, repaired in 1895; in 1868 it was thoroughly restored and a north aisle, organ chamber and vestry added, at the sole expense of A. J. Roberts esq. D.L., J.P.: in the centre of the chancel is an altar tomb, with life-size effigies to Paul Dayrell and Dorothy, his wife, 1571, and on the south side of the tomb effigies of thirteen children, with a Latin inscription, in good preservation; there is also a brass to Paul Dayrell, ob. May 29th, 1491, and to Margaret, his wife, and one to an ecclesiastic, in an Easter sepulchre, with a mutilated effigy and the date, April 6th, 1491, and a tomb with a black marble top to Mrs. Frances Wilkes: a stained east window was erected in 1894, and in 1896 a new choir vestry was built: the church affords 120 sittings. The register dates from the year 1584. The living is a rectory, with that of Lillingstone Lovell annexed, joint net yearly value £488, with 8 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of J. Roberts esq. and J. O. K. Delap esq. alternately, and held since 1927 by the Rev. William Stewart B.A. of Queen's University, Belfast. The rectory is an early 17th century house, covered with ivy and surrounded by a pleasant lawn. The Rev. John Langham Dayrell's charity, the interest of £300 in Consols, is for clothing; there is also another charity, the interest of £63 Consols, for coal. Lillingstone House, the property and residence of Capt. G. Roberts J.P. is a quadrangular mansion with a portico of four pillars; it is pleasantly situated and surrounded by a park of about 55 acres. Tile House, the seat of John Roberts esq. lord of the manor and principal landowner, is a building of the late 17th century, situated on an eminence, and surrounded by well-wooded grounds. The soil is clay; about two-thirds of the land is pasture and one-third arable. The area is 1,869 acres of land and 4 of water; the population in 1931 was 183.

LILLINGSTONE LOVELL is a parish, extending on the east and north to the border of Northamptonshire, a feeder of the river Ouse dividing the parish from Lillingstone Dayrell; it is 5½ miles north by east from Buckingham station on the Bletchley and Banbury section of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred of Ploughley, petty sessional division, rural district and county court district of Buckingham, rural deanery of Buckingham, Buckingham portion, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Prior to 1844 this parish formed a detached portion of Oxfordshire. The church of St. Mary is an ancient building of stone, in the Early English and Decorated styles, consisting of chancel, nave of three bays, aisles, south porch and a western tower, with saddle-back roof, and containing a clock and 4 bells: the east end of each aisle was formerly a chantry chapel, and the piscina and sedilia remain: there are brasses to John Merston, rector, 1446, with two hands holding up a bleeding heart; Thomas Clavell and Agnes, his wife, 1460, with three children; and William Rysley and Agnes, his wife, c. 1516, and several monuments to former proprietors: the church was restored in 1891 at a cost of £1,100, and affords 140 sittings. The register dates from the year 1558. The living is a rectory, annexed to that of Lillingstone Dayrell, joint net yearly value £488, with 8 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of J. O. K. Delap esq. and J. Roberts esq. alternately, and held since 1927 by the Rev. William Stewart B.A. of Queen's University, Belfast, who resides at Lillingstone Dayrell. The charities include the interest of £300, invested as a rent-charge on land, for apprenticing poor children of this parish, and of Woolston, in Warwickshire; the interest of £100, invested in land, and now producing £6 yearly, which is given to the poor on St. Thomas' day; the interest of £54, arising from forest money, invested in Consols, and distributed in coals; and the interest of £200 in Consols, bequeathed by the Rev. W. Lloyd, rector, 1826-89, and distributed among the poor. The manor is the seat of Capt. Basil H. Allfrey. Mrs. B. Allfrey is the principal landowner. The soil is clay; the land is pasture and arable in about equal portions. The area is 1,667 acres; the population in 1931 was 143.

GREAT LINFORD is a parish and scattered village, on the banks of the Ouse, with a station on the Newport Pagnell branch of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, 1½ miles south-west from Newport Pagnell and 52 from London, in the Buckingham division of the county, county court district of Bletchley and Leighton Buzzard, hundred, petty sessional division, rural district and rural deanery of Newport, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. The Grand Junction canal passes through. Gas and electricity are available. The church of St. Andrew is an ancient edifice of stone, in the Early Decorated style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, south porch and a western tower containing 6 bells, recast in 1756 at the expense of Sir Henry Uthwatt bt.: each has a Latin inscription; the original window tracery has been replaced by later work: the porch is of Perpendicular date: in the church there are three very fine brasses: 1, to Roger Hunt (who was perhaps a Speaker of the House of Commons) and Johane, his wife, 1473, at whose expense the church was paved, with effigies in civil dress, eight alternately rhyming lines, and an invocatory inscription; 2, Thomas Malyn and Elizabeth, his wife, 1536, with effigies in civil dress; 3, John Uvedall gent. and Anne, his wife, 1611, also in civil dress, with inscription to the latter only:

there are also mural tablets to the Uthwatt family, including one erected in 1923 to W. F. E. A. Uthwatt esq. by members of the Bucks Otter Hounds, of which he was master for over 30 years: there are four stained memorial windows: an oblong marble tablet commemorates the men of the parish who gave their lives in the Great War, 1914-18: the church was restored in 1884-5 and a new organ was erected in 1887: there are 220 sittings, all free. The register of baptisms dates from the year 1653; marriages, 1654; burials, 1653. The rectors of the parish can be traced back to 1215. The living is a rectory, yearly value £407, with residence, in the gift of Thomas Andrewes Uthwatt esq. and held since 1937 by the Rev. Philip Edward Twamley M.A. of Hertford College, Oxford. The rectory is mainly an Elizabethan building with traces of earlier work. There is a large stone dovecot with 600 nests erected about 1630. The Congregational chapel, erected in 1810, affords 120 sittings. Sir W. Pritchard's charity produces £34 yearly, of which £24 is an endowment for the aged, resident in the six almshouses, erected by him c. 1683-1704: the remaining £10 is for education and other purposes: Lady Pritchard's charity now produces £16 2s. 8d. yearly, which is expended in gifts of £1 to each almshouse, £1 to rector for refraining from grazing cattle &c. in the churchyard, and £1 to sexton or clerk at Christmas: the remainder (originally left for apprenticing poor boys) is now administered under a scheme of the Charity Commissioners. Miss M. B. Cape's charity, producing £9 5s. 4d. yearly, is distributed in sums of £1 each to widows in receipt of parish relief and old men past work, not resident in the almshouses: the balance (if any) is expended in blankets &c. for the most needy. Miss Ann Cape's charity, producing £13 10s. is for the support of the Sunday school and for a treat to the scholars. The kennels of the Bucks Otterhounds are in this parish; W. R. E.

Andrewes Uthwatt esq. is master; the pack comprises 35 couples of hounds and hunts Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays; Newport Pagnell is a convenient centre; Great Linford is the nearest station to the kennels. William Rupert Edolph Andrewes Uthwatt esq. is lord of the manor and chief landowner. The soil is mixed; subsoil, gravel, clay and stone. The chief crops are wheat, barley and roots. The area is 1,816 acres of land and 18 of water; population in 1931, 422.

LITTLE LINFORD is a parish on the Ouse, over which are two bridges of three arches, $\frac{2}{3}$ miles west from Wolverton station on the London, Midland and Scottish railway, $\frac{4}{5}$ from Stony Stratford, $\frac{1}{4}$ from Northampton, $\frac{1}{4}$ from Bedford: it is in the Buckingham division of the county, county court district of Bletchley and Leighton Buzzard, hundred, petty sessional division, and rural deanery of Newport, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. The church of St. Leonard is a small and plain stone building, partly Saxon and partly Norman, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, a north porch and a turret containing 2 bells, of the early 14th and late 15th centuries: the chancel was rebuilt by M. G. S. Knapp esq. (d. 1896) and the north aisle was added by A. J. Knapp and M. S. Knapp esqrs.: in the nave is a marble tablet to the eldest son of Doctor Lee, physician to King George II. and to John Knapp, d. 1747; and there are other tablets and brasses to the Knapp family: by the side altar is a brass tablet in memory of seven men of the parish who served in the Great War, 1914-18: the church affords about 100 sittings. The register dates from the year 1757. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £180, in the gift of R. Bruce Knapp esq. and held since 1933 by the Rev. Ernest Henry Sanderson M.A. of Jesus College, Cambridge, who is also rector of Tyngingham-cum-Filgrave, where he resides. There is no churchyard, but in the grounds of Linford Hall is a private vault belonging to the Knapp family. Linford Hall, the residence of R. Bruce Knapp esq. which stands in a well-wooded park of over 60 acres, was built in 1680 by John Knapp esq. but has been greatly enlarged. R. Bruce Knapp esq. is lord of the manor and sole landowner. The soil is mixed; subsoil, gravel, clay and stone. The chief crops are wheat, beans, barley and oats. The population in 1931 was 45.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, this civil parish was amalgamated with Haversham to form the new parish of Haversham-cum-Little Linford.

LINSLADE is a town and parish adjoining Leighton Buzzard, bounded on the east by the river Ousel, which separates the counties of Bedford and Buckingham, and is close to Leighton Buzzard station on the main line from London to Bletchley of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, $\frac{9}{10}$ miles north-east from Aylesbury, 18 south-east from Buckingham, about 20 south-west from Bedford and 12 east from Winslow: it is head of a petty sessional division, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred of Cottesloe, county court district of Bletchley and Leighton Buzzard, rural deanery of Ivinghoe, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford.

This parish is governed by an Urban District Council of nine members, formed October 1st, 1897, under the provisions of the Local Government Act, 1894 (56 and 57 Vict. ch. 73), by Local Government Board Order, No. 36,631.

Gas and electricity are available. Water is supplied by the Linslade Urban District Council.

The church of St. Barnabas, erected in 1849, is a building of stone in the Decorated style, consisting of chancel, nave of four bays, west porch, north and south aisles, south chapel, and a western tower with low spire added in 1868 and containing a clock and 8 bells, five of which were removed from the old church of St. Mary, and two were presented, c. 1906, by Mrs. Hadley, of this place, who also gave the clock, which has four dials and a chiming apparatus: the side chapel, together with choir and clergy vestries and the first bay of the north aisle were erected in 1905 at the cost of Miss Mary Lawford: the south aisle was completed and the church reseated in 1913: the chancel and sanctuary were enlarged in 1914; these alterations were made possible by a benefaction under the will of Mrs. Charlotte Maria Simpson, to whose memory the west window is dedicated: the stained east window is a memorial to Elizabeth Sarah Hadley, d. 1872: an organ, the gift of Henry Finch esq. of the Gables, Linslade, was erected in 1889 at a cost of £1,400; it was rebuilt in 1914 and enlarged in 1923: there are 750 sittings. The register dates from the year 1690. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £300, including voluntary contributions and one acre of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Oxford, and held since 1919 by the Rev. Lionel Edward Lydekker M.A. of Selwyn College, Cambridge, who is rural dean of Ivinghoe. The old church of St. Mary, originally of the Norman period, but now chiefly Decorated and Perpendicular, is used for burials and occasionally for divine worship; it consists of chancel, nave, south porch and a western tower containing one bell: the chancel arch and font are Norman, and there are some remains of ancient glass, and effigies, c. 1500, of a man and 3 female figures: in 1808 this church was beautifully restored at the sole cost of Henry Finch esq.; the churchyard was enlarged in 1893 by half an acre of ground, given by Sir A. D. Hayter bart. and a new boundary wall built: it contains the remains of a cross: a further half acre was added in 1926: the church, with the manor house and a smaller house near, form the old village of Linslade. The Strict and Particular Baptist chapel here, erected in 1843, will seat 200 persons: the Methodist chapel, built in 1861, affords 400 sittings. In the centre of the town is a decorated stone cross about 18 feet in height, on which are inscribed the names of 48 men from the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. Leighton Buzzard railway station stands in this parish, and the Grand Union canal passes through, occupying 26 acres of the parish. The petty sessions for the Ivinghoe bench of the Linslade division are held here. There are a few small charities, viz.: Mrs. Peacock's of £2 10s.; Sir Andrew Corbet's, £12 4s.; the Hadley bequest, amounting to £3 17s. 4d. yearly, and Miss C. Lawford's of £2 5s. 4d. yearly, which is distributed in money to poor widows; Dr. Lawford's charity, producing £1 6s. 4d. yearly, is spent in blankets for the poor. A recreation ground was presented in 1899 by Henry Finch esq. Anthony Gustav de Rothschild esq. D.L. is the principal landowner. The soil is principally sand; subsoil, sandstone and gravel. The chief crops are wheat, oats and barley. The area of the Urban District and civil parish is 1,807 acres of land and 20 of water; the population in 1931 was 2,433.

SOUTHCOTT is a small hamlet, half a mile south.

LONG CRENDON, in the 13th century a market town, is a large and scattered parish, bounded on the east and south by the river Thame, which separates it from Oxfordshire, 2 miles north from Thame station on the Maidenhead and Oxford section of the Great Western railway, 4½ south-east from Brill. 9½ south-west from Aylesbury and 13 east from Oxford: it is in the rural district of Aylesbury, the Buckingham division of the county, hundred and petty sessional division of Ashendon, county court district of Thame, rural deanery of Waddesdon, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. The village is chiefly remarkable for the length and varying character of its principal street and its picturesque old houses.

Electricity is available. The church of St. Mary is a large cruciform building of stone in the Early English. Decorated and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chan- cel, nave of three bays, transepts, aisles, north, south and west porches with stone seats, and an embattled central tower of Perpendicular date, with hexagonal turret at the north-west angle and containing 8 bells, recast in 1768: the fabric still retains many portions of Early English work, especially in the channel and north transept: the east window, originally consisting of three lancets, was debased some time after 1740, but in 1890 a new rose window of Early Decorated character was erected and filled with stained glass by Mr. Herbert Dodwell, of The Manor, as a memorial to his mother: the side windows are still lancets, and there is an Early English piscina, with stone shelf, in the south wall, and a low stone sedile on the south side: in the north aisle is a Decorated niche with crocketed canopy, and in 1921 a crucifix was added in memory of the men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18: the road screen, a Perpendicular work, was taken down in 1835 and converted into a pew, now removed: the stone font is Early Perpendicular: its basin is surrounded with sunk quatrefoils inclosing heads of saints and angels, and the base is carved with lions and foliage: the tower piers were strengthened, c. 1626, and again in 1897: during the Civil war the tower appears to have been made use of for military purposes and observation: in the south transept, which is parted from the rest of the church by a heavy oaken screen, is an altar tomb with a canopy supported on columns of black marble, and recumbent effigies to Sir John Dormer, of Dorton, ob. 11 Mar. 1626, and his wife, daughter of John Giffard, of Chillington, ob. 9 Sept. 1605: the tomb was restored at a considerable expense out of the charity funds by order of the judge of the county court: there are also in the north transept two other monuments and brasses to John Canon, 1460, and Agnes, his wife, 1468, with 11 children: some years since the skeleton of one of the monks of Notley, sewn up in folds of stout leather, together with a rosary, were found in a brick vaulted grave in the nave: the church was partially restored in 1890-91, since when the north and south transepts and the pillars have been restored: the church was again restored in 1928: an early 15th century roof was discovered in the chancel behind a plastered barrel ceiling inserted early in the 18th century: there are 225 sittings. The register dates from the year 1558. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value, arising from 186 acres of glebe and the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, £300, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Oxford, and held since 1937 by the Rev. Cecil Henry Naylor B.A. of Durham University. The Baptist chapel was first founded in 1799; the present building, erected in 1853, will seat 320 persons, and has attached a large burial ground. The Methodist chapel, built in 1866, has 150 sittings. The Church hall was erected in 1909. The Lecture Hall was erected in 1889: it is also used for public meetings, and will seat about 200. The several charities are distributed by trustees according to a prescribed scheme: Sir John Dormer's of £30 yearly was left for the restoration and repair of the Dormer aisle and tomb. Hart's charity, producing £4 10s. 3d. yearly, is spent in apprenticing poor children.

Canon's charity of £1, Trott's of 9s. 5d. and West-broke's of 10s. yearly, together with Dormer's charity, have been thrown into a general fund, which is distributed in coal, with the exception of £3 2s. reserved for the repair of the Dormer aisle and tomb and £2 for a court dinner. Dieman's charity, consisting of the rent of 12 acres, now producing £10 yearly, is also distributed in coal. Standing in the centre of the village on ground purchased for that purpose, and including 5 acres recreation ground, is the memorial to the men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18; it consists of an obelisk of stone standing on three bases, on which the names of the fallen are recorded in block letters. In the parish, on the banks of the Thame, stands Notley Abbey, built and endowed by Walter Giffard, second Earl of Buckingham, and Ermengarde, his wife, in the year 1162, for canons of the Order of St. Augustine, is now the residence and property of Wilfrid Pymont esq. The Old Court House, standing near the church, is a timber-framed structure resting upon a low stone wall and dating from the 15th century. The house was at one time known as "Staple Hall," its original use having probably been that of a wool store. The Manorial Courts appear to have been held here from 1422. The lordship of the manor is shared by four owners, viz.—the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, All Souls College, Oxford, the Master of Kinloss and Col. Stanley L. Barry C.M.G., C.B.E., D.S.O., M.V.O., J.P. In 1900 the Court House was purchased by the National Trust in a very dilapidated condition: the building has been repaired, the top floor used for meetings &c. and the village nurse resides on the bottom floor. The old manor house, now occupied by Col. Stanley L. Barry C.M.G., C.B.E., D.S.O., M.V.O., D.L., J.P. at the extreme west end of the village, was built early in the 15th century and is entered through a mediæval stone gate-house: the house stands nearly 350 feet up and has a magnificent view overlooking the Thame valley on to the Chilterns. Walter Giffard, Earl of Longueville and 1st Earl of Buckinghamshire, was the first lord of the manor, granted by King William I. H. Reynolds esq. W. White esq. All Souls College, Oxford and the Ecclesiastical Commissioners are the principal landowners. From the end of the 16th to the middle of the 19th century Long Crendon was an important centre for the manufacture of needles, the family of Shrimpton being the chief workers. The soil is partly loam and clay; sub-soil, clay and partly sand. The land is chiefly in pasture. The area is 3,341 acres of land and 7 of water; the population in 1931 was 978.

LONGWICK-cum-ILMER is a civil parish formed by the Bucks Review Order, 1934, comprising the former parish of Imler and parts of Horsendon, Monks Risborough and Princes Risborough; it is in the Aylesbury division of the county, hundred of Ashendon, Aylesbury petty sessional division, rural district of Wycombe and county court district of Thame. Electricity is available. The area is 3,039 acres; the population in 1931 was 579.

ILMER is a village on the Oxfordshire border, with a halt on the main line of the London and North Eastern railway, 2 miles north from Bledlow station on the Wycombe, Thame and Oxford branch of the Great Western railway, 3 west-north-west from Princes Risborough, 9 south-west from Aylesbury and 5 east from Thame. The church of St. Peter is a small building of stone rubble, consisting of chancel, nave, north porch and a wooden belfry with a spire of oak shingle at the west end containing 3 bells. The nave dates from the 12th century; the chancel was rebuilt in the 14th: a blocked doorway led to a southern transept long since demolished: the 14th century piscina and the late 15th century rood screen still remain, and there is a mediæval stone font: in the chancel are two ancient pieces of sculpture, one representing the Trinity and the other the legend of St. Christopher: the chancel was rebuilt and the nave restored in 1859-60, at the cost of the Rev. William Edwards Partridge, vicar, and further restored in 1893, when the north porch was added. In 1909 the former unsightly wooden belfry was replaced by the present belfry and spire. A stained east window was erected in 1910 to the memory of Miss Martha Belgrove and another in 1933 to the memory of Mrs. Jaques: there is a war memorial on the south wall: there are 100 sittings. The register dates from the year 1660. The living is a vicarage, united to the rectory of Horsenden, under an Order in Council, November, 1865, joint net yearly value £280, in the gift of the Bishop of Oxford, and held since 1934 by the Rev. William O'Connor B.A. of the Royal University, Ireland, whose address is Bloomfield, Princes Risborough. The rent of about 2 acres of land, bequeathed by a former Earl Stanhope, is devoted to the repair of the church. A church room, erected in 1908 at the expense of Miss Moreton, is used for general parochial purposes. Robert H. Attenborough esq. is the principal landowner. The soil is stiff loam and clay; subsoil, clay. The crops are wheat, beans and barley, but the larger portion of the parish is given over to pasturage.

LOUDWATER is a village and ecclesiastical parish, formed in 1866, and is on the road from London to Oxford and on the river Wick, with a station on the Wycombe and Maidenhead branch of the Great Western railway, 26 miles from London, $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles south-east from High Wycombe, 7 north from Maidenhead and

3 west from Beaconsfield, in the Wycombe division of the county, hundred of Desborough, second division of Desborough petty sessional division, county court district of High Wycombe, archdeaconry of Buckingham, rural deanery of Wycombe and diocese of Oxford. Gas and electricity are available. Water is supplied by the Chepping Wycombe Water Dept. The church of St. Peter is a structure of brick, erected in 1788 and endowed with the sum of of £1,200 by William Davis esq. who left, at his death, Oct. 17th, 1818, the further sum of £400 towards the endowment of the living: the church now consists of nave, a chancel, added in 1903, and a small turret, surmounted by a vane and containing one bell: the entrance is at the west end: the font was presented by R. G. Hennell esq. in 1866: there are 400 sittings, all being free. The register dates from the year 1866. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £350, with residence, in the gift of trustees, and held since 1938 by the Rev. David Edward Francis Marshall, of the London College of Divinity. In the churchyard is a cross, erected in memory of the men of the parish who lost their lives in the Great War, 1914-18. There is a Methodist chapel, seating about 300, and a Baptist chapel at Loudwater, seating 150. From FLACKWELL HEATH, a portion of which is in this parish, a beautiful view is obtained of the river Thames; here are a cross and a village hall, erected in memory of those who fell in the Great War, 1914-18, and a Temperance hall, seating about 200. The Ecclesiastical Commissioners are lords of the manor and principal landowners. The soil is chalky; subsoil, chalk and flint. The chief crops are wheat, oats and barley. The population in 1931 was 2,065.

LOUGHTON is a parish and village, 4 miles north from Blechley station on the main line of the London, Midland and Scottish railway and $3\frac{1}{2}$ south-east from Stony Stratford, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred and rural district of Newport Pagnell, county court district of Blechley and Leighton Buzzard, petty sessional division of Stony Stratford, rural deanery of Wolverton, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. The London, Midland and Scottish railway has a siding for goods here. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Newport Pagnell Rural District Council. The church of All Saints is an ancient building of stone, chiefly in the Decorated style with Perpendicular windows, and consisting of chancel, nave, south aisle, south porch and a western tower containing 6 bells: the tower opens to the nave by a bold arch with three shafts on each side: in the chancel are tablets to the Crane and Athawes families, and a brass to Hugh Parke, rector 1485; and above the communion table is a painting, by Gonzales, of the Two Disciples at Emmaus, presented by the Rev. John Athawes, rector from 1833: the greater portion of the church as well as the choir was reseat in 1886: in 1925 the chancel and nave were redecorated: an organ was erected in 1864: a stained window was erected on the north side of the church in 1910 by Mr. Henry Negus, in memory of his wife, and another window was inserted in 1911 by the rector in memory of his parents: in 1926 a tablet was erected in memory of those parishioners who fell in the Great War, 1914-18: in 1928 an oak screen was erected across the belfry arch: the windows and parapets of the south aisle were restored in 1930: there are 220 sittings. The register dates from the year 1707. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £325, with residence, in the gift of the Diocesan Board of Patronage, and held since 1933 by the Rev. Fred Crosby. A rectory house was built in 1868 on a site given with 33 acres by the Rev. John Athawes, formerly rector. The Baptist chapel, a structure of brick with freestone facings, was erected in 1832 and enlarged in 1884, and will seat 200 persons; attached is a Sunday school, holding 80 children. In 1926 a Memorial Hall was erected to commemorate those parishioners who served in the Great War, 1914-18. Four cottages were erected in 1897 by subscription to commemorate the Diamond Jubilee of Queen Victoria, and are let at a nominal rental to poor parishioners. Parke's charity, founded by a former rector, now yields about £40 a year, half of which is appropriated to the repair of the church fabric and other church purposes and the other half to the poor; Binyon's charity of £5 a year is for the apprenticing of poor boys; Mrs. Whitworth's charity of £3 yearly is expended on clothing for the aged poor; Bignall's charity, the interest on £100, is for the inmates of Memorial cottages, as is also Athawes' charity of £5 8s. 4d. The manor house, Loughton Green, is an interesting example of Tudor architecture, having been built early in the 16th century and remodelled about 1580. Thomas Henry Brett esq. is lord of the manor. The farmers are the chief land-owners. The soil is strong clay; subsoil, limestone. The chief crops are wheat, oats, barley and beans, but the land is chiefly in pasture. The area is 1,536 acres; the population in 1931 was 363. Letters through Bletchley. Shenley Church End nearest T. office

LUDGERSHALL is a large village and parish on the Oxfordshire border, with a station (Brill and Ludgershall) on the Birmingham section of the Great Western railway, $5\frac{1}{2}$ miles south-east from Bicester, and about 12 north-west from Aylesbury, and in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred and petty sessional division of Ashendon, rural district of Aylesbury, county court district of Thame, rural deanery of Waddesdon, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. The "Akeman" Street passes through the north of the parish. Two brooks, whose source is on Muswell hill, flow through this parish. Electricity is available. The church of St. Mary is an ancient building of stone and rubble, principally in the Norman and Decorated styles, and consisting of chancel, nave of three bays, aisles, south porch and an embattled western tower containing 5 bells: the piers of the arcades are Decorated, but some of the capitals are Norman and exhibit grotesque carving: the inner arch of the south porch is deeply recessed and has a shield at each corner: the font, of Norman date, is carved with a variety of ornament, and has at some time been coloured: in the chancel is an altar tomb with brass effigies to Anne Englishe, wife of Michil Englishe, who was sheriff of London in 1533 and died 29th May, 1565, at the age of 95 years, and her daughter and granddaughter: the church was restored in 1889 at a cost of £1,220, and affords 200 sittings. The register dates from the year 1538. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £373, mainly derived from 305 acres of glebe, and residence, in the gift of the Church Pastoral Aid Society, and held since 1919 by the Rev. Thomas Appleton L.Th. of Hatfield Hall, Durham. The celebrated John Wycliff was rector of this parish A.D. 1368-1374. The Methodist chapel here, built in 1904, will seat 150 persons. There is a memorial hall, built in 1923. W. Spiers's charity of £8 yearly is for coats and gowns, given annually to six of the most deserving aged men and women in the parish; and Mrs. Coles' of £1 6s. 8d. for distribution in coal to the poor. The Crown Commissioners, the rector, the trustees of the late E. Stone esq. and the farmers are the principal landowners. The soil is loam and clay; subsoil, clay. The land is principally in pasture. The area is 2,732 acres; the population in 1931 was 243 in the civil and 261 in the ecclesiastical parish.

LUFFIELD ABBEY, formerly extra-parochial, is now a parish 7 miles north from Buckingham station on the Bletchley and Banbury section of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, in the Buckingham division of the county, petty sessional division, hundred, rural district and county court district of Buckingham. There was once a Benedictine priory here, founded in 1124 by Robert Bellomont, 3rd Earl of Leicester of that name; but owing to its poverty it was suppressed in 1494 by Henry VII. and annexed to the Abbey of Westminster: the only traces which now remain are the foundations and the fish ponds; near by are the remains of St. Thomas à Becket's chapel, which are now occupied as a farm. The soil is clay and gravel; subsoil, various. About two-thirds of the land is pasture; the remainder arable. The area is 216 acres; the population in 1931 was 2.

The parish is reputed to be ex-parochial for ecclesiastical purposes.

MAIDS MORETON is a parish, one mile north-east from Buckingham station on the Bletchley and Banbury section of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, in the Buckingham division of the county, in the hundred, petty sessional division, rural district and county court district of Buckingham, rural deanery of Buckingham, Buckingham portion, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. The river Ouse and a branch of the Grand Junction canal pass through the parish. Gas and electricity are available.

The church of St. Edmund was built about the year 1450 by two maiden sisters of the Peyvre or Peover family, from which circumstance the village takes its name; it is a very elegant structure in the Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, nave, north and south porches, and an embattled western tower containing

6 bells: the windows were once filled with stained glass, the greater part of which was demolished by the soldiery of Cromwell, who otherwise damaged and profaned the building: there are still remains of paintings on the south wall of the chancel, that being a representation of "the Last Supper," under a richly carved canopy; the figures, however, have been sadly defaced: the roofs of the porches and tower entrance and vestry room are richly groined in stone: the font, which is Norman, consists of a circular basin, ornamented with carved work on the outer side, and supported on a plain octagonal base: in the middle of the nave is a large marble slab on which were the effigies of the maiden sisters in brass, but these being lost new brasses were relaid by Miss Andrewes in 1886: there are several ancient monuments and brasses, and on the north side is a plain monument of white marble in memory of the Hon. Mrs. Penelope Verney, first wife of the Hon. Richard Lord Willoughby de Broke, who died August 31, 1718; the inscription is as follows:

"Under this stone doth lie
As much virtue as could die,
Which, when alive did vigor give
To as much beauty as could live."

There is also a brass to Frederick Joseph Dancer, who died at Mafeking, South Africa, in 1901, and one to the Rev. B. W. Johnstone M.A. rector 1877-1903, placed in 1906. The chancel was restored and beautified in 1882, when the whole of the floor was relaid, and the rood screen and canopied sedilia, one of the chief features of the church, carefully renovated: the old stained glass existing in various windows was collected and incorporated in the east window, but in 1898 a new stained east window was erected to commemorate the Diamond Jubilee of Queen Victoria: the interior was also re-seated with open oak benches in 1892, and a new carved oak pulpit presented by Dr. Edward Harold Browne, Bishop of Winchester (1873-91), as a memorial of his parents, who are buried under the tower: the restoration of the nave, begun at the same time, was completed in 1887: a stone tablet was placed in the church in 1920 bearing the names of twelve men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18: there are 220 sittings. The register dates from the year 1558. The living is a rectory, with that of Foscott annexed, joint net yearly value £350, with residence, in the gift of trustees, and held since 1932 by the Rev. Edward William Yates A.K.C.L. The Methodist chapel, erected in 1869, will seat 80 persons. Scott's charity, consisting of the interest of £158 2s. 6d. is given in bread to the poor on Sundays; Scott's charity of £16 3s. 9d. in Consols, is for apprenticing poor children of the parish. The poor's allotment consists of 26 acres of pasture land in lieu of "common rights," and is let at £60 a year. Elmer's charity of £3 a year is for the assistance of poor parishioners, £2 a year in the case of a man and £1 for a woman. There are also church lands, producing varying amounts, for the repairs of the church. The Manor is the residence of Mrs. Wood. The Warden and Fellows of All Souls College, Oxford, and Mr. Sydney Dancer are the principal landowners. The soil is clay and gravel; sub-soil, gravel. The chief crops are wheat, barley and beans. The area is 1,125 acres of land and inland water; the population in 1931 was 379.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, part of this parish was transferred to Thornborough, and part to the borough of Buckingham.

MARLOW

MARLOW is a town 32 miles from London, 5½ south-west from High Wycombe, 25 south-east from Oxford, 5 north-by-west from Maidenhead and 7½ east from Henley, Marlow has a terminal station on a branch from Bourne End of the Maidenhead and High Wycombe section of the Great Western railway; it is the head of a petty sessional division, in the Wycombe division of the county, hundred of Desborough, county court district and rural deanery of Wycombe, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. The town is pleasantly situated on the Thames, here crossed by a suspension bridge connecting the town with Bisham, Berks. The Weir, near the bridge, is semi-circular in form, and between it and the mansion called "Lymbrook," is Marlow lock, which has an average fall of 5 feet, and is about 4 miles above Cookham; the lock, one of the oldest on the Thames, was entirely reconstructed in 1927. Adjoining are extensive beech woods, and the surrounding scenery is remarkable for its beauty. Great Marlow formerly returned two members to Parliament: under the provisions of the Representation of the People Act, 1867 (30 and 31 Vict. c. 102), the number was reduced to one; and by the Redistribution of Seats Act, 1885 (48 and 49 Vict. c. 23), the representation of the borough was merged in that of the county. The town is lighted with gas from works the property of a company and by electric light, and supplied with water from works at the chalk pit, Oxford road, the property of the Marlow Water Company; the supply is obtained from a solid stratum of chalk by a boring 120 feet below the sea level. By a Local Government Board Order, which came into operation March 25, 1885, a part of the parish of Lewknor-up-Hill, Oxfordshire, known as Ackhampstead, was amalgamated with Great Marlow, the remaining portion being added to Stokenchurch.

By a Local Government Board Order, 35,052, which came into operation Oct. 1st. 1896, the whole ecclesiastical parish of Great Marlow was divided for civil purposes into the parishes of Marlow (Urban), comprising the area of the Urban District, and Great Marlow parish, which consists of the remainder of the old parish, and includes Bovington Green, Harleyford, Lane End &c. By Local Government Board Order No. 34,210, which came into operation Oct. 1st. 1896, part of the former civil parish of Great Marlow, now called Marlow Urban, was constituted an Urban District by the name of Great Marlow. Under the Bucks Review Order, 1934, the boundaries of the Urban District were further extended by the inclusion of a part of Great Marlow. By an Order of the County Council dated Feb. 11th, 1897, the name of the Urban District was altered to that of Marlow. The Urban District is governed by a Council of nine members, formed under the provisions of the Local Government Act, 1894 (56 and 57 Vict. c. 73). Great Marlow parish is controlled by a Parish Council of nine members. The town is known as Marlow for postal, railway and other civil purposes, but it is still Great Marlow for ecclesiastical purposes.

The church of All Saints, rebuilt in 1834, on the site of the old church, erected circa 1100, and situated on the bank of the river, is an edifice of yellow brick with stone dressings in the Decorated and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel, nave of five bays, aisles, and a lofty tower with crocketed spire containing 8 bells: the chancel, erected in 1876, contains a handsome reredos and five stained windows, one of which is a memorial to the Rt. Rev. Robert Milman D.D. bishop of Calcutta 1867-76, and vicar of Great Marlow 1862-7, who died at Rawal Pindi, India, March 15, 1876; at the west end is a mural monument to Sir Miles Hobart, 1632, and another, with kneeling effigies of a father, mother and children, to Katherine Willoughby, 1597, and there are tablets to the Clayton, Cocks and Morris families: during the years 1881-2 the galleries were removed and arcades erected in the nave: in 1889 the nave was new roofed and the interior reseated: in 1898-9 the tower and spire were rebuilt of stone and flint, at a cost of £2,500, and surmounted by a bronze cross: in 1907 a memorial was placed in the sanctuary to Bishop Smythies of Zanzibar, who was curate here in 1862, comprising oak panelling for the sanctuary walls, carved oak credence table, tapestried side wings, two ancient carved oak 16th century sanctuary chairs and a dedicatory marble tablet on the sanctuary wall: in 1925 a lady chapel, with side altar and screen work, was consecrated: there are 580 sittings. In the churchyard is a lofty monument to Henry Hugh O'Donel Clayton esq. who died in 1857, and a tombstone to John Richardson, the famous itinerant showman, who was born at Marlow in 1767, and died in Southwark, 14 Nov. 1837. The register dates from the year 1592. The living is a vicarage, net income £328, and residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Oxford, and held since 1938 by the Rev. Daniel John Amies B.D. of London University, A.K.C.L. rural dean of Wycombe, who is a surrogate. The Ecclesiastical Commissioners are owners of the great tithes, amounting to £670 yearly. The church of the Holy Trinity, consecrated in 1852, is a building of flint, with stone quoins and dressings, consisting of chancel, nave, north aisle, south porch, and a turret containing one bell: on the south side of the nave is a monument of alabaster and marble to Col. Alexander Higginson, d. 1855; the chancel walls and roof are decorated in colour, and the east and west windows and four others in the chancel and three in the nave are stained: the reredos is of alabaster and Caen stone with panels of gold and coloured mosaic: there are 200 sittings. The Roman Catholic church, in St. Peter's street, and dedicated to St. Peter, was founded by C. R. Scott-Murray esq. and opened in 1846; it is an edifice of flint and stone, from the designs of the elder Pugin, and consists of chancel, nave, north aisle, lady chapel, and small turret with spire containing one bell: the pulpit and font are of Caen stone: the chancel has a handsome reredos, and all the windows are stained: on the south side of the nave is a canopied tomb to members of the Scott-Murray family, whose vault is in the churchyard adjoining; there are also schools and a school house, built from designs by the younger Pugin. The Baptist chapel, Glade road, erected in 1884, has 250 sittings. The Congregational chapel, Oxford road, founded in 1693, the present building being erected in 1840, restored and reseated in 1863, and further restored in 1890, has 350 sittings; the Methodist church, in Spittal street, erected in 1900-1, at a cost of £2,200, will seat 350 persons. The Salvation Army Citadel, in Crown road, was opened in 1935. A cemetery of 5 acres was formed in 1910. Near the bridge over the Thames is a fine stone cross, erected in memory of Marlow men who lost their lives in the Great War, 1914-18. The Police Court and Station, in Trinity road, was erected in 1869, and here the county magistrates hold petty sessions. The brewery of Messrs. Thomas Wethered and Sons Limited employs many hands.

A fair is held on October 29th and 30th, which is generally well attended. The Great Marlow Institute, established in 1853, contains over 1,300 volumes of useful and standard works, and is supplied with books of reference, newspapers and periodicals; in 1887 a site was given by Lt.-Gen. Owen L. C. Williams J.P. upon which in 1889-90 a new institute of brick in the Gothic style was erected, at a cost of about £1,500, which comprises library, newspaper, reading and recreation rooms. The Masonic Hall is situated in St. Peter's street. The Cottage Hospital, in Glade road, erected in 1915 on a site given by John Langley esq. is of red brick with stone dressings; there are 8 beds and 2 cots. There is an endowment of £30 yearly for the boys' and girls' Sunday school, derived from funds invested for that purpose by members of the Wethered family; and charities amounting to a considerable sum are distributed to the poor. Loftin's charity, left June 7th, 1759, by William and Benjamin Loftin, of Great Marlow, consists of a farm known as "Copy Green," and a sum of £408 Consols, for the apprenticing of poor boys in the parish. There are also six almshouses, founded and endowed by John Brinkhurst esq. in 1608 for poor widows, with a weekly allowance to each and a small piece of garden ground, and in 1887 two more houses were added by the late Joseph Henry Rolls esq. Thomas Wethered esq. who died in 1815, gave the rents of two houses, and his heir-at-law, to secure the said charity, invested the sum of £200 Consols for the supply of blankets to the poor at Christmas. Mrs. Sarah Wethered, in 1852, gave £700 Consols to be distributed in beef to poor widowers and widows at Christmas. Susannah Hone, in 1853, gave £190 14s. 2d. Consols, the dividend to be distributed by the vicar and churchwardens at Christmas to twelve poor men and twelve poor women, and to children who attend regularly at the Sunday schools in the parish. Jemima Anne Cocks, in 1875, bequeathed £333 6s. 8d. for the benefit of the infant school in the Causeway. Joseph Henry Rolls bequeathed £6 annually to be given to six poor men and six poor women on January 24th in each year; Mrs. Ann West, 55s. annually to poor widows of 60 years of age and upwards; the Rev. John Cleobury, a flannel garment to three poor men and three poor women, and 5s. to the parish clerk for keeping his tomb clean &c. the balance of the dividend to be given to poor persons in sums of 2s. 6d. each; Thomas Rolls, 30s. yearly to six aged men; H. Pendleton and Agnes Friar, each 20s. annually for distribution to necessitous persons; Robert Boothby, 10s. each to 10 poor persons; Richard Davenport, £5 (charged on Court Gardens estate) for five poor widows; Thomas Drew, £2 12s. for the distribution of 2d. loaves fortnightly to 12 persons; Sarah Hawes, £100 Consols for children regularly attending Sunday schools; Sir William Willoughby and others, in 1613, gave £100 annually; John Rotherham, in 1619, £100; Jane Hawes, in 1749, £10 annually; Owen Williams Charity, a sum of £390 in £10 water company's shares, to be given by the vicar in sums of £5 to persons in need; Alfred Davis charity, a sum of £500 in local loan stock, the interest, £13 a year, to be given to the deserving poor of Great Marlow; there is also the Parish General charity, comprising the Poors Estate and the Turville charity, a sum of £138 11s. 9d. given in doles to the poor; and William Willoughby's gift (1587) of £8 6s. 8d. once in five years. Harleyford House, the residence of Sir Harold Clayton, bart. was built in 1715; it is a mansion of red brick in the style of the reign of Queen Anne, and stands on the north bank of the Thames, at the foot of a well-timbered park; in the rear are well-timbered grounds, and a noble terrace overlooking the river; the house contains some of the best productions of Sir Peter Lely, also family paintings by Sir Thomas Lawrence, Sir William Beechey, Sir Godfrey Kneller, Romney, a Gainsborough of Sir William Clayton, 1799, and George Stubbs R.A. including a life-sized portrait of Sir Robert Clayton kt. M.P. and Lord mayor of London in 1680, and one of Sir William Clayton bart. d. 1834, commander and a munificent supporter of the Royal Bucks Yeomanry. The poet Shelley resided here during the summer of 1817, and the house he occupied, a simple cottage-like building, with flat buttresses running up through a parapet, is in West street, and here and in his rambles in the neighbourhood he composed "The Revolt of Islam." On July 5th, 1926, the Princess Royal, then Princess Mary Viscountess Lascelles visited Marlow and presented the deeds of the Court Garden Estate to General Sir George W. A. Higginson G.C.B., G.C.V.O., D.L., J.P. on behalf of the town in commemoration of his rooth birthday. In 1934, the late Rev. Canon Michael Graves B.D. generously gave £1,400 toward the redecoration of Court Garden, and it was taken over by the Council for offices. Remnantz, a little to the west of the town, the property and residence of Comdr. O. F. M. Wethered R.N. is a noble pile, with an ancient clock tower; in a well-wooded park south of the house is a remarkable yew hedge; the house was formerly occupied as the Royal Military College, established at Marlow in 1799, and removed to Sandhurst in 1811. Seymour Court, now (1939) unoccupied, stands on an eminence 1 mile north of the town, and is said to have been the birthplace of Lady Jane Seymour, one of the Queens of Henry VIII. Beechwood, now (1939) unoccupied, is beautifully situated on an eminence surrounded by extensive and well laid out grounds. Spinfield (rebuilt 1937) is the residence of Henry Rupert Hood Barrs esq. and is a fine mansion of red brick, situated on a commanding height, overlooking a well laid out lawn. Both these houses afford delightful river views. Marlow Place, now (1939) unoccupied, is a mansion of red brick, built early in the 18th century, and contains a suite of lofty panelled rooms on the first floor. The Rookery is the property and residence of Capt. Arnold Henry Burslem Wright. The Marlow Rowing Club have a boathouse near the bridge, and the Marlow Regatta is held annually, usually 3rd Saturday in June, on the reach above the bridge. Sir Harold Dudley Clayton bart., University College, Oxford, A. B. A. Heath esq. and C. G. Osborne esq. are the principal landowners. The soil is flint, chalk, gravel and loam; subsoil, varous.

The area of Marlow Urban Parish and district is 1,661 acres of land and inland water; the population in 1931 was 5,278.

The area of Great Marlow Parish is 4,651 acres of land and inland water; the population in 1931 was 742.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, a part of Great Marlow was transferred to the borough of Chepping Wycombe and a part to the parish of Fingest.

Sir William Borlase's School was founded in 1624 in memory of Sir William's son, Henry, at one time M.P. for Marlow, to teach 24 boys "to read, write & cast accounts," & 24 girls to make bone lace. In 1880 it was converted into a grammar school, & in 1903 it was taken over by the County Council. At present there are 170 boys, who are prepared by a staff of 9 graduates, for the examinations of Oxford & London Universities: the buildings form two quadrangles, & comprise, in addition to the class-rooms, an assembly hall, a workshop, an up-to-date gymnasium & a large library: separated from the main buildings by a lawn is the school chapel, with its three stained glass windows & oak panels, all presented by friends of the school: in 1938 a new block was built, containing a laboratory, dining hall & cloakroom: behind the school there are 13 acres of playing fields, with levelled pitches for football, cricket, athletics & tennis, a cricket pavilion, a fives court & changing rooms fitted with shower baths. The boat club makes full use of the river & possesses its own boats and boat house. The School has four scholarships to the total annual value of £140, which can be used for advanced work either at school or at the Universities. W. S. Booth, head master

LITTLE MARLOW is a parish two miles from Great Marlow market place, in the Wycombe division of the county, hundred of Desborough, 1st division of Desborough petty sessional division, rural district, county court district and rural deanery of Wycombe, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford;
 it is a widely scattered place, with a few farms and shops, and bounded on the south by the Thames. Gas and electricity are available. Water is supplied by the Marlow Water Co. The church of St. John the Baptist is a plain edifice of stone in the Early English and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel, nave of four bays, aisles, north porch and a lofty western tower containing 3 bells and a clock: it was originally erected in 1190, but of the earlier building the Early English tower and chancel only remain: the nave and aisles, rebuilt in 1430, were resented with open benches, an organ placed in the south aisle and the church carefully restored in 1866;
 a gallery and the high square pews were then removed,
 the timber roof of the chancel opened and two elegant Early English windows in the chancel restored; the east window is stained, and there are three others:
 in the church are many marble tablets to the Nugent, Chase and Warren families and an altar tomb with brasses to Nicholas Ledewich, ob. 1430: there is also a tablet recording the names of the men connected with this parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18:
 during 1902 various restorations and repairs were carried out at a cost of about £1,000, the 14th century roofs being re-covered and the window mullions renewed; in the course of the work traces of the roodloft, a priest's door in the chancel and a Norman piscina were brought to light: there are 270 sittings.

 The register of baptisms dates from 1562; marriages and burials from 1559; these books also include the baptisms and burials of Hedsor till about 1590. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £340, including 2 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of Capt.
 J. E. M. Bradish-Ellames, and held since 1935 by the Rev. Henry Lloyd Arnold M.A. of Corpus Christi College, Oxford. There is a Parish Council, which also acts as the burial board; Henry Langton Stephenson esq. chairman. The Congregational mission hall at Well End, built in 1886, is of red brick, and will seat 120. The Upper Thames Sailing Club has its head quarters and club house at Bourne End. There are charities of £24 yearly value left by Field-Marshal Sir George Nugent bart. G.O.B., D.C.L. d. 1848, and Messrs. Allanson and Birch, for distribution in bread and clothing. The Manor House, the seat of Capt. John Edward Montague Bradish-Ellames, is partly of Elizabethan date and stands in its own grounds on the north bank of the Thames; the south front overlooks well laid out pleasure grounds and contains many noble and ornamental trees. Messrs. H. J. Mash Limited are the principal landowners. The soil is chalk, flint and gravel. The chief crop is wheat, and there is much woodland abounding with beech trees. A portion of Bourne End, Well End and a great portion of Flackwell Heath are in this parish. The area is 3,337 acres of land and inland water; the population in 1931 was 725 in the civil and 1,102 in the ecclesiastical parish.

The Abbey Estate, Bourne End, situated chiefly in this parish and partly in Wooburn, is laid out in a very artistic manner: there is a trout stream running through the estate: the property originally formed part of the Abbey farm, where slight remains of the Benedictine Priory, dating from the early 13th century and probably founded by the De Clares, can still be seen. The entire site of this nunnery was excavated in 1902 by Mr. Vaughan Williams, of the Abbey Farm house, which is largely constructed from materials from the monastic buildings, the only part of which now above ground is part of the north-east angle of the frater (refectory), but the whole plan has been made out and comprises an aisleless church, with north transept having an eastern chapel, and a western tower; south of the nave were cloisters, having on the west cellars with guest hall over; on the east chapter house and warming house with dorter (dormitory) over; on the south the frater with kitchen, and south of this the infirmary: part of the leg of a mailed effigy, floor tiles of the 14th and 15th centuries, and a stone coffin have been found. By the construction of a weir, about three-quarters of a mile of water is now available for navigation, with roads so arranged that the gardens of the houses slope to the water's edge: numerous bungalows and quaint thatched cottages and boat houses have been erected.

Under the provisions of the "Divided Parishes Act." WELL END has been transferred from Hedsor to Little Marlow.

Under the Bucks Review Order, 1934, part of Little Marlow was transferred to Chepping Wycombe Rural and a part of that parish was added.

MARSH GIBBON, in Domesday called "Mersie," is a parish on the borders of Oxfordshire and one mile south from Marsh Gibbon and Poundon station on the Oxford and Bletchley branch of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, 3 south-west from Calvert station on the London and North Eastern railway, 2 north-east from Blackthorn station on the Birmingham section of the Great Western railway, 4½ east-north-east from Bicester and 9 south-west from Buckingham, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred, petty sessional division, rural district and county court district of Buckingham, rural deanery of Claydon, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. The place obtains its suffix of "Gibbon" from the "Gibwen" family, who had estates here in the 13th century. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Bucks Water Board. The church of St. Mary is an ancient edifice of stone, chiefly in the Early English style, with Perpendicular and later additions, and consists of chancel, nave of three bays, aisles, transepts, south porch and an embattled western tower with pinnacles, containing a clock and 5 bells: the south transept, called also the Ickford chapel, has a fine window of Perpendicular date, and in the north wall is a stone coffin lid carved with a floriated cross: there are three piscinæ in the transepts, and monuments to the Guy, Horwood and Townsend families: the chancel was restored by the Rev. T. H. Green, a former rector, in 1860, and the church generally in 1880, at a cost of £2,000, when a new roof was fixed, the north aisle added and the tower rebuilt, and in 1892 a new stone reredos and a stained east window were placed in the chancel at a cost of £160: there are 250 sittings. In the churchyard is the base of an ancient cross, and also a granite cross, mounted on a rectangular base, on which are inscribed the names of the men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. The register dates from the year 1576. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £550, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Oxford, and held since 1923 by the Rev. John Oliver Britnell. The Congregational chapel, erected in 1851, will seat 300 persons; adjoining it is a house for the minister. There is a reading room, supplied with current literature and containing a small library, presented by Sir Henry Wentworth Acland bart. K.C.B.,

M.D. of Oxford (d. 1900). The Village Hall was erected by public subscription. Sheppard's charity of £28 yearly, founded in 1847, is for education, and there is another charity of about £10 a year, the rent of a field in the parish of Piddington, left by an unknown donor for apprenticing. A piece of land of about 5 acres was awarded under the Inclosure Act of 1841 as a recreation ground, and under the same Act another field was set apart, the rent of which is laid out in supplying coal to the poor. The Manor House, situated near the church, is a fine example of a 16th century house, with additions in the two following centuries; the east front has four gables, and the interior has original fireplaces, staircases and other early woodwork: at the west end of the village is a manor house known as Westbury, which dates back to 1066, and part of the original panelling and staircase still remain. The trustees of the almshouses at Ewelme in Oxfordshire are lords of the manor and principal landowners. The soil is clay; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, beans and oats; the land is about one-sixth arable and the rest pasture. The area is 2,818 acres; the population in 1931 was 490.

NORTH MARSTON is a parish and village, 3½ miles south from Winslow station on the Oxford and Blechley station of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, 10 south-east from Buckingham and 7 north-west from Aylesbury, in the Buckingham division of the county, Ashendon hundred, Winslow petty sessional division and rural district, Buckingham county court district, rural deanery of Claydon, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity and main water are available. The church of St. Mary, standing on an eminence, is an edifice of stone, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave of three bays, aisles, south porch and an embattled western tower of the Decorated period containing a clock and 6 bells: the original style of the church seems to have been Early English, but the whole of the south side is Decorated, with a hagioscope, and a piscina and a triple sedilia in the south wall: the Perpendicular chancel, is said to have been built from the offerings of pilgrims who frequented the tomb or shrine of the famous rector, Sir John Schorne, and has misereres: above the vestry is a chamber said to have anciently been used by the priest whose duty it was to watch the shrine, for which purpose a rectangular opening was made through the north chancel wall; from this upper chamber a spiral stair gives access to the roof: on the north side of the chancel was buried John Virgin, vicar 1694, and above is a hand and inscription, indicating his grave: here also is a brass to Richard Sanders, 1602, and an inscription to the wife of John Sanders, 1615: the reredos and stained east window were erected by Queen Victoria in memory of John Campden Neild esq. who left Her Majesty his property, amounting to about £250,000: the chancel was also restored by Queen Victoria at a cost of £3,000: in the Diamond Jubilee year (1897) a new pulpit was erected: in 1913 a stained glass window was placed in the belfry by Mr. and Mrs. Francis Farnborough, who also the following year gave two candelabra for the sanctuary: on the north wall is a tablet recording the names of the men connected with this parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18: the church was restored during 1920 and 1921. There are 250 sittings. The register of baptisms dates from the year 1639; burials from the year 1724, and marriages 1725. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £365, with residence, in the gift of the Dean and Canons of Windsor, and held since 1938 by the Rev. George Richard Robertson. The Methodist chapel here, built in 1864, affords 200 sittings; there is another, enlarged in 1872, with 300 sittings. Sir John Schorne, rector here about 1290, was greatly venerated by the people, and after his death was regarded as a saint; the place, it is said, became populous and flourishing both on account of the numbers who resorted to a well which he had blessed, as well as of the pilgrims who visited his shrine: the well, which still exists, is fed by a spring rising on the spot, and when filtered is beautifully clear, bright and sparkling, from the quantity of free carbonic acid it contains; an analysis made in 1868 by Dr. Bernays, Professor of Chemistry at St. Thomas's Hospital, showed that one litre (1.76 pint) contained 1.081 grammes of salts, which, on being boiled, deposited 0.307 grammes of lime carbonate, with a minute trace of magnesia and iron carbonate; in addition, one litre of the water contained: chlorine 0.0276, sulphuric acid 0.1354, silica 0.0180, lime 0.0142 and magnesia 0.0900 grammes; somewhat more than a gramme of lime-sulphate (gypsum) and magnesia-sulphate (Epsom salts) with magnesium chloride; the remaining salts are potash and soda carbonate. The poor's allotments consist of about 12 acres, held in trust by trustees appointed by the Parish Council and others; "The Clock Land," of about 14 acres, is held by the vicar and six elected trustees; these lands produce £26 yearly, which is applied to the maintenance of the church and the repair of the clock, and also towards general church expenses and the relief and sustentation of the poor of North Marston. The Village Memorial Hall, erected at a cost of £1,200, stands in the centre of the village. The chief landowners are the Ecclesiastical Commissioners and Messrs. Holden. The soil is loam and clay; subsoil, clay. The greater part of the land is in pasture. The chief crops are wheat and beans. The area is 1,983 acres, which are tithe free; the population in 1931 was 390.

MARSWORTH (or Masworth) is a parish and village on the Herts border, 2½ miles south from Cheddington Junction station on the London, Midland and Scottish railway, 2½ north-west from Tring, 2 south-west from Ivinghoe and 7½ south-east from Aylesbury, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred of Cottlesloe, petty sessional division of Linslade, rural district of Wing, county court district of Aylesbury, rural deanery of Ivinghoe, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. The London, Midland and Scottish railway and the Grand Union canal both intersect the parish, the latter having a large reservoir here covering many acres, which is a resort in the season for anglers; the Aylesbury and Wendover branches of the canal start from this place. Electricity is available.

The church of All Saints is an edifice of stone and flint in the Early English, Decorated and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel with aisle, nave, south aisle with chantry, south porch, vestry formed out of the north porch, and an embattled western tower containing a clock and 6 bells, one of which was recast in 1887: the nave is separated from the south aisle by three Early English arches, two others of similar character dividing the chancel from its aisle, and all having octagonal pillars and caps, but the two easternmost arches were lowered at the end of the 15th century, and most of the ancient carved oak disappeared in the early part of the present century: outside the north wall is a turret, having a newel stair leading to the rood loft: in the church are several monuments to the West and Seare families, whose last representatives are buried in this church: there is also an altar tomb to Edmond West, who died in 1618, with a brass representing a man in armour lying on a bed and Death striking him with his dart, while his wife and children kneel by the bedside; an earlier brass with the inscription, "Orate pro animabus Johannis Seelk et Cristine uxoris ejus;" one to Mary West, 1606, and another to two daughters of Nicholas West: a chancel arch was erected in 1887 and a new east window in 1889: the various restorations from 1882 to 1891 were carried out at a cost of £810: there is communion plate of the 17th century, comprising flagon, chalice & paten, the gift of the daughter of Edmund West: in the chancel is a complete list of the incumbents from the year 1215 to date, carved in the wall: there are 240 sittings: the churchyard was enlarged in 1884. The old registers were destroyed by fire before 1836, and there are now none prior in date to the year 1720, but a record exists of the earlier entries of the register, which was copied by the Rev. F. W. Ragg M.A. a former vicar of the parish. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value from 78 acres of glebe and other sources £326, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Oxford, and held since 1939 by the Rev. Dudley Gibson Bishop M.A. of Pembroke College, Oxford. A Parish Room was built in 1897 at a cost of about £350. The charities for distribution amount to £2 yearly. The Countess of Bridgewater, who died at Ashridge Park, 11 Feb. 1849, left £5 a year to be applied to the schools in this parish. The kennels of the Tring & District Farmers Draghounds are in this parish: John T. de Fraine esq. is master; the pack comprises 12 couples of hounds; hunting days, Saturdays and occasional bye-day; Tring, Amersham, Wendover and Princes Risborough are convenient centres; Tring is the nearest station to the kennels. There are three manors in this parish. The Earl of Rosebery D.S.O., M.C., M.F.H. and Mr. L. W. Robson are the principal landowners. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and beans. The soil is marl and gault; subsoil, chalk and marl. The land is very good, principally arable. The area is 1,185 acres of land and 27 of water; the population in 1931 was 323.

MEADLE, see Monks Risborough.

MEDMENHAM is a village and parish on the high road from Marlow to Henley and on the north bank of the Thames, and by the river 6½ miles from London and 51 from Oxford; nearest bridges: up, Henley 4 miles; down, Marlow 3½ miles; it is 3½ miles west from Great Marlow terminal station on a branch of the Great Western railway, 4 east from Henley-on-Thames and 8 south-west from High Wycombe, in the Wycombe division of the county, hundred of Desborough, 1st division of Desborough petty sessional division, county court district of Henley, rural district and rural deanery of Wycombe, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Marlow Water Co. The church of St. Peter is a building of flint, chalk and stone in the Decorated and Perpendicular styles, restored in 1839; it consists of chancel and nave under one roof, modern south porch and an embattled western tower with turret containing 3 bells: the south doorway is Norman: the east window is stained, and in the nave are mural tablets to the Murray family and a coloured memorial with arms to Mrs. Anne Danvers, ob. 1677; there is also a memorial window on the south side of the nave to Henry William Caslon, and in the chancel are stained windows and brasses to the Rev. F. W. Harris, 19 years vicar of the parish, and to Eliza Eleanor Murray: there are inscribed ledger stones to Francis Duffield esq. d. 1728, and to Francis Duffield esq. d. 1758, both of whom were of Medmenham Abbey, and each died in the month of May, aged 39; there also remains a brass to Richard Levynge, ob. 1415, and Alicia, his wife, ob. 1419: the church affords 170 sittings: in the churchyard, under the southern window, is a monument to Ellen, wife of Bransby William Powys esq.: Henry William Caslon, of the well-known family of typefounders of that name, is also buried in the churchyard. The register dates from the year 1654. The living is a vicarage, net income £350, with residence, in the gift of the trustees of the Danesfield estate, and held since 1915 by the Rev. Arthur Henry Plaisted K.C.L. Danesfield, the residence of A. S. Garton esq. is pleasantly seated on an eminence commanding extensive views; contiguous is the Danish encampment which gave its name to the mansion, and between the church and States House is another ancient encampment. On the river bank is a monument, erected in 1935 to commemorate the successful action fought by the 1st Viscount Devonport P.C. which resulted in the Court of Appeal deciding in 1899 that Medmenham Ferry is public. The remains of Medmenham Abbey, founded by Hugh de Bolebec and colonised from Woburn Abbey, Beds, are beautifully situated on the north bank of the Thames. King John, by a charter dated June 3rd, 1201, confirmed the foundation, and in 1204 some of the Cistercian monks of Woburn settled here, but did not long remain; in 1212 a new colonisation was effected by monks of the same order from Cîteaux, in the diocese of Chalons, in France. The abbey, dedicated to the Virgin Mary, possessed revenues, which at the Dissolution, were valued at £20 6s. 2d. the building being then ruinous. The Abbot of Medmenham was ex-officio epistolar of the Order of the Garter on St. George's Day at Windsor Castle. During the 18th century the abbey was tenanted by a band of men of wit and fashion, under the designation of the "Monks of St. Francis," whose habits they assumed, but better known as the "Hell Fire Club;" these, led by Sir Francis Dashwood bart. John Wilkes and others, converted the abbey into a convivial retreat, and here celebrated their impious and immoral orgies. The buildings consist, so far as they are genuine, of a block in the rear, lighted by mullioned windows; the ivy-covered tower and cloisters adjoining it facing the river are of comparatively modern erection: the abbey has been restored, and is now the residence of Arthur Bendir esq. Wittington, now the residence of Garfield Weston esq. was built in 1898, in the Early Georgian style, on the cliff above Hurley Weir, and commands delightful views of the Thames Valley. This estate formerly belonged to the Pole family, of which Cardinal Reynold Pole was a member; it finally passed to remote relations, one of whom being convicted of piracy, the estate was forfeited to the Crown. King Charles I. at the intercession of Archbishop Laud, gave it to the University of Oxford, from whom it was purchased by the present owner in 1898. The Manor House, a building of the 15th century, and formerly the home of the Duffield family, was carefully restored about 1903 by the 1st Viscount Davenport. A. S. Garton esq. and Arthur Bendir esq. are the principal landowners. The soil is chalk, flint and clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 2,406 acres of land and 36 of water; the population in 1931 was 476.

BOCKMER END, 1 mile north, and WOOD END, 2 north-east, are in this parish.

MENTMORE is a village and parish 2 miles north-west from Cheddington Junction station on the London, Midland and Scottish railway and 4 south-west from Leighton Buzzard, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred of Cottesloe, petty sessional division of Linslade, rural district of Wing, county court district of Blethley and Leighton Buzzard, rural deanery of Ivinghoe, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Mentmore Estate. The church of St. Mary is a building of chalk rubble, originally stuccoed, in various styles, and consists of modern chancel, clerestoried nave, aisles, south porch, a vestry on the north side of the chancel, and an embattled western tower containing 5 bells by John Chandler, 1668-9: all the roofs are open, of good oak, with carved figures: the nave is of three bays, the arches rising from piers with embattled caps, but the bases are in fact Early English capitals reversed: there is a trefoil-headed piscina in the south aisle: the font is Norman, and was recovered from the churchyard; it was cleaned and restored and placed again in the church by a former vicar: there is a memorial to the Theed family; the chancel was rebuilt and the church restored in the year 1858: the church was refaced outside in stone in 1915 at the expense of the 5th Earl of Rosebery, who also presented the organ: in 1918 a tablet in alabaster was placed on the north wall of the chancel by the Earl of Rosebery, in memory of his younger son, Capt. the Right Hon. Neil James Archibald Primrose M.C., M.P. for Wisbech, killed in action, Nov. 15, 1917: a complete list of vicars, dating from the year 1234, hangs by the font: there are 231 sittings. A memorial cross was erected in the churchyard in 1920 to the 13 men from the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. The register dates from the year 1685. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £211, with residence, in the gift of the Earl of Rosebery D.S.O., M.C., M.F.H. and held since 1922 by the Rev. Henry Montagu Marshall B.A. of University College, Durham. The poor share with neighbouring parishes in Pratt's charity. In the summer of 1862 a remarkably good mediæval jug was discovered here which has been assigned to the 14th or 15th century. Mentmore, the seat of the Earl of Rosebery D.S.O., M.C., M.F.H. is a mansion in the Anglo-Italian style, erected in 1851 by Baron Mayer de Rothschild from designs by Sir Joseph Paxton and Mr. G. H. Stokes; it is situated west of the village, commanding an extensive view of the Vale of Aylesbury, and contains a collection of pictures, chiefly of the French school, but there are some fine specimens of the Italian masters from the Manfrini Gallery at Venice; among the works of art here are cabinets and marbles of great beauty; tapestries and other products of the needle and the loom, and a fine collection of Limoges enamels. The Earl of Rosebery D.S.O., M.C., M.F.H. is lord of the manor and the principal landowner. The soil is stiff clay; subsoil, clay. The area is 1,575 acres, consisting mainly of dairy and pasture land; the population in 1931 was 254.

LEDBURN is a hamlet of Mentmore, 2 miles south-west from Leighton Buzzard. There is a small Baptist chapel, built in 1840.

MILTON KEYNES is a village and parish separated from Great and Little Woolstone by the river Ouzel, 3½ miles south from Newport Pagnell terminal station on a branch of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, and 3½ north from Penny Stratford station on the Bedford and Bletchley branch of the same line, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred, petty sessional division and rural district of Newport Pagnell, county court district of Bletchley and Leighton Buzzard, rural deanery of Bletchley, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Newport Pagnell Rural District Council. The church of All Saints is a building of stone in the Decorated style, consisting of chancel with north aisle, nave, south porch, and a tower on the north side containing a clock and 6 bells; the sixth treble bell was added in 1935: there are sedilia and piscina, with detached shafts, and rich open tracery in the heads: the north chancel aisle, separated from the chancel by an arcade with circular piers and moulded caps and bases, has a piscina and also a very remarkable low-side window on either side of the doorway: the porch is one of the most striking parts of the church, its inner doorway having rich hanging tracery and other parts the ball flower ornament: the sides are open and divided into three compartments by circular shafts, above which is open tracery: in the church are interred the remains of Louis Atterbury D.D. rector of this parish from 1657 till his death, which occurred by drowning, in Dec. 1693; he was the father of the celebrated Francis Atterbury, Bishop of Rochester, who was born here, 16 March, 1662: there is also a brass to Adam Babynton, rector, ob. 1427: the font is modern: in the side chapel is an ancient font, which has a plain basin on an octagonal shaft: there is a chained bible, dated 1613, in an excellent state of preservation: the east window was erected in memory of the Rev. John N. Dalton, rector 1857-80, and the west window in memory of George Paine esq.: the church has 250 sittings, all free, subject to allotment by the churchwardens. The register dates from the year 1559. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £498, including 48 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of W. H. M. Finch esq. and held since 1914 by the Rev. George Hawkes Field B.A. of Exeter College, Oxford, and hon. C.F. The Earl of Nottingham's gift of £2 is for the poor of the parish. A stone cenotaph over nine feet high, decorated with a cross, was erected in 1920 in memory of nine men connected with the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. W. H. M. Finch esq. J.P. is lord of the manor and owner of the land. The soil is clay; subsoil, sand and gravel. The chief crops are wheat, beans, barley and oats. The area is 1,900 acres of land and 9 of water; the population in 1931 was 154.

GREAT MISSENDEN is a large and populous village and parish, in a delightful valley on the high road from Wendover to London, with a station on the Metropolitan and London and North Eastern Joint railway, and 6 miles north-east from Wycombe station on the Wycombe and Oxford section of the Great Western and London and North Eastern Joint railway, 5 north-west from Amersham and 4 west from Chesham, in the Aylesbury division of the county, hundred and petty sessional division of Aylesbury, rural district of Amersham, county court district of Chesham, rural deanery of Wendover, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Gas and electricity are available. Water is supplied by the Rickmansworth and Uxbridge Valley Water Co. The church of SS. Peter and Paul is an ancient cruciform structure in mixed styles, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave of four bays, aisles, north and south porches, transepts, and a low embattled western tower containing 6 bells, the earliest being dated 1603: the tower was originally Early English, but has been much modernized; in 1906 it was repaired and a new bell frame provided: the piers and arches of the nave are Decorated, with moulded caps: there are various inserted Perpendicular windows, and the clerestory is also of that date; on the north side of the chancel, about 7 feet from the ground, is an arcade of Pointed arches with small detached pillars: there are mural tablets to the Bois and Dormer families, 1637-1729, one of which exhibits a figure of Time over a circular arch, composed of books: the east window is a memorial to G. Carrington esq. and was erected by his widow, who also placed one in the chancel to her father and mother: in the south transept is a brass with demi-female effigy and inscription, and also a female effigy, c. 1450; there is a brass in the north transept to the Rev. Joshua Greaves M.A. vicar 1854-85, and a memorial window to Frances Sarah, his wife: a stained window was inserted in the north transept by the Herbert family in 1914 in memory of their relatives: there is a mural tablet to Lady Warmington (d. 1913) erected by her husband, Sir Marshall Denham Warmington, 2nd bart.: the brass lectern was presented in 1905 by the Armitage family: the word "Deus" is scratched on a stone in the soffit of a 14th century doorway opening from the chancel to the north vestry: between this door and the sunbry is a large hagioscope, and there is another between the chancel and the south transept, and adjoining it a two-light low-side window, which now contains fragments of ancient stained glass: the chancel is paved in part with ancient encaustic tiles found, with but few exceptions, in the Abbey grounds, the remainder being reproductions: the font is Norman: the church was in part restored in 1899-1900 at a cost of £3,800, the north aisle being practically rebuilt: the church affords 450 sittings, all free. The register dates from the year 1694; burials, 1678. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £300, and residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Oxford, and held since 1939 by the Rev. Ernest Charles Dunford M.A.

of St. Catherine's Society, Oxford. The Baptist chapel, a building in the Classic style, was erected in 1778; and there is another at HYDE HEATH. The Public Hall, erected in 1879, is used for all kinds of entertainments, and will hold 300 persons. At BALLINGER is Adelaide House, a holiday home for ladies and gentlemen of limited means, erected in 1900 in memory of Mrs. Ellis A. Franklin by her children, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Franklin; it has an endowment of one cottage next to it. Almond's charity of £18 yearly and Gregory's of £5 are for the poor of the parish; Bois' charity of £17 is for apprenticeships; the interest of £1,000 Consols, given by W. Dent esq. in memory of his daughter, wife of a former vicar, is devoted to the support of the parochial schools, and the interest of £300 left by Miss Douglas is distributed among 40 aged poor. The Abbey, anciently situated here, was founded by Sir William de Missenden kt. about 1133 for Canons of the Order of St. Augustine; an ancient court-book of the manor, while assigning its foundation to the D'Oyleys, states that it was augmented by the Missendens in pursuance of a vow made by a member of that family on escaping from shipwreck in the 14th century: the revenues were estimated in 1534 at £261 14s. 6d. yearly. In 1815 the Abbey passed into the hands of the Carringtons, and is now the residence of Maj. Thomas Temple-Carrington O.B.E., J.P. who is lord of the manor. Maj. Thomas Temple-Carrington O.B.E., J.P. Capt. Thomas Tyrwhitt-Drake J.P. Lord Dormer, Thomas Honnor esq. and Capt. Ivor Stewart-Liberty M.C., J.P. are the principal land-owners. The chief crops are wheat, oats, barley and roots. The soil is alluvial, with a chalk base, abounding in the deposit of flint and shells. The area is 5,692 acres of lands and inland water; the population in 1931 was 3,528 in the civil and 2,766 in the ecclesiastical parish.

By Local Government Board Order of March 14th, 1911, a portion of the parish, known as Lee Common and Hunts Green, was transferred to the parish of Lee for civil purposes.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, parts of Great and Little Hampden and Hughenden were added to Great Missenden.

LITTLE MISSENDEN is a village and parish near the Misbourne stream, 5 miles north-east from Wycombe station, on the Wycombe, Thame and Oxford branch of the Great Western and London and North Eastern Joint railway, 3 south-west from Chesham, 2½ south-east from Great Missenden station and 3½ west from Amersham station, both on the Metropolitan and London and North Eastern Joint railway, in the Aylesbury division of the county, hundred and petty sessional division of Aylesbury, county court district of Chesham, rural district and rural deanery of Amersham, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Gas and electricity are available. Water is supplied by the Rickmansworth and Uxbridge Valley Water Co. Ltd.

The church of St. John the Baptist is a small and plain building of stone in the Early Norman and later styles, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, transept and a lofty western tower containing 5 bells: the first bell was hung in 1350 and is inscribed:—"Ave Maria +"; the second in 1450 inscribed:—"Sancta Margareta, Ora Pro Nobis"; the others were hung in 1660, 1663 and 1881 respectively. In 1914 the plaster was removed from the roof, exposing the ancient timbers, and in 1931 mediæval wall paintings dating from 12th to 16th centuries were uncovered: the east window is Early English: there is a fine "Aylesbury" type font and a brass inscription to John Style, of Holmer, 1613; James Henry Bird esq. gave the stained east window as a memorial to his wife, besides two others in the north chapel and south aisle; six further commemorative windows were added between 1936-38: in the church is an inscribed tablet to Mr. Bird and his wife: a new organ was provided in 1920: some oak panelling was erected in the sanctuary in memory of the men of this parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18: a new prayer desk, lectern and pulpit were added in 1930: the ancient key of the church is preserved in the baptistery: there are 300 sittings. The register dates from the year 1559. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £350, and residence, in the gift of Earl Howe P.C., C.B.E., R.D., V.D. and held since 1922 by the Rev. William Henry Davis L.Th. of Durham University. Christ Church, Holmer Green, erected in 1894, is served from Holy Trinity, Penn Street, and is in that ecclesiastical parish. There is a Baptist chapel at Holmer Green, erected in 1877, and another at Little Kingshill, erected in 1814. In 1867 Miss Charlotte Raine left the interest of £20,000 in the Lambeth Waterworks to be distributed half yearly among 10 poor people, but since that date a further bequest of the interest of £2,000 has been made, and the number of recipients is now 42. James Henry Bird esq. who died 31st August, 1884, in the 70th year of his age, left property in the hands of the vicar and churchwardens of the parish, the rents of which (provided that the tablet erected in the church is kept fixed and in good order) he directed should be applied as follows: 15s. yearly to 16 poor deserving families for coals; 50 quartern loaves of bread, on or near the 8th of January, and 50 more on or near the 3rd of March in each year, to the poor of this parish; he also left various sums for the preaching of two commemorative sermons in this church every year by the vicar, on the Sunday next the 31st August and on the Sunday following 7th December, and for remuneration to the clerk, organist, choir and bell-ringers; the trustees distribute the surplus among the most deserving poor of the parish. Mr. William Line, in 1775, left two meadows and an orchard to provide one 3d. loaf to six of the oldest inhabitants attending Divine service on Sundays, also a 2d. loaf to the clerk for delivering the same. Mrs. Sarah Bates, in 1787, left £100 3 per Cent. Consolidated Bank Annuities to the poor. The majority of the above charities are now merged by the Charity Commissioners under a new scheme and produce nearly £500 yearly. The kennels of the Old Berkeley beagles are at Beaumont End in this parish; F. Robinson esq. and J. F. Matheson esq. are joint masters; the pack comprises 21 couples of hounds; hunting days, Wednesdays and Saturdays; Amersham, Aylesbury, Princes Risborough and High Wycombe are convenient centres; Amersham and High Wycombe are the nearest stations to the kennels. Missenden House, the residence of Raymond Dumas esq. is a very picturesque building of red brick, standing in its own grounds. The principal landowners are Mrs. Boucher, Capt. Thomas Tyrwhitt-Drake M.C., J.P. and Lord Roundway C.M.G., D.S.O., M.V.O. The soil is clay, chalk and gravel. The chief crops are wheat, oats and barley; there is much woodland. The area is 3,210 acres of land and 4 of water; the population in 1931 was 1,769 in the civil and 918 in the ecclesiastical parish.

BRAY'S GREEN, 1 mile east; HOLMER GREEN, 1½ south-west; BEAUMONT END, 1 mile south; and part of Little Kingshill, 2 miles west, are in this civil parish; the remainder of Little Kingshill is in Great Missenden. All the above places are, however, with the exception of the first mentioned and Little Kingshill, in the ecclesiastical parish of Penn Street. Post & T. Office. Letters through Amersham, nearest M. MONKS RISBOROUGH is a parish and village, with a station, Monks Risborough and Whiteleaf halt, on the Great Western and London and North Eastern Joint railway through Wycombe to Aylesbury, and 2 miles south-west from Little Kimble station on the Aylesbury branch of the same line, 5 south-west from Wendover, 7 south from Aylesbury and 9 north-west from High Wycombe, in the Aylesbury division of the county, hundred and petty sessional division of Aylesbury, county court district of Wycombe, rural deanery of Aylesbury, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Gas and electricity are available. Water is supplied by the Rural District Water Co. Ltd. The church of St. Dunstan is a structure of flint and stone in the Decorated and Perpendicular styles, and consists of chancel, nave with clerestory, aisles, separated from the nave by arcades of four bays, a small north transept, south porch, vestry and organ chamber (added at the restoration), and a western tower containing 6 bells; the framework of the belfry was entirely restored and a sixth bell added in 1884: a portion of the late 15th century rood-screen remains under the chancel arch, retaining nine out of its twelve panels, adorned with paintings, which are not original, and near is a brass effigy, 1431, to Robert Blundell, a former rector; elsewhere are demi-effigies of a man and his wife, c. 1460, and some figures of children: some ancient tiles are also extant: in the porch is a portion of the old stoup and in the north aisle part of a canopied recess of the 15th century, richly carved, and a portion of the rood loft also remains: the font is a good example of c. 1200: the stained east window was presented to the church in 1864: the stained west window was erected by the parishioners and friends to the Rev. H. W. J. Beauchamp, 23 years rector, who died January 25th, 1863: in the south aisle is a stained window, and in the transept is a memorial window to Dr. Samuel Wilberforce, Bishop of Oxford (1845-69) and afterwards of Winchester (1869-73), d. 19 July, 1873: the church was restored in 1863-4: there are sittings for 332 persons. The register dates from the year 1587. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £520, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Oxford, and held since 1938 by the Rev. Erasmus Ellis Roberts M.C., M.A. of Christ Church, Oxford. Before the inclosure, which was completed in 1839, the inhabitants of the parish had the privilege of cutting beech wood from off a hill called "the Scrubs," which right was at that time exchanged for 27a. 3r. 6p. of land allotted in different parts of the parish for the convenience of the poor parishioners, to whom it is let, and the rents are laid out in coal for distribution at Christmas; the Parish Council are the trustees of the allotments. The Rev. Humphrey Hody D.D. rector here 1702, left £100 in 1706 for apprenticing poor boys of this parish, and the Rev. William Quarles D.D. further augmented this fund in 1727 by £150: the latter also left 40s. yearly for the education of at least four poor boys. The Earl of Buckinghamshire is lord of the manor, and the landowners are numerous. The soil is various, hard chalk, loam and clay; subsoil, clay and stone. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats, turnips and beans. The population in 1931 was 827.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, this parish was transferred for civil purposes to Princes Risborough except for parts added to Great and Little Hampden and Longwick-cum-Ilmer.

ASKETT lies half a mile north-east and has a Baptist chapel, built in 1839, with a small burial ground attached. The Bell House, now a hotel, is partly of the 16th century and is attributed to the monks of St. Augustine, Canterbury. The principal landowner is Mrs. Mary Lavington.

CADSDEAN is a mile east, at the foot of the Chilterns.

MEADLE is 1 mile north-east.

OWLSWICK is a small hamlet in the parish of Monks Risborough, from which it is 2 miles north-west. At

MOULSOE is a parish and village on the top of a hill, on the borders of Bedfordshire, 3 miles south-east from Newport Pagnell station on the Wolverton and Newport branch of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred, petty sessional division and rural district of Newport Pagnell, county court district of Bletchley and Leighton Buzzard, rural deanery of Bletchley, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Newport Pagnell Rural District Council. The church of St. Mary is an ancient building of stone in the Decorated style, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave of eight bays, aisles, south porch and an embattled western tower containing a clock and 4 bells: the eastern end of the north aisle was anciently St. Joseph's chapel: some of the windows are of very good design, but the tracery is not in every case perfect: there are brasses of a man in armour and a female supposed to represent Richard Ruthall, 1528, and his wife; the marginal inscription is lost: in 1897 two stained windows were erected and a carved reredos and pulpit provided: during the period 1885-90 the Lady Chapel in the south aisle and the porch were restored, at a cost of £540, a two-manual organ was dedicated in 1920 in memory of the six men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18; there is also a memorial erected by the Marquess of Lincolnshire K.G., P.O., G.C.M.G. to his only son, Lt. Lord Wendover, and to 36 other officers, non-commissioned officers and men of the Royal Horse Guards who fell at Ypres in 1915; it takes the form of oak panelling on the church wall, surmounted by a marble tablet to Lord Wendover, an old kettle-drum banner, set under glass, and a silver trumpet and banner; on the oak panelling the 37 names are inscribed in gold lettering: the church was reseated in 1927 and restored in 1928: a decorated gate was erected to commemorate the 25 years' reign of H.M. King George V: a tablet was placed in the church recording the event: there are 170 sittings: there is a list of rectors from the year 1233. The register dates from the year 1559. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £300, with residence, in the gift of Lord Carrington, and held since 1938 by the Rev. David Morgan Evans, of Durham University and Lichfield Theological College. There is a Nonconformist Mission hall in the village, in which services are held on Sundays. A charity of £5 yearly was left by the will, dated 1719, of Jane, Countess Dowager of Northampton (d. 10 Jan. 1721), for the relief of the poor: there are also 14 acres of land in the parish of Cranfield, Beds, producing £18 yearly. Lord Carrington, who is lord of the manor, is the chief landowner. The soil is mixed, principally a strong loam; subsoil, clay and gravel. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and beans. The area is 1,654 acres; the population in 1931 was 193.

MURSLEY is a village and parish, once a market town, 1 mile from Swanbourne station on the Bletchley and Oxford branch of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, 3½ miles east from Winslow and 9 north-west from Leighton Buzzard, in the Buckingham division of the county, Cottesloe hundred, Winslow petty sessional division and rural district, county court district of Bletchley and Leighton Buzzard, rural deanery of Mursley, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity and main water are available. The church of St. Mary the Virgin is a building of stone in the Decorated or Third-pointed style, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave of four bays, aisles, south porch and an embattled western tower, in part of Early English date and containing 6 bells: the nave is separated from the aisles by arcades of four arches on either side: the stained west window in the tower was presented by the late Mrs. Pitkin in memory of her husband, who died in 1862: the reredos is elaborately adorned with paintings: in the chancel is a monument to Sir John Fortescue kt. M.P. Chancellor of the Exchequer, ob. 1607, with kneeling effigies in alabaster, coloured, of himself and his wife, facing each other; there is also a similar monument, with kneeling effigies, to his son, Sir Francis Fortescue K.B., M.P. sheriff of Bucks, and below, on a slab of black marble, a brass, with effigy, to Cecilia, wife of John Fortescue, ob. 1570: there is a brass plate erected in memory of Lt. M. E. Selby-Lowndes, who lost his life in the Great War, 1914-18: the chancel retains a piscina and sedilia: there are also piscinae in the north and south aisles: the church was thoroughly restored in 1867 and affords 215 sittings. The register dates from the year 1578. The first known rector, John . . . d'Eston, was appointed in 1239. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £356, with 240 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the Church Association, and held since 1938 by the Rev. George Oliver, of the London College of Divinity. Outside the church is a granite pillar and cross mounted on a pedestal which bears the names of the men of the parish who lost their lives in the Great War, 1914-18. The Baptist chapel, which stands at the bottom of the village, was erected in 1883 and will seat 150 persons. Near the village, on a site now occupied by farmhouses, once stood the mansion of the Fortescues, now represented by Salden House farm, part of the kitchen wing of the old house; part of the garden wall and terraces can still be seen. Lt.-Col. William Selby-Lowndes O.B.E., T.D., J.P. is lord of the manor. Lord Carrington is the principal landowner. At Mursley Hall, the seat of Lady Beecham, is the only official meteorological observation station in Bucks for Air Ministry reports. The soil is loamy, with some gravel and clay; subsoil, clay and gravel. The chief crops are wheat, barley and beans. The area is 2,975 acres; the population in 1931 was 342.

NAPHILL, see Hughenden.

NASH is a parish and village, about $3\frac{1}{2}$ miles north from Swanbourne station on the Verney Junction and Banbury branch of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, $4\frac{1}{2}$ south from Stony Stratford, 6 east from Buckingham and 54 from London, in the Buckingham division of the county, Cottesloe hundred, petty sessional division and rural district of Winslow, county court district of Buckingham, rural deanery of Wolverton, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. This place was constituted a civil parish between 1896-9, under the provisions of the Local Government Act, 1894 (56 and 57 Vict. c. 73). Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Bucks County Council. The church of All Saints is a small but elegant edifice of stone in the Gothic style, consisting of chancel, nave and north porch, and a turret containing one bell: the chancel was consecrated in 1858, and the rest of the church in 1861: the east and west windows are stained: there are 220 sittings. On the churchyard wall is a war shrine, built of white stone, on which are inscribed the names of 5 men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. The register dates from the year 1861. The living is annexed to the rectory of Thornton, and further annexed in 1922 to that of Beachampton, joint net yearly value £500, and residence, in the gift of Gonville and Caius College, Cambridge, and H. W. Harris esq. alternately, and held since 1936 by the Rev. Marmaduke Warner M.A. of Gonville and Caius College, Cambridge, hon. C.F. There is a Baptist chapel, erected in 1798, with a small endowment, and sittings for 50 persons. The poor's land of 3a. 3r. 39p. produces about £6 a year, which is distributed in money; Elmer's (Beachampton) charity of £3 yearly is for the support of certain pensioners. Lt.-Col. W. Selby-Lowndes O.B.E., T.D., J.P. is lord of the manor. The land is divided among several freeholders. The soil is stiff clay with beds of gravel. There is a chalybeate spring in the village called Betch Well. The area is 1,247 acres; the population in 1931 was 234.

NEWPORT PAGNELL is a parish and ancient market town, giving its name to a rural district, and is the head of a hundred and petty sessional division, in the Buckingham division of the county and county court district of Bletchley and Leighton Buzzard, with a terminal station on a branch from Wolverton of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, 50 miles from London, $4\frac{1}{2}$ miles south from Olney, $14\frac{1}{2}$ from Northampton, $8\frac{1}{2}$ north-west from Woburn, on the Liverpool road, $14\frac{1}{2}$ north-east from Buckingham and 4 from the Wolverton Junction station on the main line of the London, Midland and Scottish railway; ecclesiastically it is in the rural deanery of Newport, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Newport Pagnell is governed by an Urban District Council of nine members, formed on October 1, 1897, under the provisions of the Local Government Act, 1888. The town is pleasantly situated on a gentle elevation of the south bank of the river Ouse at its junction with the Lovat, which runs through the town, and is crossed by a light iron bridge at the entrance to the town from London, the road from Northampton being carried over a stone bridge of five arches with a long causeway crossing the Ouse. The adjunctive name "Pagnell" is derived from the Paganel, the ancient possessors of the manor. During the Civil War the town was garrisoned for the Parliament two years and nine months, the force of occupation being under the command, from 1643 to 1646, of Sir Samuel Luke, supposed to be the original of Butler's "Hudibras." Gas and electricity are available. Water is supplied by the Newport Pagnell Urban District Council. The church of SS. Paul and Peter, situated on high ground at the top of the High street, is a noble edifice of stone, in the Early English and later styles, consisting of chancel, nave of six bays, aisles, north and south porches and an embattled western tower, of Perpendicular date, with pinnacles, containing a clock and 9 bells, to which chimes were added in 1887; the bells were all re-cast in 1911 in commemoration of the Coronation of King George V.: the north porch, dating from the reign of Edward

III is the oldest part of the building, and over it is a priest's room: in 1926 the side galleries were removed: the south porch has fine Early English arcading, and there is a sedilia in the south aisle: in the nave the original position of the roof loft is distinctly marked, and there are traces of the roof loft door: the whole of the nave roof was restored 1934-35, owing to destruction caused by the death-watch beetle: there are ten stained windows, one of which is a memorial to Robert Collison, surgeon, who died April 3rd, 1860, and another in the tower was erected to the late Dr. Samuel Wilberforce, Bishop of Oxford (1846-70), and of Winchester (1870-73), who died 19 July, 1873: there is a brass in the church, much worn, to a civilian, c. 1400: the pulpit, presented by Mrs. Oliver Massey, is of carved oak supported on a stone pedestal; an open screen of carved oak separates the chancel from the nave: in 1867 an organ chamber was built at the end of the north aisle and a new organ placed in it, the gift of George Couch esq. who also gave the oak choir stalls: the organ was enlarged in 1905: the church was restored in 1828 and in 1880: the nave and aisles were re-seated in the year 1880, the chancel in 1894, in memory of Mrs. Taylor: a carved oak and painted reredos was erected in 1896 as a memorial to Mrs. Maul: in 1905 a large vestry was added at the north-east angle of the church: in 1921 an oak screen was erected in memory of the men connected with the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18, in whose memory also a cross on a pedestal was built near the church: the church now affords 1,000 sittings: in the churchyard is an epitaph by Cowper to Thomas Abbott Hamilton, 1788. The register dates from the year 1558. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £400, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Oxford, and held since 1933 by the Rev. Henry Adeane Byard M.A. of Keble College, Oxford, surrogate, chaplain to the Institution and also rector of Lathbury: the Methodist chapel was erected in 1815; the Congregational chapel, originally founded in 1660, will seat 500 persons; Sunday schools near the chapel were erected in 1927. The Burial Ground of 1 acre and 2 roods, laid out about 1861, at a cost of £2,000, is near the church; a portion is allotted to Dissenters, for whom there is a chapel, the parish church being used in other cases; it is under the control of the Urban District Council acting as a Burial Board. The Burial Ground, formerly called "Hill Close," is probably the site of Pagnell's castle, not far from which it is said a Roman road passed from Linford through Newport Pagnell to Bedford. Church House, in the High street, was formerly the old British school. The Working Men's Social Club and Reading Room, erected in 1902, contains billiard, smoking, reading and concert rooms. The market day is Wednesday, and a fair is held on the 22nd and 23rd of June. In St. John street, is an ancient hospital, founded by John de Somery in the reign of Edward I. and dedicated to St. John the Baptist and St. John the Evangelist: it was refounded by Ann of Denmark, queen of James I. and is hence known as "Queen Anne's Hospital," the foundation being for a master, three males and three females, each receiving 8s. weekly and firing: the annual income is about £350, and the vicar is always master. The almshouses were erected in 1756 and endowed by John Revis esq. for 4 male and 3 female poor persons: the income, derived from 2½ per Cent Consols, amounts to £149 15s. yearly, of which £10 is distributed in bread. The Congregational chapel almshouses, in Union street, endowed by Miss Charlotte Beatty in 1851, comprise dwellings for four poor persons. Various sums, amounting to £100 yearly, are distributed, and there are charities of £21 15s. for benevolent purposes, and the annual surplus must always be used for the maintenance and improvement of the almshouse property. Tykeford Abbey, the property and residence of Maj. D. E. M. Douglas-Morris T.D. is a handsome mansion of stone, situated on the Ouse, in a small but well-wooded park, and occupies the site of an ancient priory of Benedictine monks, founded in the reign of William Rufus by Fulk Pagnell, and dedicated to St. Mary: it was subordinate to the Abbey of St. Martin at Tours, and was seized as an alien priory by Edward III. and other kings during the wars with France: in 1524, when it was surrendered to the deputy of Cardinal Wolsey for the use of the intended Cardinal College at Oxford, its revenues were estimated at £126 17s. yearly. The principal landowners are The Misses G. V. and B. V. Fraser and R. Bruce Knapp esq. who is lord of the manor. The area of the civil parish and Urban District is 3,396 acres of land and 36 of water; the population in 1931 was 3,956.

The church of St. Nicholas is an ancient edifice of stone in the Decorated and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel, nave of two bays, north aisle, south porch, and an embattled western tower of Perpendicular date, containing 3 bells: the aisle extends to the whole length of the church: the chancel retains a piscina, and there is a brass to Jane, eldest daughter of John Bodington Clerke, and Bridget, his wife, 1663; and one other to Bridget, wife of John Bodington, 1673: the church was restored in 1862 and affords 200 sittings. The register dates from the year 1730. The living is a rectory, annexed in 1923 to that of Clifton Reynes, joint net yearly value £700, in the gift of A. M. Suthery esq. and Denis H. Farrer esq. J.P. alternately, and held since 1923 by the Rev. Christopher William Fullmer M.A. of St. Edmund Hall, Oxford, rural dean of Newport, and surrogate, who resides at Clifton Reynes. There are charities of £9 yearly for church purposes, of which £5 is due to the parish clerk. In the village, on a cottage wall, is a marble tablet in memory of the men connected with the parish who lost their lives in the Great War, 1914-18. Denis H. Farrer esq. J.P. is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is mixed; subsoil, gravel and clay. The chief crops are wheat, beans, oats and roots. The area is 997 acres of land and 17 of water; the population in 1931 was 127.

NEWTON LONGVILLE (or Newton Longueville) is a parish and village 2½ miles south-west from Bletchley Junction station on the main line of the London, Midland and Scottish railway and 10 east from Buckingham, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred, petty sessional division of Fenny Stratford, rural district of Winslow, county court district of Bletchley and Leighton Buzzard, rural deanery of Bletchley, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Bucks Water Board. The church of St. Faith is an ancient edifice of stone, consisting of chancel, with aisle or chapel on the north, clerestoried nave, aisles, north and south porches, and an embattled western tower containing a clock and 8 bells: the piers and arches of the nave are 12th century, rebuilt in the 15th century, and the tower arch is 15th century work: the chancel, clerestory and aisles are Perpendicular, and on the exterior east wall of the chancel is a figure of St. Faith: there are piscine and credence shelves in the aisles as well as in the chancel, and one of those in the chancel bears the arms of William of Wykeham, bishop of Winchester (1367-1405) and founder of New College, Oxford: the south aisle retains a niche: the font, which is Norman, restored in 1860, stands on eight shafts and has an old carved oak cover: in the south aisle is an arched recess, containing the head of a knight in mail armour; there is a list of the rectors from 1236: in the chancel is a modern mural brass to William Grocyn B.D. mentioned below: the church was thoroughly restored during the period 1881-91, and again in 1926: there are 250 sittings. The register dates from the year 1560. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £350, including 10 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of New College, Oxford, and held since 1939 by the Rev. Frank Craven Carter B.D. of London University. The Methodist chapel, built in 1864, will seat 200 persons, and there is a Baptist chapel with sittings for 160 persons. Alden's charity amounts to one guinea yearly. There was anciently a priory of the Cluniac order here, founded in the reign of Henry I, by Walter (Giffard), Earl of Longueville and Buckingham, as a cell to the monastery of St. Faith at Longueville, in Normandy; it was suppressed in 1415, and in 1442 Henry VI. gave the priory and most of its lands to the wardens and scholars of New College, Oxford. The manor now belongs to New College, Oxford, and in the ante-chapel of that college is a brass, erected in 1879, by the Rev. H. C. Blagden M.A. rector 1875-1904, to William Grocyn B.D. rector here 1479 to 1504, fellow of New College 1465, and first public teacher of Greek at Oxford, d. 1519. The land is chiefly owned by New College, Oxford. The soil is heavy loam; subsoil, clay. The area is 1,999 acres; the population in 1931 was 484.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, part of Bletchley was added to this parish.

OAKLEY is a small village and parish near the borders of Oxon, 7 miles north-west from Thame station and 3½ south-west from Brill and Ludgershall station, on the direct Birmingham line of the Great Western railway, 16 west from Aylesbury and 10 west-by-north from Oxford, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred and petty sessional division of Ashendon, rural district of Aylesbury, county court district of Thame, rural deanery of Waddesdon, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford.

Electricity is available. The church of St. Mary is a small but ancient building of stone in the Transitional, Decorated and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel, nave with clerestory, and an arcade of five bays separating it from the north aisle, south transept, and a low western tower containing 4 bells and having a stair turret at the south-east angle rising above the tower and capped with a spirelet and finial: in the south transept is a stained window of three lights, and on the outside wall is a cinquefoiled arch over a sepulchral recess: in the north aisle are two tombs of the 14th century, one of which bears a cross finely carved on the upper slab, and on the other are traces of a brass; the north and south walls of the chancel retain Decorated piscine, and the south transept a hagioscope and an ancient stone locker: in 1885 the chancel was entirely rebuilt at the sole expense of Charles Aubrey Aubrey esq.; in 1886 the interior was entirely refloored and reseated, and in 1889 the Manor aisle was restored and a new pulpit, lectern and a font cover were provided: the church was further restored in 1909 by Sir Henry Aubrey-Fletcher, 4th bart. to whom there is a brass tablet erected by the parishioners: there are 165 sittings, most of which are free. In the churchyard is a stone memorial to 23 men of this parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. The register dates from the year 1704. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £360, including residence and glebe, in the gift of the Bishop of Oxford, and held since 1939 by the Rev.

There is a Congregational chapel, erected in 1845, affording 150 sittings. The Poor Folk's pasture of 115 acres produces £120 yearly, which is distributed among about 47 poor persons of this parish; there is also another allotment of 4 acres, called the "Poor's Piece," producing an annual rental of £6, which is received by trustees and expended in the purchase of greatcoats or coal; Hart's charity produces an annual sum of £2 14s. which is retained by the trustees until it amounts to a sufficient sum for apprenticing the son of one of the poor labourers in the parish, the premium varying from £20 to £25; Clark's charity of £1 annually is applied to the repair of the parish church. Richard Turpin and Ralph Beal conveyed to two trustees and their heirs a parcel of land, known as "Church Lands," consisting of rather more than 6 acres of pasture land, and producing a rental of £12 yearly, which is also expended in church repairs. Major Sir Henry Lancelot Aubrey-Fletcher bart. D.S.O., M.V.O., D.L., J.P. is lord of the manor. R. H. Bevan esq., Magdalen College, Oxford and Trinity College, Oxford, are the principal landowners and there is a number of smaller owners. The soil is a deep, tenacious dark clay, with various loams; sub-soil, gravel and clay. The area is 3,015 acres; the population in 1931 was 414 in the civil and 332 in the ecclesiastical parish.

By Local Government Board Order 19,618, dated March 25, 1886, Shabbington Wood Cottage was transferred from Shabbington to Oakley for civil purposes.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, part of Brill was added to Oakley.

Little London is a picturesque hamlet adjoining the village.

OLNEY, in Domesday "Olnei," is a small market town and parish in a pleasant valley on the river Ouse, with a station on the Bedford and Northampton branch of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, 58 miles from London, $4\frac{1}{2}$ miles north from Newport Pagnell, 12 south-east from Northampton, 12 west from Bedford and 12 south from Wellingborough: it is in the Buckingham division of the county, county court district of Northampton, hundred, petty sessional division, rural district and rural deanery of Newport, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. The town consisted principally of one long street, with a few others branching off from the Market place, an open space in the centre of the town; but owing to the prosperity of the shoe trade here at one time, the town was much enlarged, especially near the railway station: the river Ouse bounds it on the east and south and is crossed on the south by a stone bridge of 5 arches to Emberton, as well as by an iron bridge constructed in 1894. Gas and electricity is available; water is supplied by the Newport Pagnell Rural District Council. The church of SS. Peter and Paul is a building of stone in the Decorated style, erected during the period 1325-50, and consists of chancel, nave, aisles, north porch, and a lofty western tower with spire rising to a height of 185 feet, and containing a clock and a peal of 8 bells, two new bells being added in 1903 from a bequest of £250 of Thomas Eyles, for this purpose: in 1931 the old oak frame of the bells was repaired, and the bells were retuned and refitted: the tower is massive and has four pinnacles at the angles, and the spire is pierced with four tiers of windows, all with good tracery and canopies: the nave is separated from the aisles by arcades of five arches on either side: the chancel is deflected from the central axis towards the north, and retains three sedilia, rising eastwards, and a piscina: opposite is an arched recess, probably an Easter sepulchre: the stained east window was presented by Thomas Revis esq. as a memorial to his wife, and there are two others presented in 1901 by Mrs. A. O. Iliffe. The Perpendicular roof was declared to be in a dangerous state about 1800, and was taken down, and the lead was sold to provide the cost of the new roof and other repairs: in 1897 a new reredos was erected as a memorial to John and William Garrad esqrs. and a new font was also presented by the then vicar in commemoration of the Diamond Jubilee of Queen Victoria: the chancel was restored in 1874 by the 5th Earl of Dartmouth, the patron, and the nave in 1876-7; further restorations were carried out in 1880, 1883 and 1885: in 1905 the interior of the nave was entirely restored and refloored, the old high pews replaced by oak seats, and a new organ provided: in 1929 the south aisle was reroofed in English oak with mouldings and tracery panels: on the north side there is a side altar installed in 1922 as a memorial to the men connected with the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18: the four corner posts of this altar are of malogany in a very old English style: the north and south aisles were reroofed in oak in 1933; the north aisle is a memorial to the poet William Cowper and to Thomas Scott, the commentator: the original pulpit used by the Rev. John Newton was restored to the church in 1922, and is to be seen in the south-west corner: it had previously been removed to Northampton Gaol: the church has 750 sittings. In 1893 the remains of the Rev. John Newton, curate here from 1764-80, and his wife, were removed from St. Mary's Woolnoth, London, of which he was rector from 1780 till his death, 31 Dec. 1807, and interred in Olney churchyard, where a marble tomb has since been erected. The register dates from the year 1665. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £342, including 9 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Oxford, and held since 1938 by the Rev. Frederick John Ernest Britnell M.A. of Keble College, Oxford. The Roman Catholic church, dedicated to Our Lady Help of Christians and St. Laurence, was erected, together with an attached residence for the priest, in 1900, and is of local limestone with Wheldon stone dressings: there are 100 sittings. Adjoining is a Convent, with schools, of the Sisters of the Congregation of the Holy Ghost. The Baptist chapel here, founded in 1694, and rebuilt in 1893, will seat 400 persons; and there is a Congregational chapel, erected in 1879, with 600 sittings, on the site of one founded in 1699. In the Market place is a fine memorial to 62 men of the town who lost their lives in the Great War, 1914-18. It is monolithic in form, with a square tapering pillar, and base and moulded plinth, mounted upon three steps, and all of Derbyshire stone. The whole is surrounded by an enclosure of stone posts. The unveiling ceremony was performed in 1921 by Gen. Lord Horne G.C.B., K.C.M.G. The trade of the town depends partially on the agricultural districts in the neighbourhood, but there is a tannery, and the manufacture of boots and shoes is carried on here, though not to any great extent. The old pillow lace industry dating from the 14th century, is still carried on. The market days are Monday and Thursday. A fair, called "Cherry Fair," is held on June 29th and 30th. There are 12 almshouses for single women and widows, erected and endowed in 1819 by Misses Ann Hopkins Smith and Mary Smith, of Olney, two benevolent ladies of the Society of Friends, with an allowance of 5s. per week to each of the inmates; they also left £45 yearly for clothing to poor Dissenters, and £45 for a school, which is now devoted to apprenticeships and scholarships; the Feoffees' charity, consisting of Pierson's charity and the Causeway estate, amounts to about £250, which sum is devoted to educational purposes, apprenticeship grants and to the poor. William Cowper, the poet, on leaving Huntingdon, resided here from October 14, 1767, to 1786, when he removed to the neighbouring parish of Weston Underwood; while at Olney he occupied a large house in the Market square with a garden in the rear; in the garden he kept the three hares, the care of which so often relieved his depression, and of which he writes: "the management of such an animal was just the sort of employment my case required."

The Cowper and Newton museum (Cowper's house), opened in 1900, was presented to the town by Mr. W. H. Collingridge. Here are preserved a number of original letters of Cowper and Newton, the window shutter (with lines by Cowper) removed here from Weston Underwood, many manuscripts in Cowper's handwriting, many books with MS. notes by Newton, Teedon's diary, and some valuable oil paintings, as well as the "William Wright" library, presented to the museum by Mr. William Wright, of Moseley, near Birmingham. Cowper's summer house, in which the poet composed some of his poems, is situated midway between the house and the vicarage, formerly the residence of Cowper's friend, the Rev. John Newton, where the latter composed several of his most famous hymns, this fact being recorded on a mural tablet in the room once used by him as a study: in 1919 the summer house was secured for the nation by the trustees of the museum, and was restored in 1920: a fee of one shilling is charged to view the museum and summer house.

Not far north of the town is the site of a Roman station, and in a field, now called "Ash Furlong," between the Lavendon and Warrington roads, remains of Roman pottery, and coins from the reigns of Nerva (A.D. 96) to that of Constantine (A.D. 306) have been met with in considerable abundance, besides a small bronze figure of Mercury. Olney Park farm, a royal property belonging to the Duchy of Lancaster, now marks the situation of the land which Ralph, 3rd Baron Basset, of Sapcote, Leicester, was licensed to empark in 1374; it was formerly extra parochial, but was formed into a parish in the Newport Pagnell rural district in 1861, although for ecclesiastical purposes it is still attached to the parish of Olney. Olney Court, a farm about a mile north-east of the town, appears to be the site of the mansion of the feudal lords. George Chennells esq. is lord of the manor and chief landowner. The area of the parish is 2,127 acres of land and 26 of water; the population in 1931 was 2,438 in the civil and 2,405 in the ecclesiastical parish.

WARRINGTON is a hamlet $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles north, on the borders of Northamptonshire. The area is 1,003 acres of land and 5 of water; the population in 1931 was 36.

OLNEY PARK is a civil parish; the area is 206 acres; the population in 1931 was 7.

OVING is a parish and village, seated on an eminence, about 3 miles north-east from Waddesdon station on the Metropolitan and London and North Eastern Joint line, 6 north-west from Aylesbury and 5 south-south-west from Winslow, in the Aylesbury division of the county, hundred of Ashendon, petty sessional division of Winslow, rural district and county court district of Aylesbury, rural deanery of Claydon, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. By an Order in Council dated March 7th, 1902, the parishes of Oving and Pitchcott were ecclesiastically united. Electricity and main water are available. The church of All Saints is an ancient building of stone principally in the Early English style and consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave of three bays, south aisle and small modern north transept, south porch and a western tower containing a clock and 3 bells, re-hung since 1882: the brass of Thomas Richardson, rector here 1505-23, is now lost: there are two piscinæ, and the remains of rood stairs in the south aisle and a screen of Perpendicular date: in the aisle is a Decorated niche: the church was restored in 1867, the clerestory windows renewed, the south and east walls of the chancel were rebuilt, a new open roof of pine fixed and a carved oak screen placed in the south arch: the reredos, of alabaster and marble, the communion table, stalls and prayer-desk and the pulpit, an octagonal work in Ancaster stone, were all new: the restoration of the clerestory was effected at the cost of the Rev. William Henry Young M.A. then resident curate and afterwards vicar of North Moreton, Berks, and the members of his family: the communion cloth was given by the Hon. Mrs. Caulfeild Pratt (d. March, 1894), and the books by her sons and their tutor: the stained east window was erected in 1882, and more recently the four remaining chancel windows have also been filled with stained glass, one being the gift of Miss Hill, one the gift of 14 priests, and one to the memory of the Hon. Catherine Cecilia Caulfeild Pratt, d. 1894, and her son Douglas Caulfeild Pratt, d. 1888; there are two other stained windows, one of which was placed in 1889: the church was again restored in 1922 at a cost of £2,000, £300 of which was given by Henry Yates Thompson esq. J.P.: there are 230 sittings. In 1937 the church was presented with a roll of the rectors since the year 1241, the gift of Mrs. Henry Yates Thompson. A piece of land for the extension of the churchyard was given by John Parrott esq. The register of baptisms dates from the year 1733; burials from 1678, and marriages from 1780. The living is a rectory with Pitchcott annexed, joint net yearly value £650, with residence and 8 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor and the Archdeacon of Buckingham alternately, and held since 1931 by the Rev. Anthony Hammond M.A. of Keble College, Oxford. The Methodist chapel, rebuilt in 1869, affords 100 sittings. Mr. John Hill, of Oving, left by will a sum of twenty shillings in money and a great coat to the value of forty shillings, not, however, to be given to any people in the parish receiving relief; this benefaction was first received October 5th, 1752; and £3 a year is now assigned the parish of Oving, the greater portion of the income being shared by Wendover and Bierton. In the centre of the village is a recreation field, presented by H. Y. Thompson esq. In a field, close to the church, is an ancient camp, which formed the primitive settlement here. Oving House, the residence of Mrs. Henry Yates Thompson, stands in a commanding position overlooking the vale of Aylesbury; the mansion contains some beautiful wood carving and richly decorated ceilings. The right to the lordship of the manor was disputed more than half a century ago, and the question is not yet definitely settled. Mrs. Henry Yates Thompson, Mr. Fred Clarke and the trustees of the late Leopold de Rothschild esq. C.V.O. (d. 1917), are the chief landowners. The soil is chiefly clay; subsoil, clay. The land is chiefly in pasture, but potatoes are grown. The area is 990 acres; the population in 1931 was 288 in the civil and 318 in the ecclesiastical parish.

PADBURY is a parish and village with a station on the Banbury and Bletchley branch of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, 4 miles north-west from Winslow, 3 south-east from Buckingham and 54 from London, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred, petty sessional division, rural district and county court district of Buckingham, rural deanery of Claydon, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. The parish was enclosed by Act of Parliament in 1795. The village stands on an eminence near the London road and on the Lovatt, a feeder of the river Ouse, over which there is a stone bridge of three arches, built in 1826, and uniting this parish and Buckingham. Electricity is available. The village is supplied with water by means of 10 hydrants fixed at various points, the water being drawn by gravitation from a spring on the Winslow road, about $\frac{1}{2}$ mile distant. The works were carried out by the Buckingham Rural District Council in 1894 at a cost of £280. The church of St. Mary the Virgin or St. Matthew is an ancient edifice of stone in the Early English and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel, nave of four bays, aisles, south porch and a low embattled western tower containing 6 bells, rehung in 1879: the chancel was restored in 1882, the interior being refitted with choir stalls and communion rails of oak, and new chancel steps of black and white marble laid down at a total cost of £1,075; the massive oak communion table bears the names of the 9 donors and the date is 1634: the communion plate includes a silver chalice with cover, dated 1574, and a silver paten, with the hallmark of a date between 1618 and 1638, presented in 1876 by the wife of the then vicar: in 1897 the porch was rebuilt, and the roof of the tower, nave and aisle repaired, at a cost of £800: in 1937 a memorial window was placed in the chancel to the Rev. Ernest Carmichael Carmichael, vicar of this parish, 1911 to 1919; a new oak pulpit was presented in 1937 in memory of Caroline Kate Potter by her sister, Nurse Potter: there are 300 sittings. The register dates from the year 1538. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £300, and residence, built in 1880, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor and held since 1936 by the Rev. Evan Thomas Davies-Freme B.D., F.G.S. of the University of Wales and Lichfield Theological College. The Methodist chapel was built in 1876, and will seat 130 persons. In July, 1643, an engagement took place here between a detachment of Royalists, under Sir Charles Lucas, and some Parliamentary troops, commanded by Col. Middleton, in which the latter were defeated, and the burial of eight soldiers is entered in the register. In the centre of the village is a stone memorial to those who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. Lace making, formerly the general occupation of the women of this parish, now employs but few. The Warden and Fellows of All Souls College, Oxford, who are lords of the manor, and the trustees of the late Viscount Clifden (d. 1899) are the principal landowners. The soil is clay and gravel; subsoil, clay. The land is pasture and arable, the greater portion being pasture. The area is 2,016 acres of land, about 1,388 of which are held by yearly tenants, under the Warden and Fellows of All Souls College, Oxford, and 13 of water; the population in 1931 was 382.

PENN is a village and parish near the river Wyck, 2 miles north-east from Loudwater station on the Wycombe and Oxford section of the Great Western and London and North Eastern Joint railway, 3 north from Beaconsfield, $\frac{1}{2}$ south-west from Amersham and 4 north-east from Wycombe, in the Aylesbury division of the county, hundred and petty sessional division of Burnham, county court district of High Wycombe, rural district and rural deanery of Amersham, arch-deaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. The village, which presents a very picturesque appearance, stands on an eminence; from the tower of the church, which is said to stand at an elevation of 600 feet above the sea level, Windsor Castle and portions of twelve counties may be seen. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Amersham, Beaconsfield & District Water Works. The church of the Holy Trinity is an ancient edifice of brick and flint with stone quoins, in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave of three bays, south aisle, north and south porches and a low but massive western tower in the Perpendicular style, containing a clock and 6 bells: the nave roof is Decorated; in the church are numerous monuments to the Penn and Curzon families, including one to Esther (Hanmer), first wife of Assheton, first Baron and Viscount Curzon, d. 21st July, 1764, and to Lady Dorothy (Grosvenor), his second wife, d. 24 Feb. 1774; and another monument, by Chantrey, to the Hon. Penn Assheton Curzon M.P. for Leominster and Leicester, d. 3 September, 1797: brasses with effigies to John Penn, 1596, and Ursula, his wife: William Penn, 1638, and Martha, his wife, 1635: John Penn, 1641, and Sarah, his wife: and others to Susan, wife of Sir Henry Drury, 1640, and to Elizabeth Bok, with effigy in a shroud: in the nave is a slab inscribed to Roger Penn, 1731, and one to William Penn, an infant: there is also a memorial to the Rev. Roger Mather, 11 years vicar; and below the church is the vault of the Penn family: there are 300 sittings. In the churchyard are several grand old yew trees. The register dates from the year 1560. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £470, in the gift of Earl Howe P.C., C.B.E., R.D., V.D. and held since 1939 by the Rev. Edward Philip Comber, of Wells Theological College. There is a Methodist chapel, a Mission Hall and a small Reading Room and Institute. Near the churchyard, on the high road to Beaconsfield, is a cross erected in memory of the men of this parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. Jordans, the burial place of William Penn and other early Quakers, is 4 miles distant, in the parish of Chalfont St. Giles. The land is arable, wood (chiefly beech) and pasture. The soil is heavy, with chalk and flint. Earl Howe P.C., C.B.E., R.D., V.D. and Capt. G. E. Grove are the chief landowners. The area of the civil parish is 3,992 acres; the population in 1931 was 1,767 in the civil and 804 in the ecclesiastical parish.

Knotty Green and Forty Green are hamlets.

PENN STREET is a hamlet and ecclesiastical parish, formed January 11, 1850, out of the civil parishes of Penn and Little Missenden, and containing the villages of Holmer Green, Beamond End, Mop End and part of Winchmore Hill. Penn Street is 2 miles north from Penn village, 3½ south from Amersham station on the Metropolitan and London and North Eastern Joint railway, 3½ from Beaconsfield station on the Great Western and London and North Eastern Joint railway and 5 miles from High Wycombe, in the Aylesbury division of the county, petty sessional division of Burnham, county court district of High Wycombe, rural deanery of Amersham, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Amersham, Beaconsfield and District Water Works. The church of Holy Trinity, built in 1849, is a cruciform edifice of flint and stone, in the Gothic style, consisting of chancel, nave, transepts, south porch and a central tower with spire containing 3 bells: on the east wall of the north transept is a replica of Raphael's "Transfiguration," presented by Earl Howe G.C.V.O. in 1905, and formerly the altar piece at Curzon chapel.
Mayfair: there are brasses in the chancel to King Edward VII., Gen. Sir Francis Warde K.C.B. and Annabella, his wife, and one to the memory of the 1st
Earl Howe, who built the church; also to the 3rd
Earl Howe (d. 1900); to Lady Eyre; to Hon. Frederick Curzon, in whose memory the oak panelling and screen were erected; to Isabella Countess Howe; and three to servants of the Howe family: the east window and two others are stained; on the north wall of the chancel is the banner of Sir William Howe who fought the battle of Bunker's Hill, which was formerly for many years in Westminster Abbey: the church was thoroughly restored in 1900 by Earl Howe G.C.V.O. in memory of his father, at a cost of over £1,000, and the interior by the parish, at a further expense of £150: in 1908 an organ was presented in memory of the 3rd Earl Howe: King Edward VII. attended divine service in Penn Street church, January 19th, 1902, on the occasion of his visit to Earl Howe

G.C.V.O. at Penn House: there are 300 sittings. There are memorials in the churchyard over the remains of the 3rd Earl Howe; of Lady Evelyn Eyre, his daughter; of Georgiana, Countess Howe, first wife of the 4th Earl Howe, and of the Countess of Wilton. The register dates from the year 1849. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £420, with 5 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of Earl Howe P.C., C.B.E., R.D., V.D. and held since 1932 by the Rev. Vaughan Fremantle Bryan-Brown, of Wycliffe Hall, Oxford. On the village green is a memorial bearing the names of the men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. At Holmer Green is a Mission church and parish room. The parish abounds in large, beautiful and thickly wooded forests of beech, ash and oak. Penn House, the seat of Viscount Curzon, is a mansion of brick, situated in a small park of 34 acres. Earl Howe P.C., C.B.E., R.D., V.D. is the principal landowner. The soil is clay and gravel; subsoil, loam and chalk. The chief crops are barley, wheat, oats and turnips. The population in 1931 was 1,133.

PITCHCOTT is a village and parish on an eminence overlooking Aylesbury and a large extent of the surrounding country, 7 miles north-west from Aylesbury and 5 south from Winslow, in the Aylesbury division of the county, hundred of Ashendon, petty sessional division of Winslow, rural district and county court district of Aylesbury, rural deanery of Claydon, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. By an Order in Council dated March 7th, 1902, this parish was united for ecclesiastical purposes with Oving. Electricity and main water are available. The church of St. Giles, a simple edifice of stone, chiefly in the Early English style,

POUNDON, see Twyford.

PRESTON BISSETT is a parish and village, 4 miles south-west from Buckingham station on the Banbury and Bletchley section of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, about 2½ from Finmere station and 5 north from Calvert station, both on the London and North Eastern railway, and 8½ north-east from Bicester, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred, petty sessional division, rural district and county court district of Buckingham, rural deanery of Buckingham, Buckingham portion, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. A feeder of the river Ouse passes through the parish and here separates the counties of Buckingham and Oxford.

Electricity is available. The parish was inclosed by Act of Parliament in 1781. The church of St. John the Baptist, standing on rising ground at the entrance to the village, is an object of considerable interest to the archaeologist, from the purity of its style and unique beauty of its windows, the tracery in each of which exhibits a different design; it is supposed to have been built about 1320; it consists of chancel, clerestoried and the Archdeacon of Buckingham alternately, and held since 1931 by the Rev. Anthony Hammond M.A. of Keble College, Oxford, who resides at Oving. The Dean and Chapter of Christ Church, Oxford, who are lords of the manor and William Dancer esq. are the principal landowners. The soil is loam; subsoil, clay. The land is principally in grass. The area is 925 acres; the population in 1931 was 30.

1893 as a memorial to the Rev. Charles Ring Hutchinson, 26 years vicar (1855-81): the church was restored in 1893, and it now affords 147 sittings. The register dates from the year 1653. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £326, including about 13½ acres of glebe, in the gift of Lord Brownlow, and held since 1937 by the Rev. Amos Parr L.Div. of St. David's College, Lampeter. The memorial hall was built in 1922, partly at the expense of the 3rd Earl Brownlow, in memory of the men of this parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. By the enclosure award the labouring poor have allotted to them, in lieu of their right of commonage, 3a. or. 10p. besides four acres for exercise and recreation. Ashridge House and Park, formerly partly in this parish, has been transferred to Little Gaddesden, Herts. The farmers are the principal landowners. The soil is variable; considerable portions of it are chalky and unfit for tillage, but other parts are arable and pasture; subsoil, chalk. The area is 1,644 acres; the population in 1931 was 363.

nave, aisles, south porch and a low western tower of the 15th century containing 2 bells: all the details are of uniformly good Decorated work, the east window of three lights presenting features of a Flamboyant character, and all the remaining windows being examples of the same style, the east windows of the aisles in particular exhibiting elaborated tracery: on the south side of the chancel there are double canopied sedilia with crocketed pinnacles, and there are also three piscinae, one in the chancel and one in each aisle: the clerestory windows, three on either side, are unusual, consisting of circular feathered lights within square panels: on the western gable of the nave is a bell cote of stone: in the chancel is a slab once containing the brass effigy of a female, and an inscription to Ann, wife of Edmund Major the younger, gent. ob. 1613; there are modern brass inscriptions to Capt. L. Bolden, 68th Durham Light Infantry, and E. H. Sabin, son of the Rev. J. E. Sabin, a former rector, to whom there is a mural monument, and on the north wall is a brass tablet erected in 1921 in memory of those who fell in the Great War, 1914-18; in the chancel still remain inscribed slabs to Richard Banks M.A. rector 1674-79, Stephen Townshend M.A. rector 1706-24, and John Ford M.A. minister of Hillesden, ob. 1684: there is also an ancient slab with a cross, apparently of the time of Edward I.: in the churchyard is an altar tomb, commemorating Daniel Whitby, eleven years rector here, ob. 1674: Thomas Woodward, gent. by his will in 1528, appointed his burial in this church, before the image of St. John the Baptist: the church was repaired and improved in 1823 and again in 1853, and during the incumbency of the Rev. John Satterthwaite Bolden M.A. rector 1863-73, a thorough restoration of the church was undertaken, in the course of which a gallery was taken down, a new pulpit and other fittings provided, and the interior re-seated: during the progress of the work many traces were met with of an Earlier Norman structure, including portions of semi-circular window heads, the bases and capitals of columns, and several fragments of stone in the zig-zag pattern; these have all been built into the wall of the north aisle: the restoration was completed in 1893: the late Rev. C. Bolden B.A. for 45 years rector of this parish, left the sum of approximately £2,000, which is invested and produces £70 per annum for the church and school: there are 300 sittings. The register dates from the year 1662. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £465, including 33 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Oxford, and held since 1920 by the Rev. Sidney Herbert Smith M.A. of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge. The Methodist chapel, built in 1853, will hold 60 persons. Pearse's charity of £100, producing interest £2 16s. yearly, is at present assigned, under a scheme of the Charity Commissioners, for the benefit of the parish, to the Radcliffe Infirmary at Oxford. The principal landowner is Rowland M. Hiorns esq. The soil is clay and gravel; subsoil, various. The land is pasture and arable. The area is 1,523 acres; the population in 1931 was 286.

COWLEY is a hamlet of Preston Bissett, about 1½ miles south-east from the village and 4½ miles south from Buckingham.

PRESTWOOD is a village and ecclesiastical parish, formed April 9th, 1852, out of portions of Great Missenden, Hughenden and a detached portion of Stoke Mandeville parishes, 1½ miles south-west from Great Missenden station on the Metropolitan and London and North Eastern Joint railway, 4½ north from Wycombe, and 4½ south-east from Princes Risborough, in the Aylesbury division of the county, petty sessional division of Desborough 2nd division, hundreds of Brands Fee and Desborough, county court districts of Wycombe and Chesham, rural deanery of Aylesbury, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford: the houses are very scattered and nearly all of modern construction. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Rickmansworth and Uxbridge Valley Water Co. The church of the Holy Trinity, erected in 1849, is an edifice of flint with stone dressings in the Decorated style, and consists of chancel, clerestoried nave of three bays, aisles, two vestries, south porch and an open western turret containing one bell; the chancel was raised and enlarged in 1885: the east window is stained, and there are two others, one in the chancel and another in the north aisle, erected to the memory of his mother (d. 1857) by the Rev. Thomas Evetts, first incumbent of this church, 1849-63; the chancel rail originally belonged to the church of Little Gidding, Hunts: there are 200 sittings. The register dates from the year 1850. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £310, with 20 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of Mrs. Disraeli O.B.E. and held since 1930 by the Rev. Harold Fallows M.A. of the University of New Zealand and L.Th. of St. John's College, Auckland, New Zealand. The Baptist chapel, rebuilt in 1870, is a small edifice of flint and brick, seating 100 persons. There is a Methodist chapel, erected in 1863, which will seat 130; and another at BRYANT'S BOTTOM, built in 1871, which has 120 sittings. The inhabitants are chiefly engaged on the neighbouring estates and in chair turning. Denner Hill stone is dug here. Lord Dorman, who is lord of the manor, Capt. Ivor Stewart-Liberty M.C., J.P., the Earl of Buckinghamshire and Arthur Davis esq. J.P. are the principal landowners. The soil is principally chalky loam, with flints and gravel; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are mainly pasture and some wheat, oats and barley. The population in 1931 was 1,856.

PRINCES RISBOROUGH is a parish with a station about three-quarters of a mile west on the main line of the Great Western and London and North Eastern railways (G. W. and G. O. Joint Committee) from Paddington and Marylebone to the Midlands and the North, and on the Great Western direct line to Birmingham and the branch lines of the same railway to Thame, Oxford and Watlington. From Princes Risborough is a branch of the Great Western line to Watlington and of the Great Western and London and North Eastern joint line to Aylesbury; it is 37 miles from London by road, 8 north-north-west from High Wycombe, 8½ south from Aylesbury, 6½ east-by-south from Thame and 1½ south-west from Tring, in the Aylesbury division of the county, hundred and petty sessional division of Aylesbury, rural district and county court district of High Wycombe, rural deanery of Aylesbury, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Gas and electricity are available. Water is supplied by the Rural Districts Water Company Ltd. which also supplies the parishes of Monks Risborough, Great and Little Kimble and Horsenden. The company's water, drawn from greensand springs, is distributed by a pumping plant, erected in Monks Risborough parish.

The church of St. Mary, originally Early English but altered in the reign of Henry VII. is an edifice of stone and flint, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave of seven bays, aisles, south porch and a western tower, with spire containing 2 bells: in 1908 the tower and spire were rebuilt at a cost of £2,000: the chancel retains two Early English windows, but the others are Decorated, and the piscina and sedilia are of the same date: the sacarium is laid with mosaic pavement: in the south aisle are four recesses, probably for tombs, of the early 14th century, and sedilia and a piscina of the same date: there is a three-light window of the late 13th century, which was filled with stained glass at the cost of Mr. E. Barraud, and in 1905-6 a memorial window was erected to Elizabeth Mary, wife of the Rev. J. Mander, rector 1897-1914, and another by the children of the parish: in 1892 an organ was erected: a carved oak altar was installed in 1915 in memory of the Rev. J. Mander: in 1867-8 the church was enlarged and thoroughly restored: there are 410 sittings. The registers date from the year 1561, but during the period of the Commonwealth there are no entries. The living, formerly a perpetual curacy, was declared a rectory February 25th, 1868, under the "Church District Tithes Act, 1865" (28 and 29 Vict. c. 42), net yearly value £390, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Oxford, and held since 1918 by the Rev. John Gower Williams B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter. The Roman Catholic church in New road, built in 1937, seats 250 people. The Baptist chapel, in Bell street, erected in 1707, is a plain edifice, seating 400, and has a small burial ground attached to it. The Princes Risborough Agricultural Association holds an annual horse and agricultural show in September. The Literary Institute and Reading Room, in the High street, the gift of the 1st Baron Rothschild, contains a billiards room and lecture hall: it was opened in 1891. The Market house was built by John Grubb esq. a former lord of the manor. Fairs are held annually on the 6th of May (St. John the Evangelist ante Portam Latinam) and on the 21st of October. St. Agatha's Home, belonging to the Church of England Incorporated Society for Providing Homes for Waifs and Strays, was erected in 1909 on a site in Queen's road, presented by Mrs. Bardolph, who also provided the funds for the erection of the west wing as a memorial to her husband, the Rev. Reginald Robertson Bardolph, formerly rector of this parish;

the home will hold 33 girls. The Department of Scientific and Industrial Research opened the Forest Products Research laboratory in this parish in 1927 for the study of timber seasoning, wood preservation &c. The charities include 3a. 2r. 26p. of land left by William Smith in 1616 for the poor, and producing £5 19s. 3d. per annum; a rent charge of £32 yearly by Mrs. Chibnall, in 1646; £100 by Thomas Meade, of Princes Risborough, in 1783, for apprenticing poor children; a portion of an estate left by Mrs. Katherine Pye, of Bradenham, in 1733, for the education chiefly of children here and at Hughenden, Bradenham, Towersey and West Wycombe, but also for the relief of six poor widows; one nomination to Christ's Hospital, left by Richard Stratton in 1772; a meadow, bequeathed by Mrs. Elizabeth Eustace, in 1784, to provide "lots of linen" for the poor; in allotment of 30 perches to provide funds for repairs to the church; and 40 acres granted to the poor in lieu of common rights, the income of which amounts to about £30 yearly. Several trenches and banks, on the west side of the churchyard, called "The Mount," and inclosed with a moat, are popularly supposed to be the site of a palace of Edward the Black Prince. The manor of Princes Risborough was held by Queen Margaret; after her death in 1316 it passed to Edward II. and then to Edward III. who granted it to Isabella, his mother, from whom it came to the Black Prince, and he held it until his death in 1376: the rector has in his keeping an iron chest containing several very interesting documents, including a mutilated copy of letters dated June 12th, 1597, under the great seal of Elizabeth; and the charter granting immunity to Princes Risborough from serving on juries and paying tolls, dated 39th year of Queen Elizabeth (1598). By grant of Henry VIII. two fairs are held annually, in May and October respectively. The Manor house is a large two-storied building of the early 18th century, with a staircase of the early 17th century. It is the residence of Mrs. W. W. Vaughan, and the property of the National Trust. The Warden and Fellows of Merton College, Oxford, are the chief landowners, and there are many smaller owners. The soil is very variable, but generally light and chalky on the hills; on the low lands loamy, some parts strong clay; subsoil, chalk and clay. The chief crops on the light lands are barley, oats and turnips; low lands, wheat, beans and barley. The area is 2,217 acres of land and inland water; the population in the civil parish in 1931 was 2,181, and of the ecclesiastical, 1,891.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, parts of this civil parish were taken into the new parishes of Lacey Green and Longwick-cum-Ilmer, and parts transferred to Great and Little Hampden, while parts of Horsenden and Monks Risborough were added.

QUAINTON, or, as it was originally called, "Quainton Mallet," including the hamlets of Shipton Lee, Denham and Diddershall, is a township and large and widely scattered village and parish, with a station called "Quainton Road" on the Metropolitan and London and North Eastern joint railway, 1 mile south-west from the village, from which there is a branch line to Brill. The line of the London and North Eastern railway from Nottingham to London runs also with the Metropolitan Extension; Quainton is 6 miles north-west from Aylesbury, in the Aylesbury division of the county, hundred of Ashendon, petty sessional division of Winslow, rural district and county court district of Aylesbury, rural deanery of Claydon, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity and main water are available. The church of the Holy Cross and St. Mary is a building of stone, chiefly in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave of five bays, aisles, vestry, south porch and an embattled western tower with turret containing a clock and 5 bells with chimes and a sanctus bell: in the south aisle is a mural tablet, with effigies kneeling at a desk, to the learned Orientalist, Richard Brett D.D. one of the 47 translators of the Bible in 1611, and rector here from 1595 until his death, 15th April, 1637, and to his wife, with a long Latin inscription: in the tower is a magnificent monument to Robert Dormer, a justice of the Court of Common Pleas, d. 18 Sept. 1726, and his wife and son; the sculpture is by Roubiliac, whose realistic monument to Lady Nightingale in Westminster Abbey is well known. There are brasses, in excellent preservation, to John Spence M.A. rector 1485; one with demi-effigy to Johane Plessi, 1360, with inscription in Norman French, and others to John Lewis, rector 1422; Margery Verney, 1509; Richard Iwardby, 1529, and Elizabeth Chester, 1593: in the south aisle is a finely executed table tomb of white marble to Richard Winwood esq. 1689, with a recumbent effigy in complete armour, except the head, which is attired in a flowing wig; on the wall hangs a funeral helmet surmounted by a crest; behind him is his lady in an attitude of grief; at the base of the tomb is the sculptured figure of a human skeleton with an hour-glass: another monument of heavy design commemorates Sir Richard Pigott, knighted at Theobalds, Herts, 9 July, 1630, ob. 1685: a mural tablet of old design, in black and white marble, commemorates the men connected with the parish who lost their lives in the Great War, 1914-18: the church was restored in 1877, at a cost of £2,600, under the direction of Mr. William White, architect, of London: there are 350 sittings. The register dates from the year 1599. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £708, with 3½ acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of Mrs. Henry Cautley, and held since 1928 by the Rev. Proby Francis Lister Cautley M.A. of Trinity College, Cambridge. The Baptist chapel, built in 1894, has 200 sittings. The old Baptist chapel, erected in 1817, is now used as a Sunday school; the Methodist chapel, erected in 1892, was rebuilt 1892, and will now seat 250 persons. There are eight almshouses for poor widows and widowers, erected in 1687 by Richard Winwood esq. son of Ralph Winwood kn. principal secretary of state to King James I.; these have an annual income of about £340; there is also a charity, now producing about £400 yearly, left in the last century by Christabella Dowager Viscountess Saye and Sele for apprenticing poor boys of this and the adjoining parish of Grendon Underwood and for educational purposes; and there are other educational charities amounting in the aggregate to £30, beside £3 a year for bread. In the village, at the north end of the picturesque green, are the remains of an ancient stone cross, consisting of a portion of the shaft, on a square base, elevated on three steps. In a black and white cottage near by was born, in 1773, George Lipscomb, author of a History of Buckinghamshire, published in 1847. Diddershall Park, the residence of Lady Pigott-Brown, has been the seat of the Pigott family from the year 1503; the mansion is an ancient structure, seated in a park of 120 acres and commanding a beautiful view of the surrounding country. The principal landowners are the President and Fellows of Corpus Christi College, Oxford, Lady Pigott-Brown, Mr. Edmund Brown, the trustees of the late Mrs. Tapping and several farmers. The soil is stiff clay; subsoil, loam and clay. The land is principally pasture. The entire area is 5,441 acres of land and inland water; the population in 1931 was 835, including the hamlets.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, part of Hogshaw was added to this parish.

SHIPTON LEE is about 1 mile north-west from the village. This place was by Local Government Board Order 19,623, dated March 25, 1886, amalgamated with Quainton.

DENHAM is half a mile north-east and DODDERSHALL 1 mile west.

QUARRENDON, or Quarrington, is a secluded village and parish, 2 miles north-west of Aylesbury, and lies between the Bicester and Buckingham roads, in the Aylesbury division of the county, hundred of Ashendon, petty sessional division, rural district, county court district and rural deanery of Aylesbury, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Near to the moated site where stood the home of Sir Henry Lee, a courtier of Queen Elizabeth, are the ruins of an ancient and once splendid chapel dedicated to St. Peter; the remains exhibit portions of the Early English and later styles: though the edifice is now completely dilapidated, the arches which supported the nave roof are of fine stone and in excellent preservation; the remains of mullions and corbels, especially those of the eastern window of the chancel, prove it to have been originally adorned with great architectural skill: the ruins, as they at present exist, situated in the midst of a small meadow, have an extremely picturesque appearance: the chapel was used for occasional services some time after 1720; a marriage was solemnized here Dec. 22, 1746, and burials have taken place in the adjoining churchyard during the past century. There is no church in the parish. The living is a vicarage annexed to that of Bierton. The land is in the possession of several owners, and the farmers own their farms. The land is fine pasture and extends over an area of 1,943 acres, nearly the whole of which is devoted to grazing, and 5 of water; the population in 1931 was 61.

RADCLIVE is a parish on the river Ouse, a mile and a half west-by-north from Buckingham station on the Bletchley and Banbury section of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred, petty sessional division, rural district and county court district of Buckingham, rural deanery of Buckingham, Buckingham portion, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. The parish was enclosed by Act of Parliament in 1773. Electricity is available.

The church of St. John the Evangelist is an ancient building of stone in the Transition Norman and Early English styles, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch and an embattled western tower, containing 3 bells: the windows in the nave are decorated with the exception of one, which is Perpendicular: in the chancel are two Early English windows and a decorated east window: the south doorway is Transition Norman: the whole church was, about the year 1903, thoroughly restored under the supervision of Mr. J. Oldrid Scott F.S.A. architect, at a cost of £1,000: there are 100 sittings. The register dates from the year 1597. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £450, with 175 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the Warden and Fellows of New College, Oxford, and held since 1934 by the Rev. Frederick Nash Bird M.A. of Trinity College, Dublin, who is also vicar of Gawcott, where he resides. The Warden and Fellows of New College, Oxford, are lords of the manor and principal landowners. The soil is mixed, principally gravelly; the subsoil, various; the land, arable and pasture in about equal proportions. The chief crops are wheat, barley and beans. The area is 1,010 acres of land and inland water; population in 1931, 194.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, part of this parish was included in the borough of Buckingham.

CHACKMORE is a hamlet 2 miles north-west from Buckingham, close to the avenue which leads from Buckingham to Stowe. Here is a Methodist chapel. In the schoolroom, which holds 90 persons, church service is held on Sundays.

RADNAGE is a parish and village on the borders of Oxfordshire, $\frac{1}{2}$ miles north-west from West Wycombe station on the main line of the Great Western and London and North Eastern joint railways, 6 north-west from High Wycombe, 5 south-west from Princes Risborough, in the Aylesbury division of the county, hundred of Desborough, petty sessional division of Desborough and division, rural district of Wycombe, county court district of High Wycombe, archdeaconry of Buckingham, rural deanery of Wycombe and diocese of Oxford. The village lies in a valley hemmed in by hills of considerable height, from the summits of which an extensive view is afforded of the richly wooded country around. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the High Wycombe Corporation. The church of St. Mary, erected early in the 12th century, is a building of flint and rubble stone, chiefly in the Early English style, with traces of Norman work, and consists of chancel, nave, south porch and a central tower containing four bells: the nave retains a good Perpendicular roof, but most of the windows are Decorated: the font is Anglo-Saxon: there are brasses to William Syer, rector 1605, and Jane his wife, and to William Este, 1534, his wife and children: on the north wall is a marble tablet erected in memory of the men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18: in the chancel there is a piscina and hagioscope: in 1935 Professor Tristram found what he considered to be the oldest mediæval wall paintings in Buckinghamshire: the church affords 115 sittings. The register dates from the year 1574: in the church is a list of rectors dating from 1231. The living is a rectory, net income £225, with $\frac{3}{4}$ acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1904 by the Rev. Benjamin John Corder B.A. of St. John's College, Cambridge. There is a Methodist chapel and a Gospel hall. The inhabitants are occupied in the manufacture of chairs and in agriculture. There are 29a. 3r. 32p. the rent of which is divided for the church, school and distribution to the poor. In the village is a stone cross erected in memory of the men who died in the Great War, 1914-18. The lordship of the manor is vested in the Crown. The principal landowners are Lord Carrington and Miss Alexander. The soil is chalky; subsoil, light loam and clay. The land is mainly arable. The area is 1,369 acres; the population in 1931 was 408.

RAVENSTONE is a parish and village on the Northamptonshire border and bounded on the south by the river Ouse, 3 miles west from Olney station on the Bedford and Northampton branch of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, 3 north-east from Stony Stratford, 5 north-west from Newport Pagnell, 14 west from Bedford and 12 south-east from Northampton, in the Buckingham division of the county, county court district of Northampton, hundred, petty sessional division, rural district and rural deanery of Newport, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Newport Pagnell Rural District Council. The church of All Saints is a building of stone in the Early English and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel, nave, south aisle prolonged to the east end, and a low western tower containing a clock and 3 bells: at the east end of the aisle is a tomb with columns of black marble supporting a canopy, to Sir Heneage Finch kt. first Earl of Nottingham and keeper of the Great Seal, ob. 18 Dec. 1682; on the tomb lies a semi-recumbent marble effigy, and below it a long eulogistic inscription in Latin: on the east side of the churchyard is a plain stone, with Latin inscription worn away by weather, and now copied on a tablet in the south aisle, to the Rev. Thomas Seaton, formerly fellow of Clare Hall, Cambridge, and founder of the annual Seatonian prize at Cambridge, who died in 1741: there are two stained windows in the south aisle, one the gift of Mrs. Godfrey in memory of her husband, the Rev. William Godfrey, vicar 1824-60, and another to William Godfrey esq.: there is a tablet of black and white marble on which are inscribed the names of the parishioners who fell in the Great War, 1914-18: the church was thoroughly restored in 1885 and the mortuary chapel or vestry in 1892: there are 250 sittings, all being free. The register dates from the year 1568. The living is a vicarage, with that of Weston Underwood annexed, joint net yearly value £400, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Oxford, and held since 1930 by the Rev. James Fraser Amies M.A. of Oxford University. There is a Union chapel, founded in 1790 and rebuilt in 1907, with 80 sittings. There are twelve almshouses, founded by the first Earl of Winchelsea and Nottingham, for six single men and six single women, with an allowance of 5s. per week each and firing. In this parish there are to be seen a few remains of Austin Priory, which was founded in 1330 and dissolved by Cardinal Wolsey in 1532. Wilfred H. M. Finch esq. J.P. is lord of the manor and sole landowner. The soil is clay; subsoil, clay and gravel. The chief crops are wheat, barley, beans, oats and roots. The area is 2,069 acres of land and 6 of water; the population in 1931 was 166 in the civil and 379 in the ecclesiastical parish.

The Rev. Robert Chapman, a former vicar, left property for building & endowing a school, with salary & house for the master or mistress, for boys & girls & for apprenticing out to trades three boys—two natives of this parish & one from the parish of Little Woolston; the income, amounting to £250 yearly, is derived from invested funds; eight other parishes now benefit in respect of educational purposes.

ST. LEONARDS is a small village and ancient chapelry, which was formed into an ecclesiastical parish August 28, 1860, from part of the civil parish of Aston Clinton; it is on the Herts border, 6 miles south-west from Tring station on the main line of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, 3 miles west from Wendover station and 6 miles north-west from Chesham station, both on the Metropolitan and London and North Eastern (joint) railway, and 8 south-east from Aylesbury, in the Aylesbury division of the county, hundred, petty sessional division, and county court district of Aylesbury, rural deanery of Wendover, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Chiltern Hills Spring Water Co. The church, formerly a chantry chapel to the Abbey of Missenden, is an edifice of rubble stone, consisting of chancel and nave under one roof, south porch and a western belfry containing one bell: there are two tablets to the Wood family, one of which, with a marble bust, commemorates Gen. Cornelius Wood, a distinguished officer of Queen Anne's reign, who died in 1712: new choir stalls were erected in 1889, and the church was completely restored in 1935: there are 130 sittings. The register dates from the year 1737. The living is a titular vicarage, gross yearly value £400, with residence and 7 acres of glebe, in the gift of trustees, and held since 1936 by the Rev. Cyril Ellis Martin B.A. of St. David's College, Lampeter. The ownership of the land is divided. The soil is chalk and loam; subsoil, chalk and gravel. The population in 1931 was 493. SHABBINGTON is a village and parish on the borders of Oxfordshire, from which it is divided by the river Thame, 3 miles north-by-east from Tiddington station on the Wycombe, Thame and Oxford branch of the Great Western railway, 3 west from Thame, 5½ south from Brill and 12 east from Oxford, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred and petty sessional division of Ashendon, rural district of Aylesbury, county court district of Thame, rural deanery of Waddesdon, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. The church of St. Mary Magdalene, built in 1100, is a small building of stone with decorated windows and arches, consisting of chancel, nave, north porch and a low embattled western tower containing a clock and 6 bells, and a small sanctus bell: in the south wall is a cinquefoil-headed piscina in good preservation: the east window is stained, and the chancel retains a piscina and a niche: there is a low side window in the north wall: the font has an octagonal basin and is ancient: the church was restored in 1882, 1924, 1928 and 1934: during the alterations of 1934 a part of the rood loft staircase was discovered in the east end of the north wall, but this unfortunately had to be filled in to add stability to the wall: there are 120 sittings. In the churchyard is a stone cross erected in memory of the men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. The register dates from the year 1715. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £520, including 36 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of Mr. Harold Bros. and held since 1923 by the Rev. James Gilbert Denniston M.A. of University College, Oxford. The Mission Gospel hall, formerly the Wesleyan chapel, built in 1864, has 150 sittings. Bernard's charity of £2 10s. yearly, is for clothing. Messrs. Frank Chapman, Henry Fuller, William C. King and Magdalen College, Oxford, are the principal landowners. The soil is loam and clay; subsoil, clay. The land is principally in pasture; the chief crops are wheat and beans. The area is 1,623 acres of land and 7 of water; the population in 1931 was 208 in the civil and 213 in the ecclesiastical parish.

By Local Government Board Order 19,618, dated March 25, 1886, Shabbington Wood Cottage was transferred from Shabbington to Oakley for civil purposes.

SHENLEY CHURCH END is a township, parish and scattered village, partly on the great Holyhead road, 4 miles north-west from Bletchley Junction station on the London, Midland and Scottish railway, 4 south-east from Stony Stratford and 6 south-west from Newport Pagnell, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred and rural district of Newport Pagnell, county court district of Bletchley and Leighton Buzzard, petty sessional division of Stony Stratford, rural deanery of Wolverton, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Newport Pagnell Rural District Council. The church of St. Mary is a building of stone in the Early English, Decorated and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel, nave of five bays, aisles, transepts, south porch and a central tower with turret rising above the parapet and containing a clock and 6 bells: in the chancel are tablets to the Rev. Matthew Knapp, 43 years rector, d. 7 Dec. 1752, and Charlotte, his wife, and a monument, with shafts of jasper and porphyry, and a quartered shield of arms, to Edmund Ashfield, d. 1577, and Eleanor, his wife; there is also a marble monument in the north aisle, with recumbent effigy, to Thomas Stafford esq. of Tattenhoe, founder of the almshouses here, who died 25 March, 1607; the male figure is in armour, and wears a neck ruff, and below, carved in high relief, is the effigy of his wife and kneeling figures of four male and three female children; on the upper portion of the monument is a shield of arms and an inscription: in the Stafford chapel, south of the tower, is a mural tablet inscribed to Thomas Stafford, of Tattenhoe, d. Sept. 1764, his wife, and Edmund, his eldest son, erected by his youngest son, Thomas, LL.D. of Magd. Coll. Oxon, who died in 1773: there are brass inscriptions to Anna, wife of John Kyrkeman esq. d.

24 Nov. 1427, and to Thomas Thurleby, rector, d. 16 June, 1432: a marble and alabaster tablet on the south side of the chancel arch records the names of three men connected with the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18: the church was restored in 1888-90 and affords 300 sittings. The register dates from the year 1652. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £470, including 6 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Society for the Maintenance of the Faith, and held since 1939 by the Rev. Peter Hemming M.A. of St. Chad's College, Durham. There are almshouses for six poor men or women, founded in pursuance of the will of Thomas Stafford esq. of Tattenhoe, in 1654. Shenley Park is the property and residence of Lord Cadman G.C.M.G., D.Sc.; the mansion is a handsome edifice of stone, pleasantly situated near the church and approached through an avenue of lime trees. The chief landowners are Lt.-Col. William Selby-Lowndes O.B.E., T.D., J.P. Mrs. Selby-Lowndes and the farmers. The soil is alluvial and clay; subsoil, stone and clay. The land is mostly pasture, with some wheat, oats, barley and beans. The area is 1,662 acres; the population of the township in 1931 was 174 and 350 in the ecclesiastical parish.

SHERINGTON, in Domesday "Serintone," is a parish and village on the road from Newport Pagnell to Olney and separated from Lathbury and Newport Pagnell by the river Ouse which is crossed by a bridge of five arches, 2 miles north from Newport Pagnell station on the Wolverton and Newport Pagnell branch of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, 4 south from Olney station on the Bedford and Northampton branch of the same railway and 11 west from Bedford; it is in the Buckingham division of the county, county court district of Bletchley and Leighton Buzzard, hundred, petty sessional division, rural district and rural deanery of Newport, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Gas and electricity are available. Water is supplied by the Newport Pagnell Rural District Council. The church of St. Land the Martyr, seated on an eminence, is an edifice of stone, chiefly in the Decorated style, and consists of chancel, clerestoried nave of four bays, aisles, south porch with parvise, and a central tower containing 5 bells and a clock: the nave arcades, one Early Decorated and the other of a later period, have circular pillars on the north and octagonal on the south side, in both cases with moulded capitals: the tower walls are of the 12th century, with arches into the chancel and nave of the 13th century: the large west window is chiefly of the 15th century: the early 15th century font is noteworthy: in the north-east buttress of the tower is a Decorated window pierced through and looking towards the altar: there is a stone tablet in memory of 11 men of this parish who lost their lives in the Great War, 1914-18: on the handle of the porch door are the arms of Dr. William Barrow, rector 1406, and afterwards bishop of Bangor and Carlisle: the church was restored in 1870 at a cost of £1,200, and affords 300 sittings. The register dates from the year 1698. The living is a rectory, net income £330, with residence and 17 acres of glebe, in the gift of the Bishop of Oxford, and held since 1912 by the Rev. Henry Arthur Gilbert Blomefield M.A. of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, and hon. C.F. There is a Congregational chapel, founded in 1810 and seating 200, and a Methodist chapel. Fuller's charity of £5 yearly is distributed as follows, viz.: £1 for a sermon; 5s. each to the churchwardens and 26 half-crowns to the poor. Mrs. Owen Williams is the principal landowner. The soil is various; subsoil, limestone and clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley, beans and roots. The area is 1,799 acres of land and 6 of water; population in 1931, 462.

SHIPTON LEE, see Quainton.

SIMPSON (or Sympton) is a parish and village on the Grand Junction canal, $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles north from Bletchley and 2 miles north-east from Bletchley Junction station on the main line of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, in the Buckingham division of the county, county court district of Bletchley and Leighton Buzzard, hundred and petty sessional division of Newport Pagnell, rural deanery of Bletchley, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. A portion of the town of Bletchley is in this parish, which is supplied with water by the Bletchley Urban District Council. The river Ousel forms its eastern boundary.

Simpson forms a ward of the Bletchley Urban District Council, formed in 1895, under the provisions of the Local Government Act, 1894 (56 and 57 Vict. c. 73), by Local Government Board Order, No. 32,766. The church of St. Nicholas is an ancient cruciform building of stone, in the Perpendicular and Decorated styles, consisting of chancel, nave, transepts, south porch and a central tower, restored in 1930, containing 6 bells: there are monuments to the Hammers, including one by Bacon to Sir Walden Hammer bart. d. 1873, and a brass tablet in memory of the men connected with the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18, to whom also an obelisk of Cornish granite was erected:

in the porch is a tablet of oak bearing the names of all from this parish who served in the Great War, 1914-18: the chancel was restored at the cost of the late Sir Wyndham Edward Hammer bart. of Stockgrove (d. 1887), in 1873, when the transepts were restored and the tower underpinned: the nave was restored in 1904: there are 200 sittings. The present register dates from the year 1718; the earlier ones have been lost. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £360, with residence, in the gift of Sir Edward Hammer bart. J.P. and held since 1936 by the Rev. Reginald Wynter A.K.C.L. The Methodist chapel, built in 1935, has 130 sittings. There is a village hut. Bletchley Urban District and Newport Pagnell Rural District Isolation Hospital was erected in 1907 at a cost of £1,600, and has 12 beds. Pigott's charity of about £100 a year is administered by trustees. The manorial rights have ceased for over 150 years. The farmers are the principal landowners. The soil is heavy, some clay; subsoil, clay and gravel. The land is mostly in pasture. The ecclesiastical population in 1931 was 702.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, this civil parish was included in the new parish of Bletchley, co-extensive with the urban district.

Wing, rural deanery of Ivinghoe, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. The Grand Junction canal passes on the west. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Bucks Water Board. The church of the Holy Cross is a building of stone in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, north porch and an embattled western tower containing 5 bells, 2 of which were re-cast, the whole re-hung and the tower restored in 1889; the font dates from the 13th century, and there are brasses to Reginald Manser, dated 1462; James Tornay, yeoman-at-arms to King Henry VIII. 1519, and his two wives; and to Sir Thomas Knyghton, 1520: the church was restored in 1878 and 1889 at a total cost of £1,800, and affords 100 sittings. The register dates from the year 1653. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £400, with residence, in the gift of Christ Church, Oxford, and held since 1937 by the Rev. Albert Benjamin Brain, of the London College of Divinity. The advowson of the church was separated from the manor in 1720 and purchased by James, 1st Duke of Chandos, who transferred the patronage in 1720 for £630 to Christ Church, Oxford. One of the rectors, John Kempe, who resigned the living in 1407, was Bishop of Rochester, 1419; Chichester, 1421; London, 1422; Archbishop of York, 1426 and Archbishop of Canterbury, 1452; he died in 1454. The Methodist chapel, built in 1817, will seat 170 persons. A charity left by Sir Thomas Knyghton consists of property of the yearly value of £80, and is for the repair of two tenements under one roof, called the "Town House"; a sum of 16s. 1d. called "head silver," is due to the lord of the manor for defraying the expenses of labourers' funerals; the residue being distributed on the Monday before old Christmas-day among all the poor of the parish, in sums varying from 5s. to £1 according to the size of the families. Slapton formerly belonged to the Benedictine Convent of SS. Mary and Ethelburga at Berchinges (Barking), in the county of Essex, and was a royal manor in the time of Edward VI. and Elizabeth; it afterwards passed to Thomas Rowe, subsequently to J. Theed, and in 1724 became the property of Scroope, 1st Duke of Bridgewater. The land is principally owned by the farmers. The soil is clay; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, oats and beans and some land is in pasture. The area is 1,397 acres of land and 16 of water; the population in 1931 was 143.

SLOUGH

SLOUGH, which formerly consisted only of a few inns on the high road from London to Bath, is now a well-built and rapidly increasing town, with an important station on the Great Western railway, being the junction of the Windsor branch; the station was rebuilt in 1882, on the widening of the line from Paddington to Maidenhead. A halt at Chalvey was opened in 1929. The town is 20 miles west from London by road and 18½ miles by rail, 1½ north from Eton, 2 north from Windsor and 6 east from Maidenhead. The Grand Junction (now Grand Union) Canal Company, under an Act of Parliament passed in July, 1879, constructed a branch from Cowley to Slough. The town, originally in the parish of Upton-cum-Chalvey (with the exception of some houses in Stoke Poges), was constituted a civil parish under the provisions of Section 1 of the Local Government Act, 1894 (56 and 57 Vict. c. 73); it is in the Wycombe division of the county, hundred and petty sessional division of Stoke, county court district of Windsor, rural deanery of Burnham, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. The town was controlled by a Local Board from July 14, 1863, until the establishment by the Local Government Act, 1894, of an Urban District Council; in 1938 it was created a borough; it is divided into seven wards and the Council consists of seven aldermen and 21 councillors. The town is lighted with gas and electricity: it is well supplied with excellent water from artesian wells bored through the chalk at Datchet, the property of the Borough Council. The drainage system was extended in 1939: the sewage reaches the pumping station at Chalvey by gravitation, and is there pumped through an iron main to a sewerage farm, a distance of 2 miles westward.

By Local Government Board Order No. 39,611, dated October 1st, 1900, parts of the civil parishes of Langley Marish, Upton-cum-Chalvey and Stoke Poges were added to Slough civil parish and Urban District.

By the Slough Urban District (Extension) Order 1929, further parts of the parishes of Langley Marish and Stoke Poges, together with parts of the parishes of Burnham, Dorney, Farnham Royal and Horton, were added to the civil parish and urban district of Slough, and by a further (Extension) Order in 1931, further parts of Farnham Royal and Stoke Poges were added.

The church of St. Mary, in Church street, originally built in 1837, the foundation stone being laid by the Duke of Cambridge K.G. was greatly enlarged in 1876-8, at a cost of £12,500; the foundation stone of the new work was laid by Princess Christian; the enlarged church consists of chancel, with aisles, nave, transepts, and a tower containing 8 bells: a steeple was added to the tower and the bells were recast in 1913; in the same year a new organ was provided: there are 1,030 sittings, 700 being free. Outside the west wall of the churchyard is a cross on a circular base, erected in memory of Slough men who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. The old parish church of St. Laurence, Upton, dating from the 11th century, after being allowed to fall almost into ruin, was restored in 1851, and enlarged by the addition of a south aisle; it consists of chancel, nave of five bays, south aisle with north porch and a central tower containing one bell: the chancel is Norman, with a roof groined in stone and retaining much of its original colouring: the piscina is of uncommon design: in the south aisle is an arch of oak, elaborately carved with three mouldings of dog tooth pattern: the two small east windows are stained, and there are four memorial windows to the Bulstrode, Bonsey, Sullivan and Perette families and tablets to Sir William Herschel K.C.H., F.R.S. d. 25 Aug. 1822, whose tomb is also in the church, his wife, and the Bulstrode family; at the east end of the south aisle are several brasses, including one to Agnes Bulstrode, 1472, with kneeling effigy in a shroud; one to Edward Bulstrode esq. 1519, two wives, four sons and eight daughters, with effigies, and another with effigies to Edward Bulstrode esq. 1599, his wife and children: the church affords 380 sittings, 194 being free. The register dates from the year 1539.

St. Peter's church, at CHALVEY, is a small building erected in 1860-1, and consists of chancel, nave, north porch and a western bell cote containing 2 bells: there are several stained windows, and about 280 sittings.

yearly value £550, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Oxford, and held since 1921 by the Rev. Alfred George Pisani Baines M.A. of Keble College, Oxford, who is hon. canon of Christ Church and a surrogate.

St. Paul's is an ecclesiastical parish formed Dec. 12, 1904, from Stoke Poges; the church, in Stoke road, built in 1906 by Algernon Gilliat esq. of Stoke Poges, is an edifice in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, chapel and a western baptistery: there are several stained windows: there is a tablet erected in memory of the men connected with the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18: the church affords 700 sittings. The register dates from the year 1894. The living is a vicarage, in the gift of trustees, net yearly value £450, and held since 1926 by the Rev. Arthur A. Dowsett M.A. of Fitzwilliam Hall, Cambridge. The Gilliat memorial hall, in Stoke road, was opened in 1933.

The Roman Catholic church, in Ourzon street, dedicated to Our Lady Immaculate and St. Ethelbert, and erected in 1909-10 at a cost of £8,000, is a building of brick faced with flint and dressed with Kentish rag and Bath stone in the Early Perpendicular style; it comprises chancel with side chapels, nave of five bays with aisles and clerestory, north porch, square baptistery and embattled western tower with spire, and containing one bell. There are seats for 400 persons. A presbytery in the same style, built in 1923, adjoins the church.

The Methodist Central Hall, erected at a cost of £32,000, was opened in 1932 by Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth, then Duchess of York: it will seat 1,000 people in the main hall; there is also provision for a Sunday School of 500 children: there are Methodist chapels in High street and Chalvey.

The Congregational chapel, Church street, was erected in 1835, and affords 500 sittings, and there is a Congregational mission hall at CHALVEY, seating about 200 persons; a Baptist chapel in Windsor road, built in 1905, with 600 sittings.

The Town Hall, in Bath road, which was opened in 1937, is a dignified red brick building in a modern style of architecture, lying well back from the road on a site of 4½ acres. It has a frontage of 300 ft. and there is a clock tower above the entrance.

The Licensed Victuallers' School, Mackenzie park, formerly the property of the British Orphan Asylum, is a large and handsome building opposite the railway station, which, with the grounds, occupies a space of many acres. The Licensed Victuallers' School was founded in 1803 at Kennington, London, and was removed to its present home in 1921, the opening ceremony being performed by H.R.H. Princess Alice, Countess of Athlone, in October, 1921. During 1936 work was commenced on a new and larger school in the same grounds; this was opened by H.R.H. the Duke of Kent K.G. in 1938. There are now (1939) nearly 200 girls and boys in the school, being children of deceased or distressed licensed victuallers and beer and wine on-licence holders. The school is dependent upon voluntary contributions for its upkeep.

The Leopold Institute and Public Hall, in the High street, is a structure of red brick with Bath stone dressings, and was erected in 1887, in memory of the Duke of Albany K.G.; it was opened by the Duchess of Albany. The building consists of a large public hall with balcony, 63 by 42 ft. seating 746 persons, with a stage and dressing rooms; there is also a smaller hall seating 150 persons, and retiring rooms, reading rooms, billiards room, lavatories and the usual offices. The halls are let for meetings, concerts and theatrical purposes.

The Slough Social Centre, in Farnham road, which was opened in April, 1937, comprises four large buildings (with a total frontage of about 800 ft.) connected by covered passageways and used by the Centre club. There is a large hall seating 1,000 persons, which has a well-equipped stage with modern effective lighting: three smaller halls are available for meetings, lectures &c.: there is also a swimming pool, 100 ft. by 33 ft. adjoining which is a grass "lido" for sunbathing (in winter by the use of artificial sun-ray equipment): three gymnasia are of full standard size and equipment and provision is made for all forms of sport and amusement both indoor and outdoor. The total cost of the Centre including grounds &c. was approximately £50,000.

There is a sum of £10 yearly for apprenticing, Lane's charity of £20 yearly for clothing and Thomas Ladbrook's of £12 for food. Mrs. Beauchamp, in 1879, gave £200, to be distributed in meat, coals and bread yearly, on 24th December. Mrs. Mason, in 1859, bequeathed £766 Consols, the interest to be distributed in beef and coals in December and January every year among deserving poor. Mr. Charles Hatchett also left £100, the interest to be distributed, after repairing tomb, among the poor.

The Eton Institution, Albert street, erected in 1836, will hold 220 inmates; in 1906 an infirmary for 80 patients was added, and in 1937 a home was opened to accommodate 20 nurses.

The playing fields on Salt Hill were opened in 1907. Upton Court, Upton road, a fine old house near the church, and now the residence of Mrs. Ethel Tickler, was formerly a religious house attached to the convent of Merton in Surrey.

Ditton Park was until 1895 the residence of Charlotte Ann Duchess of Buccleuch; the house, said to have been built originally by Sir Ralph Winwood kt. is a square building surrounded by a moat with bridge, and stands in a finely wooded park of 260 acres; the present building is the third, two having previously been destroyed by fire, the last in 1812: it has been purchased by the Government as a central establishment to deal with the testing and experimenting of compasses of all descriptions and gyroscopes for Government departments, for which work it is admirably suited; the present director is Capt. Henry Luxmoor Hitchins R.N.

Observatory House, on the Windsor road, was for many years the residence of Sir William Herschel LL.D., F.R.S., K.C.H. the celebrated astronomer, who settled here 1781, and died 25th August, 1822; here also lived his son, Sir John Frederick William Herschel bart. D.C.L., F.R.S. who was born at Slough, 7th March, 1792, and died at Collingwood, near Hawkhurst, 11th May, 1871, and was buried in Westminster Abbey on the 19th May following; here the former erected his large telescope, and made most of his discoveries. The Ministry of Health has approved an order made by the town council for the preservation of this house.

In the town and particularly on the Slough Trading Estate are a large number of factories, where a great variety of goods are manufactured.

Miss K. F. Darvill, Mrs. H. E. Hulton and Mrs. H. M. F. Wilson are ladies of the manor; the Duke of Leeds is the principal landowner.

The area of Slough parish and Urban District is 6,202 acres of land and inland water; the population in 1931 was 33,612.

The population of the wards in 1931 was:—Burnham, 2,889; Central, 5,740; Chalvey, 5,439; Farnham, 6,127; Langley, 3,535; Stoke, 5,687; Upton, 4,195.

The population of the ecclesiastical parishes in 1931 was, Upton-cum-Chalvey, 12,748, including 291 persons in the Eton Institution and 135 in the Licensed Victuallers' School; St. Paul, Slough, 7,171.

CIPPENHAM, a liberty 1½ miles south-east of Burnham formerly included in that parish, was, by the Slough Urban District (Extension) Order 1929, transferred to the parish and urban district of Slough. The school here is used for the service of the Church of England, and a chancel, designed by Mr. Edwin Dolby, architect, of Abingdon, was added to the building and opened by the Bishop of Oxford in 1883. There is a Baptist Mission room. Cippenham Church Institute, an iron building, was opened in 1897.

Eton Joint Isolation Hospital was erected in 1902, and has 46 beds.

On a moated site near Cippenham stood a residence of the kings of Mercia and of the monarchs of the Norman line. Burnham Abbey was founded in 1266 as a nunnery of the Order of St. Augustine. At the time of the Dissolution (1539) there were an abbess and nine nuns. Sufficient fragments of the abbey remain incorporated in the present building of that name to make it possible to reconstruct the plan of the original building.

HORSEMOOR GREEN, 1 mile east-by-south from Langley Marish was transferred from that parish to Slough by the Slough Urban District (Extension) Order 1929. Here are two fields acquired for recreation purposes as a memorial to the men of Langley Marish parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18.

SALT HILL, partly in the parish of Stoke Poges, but principally in Farnham Royal, is situated on the Bath road at the western extremity of Slough, and forms part of the town; it contains some good residences. The mound here known as "Montem" was the scene of an ancient annual festivity, held by the boys of Eton College, but discontinued since 1847.

SOULBURY is a village and large parish 4 miles in length, 2½ miles north-west from Leighton Buzzard station on the main line of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, in the Buckingham division of the county, Cottesloe hundred, Linslade petty sessional division, Bletchley and Leighton Buzzard county court district, rural district of Wing, rural deanery of Ivinghoe, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. The Grand Junction canal, the river Ousel and the London, Midland and Scottish railway pass through this parish. Electricity is available. The church of All Saints is an edifice of stone, chiefly of the Decorated period, with Perpendicular alterations and additions, and consists of a chancel, clerestoried nave, aisles, south porch and an embattled western tower containing a clock and 6 bells and an ancient sanctus bell:

the whole of the fabric was restored in 1863: in the chancel is a vault of the Lovett family, and there are three brasses, one recording the name of Thomas Lovett, 1491; one, with kneeling effigies of himself and his wife, to Robert Lovett, and another, with effigies, to John Turnay, 1512; and a figure of Alice, wife of . . . Mallet, the male effigy being lost: there is also a brass to Col. John Lovett M.P. 1710, his wife, the Hon. Mary Verney, 1769, and their son Verney M.P. 1771, and John, 1758, all of whom are buried here: there is also a brass (1921) to E. W. Robinson: there is a piscina and a hagiogscope in the south aisle, a low-side window, two piscinae and double sedilia in the chancel, and a piscina in the north aisle: the ancient rood stairs remain: there are 220 sittings. In the churchyard is a stone cross erected in 1920 in memory of the 13 men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. The register dates from the year 1595. The living is a perpetual curacy, net yearly value £300, with residence, in the gift of the Earl of Rosebery D.S.O., M.C., J.P. and held since 1925 by the Rev. William Brereton Drake M.A. of Trinity College, Oxford. The Methodist chapel holds 100 persons. In the parish is a drinking fountain and cattle trough, erected in 1887 as a Jubilee memorial to Queen Victoria by Capt. Phillips Cosby Lovett, d. 1891. The Stapleford Bridge charity, administered under a scheme promulgated in 1858, provides yearly £5 for the repairs of the bridge across the river Ousel, £2 2s. for the Aylesbury Infirmary, and the balance for the erection and repair of cottages for the poor: Lovett and Sambes's charity supplies £100 yearly for educational purposes, and Tarbuck's of £2 for a sermon to be preached on Easter Monday. Liscombe Park, the residence of Maj. Sir Reginald Bonsor bart. J.P. was formerly the seat of the Lovett family for between five and six centuries; the mansion is a large quadrangular structure of the Elizabethan period; one side of the court is occupied by an ancient chapel, dating from the middle or end of the 14th century, with part of an ancient stained window, and in the courtyard is a magnificent old yew tree and a rose garden; the kitchen gardens are large and ancient;

the park, extending over about 400 acres, abounds in oak and other timber; in 1769 the mansion was renovated, and has since been greatly modernized and added to. Stockgrove Park, the residence of Ferdinand Michael Kroyer-Kielberg esq. is an elegant modern mansion of red brick, situated on the hills on the borders of the parish and county. Maj. Sir Reginald Bonsor bart. J.P. and Ferdinand Michael Kroyer-Kielberg esq. are the principal landowners. The soil is clay; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, oats, beans and roots. The area is 4,275 acres of land and inland water; the population in 1931 was 499.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, part of Great Brickhill was added, and part of Soulbury transferred to that parish.

HOLLINGDON is a hamlet in the parish of Soulbury, $\frac{3}{4}$ miles north-west from Leighton Buzzard.

STANTONBURY is a parish in a most productive valley on the river Ouse, and abutting on the road from Newport Pagnell to Wolverton, $\frac{1}{2}$ miles north-east from Wolverton station on the main line of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, $\frac{1}{4}$ west from Newport Pagnell station on the Wolverton and Newport Pagnell branch of the same line, $\frac{1}{4}$ from Bedford and 4 north-east from Stony Stratford, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred, petty sessional division and rural district of Newport Pagnell, county court district of Bletchley and Leighton Buzzard, rural deanery of Wolverton, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. The Grand Junction canal passes through the parish. The ancient church of St. Peter, consecrated in the year 950, and situated in the district commonly called STANTON LOW, is a small edifice of stone in the Norman style, consisting of chancel, nave and north porch: it was formerly a monk's cell, and now, after the restoration work, seats 200 persons: it has a beautiful Norman arch separating the nave from the chancel; the entrance to the former north aisle, from which the blocking of 300 years has been removed, brought to light a row of arches dating from King Stephen (12th century), and resting upon a massive quadruple pedestal: the nave roof is of the 15th century, or earlier: until July 1st, 1909, it was the parish church; in that year it was discovered that the instrument transferring the rights and privileges of a parish church from St. Peter's to the modern church of St. James, situated at New Bradwell, had never been perfected, thus invalidating 1,000 marriages solemnized in the new church; the present vicar, the Rev. Allan Newman Guest M.A. on the title of the Ecclesiastical Commissioners, and the patron, the 6th Earl Spencer, secured from the Government an Act of Parliament acquiring the status for all the marriages solemnized in the unlicensed church; St. Peter's has become, by virtue of the deed, the chapel of a conventional district. The living is a vicarage, annexed with that of New Bradwell, joint net yearly value £300, including 4 acres of glebe, and residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Oxford, and held since 1908 by the Rev. Allan Newman Guest M.A. of Trinity College, Dublin, who resides at New Bradwell. The Norman Duke, commonly called the Conqueror, bestowed the manor of Stanton with several other manors on Milo Crispin, whose subfeudatory here was Ralph, when Domesday Book was compiled. Ralph's descendants had the surname of Barre, and from them this manor obtained its appellative name of Barry in addition to Stanton. Mr. Charles E. Wylie J.P. is the principal landowner. The soil is gravel and sand; subsoil, clay. The land is chiefly

STEEPLE CLAYDON will be found under the letter C.

STEWKLEY is a village and parish 5 miles west from Leighton Buzzard station and 6 miles south-west from Bletchley station on the main line of the London, Midland and Scottish railway and 6 east from Winslow station on the Bletchley and Oxford branch of the same line, 12 miles south-east from Buckingham, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred of Cottesloe, petty sessional division of Linslade, rural district of Winslow, county court district of Bletchley and Leighton Buzzard, rural deanery of Mursley, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. The village is nearly 2 miles long and lies 500 feet above the sea, on the high ground which divides the drainage of the Ousel and the Thame. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Winslow Rural District Council. The church of St. Michael is one of the most complete and remarkable examples of the Norman style now extant in this country, dating, as far as can be ascertained, from the middle of the 12th century, since it is certain that in 1170 it was given by Geoffrey de Clinton to the Priory of Kenilworth, and the Historical Monuments Commission place it c. 1160: the ground plan forms a parallelogram of four squares, of which two belong to the nave, one to the chancel and one to the tower, each being about 21 feet long, the nave 21 feet 6 inches and the tower and chancel 18 feet wide; the church therefore consists of chancel and nave, south porch and a massive central tower with pinnacles, about 57 feet in height, containing 6 bells: the chancel has a window on either side, splayed towards the interior and adorned with zigzag mouldings: the east window is, externally, a triplet, with similar mouldings and slender shafts, the centre opening, however, alone being pierced: on the north side of the chancel is a plain oblong recess, perhaps an aumbry: in the south wall is a plain piscina, below which is a stone seat running all along the south side, the western end terminating in a massive elbow rest: the roof is groined and has a chamber above it: the tower, rising almost from the centre of the building, is supported on massive semi-circular arches, springing from piers nearly 4 feet in thickness, with rounded columns at the angles and richly carved on the western side: the belfry story of the tower is surrounded on the exterior by an arcading of interlaced round-headed arches with zigzag mouldings, on short columns, with plain caps: the nave has two windows on each side similar to those in the chancel, under all the windows there runs externally a string-course of zigzag moulding: the west front is a curious and interesting example of Norman work, and exhibits an arcade of three arches, the centre arch forming the entrance being recessed with three rows of zigzag moulding; above there is a single window like the others: the font is plain and cylindrical, splaying out considerably towards the top: the north door of the nave is ornamented with double chevron moulding, on single shafts with carved caps; the south door has similar mouldings, with shafts in pairs and richly carved caps, but the porch is a restoration effected in 1862: the whole of the church is Norman, with the exception of the door leading off the belfry staircase to the now destroyed roof loft, and an archway over the piscina, part of which was cut away to make a seat, which are both Early English: the roofs seem to have been lowered in 1684: in 1844 the chancel was repaired and the stone vaulting partly removed and renewed with brick: in 1862 a complete restoration was carried out, under the direction of Mr. G. E. Street R.A. when the roofs were raised to their original pitch, the stucco removed from part of the walls and the western entrance cleared of plaster: new buttresses had also previously been supplied to the chancel wall: the church has also been reseated with open benches and stalls placed in the choir, a massive stone pulpit and new communion table introduced, the east window being at the same time filled with stained glass: during the progress of the works, a rude carving in marble, representing the Virgin and Child, with attendant angels, was found buried in the step of a doorway, some ancient tiles were also met with, and a coffin slab bearing a floriated cross: there are monuments to the Rev. Charles Ashfield M.A. vicar here 1802-30, and to his widow: in 1885 a new organ was erected by subscription: in 1888 a handsome brass lectern was presented, and in 1910 a new vestry added at a cost of £246 in memory of the Rev. Charles Henry Travers M.A. vicar 1859-70, and the Rev. Charles Leslie Alexander, vicar 1870-81: there is a carved oak tablet recording the names of the men connected with the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18: there are 312 sittings: the churchyard was enlarged on the north-east side in 1901 at a cost of £1,200. The register dates from the year 1545. The earlier portion from 1545 to 1653 was repaired and bound in 1910. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value derived from glebe £434, with residence, erected in 1861, in the gift of the Bishop of Oxford, and held since 1936 by the Rev. David Richard Arthur Williams M.A. of Queens' College, Cambridge. The church of the Holy Trinity, built in 1866, at the south end of the parish, by the Rev. C. H. Travers mentioned above, is a small and plain building, consisting of a simple nave, with a bell-cote over the western entrance, and will hold about 80 persons. There are two Methodist chapels, one built in 1839, seating 400 persons, the other, built in 1903, with 420 sittings. In the centre of the village is a stone obelisk with a square base bearing the names of the men of the parish who lost their lives in the Great War, 1914-18. The Village hall was opened in 1925, and will seat 300. The charities amount to £26 yearly, which sum is applied to the purposes of the church and the school and to the relief of the poor. The farmers are the principal landowners. The soil is clay and gravel; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and some land in pasture. The area is 3,982 acres; the population in 1931 was 984.

STEWKLEY DEAN is a hamlet of the parish of Stewkley, about 1½ miles west, consisting of three farm houses.

LITTLECOTE is a hamlet of this parish, about 2 miles south-west from the village, also consisting of three farm houses.

STOKE GOLDINGTON is a parish and village on the road from Newport Pagnell to Northampton; from the former it is $4\frac{1}{2}$ miles north-west and the latter to south-east, and $4\frac{1}{2}$ south-west from Olney station on the Bedford and Northampton branch of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, in the Buckingham division of the county, county court district of Northampton, hundred, petty sessional division, rural district and rural deanery of Newport, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Parish Council. The church of St. Peter, seated on an acclivity, is an ancient edifice of stone, chiefly in the Early English style, and consisting of chancel, nave of six bays, aisles, south porch and a low embattled tower containing 5 bells: the south aisle extends to the entire length of the church, and there is a lofty chancel arch of the Decorated period: the nave arcades are Early English: in 1929 two sanctuary lamps were added in memory of William Steventon, a former schoolmaster here: there are 200 sittings. The register dates from the year 1538. The living is a rectory, consolidated with Gayhurst, joint net yearly value £490, with residence, in the gift of Sir W. Carlile bart. O.B.E., D.L., J.P. and held since 1931 by the Rev. Edmund Henry Warren Leachman M.A. of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge. The Congregational chapel, erected in 1819, will seat 250. In the village is an Early English cross, erected in memory of the men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. The Working Men's Club here was erected in 1885 at the expense of J. W. Carlile esq. then lord of the manor. There is also a Village Hall, erected in 1923, with the proceeds of a fête. Sir Walter Carlile bart. O.B.E., D.L., J.P. is lord of the manor. The ownership of the land is divided. The soil is various, principally stiff clay and limestone; subsoil, clay and limestone. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and beans. The area is 2,352 acres of land and water; the population in 1931 was 447.

STOKE HAMMOND (or Stoke Hamond), is a parish and village on the river Ouse, 3 miles south from Bletchley Junction station on the main line of the London, Midland and Scottish railway and 4 north-west from Leighton Buzzard, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred and petty sessional division of Newport, county court district of Bletchley and Leighton Buzzard, rural district of Wing, rural deanery of Bletchley, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. The church of St. Luke, which dates from the early part of the 13th century, is a small cruciform building of sandstone, approached through an avenue of lime trees, and consists of chancel, nave, transepts, south porch and a central tower containing 3 bells: the windows are mostly Perpendicular: the roof is panelled in oak, and the fittings and furniture of the same material: the font is Early English and has a circular basin on four small shafts: in the course of the restoration in 1852, finely decorated sedilia and a piscina were discovered in the south wall of the chancel: the east window, which is stained, was the gift of the Rev. T. Bouvens (d. 1869): on the west wall of the north transept is a stone tablet with inscriptions to members of the Fontaine family from 1636 to 1709: there are also tablets to the Disney family 1658-1686, to the family of the Rev. Charles Gardner, rector, 1794-1823 and the Frank family, of Bury St. Edmunds, 1743-1766: there is a brass to the memory of the Rev. Edward Pain B.A. d. 1902, 33 years rector of this parish: there is a curious poor-box dated 1618 and some ancient stained glass: the church affords 150 sittings. In the churchyard is a tomb erected to the Fountaine family, 1802-1908, and two yew trees planted in 1687. The register dates from the year 1534. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £230, with residence, in the gift of Cambridge University, and held since 1930 by the Rev. Edwin Tennant Bradley, of Durham University. There is a Methodist chapel here. Stoke house, the residence of Arthur Augustus William Valentin esq. was built by Charles Villiers, 1st Duke of Buckingham, in the reign of Charles II. The cellars are remarkably preserved in their original state. The land is principally owned by the farmers. The soil is light clay; subsoil, clay and gravel. The chief crops are beans and barley, but the land is chiefly in pasture. The area is 1,551 acres of land and 15 of water; the population in 1931 was 246.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, part of Great Brickhill was added, and part of Stoke Hammond transferred to that parish.

STOKE MANDEVILLE is a parish and small village on the road from Aylesbury to Princes Risborough, with a station on the Metropolitan and London and North Eastern joint railway, and 2½ miles south from Aylesbury railway station, in the Aylesbury division of the county, hundred, petty sessional division, rural district and county court district of Aylesbury, rural deanery of Wendover, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. By a Local Government Board Order, March 25, 1885. Great and Little Hampden was made a part of Stoke Mandeville parish for civil purposes only. Gas and electricity are available. Water is supplied by the Chilton Hills Water Co. The church of St. Mary the Virgin, erected in 1866 on a new site near the centre of the village, about half a mile from the old church, is a building of flint and red brick in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch, and a western tower containing 8 bells: two of which were added in 1931: there is a monument, with marble effigies, to the memory of three children of Edmund Brudenell, lord of the manor in the time of Queen Elizabeth; the monument was removed here from the old church by faculty in February, 1899: there are 160 sittings. The old church of St. Mary the Virgin, now in ruins, retains in the chancel a piscina and an Early English window, and the nave has a 12th century archway. The register dates from the year 1699. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £349, with residence, in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Lincoln, and held since 1908 by the Rev. Frederick James Winterton B.A. of Hatfield Hall, Durham. The Methodist chapel, built in 1815 and rebuilt in 1868, will seat 70 persons. The trustees of the late John Henry Tapping esq. are lords of the manor and the principal landowners. The soil is alluvial; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, beans and oats. The area is 1,572 acres; the population in 1931 was 606.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, part of Ellesborough was added to this parish.

STOKE POGES is a parish and village, 3 miles north from Slough station on the main line of the Great Western railway and 4½ north from Eton, in the Wycombe division of the county, hundred and petty sessional division of Stoke, rural district of Eton, county court district of Windsor, rural deanery of Burnham, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. By Local Government Board Order No. 39,611, dated October 1st, 1900, a part of Stoke Poges civil parish was added to Slough civil parish and urban district, and by the Slough Urban District (Extension) Order 1929, a further portion of the parish, including Ditton, was added to the civil parish and urban district of Slough. By an Order in Council, dated Dec. 12, 1904, the southern portion of the parish was created a separate ecclesiastical parish and is now known as St. Paul's Slough. Gas and electricity are available. Water is supplied by the Eton Rural District Council. The church of St. Giles, standing in Stoke Park, is a large and ancient structure in mixed styles, consisting of chancel, with Hastings chapel on the south side, nave of three bays, aisles, a massive wooden south porch with pierced tracery and feathered gable, and an embattled tower, with spire, containing 6 bells: the tower and nave arcades are Early English, but some of the foundation walls are believed to be Saxon: the chancel arch, formerly Norman, has been replaced by another in the Gothic style, and there are some Early English and Decorated windows; the east window and Hastings chapel, erected in 1567, are Perpendicular: in the north wall is an Eastern sepulchre having a fine ogee feathered and crocketed arch over a deep recess: in the chancel is a tomb thought to be an Eastern sepulchre, and brass effigies to Sir William de Molyns, who fell at the siege of Orleans in 1429, and his wife Margaret and his daughter Alianore, 1425; there are also 16th century brasses to Edmund Hampden esq. 1560, and his wife; a brass to James Edward Coleman and his wife, of Hollenden Park, Kent, 1869; and a tablet to members of the Penn family, commencing with Thomas, son of William Penn, founder of Pennsylvania, who were buried in a vault in the church from 1775 to 1869, the founder himself being buried at the Friends' Meeting house at Jordans, Chalfont St. Giles: on the north wall of the chancel is a tablet, erected by subscription, in memory of the men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18: in the Hastings chapel, built by Sir Edward Hastings, Baron Hastings of Loughborough, who died 5 March, 1572, as a place of interment for his family, is a monument to Gregory Hascard D.D. dean of Windsor, d. 1703; on the north-west side is a private entrance, through the cloisters, from the Manor House: this cloister had eight windows, of which only four now remain, containing ancient stained glass of the 16th century collected and placed here by a former owner of Stoke Park: under the tower is a private pew originally the property of the Penn family: the chancel contains a small Norman window as well as two Early English lancet windows and a 15th century doorway and piscina: on the south wall of the sanctuary is an interesting specimen of the base of an altar cross of 15th century date: the cross has long since disappeared: the sanctuary was restored in 1928: there are 450 sittings. The churchyard, the scene of Gray's celebrated "Elegy in a Country Churchyard," has some fine yews and cypresses, and is much visited: a plain flat stone covers the remains of Gray and his mother and aunt, and bears an epitaph to these relatives written by himself; in the wall beneath the east window of the Hastings chapel, opposite to his grave, is a small stone indicating the place of his interment, and near the church is a monument designed by Wyatt, erected to Gray's memory by Mr. J. Penn in 1799; this monument, together with 13 acres of land, was in 1921 vested in the National Trust: it consists of a high square base and is inscribed with lines from the "Elegy" and other poems, and surmounted by a sarcophagus of Classic design; the poet died July 30th, 1771. The register of baptisms and marriages dates from the year 1563; burials, 1564. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £450, with residence and glebe, in the gift of the Duke of Leeds, and held since 1926 by the Rev. Mervyn Clare M.A. of Emmanuel College, Cambridge. The chapel of ease, at Ditton Park, 5 miles south-east from the parish church, was originally a chantry chapel, and consists only of chancel and nave, affording 80 sittings. It is ecclesiastically attached to Stoke Poges, but is served by the clergy of Datchet. At Holly Bush hill, about a mile and a half north-east from the parish church, is another chapel of ease, reopened, after enlargement and complete restoration, on Sunday, August 21st, 1870; it was originally a dissenting place of worship, but was purchased for church purposes by the Rev. John Shaw, a former vicar, and entirely rebuilt by the Rev. Vernon Blake M.A. vicar here 1866-1902, and now consists of chancel, nave and a western turret containing one bell: there are 200 sittings. About a mile south of the parish church, on Stoke Poges lane is another church attached to this parish and dedicated to St. John the Baptist: it was built on land given by Sir Richard Howard-Vyse, and opened in 1935: there are 250 sittings. There is a Methodist chapel. In Wexham street is a well house erected by Sir Bernard Oppenheimer, 1st bart. in memory of the men of Wexham and Stoke Poges who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. The hospital near Stoke Park was founded in 1557 by Sir Edward Hastings, 1st and only Baron Hastings of Loughborough, who died here March 5th, 1572, and is endowed with £137 yearly; it originally stood near the church, but was rebuilt in 1765 by Thomas Penn, about a quarter of a mile north-east of the church, and is now a structure of brick, containing a house for the master, a chapel and apartments for three men and three women, each of whom receives 10s. per week from the funds of the charity: the vicar is the present master. Lady E. Hatton's charity of £9 13s. yearly is for clothing, and Gardner's of £2 10s. yearly for bread; there are also charities producing about £7 for apprenticing and of £24 for the benefit of the poor. In 1810 an allotment of the common of 200 acres was made for the benefit of the poor. Stoke Park, now the club house of the Stoke Poges Golf Club, was once the seat of Lord Chief Justice Coke; the mansion, designed by Wyatt, is in the Italian style, and has a very fine interior; it includes a portion of the old house of c. 1555, a good example of brickwork of the time; the park of about 500 acres, is well wooded and ornamented with a handsome sheet of water 10 acres in extent: Sir Edward Coke entertained Queen Elizabeth in the old manor house, which was built in 1555, in great style in 1601; he died 3rd September, 1633, and there is a monument in the park to his memory, with a colossal statue by Rossi, on a fluted pedestal 68 feet high; his only daughter married Sir John Villiers, who was created (19th July, 1619) Baron Villiers of Stoke Poges and Viscount Purbeck, d. 1657. The Penns of Pennsylvania at one time lived here, and built the present house, which was finished in 1780. The manor of Stoke derives its names of Stoke Poges from its heiress Amicia, or Amice de Stoges, having married Robert de Pogies, a knight of the shire of the 12th century. The meadows surrounding the church and covering about 20 acres, were, in 1934, converted into memorial gardens for private purchase. Stoke Place is the seat of Major-Gen. Sir Richard Granville Hylton Howard-Vyse K.C.M.G., D.S.O., D.L., J.P. Sefton Park is the property and residence of Lady Duncan; the house stands in its own grounds and affords fine views of Windsor Castle. The principal landowners are Major Gen. Sir R. G. H. Howard-Vyse K.C.M.G., D.S.O., D.L., J.P. Eustace Hargreaves Watson esq. and A. Noel Mobbs esq. O.B.E. The soil is gravel; subsoil, gravel. The chief crops are wheat, oats and barley. The area is 2,535 acres; the population in 1931 was 1,919 in the civil and 2,254 in the ecclesiastical parish.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, parts of this parish were transferred to Datchet, Farnham Royal, Fulmer and Wexham, and parts of Hedgerley and Wexham were added.

Slough, formerly partly in this civil parish, has been constituted a separate parish.

DITTON, a hamlet, 1½ miles north-east from Datchet station, was, by the Slough Urban District (Extension) Order 1929, transferred to the parish and urban district of Slough.

WEST END is part of the parish, three quarters of a mile north. The poet Gray resided here at what was then called West End house, now Stoke Court, and occupied by the Stoke Court Country Club.

STOKENCHURCH is a large village and parish on the Oxon border, 5 miles north-west from West Wycombe station on the Great Western and London and North Eastern joint railway, 3 miles south-east from Aston Rowant station on the Princes Risborough and Watlington branch of the Great Western railway, 7 north-west from Wycombe and 5½ east from Watlington, in the Wycombe division of the county, rural district and county court district of Wycombe, petty sessional division of Desborough, rural deanery of Aston, arcudeaconry and diocese of Oxford. From its position on the lofty ridge of the Chiltern Hills, it enjoys a bracing and healthy atmosphere, and commands extensive and beautiful views of the surrounding country. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the High Wycombe Rural District Council.

By the County of Buckingham (Stokenchurch) Order 1895, this parish was transferred, March 31, 1896, from Oxon to Bucks, in pursuance of Section 54 of the Local Government (England and Wales) Act, 1888 (51 and 52 Vict. c. 41).

The church of SS. Peter and Paul is an ancient structure of flint in mixed styles, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, south porch and a low western tower with shingled spire, containing a clock and 3 bells: the chancel, restored about 1850, is Decorated, and retains a piscina and two brackets, with sanctuary house beside it, which is considered unique; on the north side is an ancient stone coffin-lid, discovered at the restoration of the church: the chancel arch is Transition Norman and has a hagioscope on the north side: the chapel has a good wooden roof, and retains a piscina and traces of an altar, but its windows are of a debased character, save one, which is Early English: the south doorway is also Early English and the font Perpendicular: a Norman doorway remains in the north wall of the nave: there are brasses to Robert Morle, 1415, in armour, with inscription in Norman French; and another to Robert Morle, 1415, similar to preceding: the church was thoroughly restored in 1847, and in 1893 it was enlarged by the addition of a north aisle: there are 420 sittings. The register proper dates from about the year 1707, entries previous to that date having been made in the registers of Aston Rowant. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £320, with residence, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1936 by the Rev. Ralph Stenlake Mundy M.A. of Queen's College, Oxford. The Congregational chapel here was built in 1820 and re-decorated in 1923; there are Methodist chapels in the village and at Beacon's Bottom. All the places of worship have memorials to the men who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. A considerable trade is carried on in chairmaking. The charities amount to about £16 annually. Mason's charity of £3 7s. 8d. provides coats for six old men, and six loaves of bread, together with 6s. 8d. for a sermon by the vicar on St. Thomas' day; Jodrell's charity of £2 10s. is for providing blankets for the poor, and Holmes' bequest (14s. 8d.) is divided amongst nine poor women. The bread charity amounts to about £9 4s. Miss Amy Fane's bequest of £1 13s. 8d. is divided annually among 3 poor persons. Wormsley, about 2 miles south-west from the village, is occupied by Francis Fane esq. Mallard's Court, the residence of Marcus Slade esq. K.C. stands in extensive pleasure grounds about a quarter of a mile from the village. Mrs. M. Clerke Brown, who is lady of the manor, Francis Luther Fane esq. Marcus W. Slade esq. K.C. and the farmers are the principal landowners. The soil is stiff loam in parts; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, oats and barley. The area is 5,920 acres; the population in 1931 was 1,916 in the civil and 1,692 in the ecclesiastical parish.

BEACON'S (or BACON'S) BOTTOM and WATER END are hamlets in the parish of Stokenchurch, 1½ miles south-east.

STONE is a parish and village on the road from Aylesbury to Thame, 3 miles south-west from Aylesbury, which is the nearest railway station, and 7 north-east from Thame, in the Aylesbury division of the county, hundred, petty sessional division, rural district, county court district and rural deanery of Aylesbury, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Chiltern Hills Water Supply Co. The church of St. John the Baptist, erected in the reign of King Stephen (1135-54), is a cruciform building of stone in the Norman, Early English and Decorated styles, consisting of chancel, nave, north aisle, small transepts, south porch and an embattled western tower containing a clock and 6 bells; the church has considerable remains of Norman work, especially in the nave arcades, and a very good doorway in the south porch: the chancel and transepts are Early English: the tower is of three stages, with double buttresses at the western angles, and has a parapet with a cornice of masks and a gabled roof: at the south-east angle is a large square turret, with pointed capping, surmounted by a vane: the font, brought from a garden at Lewisham, in Kent, and said to have originally belonged to the church of Hampstead Norris, Berks, whence it was removed about 1767 to Kent, and in 1843 brought to this church, is carved with interlaced work, the rude figure of a salamander, fishes, and other creatures, the idea of the sculptor of this rather notable font was to portray the Blessed Trinity in Their redemptive work upon the soul of man, which is shown in the form of a fish; it is probably an adaptation of Norse mythology to the Christian faith: in the south porch are the remains of a stoup: there is a palimpsest brass inscribed on the one side to Christopher Tharpe, ob. September 28th, 1514, and the other to Thomas Gurney and Agnes his wife, 1520: on the back of the male effigy is the figure of a lady, c. 1440-50: there is also a brass with a Latin inscription to William Gurney, dated 1475, and one on the north wall to members of the Statham family, placed in 1913; other brasses, placed in the vestry during some restoration of the church, have been lost: the chancel was rebuilt and the nave reseated about 1843: a gallery has also been removed and a stained west window inserted by a former vicar: in the south wall is a lancet window, inserted 1910, to the memory of Margaret Edmonds Challis, wife of the Rev. J. L. Challis M.A. vicar 1879-1916: in the chancel is a stained window to the Statham family, inserted in 1913. In the churchyard are the remains of a stone cross: the church was restored in 1883 and 1885-90, when the nave and aisle were new-roofed, and a clock presented by Mrs. Bartlett, of FEVEREL COURT, the total cost amounting to £1,997: in 1900 the chancel walls were raised, the chancel new-roofed and re-fitted and an organ chamber built on the north side, the entire cost being about £650: there are 265 sittings. The register dates from the year 1538. The living is a vicarage, with that of Bishopstone and the rectory of Hartwell annexed, joint net yearly value £630, with residence, and held since 1932 by the Rev. William Harry Wiggett M.A., L.Th. of Durham University. There is a Methodist chapel, erected in 1877 and enlarged in 1912. The Village Hall was erected in 1910 at a cost of about £900 on a piece of land given by Col. E. D. Lee. The Bucks County Mental Hospital, which stands on the high road from Aylesbury to Thame, is a structure of red brick with stone dressings, erected in 1852, at a cost of £22,400, for 200 patients, and enlarged in 1879 at a further cost of £23,000; in 1892 a new block was added for the nursing staff, and new workshops in 1898; in 1902 extensions were begun from plans by Mr. R. J. Thomas, county surveyor; this work was completed in 1907; in 1934 the old vicarage and site of 20 acres were bought by the County Council for the enlargement of the hospital: the hospital will now hold 702 patients; the chapel has also been enlarged so as to hold 410 persons: in the Eythrope road a water tower has been erected, and there is a recreation ground of 5 acres; the total cost amounted to £50,000. In the course of making excavations for the foundations of the chapel various Roman remains were discovered; a bronze fibula of the Anglo-Saxon period has also been found in the village, and a labourer, while working in his garden here, hoed up a gold ring set with a red stone in its rude state; in March, 1862, a skeleton with a spear head and knife blade were found in a sand pit on the former glebe, about two feet below the surface; in January, 1866, various Anglo-Saxon remains, consisting of several skeletons, portions of shields, spear heads, a knife and fibula, were exhumed from a pit of red sand in Causeway Field, on the east side of the road between Stone and Bishopstone; all these relics are now in the museum of the Bucks Archaeological Society. Louis XVIII's, Miss Fanny and Dr. Lee's and Plomer's charities are distributed to the poor in meat and coal, annually. A recreation ground of six acres was purchased in 1920 as a memorial to the men connected with the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18; the names of the men are inscribed on bronze tablets erected at the entrance to the recreation ground. The soil is loam and sand; subsoil, clay and limestone. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and turnips. A considerable portion of the parish is devoted to market gardening and fruit growing. The area is 2,638 acres of land and 4 of water; the population in 1931 was 1,633 in the civil parish and 1,733 in the ecclesiastical parish, including 789 persons in the County Mental Hospital.

BISHOPSTONE is a hamlet, 2 miles south from Stone village, and has a chapel of ease erected on a site given by a former vicar, Dr. Booth; it is a building of flint and brick with stone dressings in the Gothic style, and will seat 100. The Methodist chapel here was built in 1877. In the centre of the hamlet, at the side of the road, is a stone obelisk on which are inscribed the names of the men of the parish who fell and also of those who served in the Great War, 1914-18.

STONY STRATFORD is a small market town and the head of a petty sessional division, on the river Ouse and the Northamptonshire border of the county; it comprises the united parishes of St. Giles and St. Mary Magdalene and is 8 miles north-east from Buckingham, 6 south-west from Newport Pagnell, 2 west from Wolverton station on the main line of the London, Midland and Scottish railway and 5½ from London by rail and 5½ by road; it is in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred of Newport, county court district of Bletchley and Leighton Buzzard, rural deanery of Wolverton, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Under the Wolverton (Union of Parishes) Confirmation Order, 1927, the parishes of Stony Stratford East and Stony Stratford West were united with those of Calverton and Wolverton, to form the new civil parish of Wolverton. The town consists mainly of one long street and the Market square, and is built on the old Roman road called Watling street, which passes through this county in a direct line from Little Brickhill on the Bedfordshire border into Northamptonshire. At the west end of the town, and connecting it with Old Stratford, in Northamptonshire, is a handsome stone bridge of three arches spanning the river Ouse. A number of Roman coins have been discovered here. In 1464 Edward IV. appears to have left this place for Grafton Regis, Northants, where he privately married Elizabeth Woodville; the oak, under which tradition says they first met, is still standing, and is known as the "Queen's Oak." At an inn in the town the youthful and unfortunate monarch Edward V. is said to have slept on his journey to London to be crowned, a circumstance to which Shakespeare alludes in his tragedy of Richard III. Act 2, Scene 4. One of the memorial crosses erected by Edward I. to Eleanor, his queen, on the removal of her remains in 1290 from Harby, Notts, where she died, to Westminster, stood at the west end of the town, but was demolished about 1646. In the year 1736 a destructive fire occurred here, which burnt down fifty-three houses, and in May, 1742, another lamentable fire destroyed a large portion of the town and part of the church of St. Mary Magdalene, occasioning damage to the extent of £10,000. Gas and electricity are available. Water is supplied by the Wolverton Urban District Council. The church of St. Giles, originally a chantry chapel, founded about 1450, and endowed in 1482, is an edifice of stone, rebuilt in 1776, in a debased Gothic style, and subsequently enlarged; the 15th century tower, the only part of the original structure now remaining, is of Perpendicular date; it was restored in 1922; two new bells were added to the existing peal of 6 in 1923, one presented by Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Bull in memory of their only son, B. G. S. Bull, who fell in the Great War, 1915, and the other in memory of Mr. and Mrs. John Reeve, presented by their family: the church was re-seated in 1866, and in 1876 the interior was restored, new side galleries replacing the former heavy ones, the groined ceiling and pillars were decorated, and a chancel formed by the erection of screens: in 1928 the chancel was pulled down and rebuilt: in 1905 the church was decorated, and a new chancel screen of English oak erected as a memorial to John Worley: the oak pulpit was erected in 1921 in memory of the men of the 2nd South Midland Brigade Field Ambulance who fell in the Great War, 1914-18: a carved oak lectern in memory of Mr. James Rogers, was presented in 1921 by his widow and children: the carved oak altar and reredos in the Lady Chapel was presented in 1922: there are various memorial windows: the church affords 630 sittings: the lych gate was erected as a memorial in 1931. The register dates from the year 1613. The united livings of the two parishes of St. Giles and St. Mary Magdalene form a vicarage, net yearly value £361, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Oxford, and held since 1924 by the Rev. Eric Arnold Steer M.A. of New College, Oxford, rural dean of Wolverton, and surrogate. The Parish room, in New street, was bought in 1897, as a church jubilee memorial. The Baptist chapel, founded in 1657, has sittings for 350 persons: a stained glass window was erected in the east wall to the men who fought in the Great War, 1914-18. The Congregational chapel in Wolverton road, erected in 1823, will seat 250 persons; in 1918 a brass was erected to the memory of Lieut. the Rev. Sidney E. Davies, for some time pastor of the chapel, who fell in the Great War, 1914-18; the Methodist chapel, erected in 1844, affords 200 sittings. The Cemetery, at Calverton End, two acres in extent, was formed at the expense of the parishioners in 1856, and enlarged in 1927; the entrance is through a lych gate, and there are two mortuary chapels in the Gothic style: it is controlled by the Urban District Council. A cross was erected in 1920 at the south end of Horse Fair Green in memory of the men who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. The Retreat, erected in 1893, at the sole cost of Mr. Frederick William Woollard, and presented by him to the town, consists of five cottages, for the use of the aged and worthy poor of Stony Stratford, and stands upon the site of a monastic house, the Guild of Our Lady St. Mary, founded in the 15th century, portions of which have been built into the courtyard walls. Frederick Thomas Shillingford Ancell esq. left the whole of his estate, approximating £18,000, for the benefit of Stony Stratford. The County Police Court, in the Market square, is an edifice of red brick and stone, erected in 1865. The fair, which is only a pleasure fair, takes place on August 2nd and 3rd. There are charities of £300 a year, left by John Whalley, of Cosgrove, in 1670, and by Mr. Arnold, of Furtho, about 1689, for the apprenticing of boys and girls; the Street charity, derived from 140 acres of land producing £200 yearly, is for the benefit of the town; the Bradwell charity of £80 yearly, left by Simon Bennett, of Beachampton, is distributed in clothing and coal to aged men of Stony Stratford, Beachampton and Calverton; John Oliver, of Stony Stratford, by will in 1856, left £500 invested in Consols, the interest of which is given in money to 10 men and 10 women; Whitnell's benefaction consists of land realizing £14 yearly, which is given in bread during the winter months; William Parrott's charity, the interest on £297 14s. Consols, is expended on clothing for poor widows; the Bell Rope charity, the interest on £182 10s. 7d. Consols, is for providing new bell ropes for the parish church. About 17 acres of allotment ground have been appropriated for the use of the poor at a low rental. The ownership of the land is divided. The population in 1931 was 1,832.

CALVERTON END is at the south-east extremity of the town, in the parish of Wolverton St. Mary, and contains some good villa residences.

WOLVERTON END, in Wolverton parish, is also an important addition to the town of Stony Stratford, and constitutes the ecclesiastical parish of Wolverton St. Mary, formed November 29, 1870. The church of St. Mary the Virgin, erected in 1863, is a building of stone in the Early English style and consists of apsidal chancel, nave of five bays, aisles, south porch and a turret with 2 bells: the north aisle was added in 1867: the interior was decorated in 1886: there are 300 sittings. The register of baptisms dates from the year 1864, marriages 1867, and deaths 1871. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £384, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Oxford, and held since 1926 by the Rev. Edward John Payne M.A. of the University of Oxford. The area of Wolverton End is 330 acres; the population in 1931 was 1,914.

STOWE is a parish $3\frac{1}{2}$ miles north-north-west from Buckingham station on the Bletchley and Banbury section of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, and 8 miles from Brackley station on the London and North Eastern railway, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred, petty sessional division, rural district and county court district of Buckingham, rural deanery of Buckingham, Buckingham portion, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. The church of St. Mary, surrounded by the private grounds of Stowe House, is a building of stone in mixed styles, with some Decorated windows, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles, north or Penyston chapel, south porch and a western tower containing 5 bells: a stained window was inserted in 1890 by the Baroness Kinloss O.I. as a memorial to her parents the 3rd and last Duke of Buckingham and Chandos, d. 26 March, 1889, and Caroline (Harvey) his 1st wife, d. 28 Feb. 1874, and there are memorials to previous Dukes and other owners of the estate, and in the chancel brasses to Alice Saunders, c. 1479, and John Temple, 1592, and Hester, his wife: in the chapel are memorials of the Penystons, including a figure of Hester Penyston, 1617: the church affords 250 sittings: the burial ground has been enlarged by the addition of a piece of ground near the village, with a chapel for funeral services. The register dates from the year 1568. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £350, with residence, in the gift of the governors of Stowe School, and held since 1934 by the Rev. Clifford Fernibough B.A., M.Ed. University of Manchester & Wells Theological College, who resides at Dadford. Stowe school was opened in May, 1923, as a public school for boys, the central building being Stowe House, which is a noble mansion of stone, the front elevation exhibiting a central block, with wings united to it by buildings of inferior height; the basement is rusticated throughout and the principal floor, well lighted by lofty windows, is entirely surrounded by pilasters supporting a frieze with cornice and balustrading; a noble ascent of 31 steps conducts to the grand portico, formed of six Corinthian pillars, supporting a frieze and pediment; the front, including two colonnades and two pavilion wings, is 916 feet in length: on each side of the principal entrance is a flower garden, extending along the front and inclosed by a balustrade of iron and Portland stone; in front are lawns diversified with lakes; the north or park entrance of the mansion is an elaborate architectural work with a portico of four Ionic columns, open colonnades and another flight of steps: the chief apartments include the saloon, the hall, painted by Kent with allegorical representations of the seven planets, that of Mars being a portrait of William III. the chapel, which is wainscoted with cedar, the music room, the state drawing-room, which has semi-circular recesses and fluted pilasters, supporting a cornice, and coved ceiling, panelled and decorated; the dining-room, and the library, which is 75 feet long. H.R.H. the Comte de Paris died here 8 Sept. and was buried at the Roman Catholic church of St. Charles Borromeo, at Weybridge, 12 Sept. 1894. The ornamental gardens, occupying nearly 500 acres, were laid out by the celebrated Lancelot ("Capability") Brown, and exhibit in the disposition of the grounds the endless variety of their culture, and in their connection with and contrast to the various buildings with which they are adorned, the perfection of a gardener's art: the entrance to the park from Buckingham is by a beautiful Corinthian arch, 60 feet high and of the same width, at the end of an avenue a miles in length; the park extends over 800 acres and to the north are Stowe Woods. On June 13th, 1927, a foundation stone to the new chapel was laid by H.M. Queen Mary, and the chapel was opened on July 11th, 1929, by H.R.H. the Duke of Kent, then Prince George. Parts of the grounds have been converted into cricket and football fields, tennis courts &c. and the interior of the house has been considerably altered to provide accommodation for 500 boys. Boarding houses, classrooms, laboratories &c. have been built in the neighbourhood of the old house. An ancient Samurai sword, made by one Yatsutsuna in 800 A.D. with a hilt and sheath made of amalgam of gold and copper and said to be the second now in existence, was presented to the school by the trustees of the Agenda Club on June 26th, 1923. H.R.H. the Duke of Windsor, then Prince of Wales, visited the school on June 1st, 1933, on the occasion of the school's tenth birthday, and planted a memorial copper beech, grown from seed sown when the school was opened. A large pavilion for football and cricket was opened on June 12th, 1935, by the Right Hon. Sir Stanley Jackson G.C.S.I., G.C.I.E. and B. O. Gadney esq. Boycott Manor, erected by the late Charles Higgins esq. J.P. and occupied by Thomas Close Smith esq. is a handsome mansion of red brick with Bath stone dressings in the Elizabethan style; it is situated on an eminence a short distance from the old house, and commands a beautiful view of Stowe Park. Stowe School, Thomas Close Smith esq. and John Roberts esq. are the principal landowners. The soil is gravel and clay; subsoil, various. The chief crops are wheat, barley, beans and oats. The area is 3,088 acres of land and inland water; the population of the parish in 1931 was 306, including Boycott.

DADFORD is a hamlet, 4 miles north-west from Buckingham, and containing the greater part of the inhabitants of the parish.

BOYCOTT is another hamlet, 2½ miles north-west from Buckingham.

SWANBOURNE is a village and parish with a station, about 1½ miles north from the village, on the Oxford and Bletchley branch of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, 2½ miles south-east from Winslow, 7½ south-west from Bletchley, 9 south-east from Buckingham, 9 west from Leighton Buzzard and 9 north from Aylesbury, in the Buckingham division of the county, Cottesloe hundred, petty sessional division and rural district of Winslow, county court district of Buckingham, rural deanery of Mursley, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity and main water are available. The church of St. Swithun is an ancient fabric of stone, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave of three bays, north aisle, south porch, and an embattled western tower containing 6 bells: the chancel is Early English with lancet windows: the rest of the church, with the exception of the lower part of the tower, which is also Early English, may be regarded as rather Late Perpendicular: the east window was filled with stained glass by members of the Fremantle family to commemorate the golden wedding of the first Lord Cottesloe in 1874: three other stained glass windows are memorials to members of the Fremantle family: there is a memorial window to Sophia Elizabeth Barnes, d. 1859: the church contains traces of an ancient wall painting, and the interior generally seems to have been much coloured, especially in the north aisle: there is a fine brass, with effigies, to Thomas Adams and Elizabeth his wife, 1626, with this curious verse:—

"Who in prime of youth by bloody thieves was slain, In Tiscombe ground his blood ye grass did staine:"
below are the figures of four children: a memorial to Mr. Josias Askew, who died in 1750 at the age of 94, and brasses in memory of Admiral Sir Thomas Francis Fremantle, who was in command of "The Neptune" at the battle of Trafalgar, and of Thomas Francis, 1st Baron Cottesloe, d. 1890, Louisa Elizabeth (Nugent) his wife, d. 1875, and other members of the family: there are several memorial tablets to members of the families of Adams and Deverell, formerly lords of the manor, and also one to the men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18: the chancel retains a double piscina and ambury: the plain font is probably Early English: an oak screen with ringers' loft and bearing the Royal Arms, was erected in the tower arch in 1938, the inscription reading: "Erected by the parishioners of Swanbourne in memory of King George V. who entered into rest 20th January, 1936; beloved of all his peoples": the panels were a special gift in memory of Wm. Hugh Colgrove, d. 1935: the stained window placed in the chancel in 1902 is a memorial to the Rev. W. M. Myres M.A. vicar 1879-1901: in 1930 a marble tablet was erected in memory of the three younger daughters of the 1st Baron Cottesloe: the church was restored and repaired in 1864, and affords 220 sittings. In 1890 half an acre of land, situated about a quarter of a mile from the churchyard, was given by the 2nd Baron Cottesloe for burial purposes. Outside the church stands an obelisk mounted on a rectangular pedestal, which bears the names of all those men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. The register dates from the year 1565. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £300, with residence, in the gift of Lord Cottesloe C.B., V.D., T.D., J.P. (lord lieutenant), and held since 1904 by the Rev. James Ralph Caldecott Forrest M.A. of University College, Durham, and Exeter College, Oxford, who is rural dean of Mursley. The Baptist chapel, erected in 1863, will seat 250 persons. The Methodist chapel, at NEARTON, erected in 1858 and rebuilt in 1907, has about 100 sittings. The poor's charity of £14 yearly, derived from 9a. or. 37p. of land, is distributed on St. Thomas' day. Godwin's charity of £15 is yearly distributed in prizes to school children for good work and attendance, £10 going to Swanbourne children and £5 to Mursley children. Mrs. Niven's charity of £5 a year is for educational purposes. The Old House is the property and residence of Lord Cottesloe C.B., V.D., T.D., J.P. (lord lieutenant). Swanbourne House, the property of Lord Cottesloe, situated on an eminence, is a spacious mansion of white brick, surrounded by well-planted grounds and a picturesque park of about 70 acres and commanding very extensive views of the surrounding country; it has been since 1920 the Swanbourne House Preparatory School for Boys. The Manor House, also the property of Lord Cottesloe, and the residence of Sir Maurice Henry Weston Hayward K.C.S.I., J.P. is a fine specimen of domestic work of the Tudor period, and formerly belonged to the Fortescue family. Lord Cottesloe is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is loam and gravel; subsoil, clayey. The chief crops are wheat, beans and pasture. The area is 2,552 acres; the population in 1931 was 359.

TAPLOW is a parish and village, on the banks of the Thames, with a station three-quarters of a mile from the village on the main line of the Great Western railway, 2 east from Maidenhead, 6 north-west from Windsor and 22½ from London, in the Wycombe division of the county, hundred and petty sessional division of Burnham, rural district of Eton, county court district of Windsor, rural deanery of Burnham, arch-deaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford; a bridge of stone and brick with 13 arches here crosses the river Thames to Maidenhead. Gas and electricity are available. The original church of St. Nicolas stood near Taplow Court: it was destroyed in 1828 by the Earl of Orkney and the church was removed to its present site: that church was replaced in 1911-12 by the present structure which is a building of Kentish ragstone in the Decorated style and consists of chancel, nave, aisles, lady chapel and vestries and a western tower with a spire: the roof is oak and there is a rood screen of Bath stone: the church contains a number of ancient brasses removed from the old church, including one to Nicholas de Aumberdene, fishmonger, probably c. 1340, with an effigy in the head of a floriated cross: three of the brasses here are palimpsests—that of Thomas Manfield, 1568, and his two wives, with effigies and inscription, exhibits on the reverse portions of figures and some verses; another, of a verse inscription to Ursula, wife of Thomas Jones, c. 1570, is made up of three pieces of the figure of a lady, c. 1500-20; the third, in inscription in Roman capitals, c. 1600, to Robert Manfelde, shows on the reverse part the figure of a civilian: there are also three brass effigies of Richard Manfeld, his sister and brother, 1465. The register dates from the year 1710. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £882, including 116 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Oxford, and held since 1907 by the Rev. Robert Milton Hay M.A., B.D. of St. John's College, Oxford, hon. canon of Christ Church, Oxford, and surrogate. There is a village reading room, erected in 1894, and containing a library. The poor's allotment of 3 acres with six cottages produces £36, of which £20 is given to the coal and clothing club; Sharp's charity, bequeathed in 1797, consists of £105 invested in £3 per Cents. the interest of which is given away twice yearly in bread; Mrs. Morris, of Birmingham, gave £50 in 1784 to be invested in £3 per Cents. for educating two poor children, but this is now given as prizes for needlework; Ashford and Moore's charity, bequeathed in 1867, consists of £611 9s. 4d. invested in £3 per Cents. and the interest is distributed yearly in money and coal. In October, 1883, a tumulus in the old churchyard, believed to be the burial place of Aella, the first Bretwalda (A.D. 550), was opened by permission of the Rev. Charles Whately, then rector, by Mr. James Rutland, hon. sec. of the Maidenhead Field Club, and various Anglo-Saxon objects, a gold buckle, gold fibulae, silver armlets, two iron umbones, an iron sword, four glass vases, two large silver-mounted drinking horns, and upwards of 30 barrel-shaped pieces with silver ends, probably used in some game of skill or chance, and various other interesting items were then discovered and presented by the rector to the British Museum, where they are now deposited. In 1903 an extremely fine and unique example of a spear head of the bronze age was recovered from the Thames here; it is about 17 inches long and has on each face of the wings two gold conical studs: it is now also in the British Museum. Cliveden, the seat of Viscount Astor, is situated in this parish, about 2½ miles north from the village; the mansion, a splendid structure in the Palladian style, erected from designs by the late Sir Charrly Barry kt. stands in a beautiful park of 300 acres, on high ground on the east side of the Thames, and is a conspicuous object from the railway; it has successively been the residence of the witty and profligate Duke of Buckingham, Frederick Prince of Wales, during the infancy of George the Third, the Earl of Orkney, the Duke and Dowager Duchess of Sutherland and of the 1st Duke of Westminster K.G. of whom the house and estate were purchased about 1890 by the present owner's father: the south front includes a lofty terrace 433 feet in length, erected on arches, the prospects from which, including the valley of the Thames, are of great beauty; the former mansions were twice destroyed by fire. Taplow Court, the seat of Lord Desborough K.G., G.C.V.O., D.L., J.P. a stately mansion of red brick with Bath stone dressings in the Tudor style, contains a fine saloon built by the Earl of Orkney; the situation of the mansion is commanding, and the park and grounds of 300 acres are planted with the choicest shrubs and contain a long avenue of large cedars of Lebanon. The bank of woods which runs along the river side for a mile and a half is well known for its beauty. Lord Desborough K.G., G.C.V.O., D.L., J.P. who is lord of the manor, and Viscount Astor are the principal landowners. The soil is loam; subsoil, chalk and gravel. The chief crops are wheat and barley; the area is 2,659 acres of land and inland water; the population in 1931 was 1,254 in the civil and 1,012 in the ecclesiastical parish.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, part of Taplow was transferred to the parish and urban district of Beaconsfield, and the remainder together with a part of Hitcham was constituted the new parish of Taplow. Post, M. O. & T. Office. Letters through Maidenhead Railway Station

TATTENHOE is a parish, $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles west from Bletchley Junction station on the main line of the London, Midland and Scottish railway and $3\frac{1}{2}$ west from Fenny Stratford, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred of Cottesloe, petty sessional division and rural district of Winslow, county court district of Bletchley and Leighton Buzzard, rural deanery of Mursley, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. The church of St. Giles occupies a retired situation on the site of the ancient manor house, the moat belonging to which now partly surrounds the churchyard; the existing fabric was rebuilt in 1540 from the ruins of the neighbouring priory of Snelshall, in Whaddon parish, and having been for some time disused and desecrated, was reconsecrated in 1636; it is a building of stone, supported by brick piers, and consisting of chancel and nave under a single roof, south porch and a small western turret containing one bell: the chancel retains a piscina, and has a single east window of three lights, representing the Crucifixion, the gift of Mrs. Clark in memory of her husband; on either side of this window is a stone bracket: the font consists of an octagonal basin, well carved, supported on four clustered shafts, rising from an oval base: the church was partially restored in 1892, and affords 50 sittings. The register of baptisms dates from the year 1733; marriages, 1765; burials, 1755. The living is a perpetual curacy, net yearly value £90, in the gift of Lt.-Col. W. Selby-Lowndes O.B.E., T.D., J.P. and held since 1925 by the Rev. Edward Arthur Selby-Lowndes M.A. of Exeter College, Oxford, who is also vicar of Whaddon, where he resides. The farmers are the chief landowners.

The soil is stiff clay, some gravelly; subsoil, clay and gravel. The chief crops are wheat, oats, beans and barley. The area is 647 acres; the population in 1931
was 20.

THORNBOROUGH is a large village and parish in the Buckingham division of the county, on the river Ouse, which is here crossed by a stone bridge of six arches, and on the Buckingham and Leighton Buzzard road;
it is $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles north-east from Padbury station on the Bletchley and Banbury section of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, 4 east from Buckingham and $4\frac{1}{2}$ west-by-north from Winslow, in the hundred, petty sessional division, rural district and county court district of Buckingham, rural deanery of Buckingham, Buckingham portion, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. The church of St. Mary is a building of stone in the Decorated and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel, nave of four bays, north aisle, south porch and an embattled western tower containing a clock, with chimes made and presented by John Sikes esq. in commemoration of the Jubilee in 1887 of Queen Victoria, and 5 cast steel bells, taken in exchange for an older peal of 4 bells, two of which were dated 1610 and 1736: the chancel is in the care of trustees, now (1939) R. Noel Watson esq. and Samuel Hodges esq. who are also the lay rectors: the tower is Decorated, and has a very good west doorway, but Perpendicular windows have been inserted: the piers and arches of the nave are also Decorated and the south porch is of like date, but nearly all the windows are Perpendicular:
the east window was destroyed by a hail-storm in 1887, but has been replaced: there are brasses with effigies to William Barton and his wife, 1389, and inscriptions on brass to John Crowche, chaplain, "who celebrated here for the souls of John Barton, senior and junior," 1473; Dorothy, successively wife of John Butcher and John Stevens, 1685; Elizabeth, wife of John Woolhed, 1696, and John Woolhed, 1707: there are also memorials to the Woolnoths and to the men connected with the parish who served their country in the Great War, 1914-18: the church affords 300 sittings. The register dates from the year 1601. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £300, with residence, in the gift of Sir Harry Calvert Williams Verney bart. D.S.O., J.P. and held since 1914 by the Rev. William Richard Williams, of Wycliffe Hall, Oxford. There is a Methodist chapel, built in 1832, and seating 60 persons.

The Manor House, which stands in the centre of the village, is an ancient building enclosed by a high brick wall, and just outside it is the old tithe barn.
The poor's allotment consists of 16 acres. There are sand, stone, clay and gravel pits here. Near the river Ouse are two tumuli. Some bronze vases of exquisite form, glass cinerary urns, a bronze lamp and other remarkable remains have been met with in a tumulus near here, and were placed in the collection of the 6th Lord Braybrooke. Sir H. C. W. Verney bart. D.S.O. is lord of the manor, Mrs. Norris, Henry W. Harris esq. S. Hodges esq. Mrs. Lines and R. Noel Watson esq. and the President and Fellows of Magdalen College, Oxford, are the principal landowners.
The soil is clay; subsoil, various. The land is pasture.
The area is 2,448 acres of land and inland water; the population in 1931 was 420.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, part of Maids
Moreton was added to this parish.

THORNTON is a parish and village, separated from Northamptonshire by the river Ouse, 4 miles south-west from Stony Stratford and $4\frac{1}{2}$ north-east from Buckingham station on the Bletchley and Banbury section of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred, petty sessional division, rural district and county court district of Buckingham, rural deanery of Wolverton, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. The church of St. Michael and All Angels consists of a nave, south aisle, and west tower built in the 14th century, and a north aisle, rebuilt about 1850: it is picturesquely situated in the grounds of Thornton Hall; the tower contains a clock and 3 interesting bells, with inscriptions; the lower stage of the tower forms a porch: the chancel has been pulled down; the interior was refitted at the beginning of the present century by Thomas Sheppard esq. then lord of the manor, when two altar tombs, with brasses of the Ingletons, were removed, and the brasses placed on the floor; these still remain and represent—1, Robert Ingleton esq. in armour, with his three wives, 1472, all under a quadruple canopy, which is very rare; 2, Jane, daughter and sole heir of Robert Ingleton and successively wife of Humfrey Tyrrell and Alexander Seynet Johns; she died in 1557; 3, George Tyrrell, her son: there are also effigies in alabaster of John Barton, founder of a chantry here, ob. 1443, and of his wife Isabella; these were removed at the time above mentioned from under an arch between the body of the church and the chancel, to the west end, where they were placed on either side of the entrance: there are 120 sittings. The register dates from the year 1562. The living is a rectory, annexed with the chapelry of Nash to the rectory of Beachampton: joint net yearly value £500, with residence, in the alternate gift of Gonville & Caius College, Cambridge, and Lt.-Col. Henry W. Harris, and held since 1936 by the Rev. Marmaduke Warner M.A. of Gonville and Caius College, Cambridge, hon. C.F. who resides at Nash. Thornton Hall, rebuilt in 1850 by the Hon. Richard Cavendish (d. 19 Nov. 1873), and now occupied as a convent college, is a noble and spacious mansion, with a lofty tower, in the Tudor style, and is situated in a park of 181 acres; the approach from the Beachampton road is through an avenue of fine elm trees. Lt.-Col. Henry W. Harris is lord of the manor and chief landowner. The soil is stiff clay; subsoil, clay, gravel and limestone rock. The chief crops are wheat, oats, barley and beans. The area is 1,340 acres of land and 7 of water; the population in 1931 was 103.

TINGEWICK is a parish, on the borders of Oxfordshire, and bounded on the north by the river Ouse, 3 miles west from Buckingham station on the Bletchley and Banbury line of the London, Midland and Scottish railway and a north from Fimmere station on the London and North Eastern railway, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred, petty sessional division, rural district and county court district of Buckingham, rural deanery of Buckingham (Buckingham portion), archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. The parish was enclosed by Act of Parliament passed in 1773. Gas and electricity are available. The church of St. Mary Magdalene is a building of stone, consisting of chancel, nave of three bays, aisles, south porch and an embattled western tower containing 6 bells: the nave is Early English, its arcades having plain arches on circular piers: the south side has been rebuilt in a modern imitation of the same style: on the north side is a blocked Norman doorway: the chancel and tower are Perpendicular: the chancel retains a small piscina and a curious brass to Erasmus Williams, rector of this parish, who died in 1608; it includes a demi-effigy, habited in a gown and on either side a pillar, hung with astronomical, musical and geometrical instruments and other articles; below is an epitaph, supposed to have been written by Dr. Richard Haydock, the physician: in 1867 a south porch was added, the chancel restored and the church re-seated, and in 1893 a stained east window was placed in the chancel by the Rev. John Coker M.A. rector 1855-1901, and a new oak reredos, the gift of Miss Moorsom erected: a new organ was provided in 1896: a polished brass tablet recording the names of the men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18, surmounted by a stained glass window representing Christ bestowing a crown upon a True Knight who is kneeling with hands clasped upon the hilt of a sword, was placed in the church in 1920. There are 315 sittings. The register dates from the year 1560. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £374, with residence, in the gift of the Warden and Fellows of New College, Oxford, and held since 1934 by the Rev. Christopher Dyer Read A.K.C.L. The Congregational chapel, built in 1875, will seat 150 persons; the Methodist chapel, built in 1863, affords 120 sittings. Longland's charity of £8 and North's of £1 are distributed yearly. In 1860-2 remains of some Roman foundations, bronze instruments, and ornaments, pottery and coins were discovered in a field called "Stollidge," a quarter of a mile north-east of the village, then the property of Mr. R. P. Greaves; the coins dated from A.D. 218 to A.D. 395 and were almost wholly of brass. The Warden and Fellows of New College, Oxford, who are lords of the manor, and Jeffery Tredwell esq. are the principal landowners. The soil is principally gravelly loam and clay; subsoil, various; the land more pasture than arable. The area is 2,778 acres of land and inland water; the population in 1931 was 566.

The Rev. Francis Edmonds, about the middle of the last century, endowed a charity school with £15 a year, for teaching & clothing 6 boys & 6 girls; but the children on this foundation are now educated at the Elementary school on condition that they attend the church Sunday school

TOWERSEY, a parish and small village formerly in this county, was by the Buckinghamshire and Oxfordshire Order, 1932, transferred to the county of Oxfordshire.

TURVILLE (derived from a Danish personal name, Thyre's field) is a parish and village on the Oxfordshire border, lying among the Chiltern Hills, 7 miles north from Henley station on the Great Western railway, and about 6 south-west from West Wycombe station on the Maidenhead and Oxford section of the Great Western and London and North Eastern Joint railway, 8 west-by-south from High Wycombe and 7 north-west from Marlow, in the Wycombe division of the county, Desborough hundred, 1st division of Desborough petty sessional division, rural district, county court district and rural deanery of Wycombe, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford; part of the village is in Ibstone parish. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Marlow Water Co. The church of St. Mary is a small building in the Early English and Decorated styles, with a Perpendicular tower, and containing some traces of Norman work: it consists of chancel, nave, north transept, south porch, and tower, built of flint and brick and containing 4 bells: attached to the church is a private chapel belonging to the Turville Park estate: the east window was restored in 1927 in memory of the men of this parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18: the chancel retains a small piscina in the Decorated period: there is a good Norman font, and the north and south doorways are also Norman, but both have an inserted Early English arch: by the tower lies a stone coffin of the 13th century: there are several mural monuments in the transept to the Sydney, East, Butlin, King and Perry families: the organ was presented by Stafford O'Brien Hoare esq. of Turville Park: the church was restored in 1722, and again in 1876 and 1900, and affords 125 sittings. The registers date from the year 1582, but about 40 years are missing previous to 1660, and there are several other gaps. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £256, with residence and 14 acres of glebe, in the gift of Lord Camoys, who has one turn, and the exors. of T. W. G.

Hewitt esq. two turns, and held since 1932 by the Rev. Harold Pain M.A. of the University of Cambridge. The church of St. Saviour, in Turville Park, erected in 1898 on a site presented by Stafford O'Brien Hoare esq. is an edifice of flint in the Gothic style, consisting of chancel and nave, and affords 120 sittings. At Turville Heath is a Methodist chapel, erected in 1872. Rool's charity produces £8 yearly, and there is also a charity of £1,100 bequeathed by Miss Tempore in 1885, producing £24 19s. 4d. per annum, £21 3s. 8d. of which is for the church poor homes and £3 15s. 8d. for the poor of the parish. Butlin's charity produces £1 3s. 4d. per annum and is for church expenses; Bartlett's charity produces £12 10s. and is for the church school; Beisley's charity of 1896 produces an annual income of £17 12s. which is distributed in coals. Turville Park, the property of Mrs. Hoare-Nairne, who resides at Turville Lodge, is a picturesque building seated on an eminence and commanding extensive views of the surrounding country; Gen. Dumouriez, the victor of Jemappes, lived and (1823) died here, and it was for a time the residence of Lord Lyndhurst, Lord Chancellor. The house was built by William Perry esq. of Wormington, Glos. who married about 1738 Elizabeth, second daughter of Col. Thomas Sydney, and eventual sole heiress of the Sydneys, Earls of Leicester. Lord Camoys, Mrs. E. S. Hoare-Nairne and the trustees of the late T. W. G. Hewitt esq. are the principal landowners. The soil is chalk and gravel; subsoil, light in the valley. The chief crops are barley and oats. The area is 2,328 acres; the population in 1931 was 354.

TURWESTON is a parish on the river Ouse, which here divides the county from Northamptonshire, half a mile north from Brackley station on the London and North Eastern railway, 2 miles north from Brackley station on the Bletchley and Banbury line of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, $7\frac{1}{2}$ north-west from Buckingham and 63 from London, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred, petty sessional division and rural district of Buckingham, county court district of Brackley, rural deanery of Buckingham (Buckingham portion), archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford.

Electricity is available. The church of St. Mary the Virgin is a building of stone in the Norman, Early English and Decorated styles, with Perpendicular insertions, and consists of chancel with aisle, clerestoried nave, aisles, south porch and a western tower with saddleback roof, containing 2 bells: the piers and arches of the north arcade are very good Norman, with a variety of enriched capitals; those of the south arcade are Transitional tending to Early English: in the chancel is piscina and Easter Sepulchre, both of the same period: the east window is Perpendicular: the reredos, altar and marble pavement were presented by Major P. A. F. Spence in memory of his wife, Dorothy Mary, who died in 1914; on the left is a figure of the Virgin Mary holding lilies, on the right a figure of St. John the evangelist holding a cup with a dragon issuing from it—an allusion to the cup of sorrow; on the canopy are the symbols of the four Evangelists: there is a brass effigy of a priest, c. 1450, inscription lost; a small brass to Thomas Grene and his wives, Joan and Agnes, c. 1490, and a coloured monument in the north aisle to Simon Heynes, 1628, with two effigies kneeling at a desk: the church was restored in 1863, and affords 287 sittings. A shrine was erected in the churchyard in 1920, at a cost of £100, in memory of the men connected with the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. The register of baptisms dates from the year 1695; marriages and burials, 1696. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £210, including 15 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Westminster, and held since 1939 by the Rev.

The rectory house, built in 1855, is pleasantly seated on an eminence a short distance from the church. There is a Methodist chapel, built in 1861, and seating 100 persons. Fairfax's charity and the Town plot and Constable's Stock produce about £6 a year for educational purposes. There is an allotment of 11a. 2r. 26p. awarded in 1814, and let at £5 yearly, which amount is distributed in fuel. Turweston House is the seat of Capt. Richard Leslie Agnew. The Ecclesiastical Commissioners are lords of the manor. Capt. Richard Leslie Agnew, Sir John Frecheville Ramsden bart. D.L. and Maj. P. A. F. Spence are the chief landowners. The soil is various; subsoil, various. The chief crops are wheat, barley and beans. The area is 1,291 acres of land and 4 of water; the population in 1931 was 208.

TWYFORD is a parish and small village, watered by a feeder of the river Ouse; in the parish, which extends to the Oxfordshire border, and 2 miles south-west from the village, is the Marsh Gibbon and Poundon station, on the Bletchley and Oxford section of the London, Midland and Scottish railway. The village is also about $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles west-by-north from Calvert station on the London and North Eastern railway, 6 south-west from Buckingham, 8 west from Winslow, 8 north-east from Bicester and 61 from London, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred, petty sessional division, rural district and county court district of Buckingham, rural deanery of Claydon, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford.

Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Bucks Water Board. The church of the Assumption is an ancient edifice of stone of the 12th century, consisting of chancel, nave of four bays, aisles, south porch and an embattled western tower containing a clock with chimes and 6 bells: the chancel retains sedilia, piscina and an ambury: the south doorway is a rich example of Late Norman: the font, restored in 1877, is also Norman, and has a circular basin resting on columns: in the south aisle is an altar tomb: in a slab on the top is a brass to Thomas Gifford, 1550, and his wife; this brass is palimpsest; the Giffords held this manor from 1340 to 1550, when it passed to the Wenmans; by this tomb is the marble effigy of a knight, c. 1230: in the chancel is a brass with demi-effigy to John Everden, rector, 1413; besides a fine monument to Sir Richard Wenman, 1st Viscount Wenman, of Thame Park, Oxfordshire, d. 1640: under a Decorated canopy in the south wall is a heart tomb: the tower was rebuilt and the nave and chancel restored in 1887 at a cost of £1,448, and in 1897 the south aisle and porch were restored at a cost of £587: in 1901 an ancient oak screen between the chancel and nave was restored in commemoration of the reign of Queen Victoria: a new organ was provided in 1915: a bronze tablet on the wall of the nave records the names of those men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18, and in the porch is a framed parchment bearing the names of all from this parish who served. The church affords 230 sittings: all the seating is of oak and is pre-Reformation. The register dates from the year 1558; marriages and burials, 1561. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £330, with residence, in the gift of the rector of Lincoln College, Oxford, and held since 1935 by the Rev. Charles Wilfrid James M.A. of Lincoln College, Oxford, hon. C.F. The Congregational chapel, built in 1897 at a cost of £400, adjoining the former chapel erected in 1825, is of red brick and stone and will seat 150 persons. At the Calvert Brickworks is a Mission room, in which a Sunday school and evening services are held. The Village hall was burnt down in 1929, and was rebuilt in 1930. The principal landowners are the rector of Lincoln College, Oxford, Walter F. Wood esq. and Thomas B. Deeley esq. The land is all freehold and is principally a heavy clay; about two-thirds of the land is pasture, the remainder arable; there are about 200 acres of woodland. The area of Twyford is 1,562 acres of land and 5 of water; the population in 1931 was 357, and 733 in the ecclesiastical parish, including Charndon and Poundon.

TYLER'S GREEN, a hamlet of High Wycombe, was formed into an ecclesiastical parish in 1863 out of the civil parishes of Chepping Wycombe and Penn; it is situated on high upland, almost surrounded by beautiful woodlands, and is 2½ miles north from Loudwater station on the Maidenhead and Oxford section of the Great Western railway, and 4 north-east from High Wycombe, in the Wycombe division of the county, 2nd division of Desborough petty sessional division, county court district and rural deanery of Wycombe, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Gas and electricity are available. Water is supplied by the Amersham, Beaconsfield & District Waterworks. The church of St. Margaret, erected in 1854, is a building of flint and stone in the Gothic style, consisting of chancel, nave, south porch and a tower on the north-east; the lower portion of flint and the upper portion of wood, and containing 8 tubular bells: the tower was erected in 1889 by Sir Philip F. Rose bart. of Rayners, and Bateman Lancaster Rose esq. M.A. in memory of their mother, Margaretta (Ranking), wife of Sir Philip Rose bart.; she died 13 March, 1889: the baptistery at the west end was also erected in memory of Lady Rose, by the vicar and parishioners and friends: the east window was erected by Sir Philip Rose bart. of Rayners, as a memorial to his father, William Rose esq. d. 1 July, 1840, and Charlotte (Baly), his mother, d. 31 July, 1869; he also presented the organ as a memorial to his son, and a handsome reredos of Caen stone, marble and mosaic, erected 16th Sept. 1877, as a memorial to his wife: the stained west window is a memorial to Sir Philip Rose bart. who died 17 April, 1883, and there are three others erected to the memory of James Plaistowe, of Loudwater, to Miss Rose and Mrs. Sainte Croix; other memorial windows were placed by B. Lancaster Rose esq. to his mother; a chancel screen and sanctuary lamps were presented by the parishioners; the church was enlarged during the period 1873-90: in 1923 the vestries were built and the church redecorated: there are 250 sittings. In the churchyard is a cross erected in memory of the men connected with the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. The register dates from the year 1855. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £268, with residence, in the gift of Earl Howe P.C., C.B.E., R.D., V.D. and held since 1918 by the Rev. Gerald Hayward M.A. of Christ's College, Cambridge, hon. C.F. St. Margaret's Parish Room, a spacious building near the church, holding 200 persons, is used for meetings, entertainments, and the Sunday school. A village hall was built in 1935 to be used for dances, meetings and badminton. Rayners is a mansion of red brick in the Early Tudor style, erected in the year 1847 by Sir Philip Rose, 1st bart. and stands in a well-wooded park of about 70 acres, surrounded by well-laid-out pleasure grounds and gardens, containing a small ornamental piece of water; its position on one of the highest points of the Chiltern hills affords a very extensive prospect, said to extend into seven counties. The Earl of Beaconsfield K.G. was a frequent visitor here during the lifetime of the first bart. who was his intimate friend, and subsequently executor, and a chestnut tree on the terrace of the south side of the mansion was planted on the occasion of one of these visits. In the grounds stands a small granite obelisk recording the passage of Queen Victoria along the private road through the estate, from Loudwater to Hughenden, on the occasion of her visit to the tomb of Lord Beaconsfield, on the 30th April, 1881; the route from Windsor was taken by Her Majesty's special command, as being the route traversed by his lordship on the occasion of his last visit to Windsor Castle, when he drove that way in order to take luncheon at Rayners. Rayners was bought in 1921 by the London County Council, together with 23 acres of land, and is now used as a residential school for the defective deaf, and will accommodate eighty patients. The entire estate comprises about 1,000 acres. Earl Howe P.C., C.B.E., R.D., V.D. is the principal landowner. The soil is clay; subsoil, clay, sand and gravel. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and beans; the population in 1931 was 1,351.

TYRINGHAM-cum-FILGRAVE is a parish bounded on the north, west and south by the river Ouse and abutting on the road from Newport Pagnell to Northampton, $\frac{3}{4}$ miles south-west from Olney on the Bedford and Northampton branch of the London, Midland and Scottish railway and 4 north-east from Newport Pagnell station on the Wolverton and Newport Pagnell branch of the same railway, $\frac{1}{2}$ south-east from Northampton and 14 west from Bedford, in the Buckingham division of the county, county court district of Bletchley and Leighton Buzzard, hundred, petty sessional division, rural district and rural deanery of Newport, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. The church of St. Peter, situated on rising ground in Tyingham Park, is a small edifice of stone, rebuilt, with the exception of the tower, in 1871, in a modern style of Gothic, and since thoroughly restored at a cost of £2,000, defrayed by the widow of W. B. Tyingham esq.; it consists of chancel, nave, organ chamber chantry, north porch and a western tower containing 5 bells: the tower, which is the only remaining portion of the ancient church, dates from about 1200; the upper part is Perpendicular work of the time of Henry VII.: there are brasses to Mary, wife of Anthony Catesby, and daughter of John Tyingham, 1508, and a scroll inscribed "Domine accipe spiritum meum," the effigy and the emblem of the Holy Trinity, to which it belonged, being now lost, dated c. 1500; both these are now in the chantry; also a brass of a knight wearing a tabard with the arms of Tyingham, c. 1490, and other brasses are recorded here to Thomas Tyingham esq. 1595, and his wife Parnell (Goodwin), 1594: there is a marble panel with a decoration of laurel leaves on the west wall over the archway, erected as a memorial to the men of the parish who lost their lives in the Great War, 1914-18: the church contains sittings for 150 people. The register dates from the year 1629. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £438, with residence and 14 acres of glebe, in the gift of Frederick Adolphus Konig esq. and held since 1919 by the Rev. Ernest Henry Sanderson M.A. of Jesus College, Cambridge, who is also vicar of Little Linford. Tyingham House, the property of the Tyingham Estate Co. and the residence of Frederick Adolphus Konig esq. is a handsome mansion of stone, with massive pillars in front supporting a pediment, over which is an open balustrade, built after plans by Sir John Soane, which are preserved in the Soane Museum in Lincoln's Inn Fields, and dated 1793: the house was enlarged and restored in 1910 by the present owners: the park, of 200 acres, is studded with forest trees and slopes to the river Ouse, over which is a stone bridge of one arch. The Tyingham Estate Co. are lords of the manor and chief landowners. The soil is mixed; subsoil, oolite and clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley, beans and oats. The area is 1,757 acres of land and 35 of water; the population in 1931 was 178.

WADDESdon is a township, parish and village, on the Bicester road, and on the Roman Akeman street, 44 miles from London, 6 north-west from Aylesbury and 12 south from Buckingham, in the Aylesbury division of the county, hundred of Ashendon, petty sessional division, rural district and county court district of Aylesbury, rural deanery of Waddesdon, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Chiltern Hills Spring Water Co. The church of St. Michael and All Angels is an ancient building of stone in mixed styles, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave, aisles, south porch, and an embattled western tower (rebuilt in 1891-2) containing a clock and 6 bells: the earliest portion of the structure, comprising the south piers of the nave, and the inner doorway, is Norman; the tower, south porch, and piers and arches on the north side of the nave are generally good plain Early English, and some parts of the chancel are Decorated: the clerestory is entirely Perpendicular, and windows of that date have been inserted in other parts of the church: there are three piscinas, one in each aisle and one in the nave: the font is Decorated, octagonal in shape and panelled: in the chancel are brasses to Robert Pygott and Mary, his wife; another with effigy in armour, upon a raised table tomb at the south-east corner of the nave to Sir Roger Denham, or Dymham, d. 1490; this brass was discovered in 1887 at Elythroe, and the coffin containing the remains of the knight, found on the site of a destroyed chapel, was removed to Waddesdon churchyard and re-interred on the east side of the south porch by Miss Alice de Rothschild: there is also a monument to Guy Carleton, a veteran soldier, ob. June 1, 1603; a brass with effigy in shroud to Hugh Bristow, rector of the first portion, to which he was elected in 1543, and another, with vested effigy, to Richard Huntingdon, a priest, 1543: affixed to the wall is a brass to William Turner, who left £3,625 to the poor of the parish: in the north chapel is a stained glass window erected as a memorial to the men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18, and there is another in the south chapel to Henry O. M. Farmer, son of the Rev. J. E. G. Farmer M.A. rector 1905-21, who was killed in action: in 1935 a tablet was placed on the north wall of the north aisle to commemorate the Delafeld family, who lived in the parish for about 300 years; this was erected by the late Richard Delafeld, of New York: the children's window was inserted in the south wall, near the font, in 1927, by the children of Waddesdon, 1917 to 1927; the chancel was restored in 1877, the rest of the fabric having previously been restored; the church was further restored in 1891-2 and in 1902 the whole exterior was thoroughly repaired: new oak choir stalls, with miserere seats and a screen were fitted in the chancel and a new organ added: the marble and alabaster pulpit, formerly in Blenheim Palace Chapel, was the gift of the ninth Duke of Marlborough K.G., P.C.: there are 589 sittings. The register of baptisms dates from the year 1541; marriages, 1538; burials, 1538. The benefices of Waddesdon, Over Winchendon and Fleet Marston, were united by Order in Council, dated 1933. The living is a rectory formerly in three portions, consolidated by an Order in Council dated 1876, net yearly value £650, with residence, erected in 1868, in the gift of the Duke of Marlborough, and held since 1921 by the Rev. George Dixon B.A. of Exeter College, Oxford, rural dean of Waddesdon. In the main street, near the entrance to the churchyard, stands a Cornish granite cross of ancient style, erected as a memorial to the men of the parish who gave their lives in the Great War, 1914-18. Their names are inscribed on the base. The cross is raised off by chains passing through blocks of Cornish granite. The Baptist chapel at Waddesdon Hill was erected in 1788, and there is another in Waddesdon village; the Methodist chapel was built in 1877. Waddesdon Village hall was erected in 1897, at the sole cost of Baron Ferdinand de Rothschild, and is used for parish council meetings, entertainments &c. The Club and Reading Room, built in 1883 by Baron F. de Rothschild, for the use of the working men, comprises a coffee bar, reading room, and a library of 300 volumes, for the use of members. A children's playing field, adjoining Baker street, with a pavilion, was given in 1939 by James A. de Rothschild esq. D.C.M., M.P., D.L., J.P. and Mrs. de Rothschild in celebration of their silver wedding. Goodwin's almshouses, the property of the church, were entirely rebuilt in 1894 by Baron Ferdinand J. de Rothschild, and are for 6 aged women, each of whom receives £5 a year; Turner's charity yields about £80 annually, and is distributed amongst the poor of the parish; Fettoe's and Beck's charities produce together about £28 yearly, £26 of which is for apprenticing poor boys and £2 for school prizes. This parish and Westcott each receive 7s. from Nash's (Quainton) charity for bread. The Waddesdon Institute was opened in 1910 by the late Miss A. de Rothschild, the old school premises having been converted into reading and recreation rooms, for the use of tradesmen and farmers in the district; there is also a billiard room containing two tables and library of several hundred volumes. The rector is lord of the three ancient manors. James A. de Rothschild esq. D.C.M., M.P., D.L., J.P. is chief landowner. Waddesdon Manor, the seat and property of James A. de Rothschild esq. D.C.M., M.P., D.L., J.P. is a mansion in the French chateau style, situated on an eminence and commanding beautiful views of the surrounding country; the adjacent grounds and parks, about 800 acres in extent, are beautifully laid out. In 1883 the late Miss Alice de Rothschild erected a pavilion at Eythrope, in this parish, on the south side of which a lake has been formed from the river Thames: the pavilion has been converted into a residence, which is now the residence of Mrs. Somerset Maugham. The soil is clay and clayey loam; subsoil, various. The area is 4,984 acres of land, two-thirds of which are pasture and the remainder arable, and 19 of water; the population in 1931 was 1,294 in the civil and 1,565 in the ecclesiastical parish. WALTON is a parish on the river Ousel, 2½ miles north from Penny Stratford station on the Cambridge, Bedford and Bletchley branch of the London, Midland and Scottish railway and 4½ miles south from Newport Pagnell, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred, petty sessional division and rural district of Newport Pagnell, county court district of Bletchley and Leighton Buzzard, rural deanery of Bletchley, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Bucks Water Board. The church of St. Michael, which stands isolated in the meadows, is a building of stone chiefly in the Decorated style, and was thoroughly restored in 1861: it consists of chancel, nave, south porch, and an embattled western tower of the Decorated period containing 2 bells: the chancel retains sedilia, and has a priest's doorway: the font is Decorated and has an octagonal basin, adorned at the base with a moulding of trefoils: there is a mural monument in the nave, with a fine medallion portrait by Joseph Nollekens, of Sir Thomas Pinfold knt. LL.D. and chancellor of the diocese of Peterborough, who died in 1701: in the chancel is a brass, with rhymed verses in English and Latin, to Elizabeth, daughter of William Pyxe, 1617: another monument, erected in 1672, by his sons, Charles and Henry, is to Bartholomew Beale, lord of this manor, who died in 1660, with medallion portraits of himself and his wife: the church affords 107 sittings. The register of baptisms and burials dates from the year 1598; marriages, 1633. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £200, including 47 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor and the Rev. W. S. Eaton M.A. alternately, and held since 1933 by the Rev. Walter Livingstone Reed M.A., L.Th. of Durham University. A charity of about £6 13s. a year, left by an unknown donor, is for distribution in coal among the poor: the church land produces £4 annually, for the maintenance of the fabric of the church. Walton Hall, a noble mansion of brick, the property of Major Eric Greville Earle D.S.O. now (1939) unoccupied, is pleasantly situated in a well-wooded park of about 60 acres. The Manor House, built in the 16th century, is the property of Capt. James B. P. Fitzgerald, who is the principal landowner. The soil is light clay; subsoil, gravel and clay. The chief crops are wheat, beans, barley and oats. The land is chiefly pasture. The area is 772 acres of land and water; the population in 1931 was 83.

WATER STRATFORD is a small parish on the Ouse, 3 miles east from Fulwell and Westbury station on the Banbury and Bletchley branch of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, about 2½ north-east from Fimmers station on the London and North Eastern railway, and 3½ west-by-north from Buckingham, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred, petty sessional division, rural district and county court district of Buckingham, rural deanery of Buckingham, Buckingham portion, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford.

Electricity is available. The church of St. Giles is an ancient building of stone, originally Norman, but rebuilt in 1828, and consisting of chancel, nave, and a western tower containing 3 bells: on the rebuilding, the doors and windows of the old edifice were re-inserted: in the north wall of the nave is a monument of marble representing a female lying on a bed, dying, with six females kneeling by her side, and two boys and a man at the foot; it is inscribed to Mary Franckyshe, the wife of John Franckyshe, of Water Stratford, who died in 1629: there is an aumbry in the north wall of the chancel: the south doorway, a work of the Early Norman period, with zig-zag mouldings and other ornament, has in the tympanum a carved figure of Our Lord seated in "majesty," and on either side an angel kneeling: the chancel doorway, also 12th century, has a carved tympanum, with a representation of the Agnus Dei: a holy table of Jacobean period has been restored and reinstated to its original position and use: a stone tablet, erected in 1921, commemorates the men connected with the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18: the church was restored in 1890 at a cost of about £250, and affords 120 sittings. The register dates from the year 1596. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £240, including glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Rev. W. F. Buttle M.A. and held since 1938 by the Rev. Leslie Ronald Frank Buttle B.A. of London University. The rectory was restored in 1877 by the Rev. Edward George Andrew B.A. rector, 1875-87. In Jackson's close, a field just behind Water Stratford House, are trenches, supposed to be the remains of an ancient camp. There is an ancient trumpet clock erected in a tower, the property of Jim Parke Sikes esq.: this clock was constructed entirely by John Clark esq. M.D. and is said to be the only one of its kind: there are 4 trumpets and 18 bells, the trumpets sounding the hours and the bells chiming the quarters. The old Roman road from Bicester to Towcester passes through this parish. The landowners are the farmers. The soil is mixed clay, stone brash and gravel; subsoil various. The land is arable and pasture in about equal portions. The area is 1,102 acres of land and water; the population in 1931 was 105.

WAVENDON is a parish and village extending to Bedfordshire, 1 mile north-west from Woburn Sands station on the Bedford and Bletchley branch of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, 52 miles from London by rail and 45 by road, and 5 south-east from Newport Pagnell, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred, petty sessional division and rural district of Newport Pagnell, county court district of Bletchley, and Leighton Buzzard, rural deanery of Bletchley, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Newport Pagnell Rural District Council. The church of St. Mary, entirely restored 1848-9, by Rev. H. Burney, consists of chancel, nave of four bays with clerestory, aisles, south porch, and a western tower containing 5 bells: the chancel, which is Early Decorated, has a fine stained east window of four lights, a double piscina of curious design, and triple sedilia: on the north side of the chancel is an arcade of four semicircular arches, inclosing as many stone stalls recessed in the wall: a low stone screen, with central gates of brass, separates the chancel and nave: the arcades dividing the nave and aisles are Early Decorated, while the clerestory, the whole of the roofs and the upper part of the tower are Perpendicular: the ends of the aisles were formerly chapels, and still retain their piscinæ: the font, of Totternhoe stone, is of considerable size, and has a cover of carved oak: there are two memorial windows and monuments to the Hoare family, including a mural brass in the north aisle, erected by Julia, his widow, to Henry Arthur Hoare esq. of Wavendon House J.P. and high sheriff of Bucks in 1866, who died in 1873: the church also contains memorials to the family of Saunders, of Battlesden, among which are two brasses placed to Richard Saunders esq. 1639, and his four wives, Elizabeth (Charge), ob. 1596, Frances (Fitzhugh), Beatrice (Annesley), and Frances (Stanton) and there is a memorial to Dame Gemina Cecilia Clarke, died 1922; a brass memorial plate to Nathaniel Sturges (d. 1925) of Wavendon Park, churchwarden and guardian for nearly 40 years, and another memorial to Charles Henry Geoffrey Mansfield-Clarke M.V.O. (d. 1919), major, Rifle Brigade, of Wavendon Manor, only son of Gen. Sir Charles Mansfield Clarke bart. G.C.B., G.C.V.O.: a memorial window and a brass were placed in 1894 to the Rev. Henry Burney M.A. rector here 1847-93, and a window to Sophia his wife, and a window in 1898 to Miss A. Hoare and Mrs. Festing; there are 400 sittings. The register dates from the year 1567. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £600, with residence, in the gift of Sir H. H. A. Hoare bart. J.P. and held since 1893 by the Rev. Barrington Henry Arthur Phillpotts M.A. of St. Mary Hall, Oxford. In the churchyard is a decorated stone cross, erected in honour of 17 men connected with the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. The Methodist chapel, built in 1878, will seat 150 persons; another Methodist chapel, built in 1870, has sittings for 100 persons. Wells' charity, now invested in Consols, is for educating, clothing and apprenticing ten poor boys, and there are also almshouses for four poor widows: there are other charities of £150 yearly for coals, £2 for bread, £10 for the general uses of the poor and £22 for public purposes. Wavendon House, the property and residence of Stuyvesant Henry Le Roy-Lewis esq. is a mansion of brick, pleasantly seated in a well-wooded park of 172 acres, with an approach through an avenue of fine elm trees, nearly half a mile in length. Wavendon Tower, the residence of L. S. Marler esq. is a square brick mansion covered with rough cast, having a central tower; it stands on an eminence, commanding fine views, and is approached through an avenue of limes and chestnuts. Stuyvesant Henry Le Roy-Lewis esq. and Leslie Sydney Marler esq. are the principal landowners. The soil is stiff loam, some sandy; subsoil, clay and gravel. The land is principally in pasture. The area is 1,829 acres of land and 3 of water; the population in 1931 was 540 in the civil and 585 in the ecclesiastical parish, which includes part of Woburn Sands.

WOBURN SANDS, which embraces a part of Aspley Guise, Bedfordshire, and part of Wavendon, was formed into an ecclesiastical district, November 5, 1867, and civil parish, by Local Government Board Order No. 50,115, dated April 1st, 1907; it will be found under a separate heading.

WENDOVER is a parish and town and was formerly a parliamentary borough: it has a station on the Metropolitan and London and North Eastern joint railway and is 3 miles west from Little Kimble station on the Aylesbury branch of the Great Western and London and North Eastern joint railway, 7 south-south-west from Tring, 5 south-east from Aylesbury, 11 north from High Wycombe and 35 from London, in the Aylesbury division of the county, hundred, petty sessional division, rural district and county court district of Aylesbury, rural deanery of Wendover, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Gas and electricity are available. Water is supplied by the Chiltern Hills Spring Water Co. and the Bucks Water Board. At the entrance to the town from the south-east is Boddington Hill, a very pleasantly situated eminence crowned by Halton Wood, and on the south-west is Bacombe Hill, and adjoining it Combe Hill, from which, under favourable conditions, St. Paul's cathedral may be seen. The parish is also traversed by the Chiltern range, which extends over many miles. The borough sent two members to the Parliament of 1300, and again in 1307 and 1309, but for some reason its privileges were allowed to lapse until in 1623, by the exertions of William Hakeill esq. a barrister of Lincoln's Inn, and sometime M.P. for Amersham, the right to representation was, under petition, recognised afresh, and a warrant issued for the election of members for Parliament of 1625 (1 Charles I.), when John Hampden, the patriot, was one of the members elected, and continued to represent this borough in five Parliaments: the Rt.

Hon. Edmund Burke was member 1765-74: it continued to return two members until the passing of the Reform Act of 1832, by which it was disfranchised. The Grand Junction Canal Company have a branch canal from hence to Marsworth, but this is now disused. The church of St. Mary is a building of flint, chiefly in the Decorated style, and consists of chancel, clerestoried nave, aisles, north and south porches, and a western embattled tower containing 6 bells, a sanctus bell and a clock; the tower was restored and the sixth bell added in 1914 in memory of the Rev. Albert Smith, vicar 1867-1914: the chancel, restored in 1839, retains a piscina: the nave has arcades of five arches on either side, springing from clustered pillars with moulded brass and foliated caps: the south aisle retains a plain trefoiled piscina, and the south doorway has good Decorated mouldings and ball-flower ornament; there are remains of a stoup: in the south aisle is a curious mural brass to W. Bradshaw, gent. 1537, his wife, nine children and 23 grand-children: the church was restored in 1869: there are 14 stained windows: the reredos and an alabaster and marble pulpit were erected in memory of the Rev. Charles Francis Champneys M.A. a former vicar: there are sittings for 500 persons. The churchyard has been enlarged. The register of baptisms dates from 1626; marriages and burials, 1670: the entries of marriages and burials from 1626 to 1670 have been cut out, and the record of burials from 1731-1813 is missing. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £334, and residence, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1939 by the Rev. John George Lister M.A. of St. Catharine's College, Cambridge. St. Agnes Mission Room, in Dobbin's lane, was erected in 1909 and will seat 100 persons. The Congregational chapel, erected in 1811 and entirely rebuilt in 1903, is an edifice of red brick with stone facings, and will seat about 400 persons: attached is a Sunday school, erected in 1891, for about 150 children. The Baptist chapel, founded in 1683, has 250 sittings: a Mission hall was erected in 1880, and affords 150 sittings. The Public hall, in Aylesbury road, is used for general parochial purposes. The Market House, in High street, a structure of red brick, erected in 1842, was partly rebuilt in 1870 and fitted with an illuminated clock, and a drinking fountain. Annual fairs are held on the 13th of May and 2nd of October. The Literary Institution, built in 1865, by Lt.-Gen. Philip Smith C.B., J.P. (d. 1894), comprises a commodious reading room, and a library and billiards room. The Wendover Amalgamated Charities, of about £60 annually, are for distribution in bread and money. Hill's charity of £220 yearly is for educational purposes and apprenticing, and the Whitchurch charity, bequeathed in 1849, provides about £2 a year for education and six guineas for medical aid, now usually paid to the Royal Bucks Hospital. Boswells is the residence of Sir Thomas Barlow bart. K.C.V.O., M.D., F.R.S., F.R.C.P.Lond. and of Sir Alan Barlow K.B.E., C.B., J.P. Sir Henry Colet, knighted on Twelfth Day, 1486, twice Lord Mayor of London, and father of John Colet D.D. Dean of St. Paul's and founder of St. Paul's school, belonged to the ancient family of Colet or Collet, and was born at the Hale, Wendover. Brig.-Gen. Lionel Abel-Smith D.S.O. is lord of the manor, and the principal landowner. The soil is principally chalk and loamy; subsoil, chalk and gravel. The area is 4,539 acres of land and inland water; the population in 1931 was 3,571.

By a Local Government Board Order, No. 55,186, dated 14th March, 1911, and cited as "The County of Buckingham (Lee Extension) Confirmation Order," King's Ash, Kingswood and Swan Bottom, containing 1,172 acres, were transferred from Wendover parish to Lee parish.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, parts of this parish were transferred to Great and Little Hampden.

WESTBURY is a parish and village, separated from Oxfordshire by the river Ouse, and is 1 mile north from Fulwell and Westbury station on the Banbury and Bletchley branch of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, about 2 from Fimmere station on the London and North Eastern railway, 5½ north-west from Buckingham, 2½ east from Brackley and 62 from London, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred, rural district and petty sessional division of Buckingham, county court district of Brackley, rural deanery of Buckingham (Buckingham portion), archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford.

Electricity is available. The church of St. Augustine, situated close to the manor house, is an edifice of stone in the Decorated style, consisting of chancel, nave of three bays, aisles, north porch and a western saddle-back tower, in part of the Transitional period, containing 4 bells, repaired in 1898 at a cost of £32: the organ was the gift of the family of Viscount Barrington (d. 1901): there are various memorial windows, presented by A. J. Roberts esq. of Lillingstone Dayrell; the Hon. Mrs. MacLagan, of Bishopthorpe, York; and the Viscountess Barrington, in the north aisle is a memorial tablet in Pavonazzo, Connemara, and Derbyshire marble to parishioners who fell in the Great War, 1914-18; there is also a stone calvary to their memory in the churchyard: the church was restored in 1863, and affords 200 sittings.

The register dates from the year 1558. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £265, with 3 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Oxford, and held since 1939 by the Rev. Sir John Charles William Herschel bart. M.A. of Christ Church, Oxford. At the inclosure in 1764 a piece of pasture land, covered with bushes, containing 21a. 1r. 37p. was allotted to the poor; it is now let at from £10 upwards yearly.
Westbury Manor, rebuilt in 1903, is a handsome building of stone, and was, until 1932 the seat of Sir Samuel Edward Scott bart. It is now a preparatory school for boys. The soil is mixed; subsoil, various.
The land is two-thirds arable, remainder pasture.
Arthur E. M. Owen esq. is the principal landowner.
The area is 1,373 acres of land and 8 of water; the population in 1931 was 213 in the civil and 222 in the ecclesiastical parish.

By Local Government Board Order 15,987, dated March 24, 1884, a detached part of Westbury was transferred to Biddlesden for civil purposes.

WESTON TURVILLE is a parish and village on Icknield Way, 1½ miles east of Stoke Mandeville and 2 miles north-by-west from Wendover, on the Aylesbury section of the Metropolitan and London and North Eastern Joint railways, 3½ south-east from Aylesbury stations on the Metropolitan, Great Western and London, Midland and Scottish railways, in the Aylesbury division of the county, hundred, petty sessional division, rural district and county court district of Aylesbury, rural deanery of Wendover, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford.

Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Chiltern Hills Water Co. The church of St. Mary, is an ancient building of stone, consisting of chancel, nave, vestry (serving also as organ chamber), north and south porches, and an embattled western tower with hexagonal turret containing 5 bells: the chancel is unusually lofty, having been raised in the 15th century to receive an open-timbered roof which rests on a massive wall plate, carved with quatre-foils, inclosing shields; the ridge line of the older roof is distinctly marked on the western wall: the east window is of three lights, with flowing tracery in the head, and has a small demi-figure of the Madonna and Child: on the south side, projecting from the wall, is a double piscina of Early English date: within the communion rails are two carved chairs of Elizabethan or Jacobean date, one of which is unusually wide and has a hinged back, which, being reflexed, converts the whole into a table: within recesses, in the south wall, are portions of the earlier church and some sculptured figures discovered during the restoration of 1860: there is a mural monument of marble on the south side, with fluted pilasters and a boldly-moulded pediment with arms, to the Rev. John Tipping M.A. rector until 1722:

on the north side is a marble mural tablet, with effaced shield, to the Rev. John Taylor S.T.P. 27 years rector here, 1774, Mary his wife, 1779, and Danvers, their eldest son, 1771: in one of the chancel windows on the south side are the arms of John of Ghent, Duke of Lancaster: the chancel generally is Decorated, and north of the chancel arch, under a tall and narrow arch in the eastern pier of the arcade, are the remains of the roof-loft steps: the nave, also Decorated, is of five bays, with clustered columns and moulded arches supporting a clerestory, lighted by four windows on either side; the roof is of timber and plaster, and dates from the late 15th century: the north aisle retains its original roof and in one of the windows is a shield of arms, beneath a canopy, assigned to the family of Gernor or Horwood: the south aisle exhibits in its windows some elegant examples of Flamboyant tracery; two of these are segmental headed and have interior hood mouldings, and the east window and two others retain some ancient foliated glass in the heads; one of the quarries in the easternmost window of this aisle is inscribed "Altiss^{mo}. Gloriosiss^{ime}. Opt^{imo}. Max^{imo}. Laus & honos & prostratio. T. W: f. 1655;" and on the inside panel of the door is a curious inscription in English, dated 1578: the font, placed in this aisle, of the "Aylesbury" style, late 12th century, consists of a fluted basin with elaborate scroll ornament round the edge, resting on a square-cushioned base, similarly carved, with chevron and cable moulding: the tower occupies the whole of the westernmost bay of the nave, the arches of which are connected by smaller and perfectly plain arches cut through the tower walls; towards the east a lofty narrow arch opens from the nave to the lower stage of the tower, which has a good Perpendicular window of three lights; in the south wall of the tower, within the church, is a recessed arched ledge, and on the floor below a stone inscribed to Mr. Henry Babham, 1719: the pulpit is of Tudor or Jacobean date, hexagonal in shape, well carved in panels and rests on a modern base: there are some remains of a carved wood screen in the south aisle, which has also a trefoil-headed piscina and several large brackets: the church was restored in 1860, and the chancel in 1879, the floor of which was considerably raised and laid down with tiles, some being reproductions of old tiles found in the church: new stalls and desks of carved oak were fitted: a new organ was erected in 1890 and the church was further renovated in 1901: the chancel and nave were re-roofed in 1921: the side chapel at the east of the south aisle was restored in 1925; it was later furnished as a memorial to Mrs. Kennedy Cooke, wife of a former rector; the reredos was erected in memory of the late Rev. George Kennedy Cooke M.A. who died in 1932: the church has 300 sittings. There is a lych gate. The register of baptisms dates from the year 1538; marriages and burials from 1566; and there is also a volume of "Stemmata Parochialia," extending from 1538 to about 1840, compiled from the parish registers by the Rev. Arthur Isham M.A. rector here 1837-76. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £660, including glebe with residence, in the gift of the Warden and Fellows of All Souls College, Oxford, and held since 1938 by the Rev. Harold William Wheeler M.A. of Queens' College, Cambridge, hon. C.F. A church room was erected in 1909. The Union chapel (Baptist and Congregational), built in 1855, will seat 170 persons. Widow Turpin's land of 10a. 1r. 34p. now produces £25 annually, which is distributed twice a year in loaves; the Pennant trust cottages, left to the parish by the Rev. Thomas Pennant B.D. rector 1817-45, are in trust of the rector for the time being, the rents being distributed in clothing to not more than six persons, being regular attendants at church. Findall's (Aylesbury) charity provides 6s. 8d. for distribution amongst the poor, and also 6s. 8d. for cleaning the churchways. In the parish is a reservoir of about 54 acres, held by the Grand Union Canal Company. In May, 1855, a Roman amphora, various vessels of glass and Samian ware, pieces of iron with rivets and nails and some other objects, with evidences of the burial of a female, were discovered in the rectory garden. At Great Ground, in this parish, Roman, Saxon and Early English pottery ware, tiles, Venetian and gold encrested glass were met with about 1898, and some remarkable foundations were unearthed in 1899, by the late Mr. R. Fowler. A granite cross was erected on the village green in 1919 in memory of the men connected with the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. The quarterly meetings of the Quakers from a very wide area were held here from 1678 to 1723, at a house still standing. The minute-book, written by Thomas Ellwood, is at the headquarters of the Society of Friends. The ownership of the land is divided. The soil is various, gravelly, loam and some clay, with a clay subsoil. The chief crops are wheat, beans, oats, barley, clover and turnips. The area is 2,279 acres of land and 44 of water; the population in 1931 was 1,040.

WESTON UNDERWOOD is a parish and village on the river Ouse and on the road from Olney to Northampton, 2 miles south-west from Olney station on the Bedford and Northampton branch of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, $\frac{1}{2}$ north from Newport Pagnell, 13 south-east from Northampton, 13 west from Bedford and 9 north-east-by-east from Stony Stratford, in the Buckingham division of the county, county court district of Northampton, hundred, petty sessional division, rural district and rural deanery of Newport, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Newport Pagnell Rural District Council. The church of St. Lawrence is an ancient edifice of stone in the Early Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave, aisles, north porch, and low embattled western tower containing 6 bells: the whole exterior is Perpendicular: the piers and arches of the nave arcades are plain Early English, and the chancel and tower exhibit portions of the same style; the font is of the 15th century: the east window retains its original stained glass in the upper portion, and there is a piscina and sedilia: the church also contains some memorials of the Throckmortons, and a brass, with effigy, and those of five daughters to Elizabeth (Hussay), wife first of Sir Walter Hungerford and afterwards of Sir Robert Throckmorton; she died in 1571: there is also a tomb, with marginal inscription on brass, to John Olney, a former rector, and Dionisia, his wife, ob. 1405; his epitaph records that he converted the ancient and dilapidated chapel into a church: there is a black and white marble tablet erected in memory of the men of the parish who lost their lives in the Great War, 1914-18: the church was restored in 1891 by the Rev. Hugh Allan M.A. incumbent 1882-98: there are 200 sittings. The register dates from the year 1681; some old documents and a terrier are also preserved in the parish chest. The living is a vicarage, annexed to that of Ravenstone in 1922, joint net yearly value £430, in the gift of the Bishop of Oxford, and held since 1930 by the Rev. James Fraser Amies M.A. of Oxford University, who resides at Ravenstone. The tithes' estate of 6 acres produces £9 18s. which is distributed in coal; the Town Dudley charity of about 20 acres, producing about £11 yearly, is for six poor widows; Higgin's charity of £17 yearly is for the clothing of ten poor women, and Mrs. Spink's charity provides 30 blankets, which are given away at Christmas; there is also a charity of £2 a year for apprenticing. Cowper, the poet, removed here from Olney in 1786 and continued to reside here till 1795, within a few years of his death, which occurred at East Dereham, Norfolk, 25th April, 1800, and here he wrote his translation of Homer: the house, standing halfway up the street, is a substantial residence of two storeys, with dormers in the roof, and a garden in front inclosed by a low wall and railings: on the panel of a window shutter formerly in the bedroom occupied by the poet, is the following couplet, written in his own hand:

"Farewell, dear scenes, for ever closed to me,
 June 22-28, 1795."

This panel was removed to the Cowper Museum at Olney in 1907. The "Wilderness," in which Cowper found such "boundless contiguity of shade," still remains; much of the surrounding scenery is described in his poems, and an oak tree is shown as "Cowper's oak." The Rev. Thomas Scott, the commentator, was curate here from 1780; he died April 16th, 1821. W. Greville Worthington esq. is lord of the manor. W. Grainger esq. and Mr. William Stewart are the principal landowners. The soil is loam, some rich and the rest very poor; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat, barley, beans and oats. The area is 1,865 acres of land and 8 of water; the population in 1931 was 215.

WHADDON is a township, parish and village, 5 miles north-west from Bletchley Junction station on the main line of the London, Midland and Scottish railway and 3½ north from Swanbourne station on the Bletchley and Verney Junction branch of the same line, 4½ south from Stony Stratford, 5 north-east from Winslow and 7 east from Buckingham, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred of Cottesloe, petty sessional division and rural district of Winslow, county court district of Bletchley and Leighton Buzzard, rural deanery of Mursley, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. The church of St. Mary, standing on high ground near the Chase, is an ancient building of stone in the Norman, Decorated and other styles, consisting of chancel with north aisle or chapel, nave, with north aisle of four bays and south aisle of three bays, and an embattled western tower (restored in 1902) containing a clock, provided in 1910, and 6 bells: the chancel has an Early English piscina and sedilia, but the east window and some other features are Decorated: the nave is separated from the aisles by arcades of four arches, all of the Transition Norman period, but the walls are Decorated, each doorway retains a stoup: the font is Early English: the chapel is also Decorated, and has on the north side a monument with long epitaph to Arthur, 14th Lord Grey de Wilton K.G. who was lord deputy of Ireland during the rebellions of Desmond, Bellinglass and O'Niell, one of the commissioners who tried Mary Queen of Scots, and died 14 Oct. 1593: there is also a canopied tomb with brass effigies, in a recess flanked by columns, to Mr. Serjeant Pigott, 1519, his two wives and children, and a very rich and curious brass with effigy, to Margaret Missenden, 1612, including a figure of her son as a skeleton, and a long, but almost illegible, inscription: there are other monuments to Thomas King, 1770, and to William, his son, 1775, and a brass recording the gift of a clock to the church in 1673 by Amy (Allen), wife of Joseph Emerton, minister: the church was extensively repaired and restored in 1889 and 1891, and the nave in 1906: in 1931 the lady chapel on the north side, was furnished with an altar and other accessories by members of the Selby-Lowndes family, as memorials: there are 220 sittings. The churchyard, the gift of Mr. Selby-Lowndes, was consecrated in 1890. In it is an Irish cross of stone erected in memory of the men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. The register dates from the year 1580. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £395, with residence, in the gift of Lt.-Col. W. Selby-Lowndes O.B.E., T.D., J.P. and held since 1925 by the Rev. Edward Arthur Selby-Lowndes M.A. of Exeter College, Oxford, who is also perpetual curate of Tattenhoe. A stone tablet in a carved oak frame, enclosed with oak posts and chains, recording the names of those who served in the Great War, 1914-18, is fitted into the wall of the Village Hall. The Congregational chapel, erected in 1907 to replace one built in 1865, will seat 200 persons. The poor's land consists of 4 acres. In a part of Whaddon Chase called "Narberry," about 320 ancient British gold coins were discovered in February, 1849, and claimed by Mr. Selby-Lowndes as lord of the manor; they are of a later period than those of Cunobelin, and are stamped with a wheat ear and rampant horse: in the coppice adjoining there are indications of a large rectangular encampment, evidently Roman, inclosing a space about 5 acres, with a vallum and fosse quite perfect.

Whaddon Chase was formerly the principal woodland in this part of the county and contained 2,200 acres of coppice, with valuable timber, and maintained 1,000 head of deer: the greater part of it is now inclosed and cultivated.

Whaddon Hall, the seat of Lt.-Col. William Selby-Lowndes O.B.E., T.D., J.P. is a mansion of stone, containing many spacious and elegantly-fitted apartments; "few private residences in the kingdom," writes Lipscomb, "can be found to rival the magnificence of its splendid staircase:" the pleasure grounds, gardens and park extend over 315 acres; great numbers of the forest trees are of immense size, and the views from the place are delightful. This manor became the property in 1698 of Dr. Willis, the celebrated physician, and being inherited by his grandson, Browne Willis esq. LL.D. the well-known antiquary, was for many years his residence; here he accumulated the valuable manuscript collections bequeathed by him to the University of Oxford, as well as a fine library of printed books; the greater part, if not the whole, of his published works, were also prepared for the press at Whaddon; he died 5th February, 1760, and was buried in the chancel of Fenny Stratford church. Queen Elizabeth visited Whaddon Hall in 1568, at which time it was held by Arthur, Lord Grey; but the old mansion, as then existing, with its great hall, 50 feet in length, was partially destroyed on its coming into the joint possession of Thomas Willis and James Selby in 1698: eventually the whole property came into the hands of Thomas James Selby, son of the foregoing, who died in 1772, and no lawful heir appearing, it was surrendered, by order of the Court of Chancery, in 1783, to Mr. William Lowndes, of Winslow, to whom it had been left, provided no heir was found. Lt.-Col. W. Selby-Lowndes O.B.E., T.D., J.P. is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is light and stiff yellow clay; sub-soil, clay. The land is chiefly pasture. The area of the township and parish is 2,525 acres, a large portion of which is comprised in Whaddon Chase, celebrated for its fox covers; population in 1931, 274.

WHITCHURCH is a parish and large village, on the road from Aylesbury to Buckingham, 4½ miles north from Aylesbury, its nearest railway station, 5½ south from Winslow and 12 south-east from Buckingham, in the Aylesbury division of the county, hundred of Cottesloe, petty sessional division of Winslow, rural district and county court district of Aylesbury, rural deanery of Mursley, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity and main water are available. The church of St. John the Evangelist, situated on a height, is an ancient building of stone in the Decorated style, consisting of a large chancel, clerestoried nave of four bays, aisles, south porch with a lofty embattled western tower, containing 6 bells and a clock: on the south side is a large sun dial dated 1828: the arches of the nave are supported on the north side by octagonal and on the south side by circular pillars: the chancel was partially restored in 1853: Sir Edward Smythe, formerly Lord Chief Justice of Ireland, and lord of the manor, was buried here in February, 1681: the communion plate was for the most part his gift: there is a piscina and triple aumbry in the south aisle, a double piscina and triple sedilia in the chancel, and a stained memorial window to John Tattam, d. 1854, and Mary Ann his wife, d. 1853: on the north wall of the nave is a remarkable relief in memory of John Westcar, carved by Gibson: on the north wall is a large stone tablet bearing the names of those men of this parish who lost their lives in the Great War, 1914-18: the church was restored in 1911, the original timber in the roofs being carefully preserved, the old lead recast and relaid and the ancient features of the church retained: there are 260 sittings. The register dates from the year 1653. The living is a vicarage, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, net yearly value £324, with 3 acres of glebe and residence, erected in the year 1845, and held since 1908 by the Rev. Hugh Wood M.A. of Sidney Sussex College, Cambridge. There are two Methodist chapels, one built in 1844, will seat 200 persons; the other rebuilt in 1889, has 200 sittings. A charity of £13 18s. 4d. a year bequeathed by John Westcar esq. late of Creslow, is distributed in the winter in sheets and blankets to the most necessitous and deserving poor. Here was formerly a castle belonging to Hugh de Bolebec, and the sites of the drawbridges are still traceable; at the outer edge of the moat is a remarkable spring called "Fair Alice," flowing out from beneath the trunk of a large ash tree and affording beautifully clear water of excellent quality. The village also contains some ancient half-timbered houses of special interest. The farmers are the principal landowners. The soil is loam; subsoil, limestone and gravel. The land is chiefly in pasture; wheat and peas are grown. The area is 1,717 acres; the population in 1931 was 570 in the civil and 576 in the ecclesiastical parish.

WILLEN is a parish and village, 2 miles south from Newport Pagnell station on the Wolverton and Newport Pagnell branch of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred and petty sessional division of Newport Pagnell, county court district of Bletchley and Leighton Buzzard, rural deanery of Bletchley, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. The Grand Junction canal passes on the west and the river Lovat forms its boundary on the east. Water is supplied by the Newport Pagnell Rural District Council. The church of St. Mary Magdalen, built in 1680, from designs, it is said, by Robert Hooke, and restored in 1862, is a substantial edifice of brick, in the Italian style, consisting of nave with eastern apse, and a tower containing 3 bells: the apse was added in 1862; all the windows are stained, and there are 80 sittings. The register dates from the year 1665. The living is a vicarage, net income £140, with residence, in the gift of trustees, and held since 1933 by the Rev. Arthur Montague Berry B.A. of London University, who is also rector of Woolstone. A charity of £1 a year, bequeathed by Dr. Busby, is given in books, and his trustees also give £17 a year to the poor. The trustees of Dr. Busby are lords of the manor and sole landowners. The soil is mixed; subsoil, gravel and stone. The chief crops are wheat, barley, oats and roots. The population in 1931 was 67.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, Willen was included in the new parish of Woolstone-cum-Willen for civil purposes.

NETHER (or LOWER) WINCHENDON is a parish and village, partly on the acclivity of a steep hill on the river Thame, about 6 miles north-east from Thame station on the Maidenhead and Oxford line of the Great Western railway, 4 south from Waddesdon Manor station on the Metropolitan and London and North Eastern Joint railway, and 7 west from Aylesbury, in the Aylesbury division of the county, hundred of Ashendon, petty sessional division, rural district and county court district of Aylesbury, rural deanery of Waddesdon, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. The church of St. Nicholas is a small but ancient building of stone of the 14th or 15th century, consisting of chancel, nave, aisle, south porch and an embattled western tower containing a clock and 5 bells: the west doorway and some other portions are good

Decorated work: the chancel retains a piscina and sedilia, and there are brasses of a knight of the 15th century, of a female in the attitude of prayer, and one, with headless male effigy, to John Barton, 1487, and Margaret, his wife: the pulpit is of carved oak, 1631: the chapel was rebuilt in 1891, at a cost of £540, by Mrs. Napier Higgins and the trustees of Mr. Richard Rose: there are 300 sittings. In the churchyard is a granite cross erected in memory of the men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. The register dates from the year 1563. The living is a perpetual curacy, united to that of Chearsley, joint net yearly value £300, in the gift of the exors. of Lt.-Col. F. T. Higgins-Bernard D.L., J.P. and held since 1937 by the Rev. Charles Elliot Wigg M.A. of Keble College, Oxford, who resides at Chearsley. The Bucks Evangelistic Mission has a mission hall here, Nether Winchendon House, the seat of Mrs. Higgins-Bernard, was a manor house on the domain of Notley Abbey, and housed the monks who served the churches and worked the land at the northern end of the abbey property: early in the reign of Henry VIII. the monks ceased to occupy it, and the abbot leased it to Sir John Dounce kt. whose tomb is in the church of Blewbury, Berks, and whose eldest son married a daughter of Sir Thomas More: Sir John, about 1528, restored the dining hall, and his name, carved in oak, still appears over the old doorway; subsequently the place became part of the property of the Goodwyns, and an aunt of Sir Francis Goodwyn kt. M.P. for Bucks, married Thomas Tyringham, whose descendants continued to reside here till 1771, when the heiress of this branch of the Tyringham family was succeeded by her cousin, Sir Francis Bernard, 1st bart. Governor 1758-60 of New Jersey, and of Massachusetts 1760-70: on the death of his grandson, Sir Thomas Tyringham Bernard, 6th and last bart. in 1883, the property devolved upon his surviving daughter, Sophia

Elizabeth, who married Joseph Napier Higgins esq. Q.C., D.L., J.P. and ultimately descended to the late Lt.-Col. F. T. Higgins-Bernard D.L., J.P.: there are several of the old Tyringham pictures in the house and some of the Goodwyn family, including one of Sir Arthur Goodwyn M.P. for Wycombe 1620-24, Aylesbury 1625-6, and Bucks 1625 and 1640; John Hampden was elected with him in 1640, but preferred to represent Wendover: Sir Arthur's daughter Jane married in 1637 Philip, 4th Baron Wharton, and thus carried the estate of Upper Winchendon to the Wharton family. In the village of Nether Winchendon are some interesting cottages of the 16th and 17th centuries. Mrs. Higgins-Bernard is lady of the manor and the principal landowner. The soil is limestone and clay; subsoil, same. The chief crops are wheat, barley and turnips and pasture. The area is 1,549 acres of land and 5 of water; the population in 1931 was 170.

WINCHENDON UPPER or OVER is a village and parish, situated on elevated ground, about 3 miles south from Waddesdon, about 7 miles west from Aylesbury and 7 north-east from Thame, in the Aylesbury division of the county, hundred, petty sessional division, rural district and county court district of Aylesbury, rural deanery of Waddesdon, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. This place formerly gave the title of Viscount to the Wharton family, barons, earls and marquesses of Wharton; Thomas Wharton, 5th baron, having been created Viscount Winchendon, 24 Dec. 1706; Philip, 6th baron and 2nd viscount, was created Duke of Wharton, 20 Jan. 1718, but on account of his adherence to the Pretender he was attainted in 1728, and eventually died at the monastery of St. Bernard, Tarragona, 31 May, 1731, when all his honours, except the barony (which is still under attainder) became extinct. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Chiltern Hills Water Co. The church of St. Mary Magdalen is an ancient edifice or stone, consisting of chancel and nave, south porch, and a massive embattled tower of Perpendicular date with a turret on the south side, square for three stages, then octagonal and rising above the parapet, with conical capping: the tower contains 3 bells: in the chancel is a brass in good preservation to Sir John Stodeley, a former vicar, dated 1515: a brass tablet was placed in the church in 1920 to the memory of the men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18: the chancel is Transitional Norman, with two lancet windows on the east gable, and three lancets in each side wall: the chancel arch is pointed, but of rude construction: the nave is Norman, with a fine doorway: the north aisle dates from the 14th century, the windows having flowing tracery, and opens to the nave by two round arches, and one pointed, all cut through the original wall, the piers being large and rectangular: in the north wall is a good niche: there is also a Decorated screen, and a font with octagonal basin: the old altar table and rails have been preserved: the aisles and chancel are laid with old tomb slabs: there is a 14th century pulpit: the church affords 110 sittings. The register dates from the year 1606. The living is a vicarage, forming part of a united benefice with Waddesdon and Fleet Marston, net yearly value £567, in the gift of the Duke of Marlborough, and held since 1921 by the Rev. George Dixon B.A. of Exeter College, Oxford, and rural dean of Waddesdon where he resides. By the marriage in 1637 of Jane, daughter of Sir Arthur Goodwyn M.P. of Upper Winchendon, with Philip, 4th Baron Wharton, the manor and estate was transferred to the Wharton family. James A. de Rothschild esq. D.C.M., M.P., D.L., J.P. is lord of the manor and chief landowner. The soil is strong loam; subsoil, limestone. The chief crops are wheat, barley, turnips, beans and mangolds; the area is 1,202 acres; the population in 1931 was 107.

WING (or Wenge) is a parish and large village, 3 miles south-west from Leighton Buzzard station on the main line of the London, Midland and Scottish railway: it is the head of a rural district, in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred of Cottesloe, petty sessional division of Linslade, county court district of Bletchley and Leighton Buzzard, rural deanery of Ivinghoe, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. In former days Wing was a place of some importance; in the year 1255 a charter was granted to John de Warren by Henry III. for a market every Thursday and a fair for three days at Michaelmas. Gas and electricity are available. Water is supplied by the Wing Rural District Council. The church of All Saints is an edifice of stone in mixed styles, consisting of apsidal chancel, clerestoried nave, aisles, north and south porches and an embattled western tower (restored in 1925) containing a clock and 6 bells: the church dates from the 10th century, according to the Historial Monuments Commissioners; the most interesting feature in the church is its apsidal polygonal chancel, which is considerably elevated above the nave, and has beneath it a crypt of rude construction about eight feet in height: an arcade runs round the outside of the apse: the windows are much later: the nave has arcades of massive arches dividing it from the aisles, and the three westernmost are Saxon, the eastern, Early English: there are some good Early Decorated windows and a north doorway of that period, but the tower, font and south porch are Perpendicular; the base of a Norman font may be seen in the south porch: the rood screen has been partially restored: there is another screen in the south aisle: there are monuments to the family of Fynes, from 1686 to 1758, including one to Henry Fynes esq. said to be the work of Roubiliac, and several costly memorials to the Dormers, ranging from 1552 to 1695; these include in the north aisle a Palladian altar tomb and canopy to Sir Robert Dormer kt. ob. 1552, around which, until 1850, was a large pew with baluster screen; in the chancel an altar tomb of marble, with kneeling effigies and Corinthian columns supporting a cornice with a shield of arms, to Sir Robert Dormer kt. ob. 1616, and Elizabeth his wife; opposite is another altar tomb with recumbent effigies of marble, partly gilt, under a canopy, supported by columns of Sicilian jasper, with marble caps and adorned with five shields of arms, to Sir William Dormer K.B. ob. 17 May, 1575, and Dorothy (Catesby), his second wife, and below these are figures of children; there are also brasses to Harry Blacknall, 1460, and Agnes, his wife, 1489, and others; John Theede, 1622; and Thomas Cotes, "porter at Ascott Hall," 1648, who is represented by a kneeling effigy, with staff lying at his feet, and a high crowned hat and key behind him; and in the church are also memorials to the families of Redman, 1699-1729; and Bell, 1721-38; to Mrs. Bridgett Neale, 1677; William Theed, gent. 1757: the church was completely restored in 1850 and again in 1893; in 1904 the chapel of St. Catherine in the south aisle was restored in memory of Mr. Charles Cotes J.P. of Burcott, and is used for daily service: the church affords 300 sittings: in the churchyard are remains of a stone cross: the lych gate was erected in memory of Rev. F. H. Tatham M.A. vicar 1890-1918. The register dates from the year 1546, and is perfect from that date; there is also an ancient book of churchwardens' accounts with an inventory of church goods, 1527. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £308, with 225 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Oxford, and held since 1932 by the Rev. Ernest Crane, who is also rector of Grove. The Methodist chapel, built in 1864, will seat 350 persons; and the Methodist chapel, built in 1847, has 200 sittings. A Hall was erected in 1905, at a cost of about £2,000, in memory of the late Mr. Charles Cotes; in 1914 additional rooms were built by Mrs. Sassoon in memory of Mr. A. Sassoon, and now used as a village club, in connection with which is a village lending library, in memory of Major Evelyn de Rothschild. Dormer's Hospital, founded in 1569 by Dame Dorothy Pelham, for eight men and women, is endowed with land and money invested in Consols, producing a total gross income of about £110 yearly. William Robinson's charity of £2 a year is for clothing; Lady Carnarvon and William Hoare's charity, arising from the rent of a field of about six acres at Burcott, now let for £10 a year, is for clothing and blankets; William Dent's, of £59 in Consols, is distributed in clothing; Robert Shepherd's, a rent-charge of £3 3s. 4d. arising from land in the parish of Edlesborough, is distributed in penny loaves to seventeen children attending the church weekly; there is also the Fuel Allotment Charity, consisting of about £7 a year, arising from £268 9s. rd. Consols and distributed annually in coals; the Church Land Charity, of about £268 in Consols derived from the sale of about three acres of land in the parish of Mentmore, which yields about £7 yearly, devoted to the maintenance of the fabric, and a sum of about £12 arising from Pratt's charity at Wingrave, which is distributed amongst the poor at the discretion of the trustees. Miss Louise Mudie, lady superintendent. The Earl of Rosebery D.S.O., M.C., M.F.H. and Anthony Gustav de Rothschild esq. are the principal landowners of Wing proper. The soil is various, clay, sand, gravel and loam; subsoil, clay. The crops are hay, wheat, beans, barley, oats and roots. The area is 5,698 acres of land and 5 of water; the population in 1931 was 1,415.

BURCOTT is a hamlet about 1 mile north. Buckinghamshire County Council are the principal landowners.

CRAFTON is a hamlet 2 miles south, and has a Methodist chapel, built in 1880. The Earl of Rosebery D.S.O., M.C., M.F.H. is the principal landowner; he has a breeding stud here.

LITTLEWORTH is a hamlet half a mile north, and has a Congregational Union chapel, built in 1854 and rebuilt in 1871, with 150 sittings.

ASCOTT is a hamlet half a mile east. Ascott, the residence of Anthony Gustav de Rothschild esq. is a Jacobean structure of brick and timber, dating from 1600, and was originally a farm house, but was restored and enlarged about 1874, and again in 1880, 1887, 1893 and 1911; in 1939 it was entirely reconstructed, and is now a considerable mansion. The kennels are now occupied by the Whaddon Chase Hunt; the Earl of Rosebery D.S.O., M.C. is master; the pack comprises 35 couples of foxhounds, and hunts on Tuesdays and Saturdays and bye days up to Christmas; Aylesbury, Winslow, Bletchley and Leighton Buzzard are convenient centres; Leighton Buzzard, 2 miles distant, is the nearest railway station to the kennels. The old Hall, which stood in Wing park, has now wholly disappeared, but some traces of the fish ponds, bowling green and moat still remain. In the latter part of the 12th century there existed here a cell of Benedictine monks founded by the Empress Maud, and attached to the Abbey of St. Nicholas of Angers; it was afterwards granted by Henry V. to the priory of St. Mary de la Pré, near St. Albans, and subsequently at the Reformation passed into the hands of the Dormer family.

WINGRAVE is a village and parish pleasantly situated on a hill commanding a fine view of the town of Aylesbury and the surrounding country, 2 miles north from Marston Gate station on the Aylesbury and Cheddington branch of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, 5½ miles north-east from Aylesbury, 5 south-west from Leighton Buzzard and 6 north-west from Tring, in the Aylesbury division of the county, hundred of Cottesloe, petty sessional division of Linslade, rural district of Wing, county court district of Aylesbury, rural deanery of Ivinghoe, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Bucks Water Board. The church of SS. Peter and Paul is a building of stone in the Early English and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel, nave, transept, aisles and an embattled western tower (rebuilt in 1898) containing a clock and 6 bells, rehung in 1898, with a new tenor: a small vaulted chamber of the late 12th century remains on the north side of the chancel: the church, with the exception of the tower, was restored in 1887, when the whole of the roofs were renewed on the ancient lines, an organ transept and vestries built, chancel screen erected and the interior refitted with choir stalls and other fittings of oak: the stained east window was the gift of Miss Butt, niece of the Rev. John Molesworth Butt M.A. vicar 1850-85: the flooring throughout was relaid, the old inscribed stones being preserved: in 1901 a new font was provided in place of the ancient font, which, however, was preserved, and in 1907 was brought back in place of the font provided in 1901: in 1938 a carved eagle lectern was presented by J. Major-Lucas esq. and the Misses Major-Lucas in memory of their parents: on the south wall of the church is a brass tablet bearing the names of the men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18: there are 412 sittings. The churchyard wall was raised three feet all round in 1898. The register dates from the year 1550. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £330, with 4 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Oxford, and held since 1933 by the Rev. Francis Stuart, of Wells Theological College. The Union chapel here, erected in 1832, will seat 490 persons, and there is also a Methodist chapel, and Temperance hall erected in 1891. The charitable bequests amount to over £100, which sum is distributed yearly amongst the poor. On the village green stands a grey granite obelisk, with cross superimposed, which was erected in memory of the men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18; the whole is enclosed with iron railings. A curious and ancient custom of strewing the church with grass on the first Sunday after St. Peter's day (June 29) is still observed, about three roods of grass land having been left for that purpose. The recreation ground, near the church, was given to the parish in 1924 by the Earl of Rosebery D.S.O., M.O. (then Lord Dalmeny). Wingrave Old Manor House is the seat of Eveline, Countess of Essex. The ownership of the land is divided, nearly all the farmers owning their farms. The soil is chiefly of a clayey nature, varying to gravel, producing excellent crops of wheat and beans; subsoil, clay. The area is 2,884 acres; the population in 1931 was 632 in the civil and 627 in the ecclesiastical parish.

By Local Government Board Order, 19,622, dated March 25, 1886, Buttermilk and Helsthorpe Farm was transferred from Drayton Beauchamp to Wingrave, and Weedon Lodge from the latter parish to Weedon.

WINSLOW is a small market town, with a station on the Bletchley and Oxford and Banbury branches of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, about 2 miles east-by-north from Verney Junction station on the Metropolitan and London and North Eastern joint railway, 50½ miles from London by road, 54 by London, Midland and Scottish railway, 10½ north-west from Aylesbury, 6½ south-east from Buckingham and 12 north-west from Leighton Buzzard: it is the head of a petty sessional division, rural district, and in the Buckingham division of the county, parish of Winslow-Shipton, hundred of Cottesloe, county court district of Buckingham, rural deanery of Claydon, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. The town stands on the brow of a hill, overlooking a fertile vale on the road from Aylesbury to Buckingham, and consists of a square market place with three principal streets radiating from it. The town is lighted with gas by a company formed in 1881, and is supplied with water from wells. In 1930 the town was supplied with electricity from Northampton. The church of St. Laurence, originally erected in the 13th century, is a building of stone, chiefly in the Perpendicular style, consisting of a large chancel, clerestoried nave of four bays, aisles, south porch and an embattled western tower containing a clock and 6 bells retained and one recast in 1929: the triple sedilia, on the south side of the chancel, are canopied, and adorned with the emblems of the Evangelists: a mutilated piscina found built up in the south chancel wall, has been restored and refixed: on the north side is a brass, with effigies, to Thomas Figge, 1578, his wife and seven children; and on the south another to Dorothy Barnard, 1634: in 1939, when removing the font of Caen stone, which was erected 60 years ago, the bowl of the old 14th century font was discovered; this was restored by his children to the memory of Norman McCorquodale esq. of Winslow Hall: there are several memorial windows, including one erected in 1897 to Mr. H. R. Lambton, of Redfield, one in 1939 representing "The Last Supper," after Leonardo da Vinci, to Norman McCorquodale esq. and others to Mr. Herbert Bullock, Mrs. H. R. Lambton and Mr. and Mrs. John Grace: the church was thoroughly restored in 1884, when the galleries were removed, the roofs renewed in oak, the floors relaid, the porch partially rebuilt and furnished with a canopied niche, containing a figure of St. Laurence: the reredos is entirely of oak, beautifully wrought in panels and gilt: a new aisle on the north side of the chancel was erected in 1889: in 1913 a new organ was provided: there are 400 sittings. In 1898 the churchyard was enclosed with a wrought iron fence, within which rows of trees were planted by the 2nd Baron Addington. The register dates from the year 1560. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £340, with residence, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1920 by the Rev. St. John Hungerford Beamish M.A. of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, rural dean of Claydon, and surrogate. The Congregational chapel, erected in 1885, is an edifice of red brick with stone dressings in the Gothic style of the early 13th century, and has a large square tower: it will seat 350 persons; adjoining are class rooms and Sunday schools. There is a Baptist tabernacle in High street, erected in 1864, with sittings for 400 persons, and a small Baptist chapel in Bell alley, said to have been founded about 1630 for Benjamin Keach, with 60 sittings. In the churchyard, standing in a curved recess which is approached from the High street by a flight of three steps, is a cross with octagonal shaft and pedestal, all of Mansfield stone, which was erected in memory of Winslow men who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. The Oddfellows' Hall, in High street, is a large iron building, capable of seating 300 people. A market for live stock is held fortnightly on Mondays. The various charities are now administered under a scheme issued by the Charity Commissioners 11th August, 1863. Winslow Hall, a well proportioned building of red brick, built for the famous "Ways and Means" Lowndes, at the close of the 17th century, is a fine example of the domestic architecture of the period: it is now the property and residence of Maj. Norman Duncan McCorquodale M.C. Redfield, the seat of Capt. W. H. Lambton, is an elegant modern mansion of red brick, standing in extensive and tastefully-arranged grounds. Lt.-Col. William Selby-Lowndes O.B.E., T.D., J.P. is lord of the manor. Capt. W. H. Lambton and the exors. of Mrs. McCorquodale are the chief landowners. The area is 1,916 acres of land and 4 of water; the population in 1931 was 1,539.

WOBURN SANDS is a parish on the road from Dunstable to Newport Pagnell. The ecclesiastical parish was formed in 1867, and comprises the civil parish of Aspley Heath and part of the parish of Aspley Guise. By Local Government Board Order, dated 27th December, 1906, that part of Wavendon formerly in this parish was detached from it. The old name for this place was Hogsty End. The parish is in the Buckingham division of the county, Bletchley petty sessional division, Newport Pagnell rural district, Bletchley and Leighton Buzzard county court district, rural deanery of Flete, archdeaconry of Bedford and diocese of St. Albans. The village has a station on the Bedford and Cambridge branch of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, 12 miles south-west from Bedford, 4 east from Bletchley, 2½ north-west from Woburn and 50 from London; it is 44 miles from London by road. Gas and electricity are available. Water is supplied by the Aspley Guise, Aspley Heath and Woburn Sands Drainage and Water Supply Joint Committee. Water and sewage works at Aspley Guise were opened on June 8th, 1911, by the Duke of Bedford K.G., K.B.E. The reservoir at Bow Brickhill Heath will hold 380,000 gallons of water. The church of St. Michael, at Aspley Heath, erected in 1868, is an edifice in the French Gothic style, and originally consisted of nave of five bays and a small circular western bell turret: in 1889 it was enlarged, when the chancel was added and transept and organ chambers and vestries built on the north side: by the addition of a screen the north transept was converted in 1920 into a memorial chapel, where there is a brass to those who fell in the Great War, 1914-18: an oak pulpit with stone base was presented by Mr. and Mrs. Stuart in memory of four of their children, and an oak lectern by Miss

F. A. Stuart in memory of Mrs. Nicholson: the stained east window was erected in 1889 as a memorial to Mr. W. H. Denison, for 21 years churchwarden, and there is another memorial window to Maud F. Stuart: the reredos was erected in 1896 as a memorial to Misses C. & E. Pain: the church affords 450 sittings. The register dates from the year 1867. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £331, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of St. Albans, and held since 1913 by the Rev. John Shelton, of Lichfield Theological College. There is a Roman Catholic church, erected in 1922. There are Methodist churches and a Friends' meeting house. The Institute, built in 1874, stands near the centre of the parish and is used for concerts and other village purposes. A memorial hall was erected in 1928 by the late A. W. Pettit esq. in memory of his wife Ellen Pettit. The Daneswood Jewish Sanatorium for Consumptives was opened on June 25th, 1903, and is pleasantly situated in the parish of Aspley Heath. The parish is particularly salubrious, being situated on the lower greensand formation, which here is a reddish-brown sand, and partly covered by pine woods. The ownership of the land is divided. The area is 360 acres; the population in 1931 was 1,156 in the civil parish and 1,785 in the ecclesiastical parish, which extends into Bedfordshire.

WOLVERTON is a market town, with a station on the London, Midland and Scottish railway, which is also the junction of a branch 4 miles in length to Newport Pagnell, and is 2 miles east from Stony Stratford, 4 south-west from Newport Pagnell and 53 from London, in the Buckingham division of the county, petty sessional division of Stony Stratford, hundred of Newport Pagnell, county court district of Bletchley and Leighton Buzzard, rural deanery of Wolverton, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Under the Wolverton (Union of Parishes) Confirmation Order, 1927, the parishes of Calverton, Stony Stratford East, Stony Stratford West and Wolverton were united to form the new civil parish of Wolverton and under the Bucks Review Order, 1934. New Bradwell was amalgamated with Wolverton. The Grand Junction canal passes through the parish. At Wolverton are the extensive workshops of the London, Midland and Scottish Railway Company for the manufacture and repair of railway carriages and wagons, which affords employment to a great number of hands. Gas and electricity are available. Water is supplied by the London, Midland and Scottish Railway Co. The parish church of the Holy Trinity, partly re-erected in 1815, is a cruciform building of stone, in a quasi-Norman style, and consists of chancel, which is decorated in the Byzantine style, nave, transepts and an embattled western tower containing a clock and 6 bells, rehung in 1902: the tower was built in 1363, and during restorations in 1902 a Saxon consecration cross was discovered in it, fitted upside down, denoting that there had been a former Saxon church existing on the same site: the lower stage of the tower forms the entrance: at the same time two arches dating from 1363 were discovered: all the windows are stained, and in the chancel is a life-sized recumbent effigy in marble of Sir Thomas Longueville bart. of Wolverton, and of Prestatyn, Flintshire, who was killed by a fall from his horse in 1685: in 1877 the church was decorated throughout in polychrome, the whole of the figures; the communion table was at the same time enlarged and a reredos of English oak erected; this is divided by cusped arches into three compartments, containing various figures of saints and angels, richly painted: in 1898 a carved oak canopy was provided for the font: in 1902-3 the church was restored and a tablet of vicars' names from the year 1261 was erected: there are 250 sittings. The register dates from the year 1536. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £350, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Oxford, and held since 1937 by the Rev. Frederick Waller B.A. of Sidney Sussex College, Cambridge.

The ecclesiastical parish of St. George the Martyr was formed May 29, 1846, and enlarged June 23, 1868. The church, a building of stone in the Early English style, was erected in 1843, enlarged in 1896, and further improved and enlarged in 1903: it consists of chancel, nave, south porch, and a north-eastern tower with spire, containing one bell: in 1905 a new organ was provided: an oak screen was erected in 1922, together with an inscribed tablet, in memory of those men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18; all the windows are stained, and there are sittings for about 800 persons. The register dates from the year 1843. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £390, and residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Oxford, and held since 1934 by the Rev. Charles Oscar Moreton, of Keble College, Oxford. The Roman Catholic church, erected in 1865, and dedicated to St. Francis of Sales, will seat 150 persons. The Congregational chapel, built in 1890 and enlarged in 1902 at a cost of £1,400, has sittings for 800 persons; the old chapel, built in 1867, is now used as a school room; a Methodist chapel, built in 1892 to replace one built in 1870, has 650 sittings, and there is another, built in 1907 with 250 sittings. The Church Institute, Church street, in connection with St. George the Martyr, erected in 1908 at a cost of about £4,000, has a large hall, seating 450 persons, men's club &c. The Central Working Men's Club, in Western road, was erected in 1908; the premises include reading and billiards rooms and a large hall for entertainments &c. seating about 300 persons. The membership is about 1,300. There are public baths in Stratford road. In the Market square is a stone memorial cross erected to the men of Wolverton who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. The Science and Art Institute, opened in 1864, in connection with the Department of Science and Art at South Kensington, the City and Guilds of London Institute and the Society of Arts, and created a technical college in 1926 by the Board of Education, is a structure of red brick and stone, containing several class rooms, reading-room, and library and a large lecture hall, used for concerts, and seating 500; in 1891 it was enlarged, and a gymnasium and chemical laboratory added, and further enlarged in 1893; in 1910 a mechanical laboratory was added; in 1927 technical laboratories for mechanical and electrical engineering were added. In the Territorial Drill Hall is a tablet erected in 1924 in memory of members of the Buckinghamshire Territorials who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. Sir Edward Longueville, of Wolverton, and Prestatyn, Flintshire, was created a Baronet of Nova Scotia in 1638: the last baronet, also Sir Edward Longueville, died in 1718, and five years before his death he sold the property here to Dr. John Radcliffe, the celebrated physician and sometime M.P. for Buckingham, who bequeathed it in trust to establish and maintain the Radcliffe Library, Oxford, and for other charitable purposes; the observatory was established by the trustees. The Radcliffe trustees, who are lords of the manor, and the London, Midland and Scottish Railway Company are the principal landowners. The area of the civil parish and urban district is 5,490 acres; the population in 1931 was 12,873, viz.:—New Bradwell Ward, 3,352; Calverton Ward, 230; Stony Stratford Ward, 3,799; and Wolverton Ward, 5,492. The population of the ecclesiastical parishes in 1931 was, Holy Trinity (parish church), 921 and St. George the Martyr, 4,571.

WOLVERTON END, in this parish, forms part of the town of Stony Stratford and of the ecclesiastical parish of St. Mary, Wolverton: full particulars and the names of the residents are given under Stony Stratford.

CALVERTON and STONY STRATFORD will be found under their respective headings.

WOOBURN is a parish and scattered village on the Wye or Wick river and also on the Thames; the parish comprises The Green, The Town, Cores End, Bourne End, The Common, The Moor, Havenslea and Northern Woods, and has two stations on the Wycombe, Thame and Oxford branch of the Great Western railway, viz. Bourne End, 23 miles, and Wooburn Green, 30 miles from London, it is about 3 miles south-west from Beaconsfield and 5 south-east from Wycombe, in the Wycombe division of the county, hundred of Desborough, second division of Desborough petty sessional division, county court district of High Wycombe, rural district and rural deanery of Wycombe, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Gas and electricity are available. Water is supplied by the Marlow Water Co. The church of St. Paul is an ancient edifice in the Late Norman, Decorated and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel with north aisle, clerestoried nave of four bays, aisles and massive embattled western tower with turret containing a clock, erected in 1870, and 8 bells rehung, and the 6th bell recast in 1902, in commemoration of the coronation of King Edward VII.; the pulpit of carved stone, is adorned with representative heads of the four Evangelists: the east window is stained, and there are several other stained windows: in the church are brasses to John Goodwin and Pernel, his wife, who built the church tower, A.D. 1488; Christopher Askowe, 1500, and his wife; to Thomas Swaine S.T.P. prebendary of Aylesbury, 1519, and to Arthur, infant son of Philip, 4th Baron Wharton, 1642: one other brass, with a single figure in shroud, surrounded by shields and scrolls, has a rhyming inscription of eleven lines, but no name or date, probably c. 1520: there are memorials to the families of Bertie and Wharton, including a monument to Philip, 4th Baron Wharton, who died 5th Feb. 1695: in 1899 a chancel screen was presented by Miss Emily Du Pre, in memory of her father, James Du Pre esq. a former lord of the manor and patron of the living: the organ was erected as a memorial to Alfred Gilbey esq. of Woodburn House, d. 28 Nov. 1879, and in 1901 a reredos was presented by Mrs. Gilbey, of the Kennels, Wooburn, and her daughter: the church was completely restored internally in 1857 and externally in 1869, when the nave was heightened by the erection of a clerestory and the substitution of an open-timbered roof for the flat plastered ceiling: the church has since been entirely re-seated and affords 500 seats; a new churchyard, near the church, was enclosed and consecrated in 1862. The register dates from the year 1653; the list of rectors and vicars exists from A.D. 1216. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £313, and residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Oxford, and held since 1932 by the Rev. Raymond Audley Hendy M.A. of Aberdeen University, C.F. (Res. of Off.). St. Mark's church at BOURNE END, a chapel of ease to Wooburn parish church, was built in 1914 at a cost of £1,900 to replace an older edifice which has been pulled down; it is of red brick in the Gothic style and consists of chancel, nave, south porch and a turret containing one tubular bell: in the south side of the chancel is a stained window in memory of the Rev. E. Sladen, first priest in charge of St. Mark's church, 1890-1905: the sanctuary was erected by Mrs. Radcliffe-Crocker in 1914 to the memory of her husband, H. Radcliffe-Crocker M.D.: there are 250 sittings. There is also a small Mission church in Wycombe road, the gift of an anonymous donor in 1903, seating 100 persons. A Church hall was erected in 1910 on a site near the church. The Congregational chapel, founded in 1768 and rebuilt in 1804, was enlarged and re-seated in 1881, and will seat about 400 persons; the Baptist chapel at Wooburn Green was erected in 1836, and there are chapels at Wooburn and Bourne End, the latter erected in 1910 at a cost of £700, and a Methodist chapel. On the Green is a Cornish granite cross erected in memory of the men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. The Working Men's Institute and Reading Room is on the Green. Fairs are held here on the 4th May and 12th November. Charities.—John Fromow left the interest of £200, now about £6 yearly, to be distributed in blankets at Christmas; the benefaction of Philip, 4th Baron Wharton, who died 5 Feb. 1695, provides annually 20 Bibles bound up with prayer books; the poor's land of 28 acres produces about £21 yearly for distribution in money; Mrs. S. Ballard gave the surplus of interest of £50 in £3 per Cent. Consols, after repairing the vault of J. Osmer esq. to be distributed every second year in bread; Mrs. L. Butterfield's charity consists of the interest of £100 stock in £3 per Cent. Reduced Annuities, to be given to twelve poor families of the parish at 5s. each on St. Thomas' day; Mrs. Rook gave the interest on £50 stock in £3 per Cent. Reduced Annuities, to be distributed equally to six poor widows, not in receipt of any relief, on St. Thomas' day. The Church Estate produces £10 yearly and there is a sum of £20 a year for a second service. The parish contains extensive paper and millboard mills, which give employment to many of the inhabitants. Wooburn House, now (1939) unoccupied, is a fine mansion, built in 1756, on the site of what was for many years the palace of the Bishops of Lincoln, and subsequently the seat of the D'Eyncourts and Whartons, one of whom, Philip, 4th Baron Wharton, had the honour of receiving a visit here from William III. Sir Giffin Wilson kt. recorder of Windsor, resided here about 20 years till his death in 1848. Brigadier Hon. Edward Frederick Lawson D.S.O., M.C., T.D., D.L. and Lt.-Col. W. B. Du Pre D.L., J.P. are the chief landowners. The soil is loam and gravel; subsoil, chalk and sand. The area is 2,291 acres of land, consisting of wood, arable and pasture, and inland water; the population in 1931 was 4,187.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, part of this parish was added to the parish and urban district of Beaconsfield, and part to the parish of Chepping Wycombe Rural.

WOODHAM, see Waddesdon.

WOOLSTONE-cum-WILLEN is a civil parish formed by the Bucks Review Order, 1934, comprising the former parishes of Willen, Great Woolstone and Little Woolstone; it is in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred, petty sessional division and rural district of Newport Pagnell, county court district of Bletchley and Leighton Buzzard. The area is 1,823 acres; the population in 1931 was 148. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Newport Pagnell Rural District Council.

GREAT WOOLSTONE is a village 3 miles north from Fenny Stratford Station on the Bletchley and Bedford line of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, and 3½ south from Newport Pagnell: it forms with Little Woolstone, an ecclesiastical parish: it is in the rural deanery of Bletchley, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. The river Ousel separates the parish from Milton Keynes, and the Grand Junction canal passes through. The parish was enclosed by Act of Parliament in 1796. The church of the Holy Trinity, a small building of stone, in the Tudor style, rebuilt in 1839, consists of chancel and nave and a bellcote containing one bell: the font is Norman and was brought from St. Cuthbert's, Bedford: there are 70 sittings. The register dates from the year 1538. The living is a rectory, consolidated in 1854 with that of Little Woolstone, joint net yearly value £141, including 15 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Lord Chancellor, and held since 1933 by the Rev. Arthur Montague Berry B.A. of London University, who is also vicar of Willen, where he resides. Messrs. W. Clarkson & Sons are the principal landowners. The soil is light clay and gravel, with some rich meadows; subsoil, clay and gravel.

LITTLE WOOLSTONE is a village $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles south from Great Linford station on the Wolverton and Newport Pagnell branch of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, $3\frac{1}{2}$ north from Fenny Stratford station on the Bedford and Bletchley branch of the same line and 3 south from Newport Pagnell. The river Ousel and the Grand Junction canal run through the village. The church of the Holy Trinity is a small but ancient building of stone, consisting of chancel and nave, with south porch, and turret containing 3 bells: the roof was repaired in 1854, and the chancel rebuilt in 1861: the reredos was erected in 1868: the east window is stained: the interior was restored in 1866 in the Decorated style: the stone font is supposed to date from the latter part of the 12th century, but has a modern base: there are 130 sittings. The register dates from the year 1558. The living is a rectory, united to that of Great Woolstone in 1854. The poor have a rent-charge of £5 5s. for fuel. Percy Smith esq. is the principal landowner. The land is for the most part laid down for pasture. Letters through Bletchley. Simpson nearest M. O. & T. office

WORMINGHALL is a parish and small village on the borders of Oxfordshire, 3 miles from Tiddington station on the Wycombe, Thame and Oxford branch line of the Great Western railway, 4 miles south from Brill terminus of a branch from Quainton Road of the Metropolitan and London and North Eastern Joint railway, 5 north-west from Thame and $12\frac{1}{2}$ south-west from Aylesbury: it is in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred and petty sessional division of Ashendon, county court district of Thame, rural district of Aylesbury, rural deanery of Waddesdon, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford.

Electricity is available. The church of SS. Peter and Paul is a small building of stone in mixed styles, chiefly Perpendicular, consisting of chancel, nave, vestry, south porch, and a low embattled western tower containing 3 bells and a sanctus bell: of the original Norman structure both doorways and the chancel arch still remain: the present chancel is Late Decorated and has a high pitched roof, and a Perpendicular east window of three lights, dating from about 1480, and filled with stained glass in 1847: the easternmost window on the south side, prolonged downwards, forms sedilia: against the north wall is hung a small oaken tablet, on which are carved the arms of the see of London, impaling those of Dr. John King, who was son of John King and Bishop of London 1611-21: the walls of the nave are, no doubt, part of the Norman church: the tower is Late Perpendicular, and has a western window of three lights: the font is cylindrical and of the 15th century; there is a church chest of the 17th century: a slab inscribed to Edmund Kinge, 1577, used to be within the communion rails, but it disappeared, with two others, after the restorations in 1847: on the south side is a mural brass with effigies to Philip King, 1592, his wife Elizabeth (Conquest) and twelve children: the church was extensively repaired in 1847: the whole north wall and a considerable portion of the south wall were taken down and rebuilt, a vestry added and a stone porch erected; all the roofs were restored, a gallery removed, oak stalls were erected in the chancel and the east window was filled with stained glass; a piscina found on the south, and an aumbry on the north, were both renovated, and a new lectern and pulpit set up: the interior of the church was restored in 1870 and two new windows added: a brass tablet was placed on the north wall of the nave in memory of the men from the parish who made the supreme sacrifice in the Great War, 1914-18: an oak screen was erected in 1935 in memory of William and Emma Avery and their son, John: there are 120 sittings. The register dates from the year 1538. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £250, with residence, in the gift of the Bishop of Oxford, and held since 1929 by the Rev. Gerard Stuart Deacon A.K.C.L. In the village are ten almshouses, founded by John King esq. of Boycote, Kent, eldest son of Henry King, Bishop of Chichester (1641-69) and grandson of John King, Bishop of London, for six poor men and four poor women, who are allowed, besides a weekly payment of 3s. 3d. and a loaf of bread each, a new coat and gown every alternate year at Christmas. The almshouses, erected in memory of the father of the founder, form in plan the letter H, and over each entrance are the arms of King impaling Russell, with an inscription recording the foundation and the date 1675. There is a charity of £21 yearly value for bread, left in 1621 by John King, Bishop of London; and Henry King, Bishop of Chichester, left by will in 1669 £100 to purchase land, the rent of which is added to what his father left for bread, to be distributed at the church porch every Sunday: on Good Friday the twenty-five recipients receive a loaf four times the size of an ordinary loaf and 1s. each; on leaving the church they drop a penny in the clerk's hat in order that he may keep the memorial brass clean. Worminghall had formerly a market and still has a small fair, also called a "feast." There are numerous small landowners. The soil is loam and clay; subsoil, clay. The chief crops are wheat and beans; the land is about one-half pasture. The area is 1,510 acres; population in 1931, 233.

WOTTON UNDERWOOD is a parish and small village, with a station on the London and North Eastern railway, 3 miles north-east from Brill, $3\frac{1}{2}$ south-west from Waddesdon, and 10 west from Aylesbury: it is in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred and petty sessional division of Ashendon, rural district and county court district of Aylesbury, rural deanery of Waddesdon, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. The church of All Saints is a building of stone in mixed styles, consisting of chancel, nave, south aisle of three bays, mortuary chapel, and an embattled western tower, with spire, containing 6 bells: on the south side of the nave is the private chapel of the Grenville family, built in 1343 by William and Mary Grenville, which contains monuments to their memory and stained windows bearing the shields and armorial devices of the family: at the west end is an elaborately canopied monument with recumbent effigy: on the floor is a slab, with brass effigies to Edward Grenville, 1585, his wife Alice, and son: this mortuary was restored and enlarged in 1867 by the last Duke of Buckingham and Chandos, d. 1889; the tower and spire were rebuilt at the sole expense of George, first Marquess of Buckingham, who died 11 Feb. 1813: a new altar was presented by the vicar in 1914 and in the same year an organ was given by the late Hon. H. G. Beaumont J.P.: there is a piscina in the chancel: the east window and all those on the south side of the church are stained: in the south aisle and mausoleum are mural monuments of marble to Caroline, Duchess of Buckingham and Chandos, who died February 28th, 1874, to Anna Eliza, Duchess of Buckingham and Chandos, who died at Stowe, May 16, 1836, and to other members of the Grenville family, including one to Richard, last Duke of Buckingham and Chandos P.C., G.C.S.I. d. 26 March, 1889: there are 160 sittings. The register dates from the year 1599. The living is a vicarage, with that of Ashendon annexed, joint net yearly value £427, with residence, in the gift of Maj. M. W. Beaumont D.L., J.P. and held since 1934 by the Rev. Robert Edward Beckley L.Th. of Durham University. Wotton House, a mansion of red brick, the property and residence of Maj. Michael Wentworth Beaumont D.L., J.P. stands in grounds of about 265 acres, containing three lakes; the approach on either side is through a noble avenue of elm trees about a mile in length. Maj. Michael Wentworth Beaumont D.L., J.P. is lord of the manor and sole landowner. The soil is clay; subsoil, clay. The land is about one-third arable and two-thirds pasture. The area is 2,546 acres of land and 54 of water; the population in 1931 was 210.

WOUGHTON-ON-THE-GREEN is a parish and village built around a large green of 20 acres, $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles north from Fenny Stratford station on the Bletchley and Bedford line of the London, Midland and Scottish railway, and 4 miles south from Newport Pagnell: it is in the Buckingham division of the county, hundred, petty sessional division and rural district of Newport Pagnell, county court district of Bletchley and Leighton Buzzard, rural deanery of Bletchley, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. The river Ousel and the Grand Junction canal pass through this parish. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Newport Pagnell Rural District Council. The church of St. Mary is an edifice of stone in the Decorated and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel, nave of four bays, south aisle, south porch and an embattled western tower containing a clock and 6 bells: the ancient rood-loft stairs remain within the wall: the church was restored in 1867, and again in 1891; a new organ and organ-chamber were erected as a memorial to Major William Levi (d. 1889) by his widow and his son, Lt.-Col. Wm. John Levi; in 1896 a chancel screen, and in 1902 a tower screen were erected: there are about 150 sittings. The register dates from the year 1564. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £266, with residence, in the gift of Col. Sir Henry F. Bowles bart. T.D. and held since 1935 by the Rev. Leslie Victor George Fiddian Lean A.K.C.L. A Methodist chapel was erected in 1867, but was acquired as the parish hall in 1936. There is a charity of about £18 derived from 14 acres for the repair of the church and the relief of the poor and £2 3s. fuel money. Woughton House, the residence of Oswald Blount esq. is a handsome mansion of brick, pleasantly seated near the church in a park of 43 acres. Mrs. J. W. Shirley is the principal landowner. The soil is stiff clay; subsoil, clay and gravel. The chief crops are pasture, wheat, beans and barley. The area is 1,216 acres of land and 8 of water; the population in 1931 was 167.

HIGH WYCOMBE OR CHEPPING WYCOMBE

HIGH WYCOMBE is a municipal borough and market town, giving its name to the Wycombe rural district, the head of a county court district, a parish and polling place for the Wycombe division of the county, with stations on the main line of the Great Western and London and North Eastern Joint railway, and on the Great Western Railway branch line from Maidenhead and Marlow, 29 miles from London by road and 24 by rail, 25 south-east from Oxford, 10 north from Maidenhead, 5 north-east from Marlow, 12 north-west from Uxbridge and 7 south-west from Amersham, in the hundred of Desborough, second division of Desborough petty sessional division, rural deanery of Wycombe, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. The town is situated in the valley of the Wye, from which it derives its name; the main thoroughfare consists of a spacious High street, continued through the town under the names of Oxford street, West Wycombe road, Easton street and London road; besides several other streets and extensions at the west end. It is believed to have been made a free borough in the reign of Henry I. and has records from the 13th century, the earliest being contained in a MS. volume given to the town in 1475 by William Redhole, then mayor; the first mention of a mayor in the reign of King Edward I. 1285, and Roger Oughtred or Hutred is described as mayor in each year for several years up to 1302. The town, however, was not regularly incorporated by charter till 1558; this charter was confirmed by Elizabeth, James I. and Charles II. and remained in force until the Corporation was remodelled under the "Municipal Corporations Act, 1835" (5 and 6 Wm. IV. c. 76).

By Local Government Board Order, No. P. 1.658, which was confirmed by Local Government Board's Provisional Orders Confirmation (No. 6) Act, 1901, and came into operation Nov. 9th, 1901, the civil parish and borough was extended to include parts of the civil parishes of Chepping Wycombe Rural and West Wycombe, and the borough was re-divided into four wards, viz.: East, East Central, West and West Central, and is now governed by a mayor, 8 aldermen and 24 councillors.

By the Chepping Wycombe Corporation Act, 1927, the borough was further extended to include parts of the parishes of Chepping Wycombe Rural, Hughenden West Wycombe, and in 1934 the borough was still further extended and now comprises 7,065 acres with an estimated population of over 34,000.

The "Public Health Act, 1858" (21 and 22 Vict. c. 97) has been in operation since 1865. The borough has a commission of the peace: and the mayor of the preceding year acts as a justice for the borough, in conjunction with the mayor for the time being. The borough has a police force.

Under the provisions of the "Local Government Act, 1894" (56 and 57 Vict. c. 73), the old parish of Wycombe and that portion of Chepping Wycombe parish within the municipal borough was on Sept. 24th, 1896, formed into a civil parish, and the remaining part of the latter parish is now known as Chepping Wycombe Rural parish.

The borough is situated principally on the highway from London to the city of Oxford. The town was first lighted with gas in 1836; gas works were erected in 1848 by a company, and electricity is available. The town is well supplied with water, which is pumped into reservoirs at Bowdean, Widdenton Parkwood and Amersham Hill, holding altogether 3,130,000 gallons.

The borough returned two members to Parliament from the reign of Edward I. until the passing of the "Representation of the People Act, 1867" (30 & 31 Vict. c. 102), which reduced the representation to one member; and under the provisions of the Redistribu-tion of Seats Act, 1885 (48 and 49 Vict. c. 23), the representation was merged into that of the Southern Division of the county. Under the Representation of the People Act, 1918, Wycombe now gives name to a division of the county.

King John is recorded to have visited the town on three occasions; Queen Elizabeth passed through it in 1566 on visiting Lord Windsor at Bradenham; in 1647 Charles I. came to Wycombe as a prisoner on his way to the Parliamentary head quarters at St. Albans; Charles II. in a progress from Oxford to London in 1663 accompanied by the Queen, the Duke and Duchess of York, Prince Rupert, the Duke of Monmouth and many nobility, spent one night at the "Catherine Wheel," in Wycombe, on Sept. 30, in that year; on Nov. 9, 1832, Queen Victoria when Princess, with her mother the Duchess of Kent, passed through the town on her way to Oxford, changing horses at the Red Lion hotel; and on December 15, 1877, on the occasion of her visit to the Earl of Beaconsfield, at Hughenden, Her Majesty made a royal progress through the town and was received with loyal demonstrations.

This town has, since 1784, furnished the titles of Earl and Baron to the Fitzmaurice-Petty family, Marquesses of Lansdowne.

Some ancient religious houses and chapels in this town were destroyed at the Reformation.

The parish church of All Saints, erected in the place of a Norman structure, is traditionally said to have been built by the Abbess and Nuns of Godstowe, Oxon, in 1273 and originally consisted of chancel, nave, aisles and a central tower; towards the end of the 15th century the nave arches were rebuilt, the walls carried up higher and a clerestory inserted; at the close of the same period the Bower chapel was probably erected: the Early English tower stood at the intersection of the transepts, but was pulled down in the early part of the 16th century and the present Perpendicular western tower erected under the superintendence of Sir Rowland Messenger, vicar of the parish, who was also clerk of the works under Wolsey, at Cardinal College (Christ Church), Oxford: the church was completed in 1522 and now consists of chancel with aisles, transepts, nave with aisles and a western tower 108 feet high, with pinnacles added in 1753 by the Earl of Shelburne: the earliest peal of 5 bells contained two dated 1583 and 1683 respectively; in 1711 a new peal of 8 was cast by B. Phelps, of Whitechapel, to which four more were added later and there are now 12 bells, the tenor weighing 27 cwt.; the bells were rehung and chimes constructed and fixed by the late Mr. G. Harman in 1790: the exterior walls, south porch and several windows are of very Early Decorated work, but the arcades of the nave and chancel, the clerestory and tower are Perpendicular, as are also the roofs with the exception of that of the chancel: the north chapel contains a marble monument with recumbent effigy, by Schememaker, to Henry Petty, Earl of Shelburne, who died April 17th, 1751, erected by his executors in 1784; William, 2nd Earl of Shelburne (of the second creation), Prime Minister in 1782-3, and in 1784 created Marquess of Lansdowne, is likewise buried here, but without any monument; in the south aisle is a monument to Lady Sophia (Carteret), his wife, d. 1771, with figures of the countess and two children, by Carlini, and also memorials to Captain William White, mortally wounded at the battle of Salamanca, 22 July, 1812, and Lieutenant Gillispie White, who died at Damietta, 15 Oct. 1801: in the chancel is a curious inscription to William Bradshaw, 1614; his wife, Margaret, 1620, and Henry, their son, 1596: there are brasses to Margaret Trone, 1581; Robert Kemp, 1621; Martin Lluelyn M.D. principal of St. Mary Hall, Oxford, and physician to Charles II. 1681; and to Margery and Mary, wives of John Lane, of Wycombe; the screen at the end of the Bower chapel was restored, and the chapel fitted for service in 1896 in memory of the Rev. Robert Chilton M.A. vicar 1869-95: the screen or parclose of the south chancel aisle was erected by Richard Bedehode in 1468, and had an inscription to that effect: new oak screens, have been placed in the chancel; there is a memorial window erected in 1878, to J. Edwards esq. by his widow, and another to Miss Poulter, daughter of the Rev. James Poulter M.A.: the east window is a memorial to Robert, first Baron Carrington, who died March 17, 1868: and there are others to Jonathan Cole, Miss Rose and Francis Wheeler esq. and the Rev. James Poulter M.A. sometime head master of the Royal Grammar school, 1852-79, and one in commemoration of the restoration of peace in South Africa and the coronation of King Edward VII.: an east window in the Bower chapel was presented in 1898 by the children of the parish: the interior of the church was completely restored in 1873-5, and the exterior in 1887-9; the restoration of the porch was completed in October, 1893; and in 1894 four figures of the Evangelists were placed in the angles of the porch as a memorial to Edward Wheeler esq. by his widow: in 1922, as a memorial to Wycombe men who fell in the Great War, 1914-18, a reredos in carved oak, coloured and gilded, was erected behind the high altar, and a new sanctuary floor in Portland and Forest of Dean stone was laid; two carved oak screens have been added to the chancel in memory of Dr. Lewis Reynolds J.P. and his wife; in 1925 the tower was restored: the organ was renovated and enlarged in 1930-31: owing to damage caused by the death-watch beetle, the roof is being renovated: there are 1,500 sittings. The register dates from 1613. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £465, with residence, in the gift of Lord Carrington, and held since 1925 by the Rev. Wilfrid Laurence Palk Float M.A., LL.B. of Clare College, Cambridge, who is a surrogate.

Christ Church is an ecclesiastical parish formed in 1897; the church, in Crendon street, is a structure of local red brick in the Early English style, and consists of chancel, nave, aisles, western porch and a belfry tower: the pulpit and reading desk are of oak: in 1910 the east end was reconstructed: there are sittings for 400 persons. The register dates from the year 1897. The living is a vicarage, gross yearly value £345, with residence, in the gift of the Church Pastoral Aid Society Board of Patronage, and held since 1939 by the Rev. Henry R. J. Canham L.Th. of Emanuel College, Saskatoon, Sask. Canada, N.W. The Sunday schools, in Queen Victoria road, were erected at a cost of £4,390 to the memory of the men of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18.

St. Andrew's Mission church, Gordon road, erected in 1898 at a cost of £1,650, is a structure of red brick with stone dressings, and will seat 150 persons.

St. John's church, Desborough road, consecrated Feb. 12, 1903, is an edifice of red brick with stone facings in the Decorated style, consisting at present only of nave and chancel, and seating 500 persons.

The church of St. Francis, at Terriers, is a building of flint and Wellton stone, in the Cruciform style, erected in 1930: the building was presented by Mrs. Field, widow of the Rev. F. F. Field M.A. and stands on a site given by the late Marquis of Lincolnshire: it consists of sanctuary, choir, nave and transepts: there are 250 sittings. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £420, and held since 1937 by the Rev. Edwin William Shaw B.D.

St. Augustine's Roman Catholic church is an edifice of brick and stone in the Gothic style, consisting of a lady chapel: a finely painted set of the stations of the Cross, by Charles Baeyart, of Bruges, ornaments the walls: the church will seat 120 persons.

Trinity Congregational chapel, in Easton street, was originally founded in 1807: the present building, erected in 1851, is in the Romanesque style, consisting of nave and aisles, flanked by two square towers: the chapel has 625 sittings. There are several Methodist chapels: one of these is endowed with a sum of money, bequeathed January 15th, 1799, by John Murlin, gent. of High Wycombe, which realises about £5 per annum. There are chapels in Victoria street, erected in 1882; Priory road, opened in 1865; Booker, erected in 1866; London road, opened in 1891; Newland; Oxford road; White Hart street; Slater street and Westbourne street.

The General Baptist chapel in Bridge street was built in 1680, and will seat 400 persons; that in Easton street, built in 1845, seats 550, and that in Oakridge road was erected in 1901.

The Cemetery, situated in the centre of the town, opened in 1855, originally comprised about 4 acres, but was extended in 1893 to 7 acres, and in 1927 another 10 acres were added; it is under the management of the Borough Council.

The Guildhall, which stands at the junction of High street and Paul's row, is a structure of brick carried on stone columns with projecting pedimented front adorned with the arms of the Earl of Shelburne, and surmounted by an open cupola with vane: it was erected in 1757 at the cost of John, 3rd Earl of Shelburne, in the place of an old wooden structure built in 1604, and in 1895 was renovated by Sir G. H. Dashwood bart. M.P.: the open space below is surrounded by an arcaded colonnade; the upper storey comprises an ante-room and a spacious council chamber adorned with a fine painting after Vandeyck of Philip, 4th Baron Wharton (d. 5 Feb. 1695), Jane (Goodwyn), his 2nd wife, and their son, presented by Mrs. Alfred Lane in 1863; a portrait of James Blackstone D.C.L. formerly recorder of the borough; there is also here a picture of "St. Paul Preaching," by John Hamilton Mortimer R.A. (1741-79), which formerly served as an altar piece in the parish church. The municipal insignia include two maces, mayor's chain and badge, a silver stick, town crier's badge, silver key and three seals: the great mace, of silver-gilt, is 4 ft. 7 in. long; the shaft is divided into three portions by massive and highly decorated knops, and chased with a spiral foliage pattern; four brackets support the head, which has four compartments containing the national badges, crowned, and the initials W.R.; on the flat top are the royal arms; the foot knop bears an inscription recording the gift of the mace in 1694 by Tho. Lewes and Ch. Godfrey, and also three oval shields with their arms and those of the borough: the small mace, dating from 1687, is of ebony and silver, and 9½ in. long, and is surmounted by an open arched crown: the silver stick, carried by the mayor, is 3 ft. 2½ in. long, with the borough arms on the flat top, and was given in 1694 by the donors of the mace: the chain and badge of gold consists of a series of oval pointed links, each bearing a shield, and united by smaller links, and was provided in 1875: the badge, presented in 1876 by J. O. Griffiths esq. Q.C. displays the borough arms within a quatrefoil and an inscription on a scroll: the oldest seal is of wood, and circular in form, and bears a swan with expanded wings, gorged with a ducal coronet and chained. The Mayoress's chain is of gold set with aquamarines and amethysts.

The Town Hall, in Queen Victoria road, is a building of brick with stone facings, and was erected in 1904: the hall will seat 1,000 persons and has a fine organ and a stage: there is also an oak panelled room with stained windows.

The Public Library, Art Gallery and Museum in Queen Victoria road, erected in 1933, has reading room, reference room, senior and junior lending departments (25,000 volumes). The museum, an extension to which was opened in 1937, is devoted to examples of decorative craftsmanship of the 17th and 18th centuries, with particular reference to chairs and furniture. The art gallery contains a number of pictures bequeathed by the late Sir John Thomas.

The Shambles, in Church square, occupying the site of the old Hog-market, is an octagonal building, erected in 1761 from the designs of Messrs. James and Robert Adams, architects, of the Adelphi, London.

There is an Odd Fellows' Lodge, styled the "Loyal Bud of Hope," founded in 1845; and a Foresters' Lodge, the "Court Centenary," No. 2,028, founded in 1845.

The Wycombe Savings Bank, in Church street, was established in 1818.

A market is held on Friday. A pleasure fair is held in a meadow at the west end of the town on the Monday and Tuesday preceding Michaelmas day. The hiring fair is continued as formerly near the Town Hall.

Chair making is the chief trade of the town and adjoining districts, and has of late years greatly increased, nearly a million and a half being annually made: those manufactured here are the lighter sort of cane and rush bottomed chairs; a common sort being made from the beech wood with which the neighbourhood abounds, and the better kinds, such as church, drawing-room, folding and hall chairs, from walnut, birch, oak, cherry, and other ornamental woods. Antique and artistic furniture is also made. There are, in the district, about 150 firms of chair manufacturers, over 5,000 hands being employed. Paper making is carried on to a considerable extent, as well as the printing of postage stamps. Many of the poorer female inhabitants formerly occupied in making pillow and beaded lace are now chiefly engaged in chair caning.

The principal hotel is the "Red Lion." From the portico over the chief entrance the Earl of Beaconsfield (then Mr. Benjamin Disraeli) made his first political speech.

The High Wycombe and Earl of Beaconsfield Memorial Cottage Hospital was established about 1875. A new hospital on Marlow hill was opened in 1923 to replace the old one: the site was given by the Marquis of Lincolnshire K.G., P.C., G.C.M.G. The hospital forms the local memorial to over 500 men of the borough and surrounding villages who fell in the Great War, 1914-18, and is known as the High Wycombe and District War Memorial Hospital.

Previous to 13th Henry III. (1228-9) a hospital, dedicated to St. Margaret and St. Giles, and called "The Loke," was founded in this town, and one in the reign of Stephen for lepers in St. Mary street.

Queen Elizabeth's Almshouses, in Easton street, eight in number, were endowed out of the property of the dissolved guild or fraternity of St. Mary by letters patent, dated 21st July, 1562, and are now regulated by a scheme dated 19th June, 1878; there are 9 almshouses, eight receiving 5s. and one 9s. each weekly. Waller's Almshouses, formerly in Newland, six in number, have been rebuilt, and are now situate in Bowerdean road. There are charities, most of which are administered by the municipal charity governors, including a gift by Philip, 4th Baron Wharton, of twenty-five Bibles yearly. The gift of Mary Bowden, dated Oct. 30th, 1790, that of William Littleboy, in or before 1633, together with eight other charities, have been appropriated to the Grammar School and Almshouse foundation. A scheme for the re-administration of the charities was issued by the Commissioners in 1877.

The neighbourhood of Wycombe abounds in antiquities. The Roman station at the east end of the ancient common pasture, known as "The Rye," proves it to have been the head quarters of a large district. A British fortification closely adjoins the station. Castle Hill, close to the church, has on its summit a fortification of Roman origin, and the camps of Desborough and West Wycombe to the south-west of the town are well known: in the latter stands West Wycombe church. Roman remains have been found in abundance in the vicinity of the town. In 1724 a Roman pavement was discovered in a meadow called "Penn's Mead," situated about half a mile from the town at the east end of the Rye; it forms in shape an irregular triangle and is bounded on the north by a very clear and rapid streamlet flowing from the ancient spring called Holywell, and on the south by a piece of ornamental water: this site was again and more extensively excavated in 1822-3 by Mr. E. J. Payne, who discovered in the centre of the field a villa, consisting of several apartments with a portico, and surrounded, at a distance of about 80 yards, by a massive wall, fortified at intervals with turrets: remains of larger apartments were also met with at the southern angle of the enclosure; the principal apartment on the north side contains a splendid tessellated pavement with female busts at the angles, and oblong compartments at each end, filled up with twisted sea monsters, the whole being enclosed by bands of double and single guilloche ornament; it is 15 feet by 25 feet in area, and is executed with very fine tesserae of black, blue, red, yellow and white on a solid basis of flints and rubble: another pavement (now destroyed) exhibited a dog standing by a tree; this pavement was 14 feet square, and portions of others have been discovered with remains of fresco paintings, a Roman statera or steelyard, with leaden counterpoise, and some mediæval English and German coins. British remains and encampments are numerous on the eminences surrounding the town.

Frogmore, a piece of ground in the centre of the town, was purchased, in 1877, by the late James O. Griffiths esq. Q.C. and by him laid out, adorned with a fountain, and presented to the town.

Desborough Recreation Ground, at the west end of the town, is 15 acres in extent. Wendover Way, the gift of the Marquis of Lincolnshire to the town in 1923, is a piece of woodland covering about 12 acres, and lies within easy reach of the town. Holywell Mead and land adjoining the Rye comprises 19 acres; Hughenden Park, acquired in 1936 contains 54 acres of wooded park land.

The Rye, converted into playing fields in 1927, was a commonable pasture of 31 acres, which has belonged to the town since the 13th century, and which, prior to the incorporation of the borough, was the common pasture of the tenants of the ancient demesne of Wycombe; all the inhabitants have, by ancient prescription, common of pasture here for two cows and a heifer, in the day time only; at its eastern end, and included in it, is Pound Mead, and beyond this is Great Penn's Mead. Near the Rye are two mills of great antiquity, one of which is mentioned so early as 1380, and several of the mills on the Wye stream are representative of those named in Domesday Book.

Several mediæval houses and halls still exist in the borough. Among the eminent natives of this town may be mentioned William Alley, Bishop of Exeter 1560-70, and John Munday, lord mayor in 1522.

In September, 1920, the High Wycombe Town Council received a £5,000 bequest under the will of Sir John Thomas, of Wooburn, Bucks, together with a collection of pictures, prints and statuary, to form the nucleus of a museum and art gallery for the borough.

The area of High Wycombe civil parish and municipal borough is 7,091 acres of land and inland water; the population in 1931 was 29,626.

The population of the Wards in 1931 was:—Eastern, 7,225; East Central, 7,697; Western, 5,720; West Central, 8,984.

The population of ecclesiastical parishes in 1931 was: All Saints' (parish church), 21,866; Christ Church, 413.

WYCOMBE MARSH. St. Anne's chapel of ease is a building of flint with stone dressings in the Early Gothic style, from the designs of G. E. Street esq. R.A. and consists of chancel and nave: the foundation stone was laid 23rd Sept. 1858, and the edifice consecrated in 1861, and it affords 120 sittings. The Rev. Benjamin William Mason B.A., L.Th. of St. Chad's College, Durham, has been priest in charge since 1927. Near the chapel, on the London road, is a cross erected in memory of the men of the Marsh district who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. There is a Baptist chapel, a Congregational chapel, erected in 1899, and a Methodist chapel.

The area of Chepping Wycombe Rural parish is 3,120 acres of land and inland water; the population in 1931 was 3,911.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, parts of this parish were transferred to Chepping Wycombe borough and Little Marlow parish, and by the same Order parts of Little Marlow and Wooburn were added.

The Royal Grammar School was founded in 1550, by the Mayor & Burgesses of Wycombe, in pursuance of an agreement made by them April 1st, 1548, with Sir Edmund Peckham & George Philips gent. executors under the will of George Juncklyn, deceased, whereby the hospital of St. John the Baptist, with the lands & premises, were granted to the former for the sum of £30, on condition of their establishing a school within the two years next ensuing. On the 18th July, 1562, this property, together with the rents of the Fraternity of the Blessed Mary, were surrendered to Queen Elizabeth, & by her re-granted on the 21st of the same month, by letters patent, for the re-founding of the school & the maintenance of four poor persons, & on the 29th June, 1878, was placed under the provisions of a new scheme, framed by the Charity Commissioners, in accordance with the Endowed Schools Acts of 1869, 1873 & 1874. The school is now managed by a governing body of 18 persons, of whom 12 are representative & 6 co-optative.
There are now (1939) over 450 boys. New school buildings were built in 1915 on a site on the hill top about a mile from the railway station. Further new buildings costing £20,000 were opened in 1938 by Lord Hugh Cecil, Provost of Eton. The playing fields, 17 acres in extent, adjoin the buildings. The remains of the Norman hall of the Hospital of St.

John the Baptist, founded about 1175 (which was embodied in the old buildings), & its Early English chapel, stand just in front of the old school in Easton street, erected in 1882, which has been bought by the County Council for the purposes of technical education. Two five courts of the Eton type were built to complete the war memorial scheme. Among the distinguished men who have received their education at this school may be mentioned Edmund Waller, the poet; Sir Denis le Marchant bart. M.P. Clerk of the House of Commons (1851-71); Lt.-Gen. Sir John Gaspard Le Marchant K.C.B., G.C.M.G.; Gen. Sir Robert Percy Douglas bart. Lieut.-Governor of the Cape, 1864-8, & Professor H. W. Bristow. Chairman of the governors, W. H. Healey J.P., C.A.; E. R.
Tucker M.A. head master

Wycombe High School (founded 1901), moved to Benjamin road in 1906; it comprises a large central hall, 16 class rooms & 2 laboratories, dining hall, two music rooms &c. The grounds include a hard netball & tennis court; playing fields covering 6 acres are within a few minutes' walk from the school. There are now (1939) 330 girls. The school is under the management of a body of governors representing the Bucks County Council & the Wycombe Borough Council, with co-opted members; Miss Eva E. E.
Dessin, head mistress

Royal Grammar School"), Easton street; J. C.
Tarr A.R.C.A. head master school of art; W. J.
Davies B.Sc. principal & head master junior technical

Wycombe Abbey School, opened in 1896, is situated on the outskirts of the town within a few minutes' walk from the station, & is surrounded by 250 acres of ground. All the school buildings are within the grounds and include ten boarding houses, each accommodating about 34 girls, ranging in age from 12 to 16. The School has its own chapel & swimming bath.
The School is governed by the Council of the Girls'
Education Company Ltd.; Miss W. M. Crosthwaite
B.Sc.Lond., J.P. head mistress

Godstowe Preparatory School for Girls & Pre-Preparatory for Boys, Amersham hill, stands in grounds of about 12 acres; in connection with the school are four boarding houses. The school is under the management of a council; G. W. Arnison M.A., J.P. is president; Miss Christabel Coward, head mistress

WEST WYCOMBE is an extensive parish on the London and Oxford road, with a station on the Great Western and London and North Eastern joint railway, 26 miles from London and 2½ west from High Wycombe: it is in the Wycombe division of the county, hundred of Desborough, second division of Desborough petty sessional division, county court district of High Wycombe, rural district and rural deanery of Wycombe, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. The river Wye, or Wyck, which passes through High Wycombe, Loudwater and Wooburn and thence falls into the river Thames, rises in Lang Meadow, on the West Wycombe estate, and runs through the park belonging to West Wycombe House. By the Local Government Board's Provisional Orders Confirmation (No. 6) Act, 1901, part of West Wycombe was added to the civil parish and municipal borough of High Wycombe. Gas and electricity are available. Water is supplied by the High Wycombe Corporation. The church of St. Lawrence, standing on the top of a steep hill, is a structure of brick, flint and stone in the Classic style, consisting of chancel, nave, north porch, and an embattled western tower containing 8 bells, one of which is dated 1581: the lower and more ancient part of the tower is built of stone and at the top of the tower is a large ball, capable of seating 10 persons and about 640 feet above the sea level; the upper portion of the tower is of brick and was added when the body of the church was rebuilt in 1763, at a cost of £6,000, by Sir Francis Dashwood bart. who was subsequently summoned to Parliament, on the death of his uncle, John, Earl of Westmorland, in 1762, as Baron Le Despencer, and became Lord Chancellor: the nave is very lofty and has a painted ceiling with cornice, supported on bold pilasters with Corinthian capitals; the chancel has a painting in oils by Borgnais of the "Last Supper;" and also contains several mural tablets to the Dashwood family: in the church is an ancient and curious font stand of carved oak, representing a serpent, climbing after a bird; on the flat top stand four birds, and placed amidst these is a silver gilt cup; the pulpit and reading desk and other fittings are handsomely carved: the church affords 500 sittings, but on account of its inconvenient position, is now only used in the summer time. Close to the east end of the church is a hexagonal inclosure of flint, built by Lord Le Despencer in 1763 as a mausoleum for his family; the walls are ornamented with a frieze and cornice, supported by Tuscan columns, and within niches are monumental urns, one of which is to the memory of Lord Le Despencer, who died 11 Sept. 1781: there is also a monument to his father, Sir Francis Dashwood bart. who died 4 Nov. 1724, and an urn, once containing the heart of Paul Whitehead, a satiric poet patronized by Lord Le Despencer, to whom on his death, 30 Dec. 1774, he bequeathed this relic. The register dates from the year 1581, but the book containing the entries to 1663 is missing. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £340, with glebe and residence, in the gift of Capt. Sir John Lindsay Dashwood bart. J.P. and held since 1936 by the Rev. Philip David Bevington Miller, of St. Steven's House, Oxford and Wells Theological College. The church of St. Paul, in the village, at the foot of the hill on which stands the church of St. Lawrence, was built by Elizabeth, wife of Sir George Henry Dashwood, 5th bart. and opened in October, 1875; it is an edifice of brick, consisting only of chancel and nave: there are two stained windows, presented respectively by Sir T. H. Brinckman bart. of Clewer, and J. W. H. V. Gall esq.; the church affords 180 sittings. The church of St. James, at Downley, is a temporary structure of iron, erected in 1874, by the Rev. Henry Savill Young M.A. vicar here 1872-6, purchased on its completion by Elizabeth, Lady Dashwood, and enlarged in 1876, but on her death, 24 May, 1889, it became the property of Captain Henry George Fane, of Bicester, Oxon. and is now, with the school adjoining, in the hands of trustees: the church will seat 160 persons. The church of St. Mary and St. George was erected in 1935-38: the site was given by Capt. Sir John Lindsay Dashwood bart. There are five Methodist chapels and one Congregational chapel. Lady Anne Pye's charity of about £9 yearly is for widows and education of children; John Hunt bequeathed £1 yearly to the poor; Andrew Hunt, by will, dated March 23rd, 1667, left £5 to the vicar to preach several sermons in the year and £5 yearly to the poor, to be paid out of his estate in this parish; Hugh Hobbs, by will, dated Jan. 2nd, 1670, left £2 yearly to the poor widows and aged people. Some of the above mentioned, together with several other charities once existing here, have now lapsed. Under the church hill is a cave 400 yards long, with large rooms and long winding passages, which is much visited by strangers during the summer.

The church loft, a well-preserved 15th century building in the main street, is used for vestry meetings and for the Sunday school; projecting from it and overhanging the pavement is a clock. There is a fine open timbered roof visible on the first floor: in one of the uprights in front of the building is the matrix of a crucifix.

The earthwork ("ring-work") known as Desborough Castle is in this parish, and another earthwork ("contour camp") is on Church hill, partly obliterated by the construction of the mausoleum mentioned above.

In 1929 the Royal Society of Arts purchased the greater part of the village of West Wycombe, with the object of preserving its old buildings and maintaining its attractive characteristics as completely as possible.

In 1934 The National Trust purchased the village from the Royal Society of Arts.

West Wycombe Park is the seat of Capt. Sir John Lindsay Dashwood bart., J.P.; the house, situated in a well-wooded park of 500 acres, was built by Sir Francis Dashwood 1st bart. and subsequently enlarged and beautified by his son, Lord Le Despencer, and is a handsome mansion in several styles, containing some fine paintings; the great hall, measuring 52 by 22 feet, is supported by four columns, and the grand staircase is balustraded in mahogany and richly decorated. Sir John L. Dashwood bart., J.P. is lord of the manor and principal landowner. The soil is chiefly chalk, with large beech woods, the value of which has caused the place to become a chair-making district; subsoil, chalk. The chief crops are wheat, barley and oats. The area is 2,854 acres of land and inland water; the population in 1931 was 1,415 in the civil and 7,136 in the ecclesiastical parish.

By the Chepping Wycombe Corporation Act, 1927, that part of West Wycombe parish known as Sands was included in the borough of Chepping Wycombe and the parish of High Wycombe.

By the Bucks Review Order, 1934, parts of West Wycombe were transferred to the borough of Chepping Wycombe and the parishes of Fingest and Hughenden. By the same Order part of Hughenden was added, and the parish re-named West Wycombe (Rural).

WYRARDISBURY (or Wraysbury) is a parish and village about 3 miles long, on the north bank of the river Thames and the Middlesex border, with a station on the Southern railway, adjoining Staines, $\frac{3}{4}$ miles south-west-by-south from Cohnbrook, $\frac{1}{4}$ east from Windsor and $2\frac{1}{4}$ from London: it is in the Wycombe division of the county, hundred and petty sessional division of Stoke, rural district of Eton, county court district of Windsor, rural deanery of Burnham, archdeaconry of Buckingham and diocese of Oxford. Electricity is available. Water is supplied by the Rickmansworth and Uxbridge Valley Water Co. The church of St. Andrew, built about the time of King John, is a structure in the Early English and later styles, consisting of chancel, nave of three bays, aisles, and a western tower with spire containing 8 bells: the arcade between the nave and north aisle has oblong piers, with nook shafts at the angles: the chancel retains a piscina and double sedilia, and there are eleven stained windows: in the church is a brass to Dame Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Walter Stonor and wife of Sir Philip Hoby, kt. P.O.; he died in 1558, and his wife in 1560; another brass, with effigy, is to John Stonor, in the dress of a student, d. 1512; there are also monuments to Elizabeth, wife of Philip Harcourt, d. 1728; Jessie (Rolls), wife of George Simon Harcourt, d. 1842; Harriet (Gyll), wife of Archibald Paxton esq. of Watford, Herts, d. 18

Nov. 1794; Capt. Willoughby Gyll, 1826; Hamilton Flemmyng esq. claimant of the earldom of Wigton, d. 13 June, 1809; Thomas Wright esq. and Thomas Gill esq. both d. 1798: on the north side of the chancel is a mural monument with the arms of Gyll impaling Richardson, to Maria Jane (Richardson), wife of Brooke Hamilton Gyll, d. 21 July, 1821: a new altar frontal was given in 1938 by Richard Philip Gatreix esq. in memory of his wife: there are 270 sittings. The register dates from the year 1734; the earlier registers are believed to have been destroyed by fire. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value about £325, including glebe, with residence, in the gift of the Dean and Canons of Windsor, and held since 1938 by the Rev. Thomas Walter Coombe M.A. of Gonville and Caius College, Cambridge. The great tithes, commuted in 1839 at £392, belong to the Ecclesiastical Commissioners. The Baptist chapel here was erected in 1868. A recreation ground of 3 acres was laid out as a memorial to those of this parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. The Working Men's Institute, erected at a cost of £669, was opened by Viscount Curzon M.P. May 2, 1894. The parochial charities were about 40 years ago amalgamated under a scheme formulated by the Charity Commissioners, and produce an income of upwards of £120 annually. On the Ankerwycke estate are the ruins of a Benedictine nunnery, founded in the reign of Henry II. by Sir Gilbert Montfitchet kt. and his son, Sir Richard Montfitchet, for five nuns, and dedicated to St. Mary Magdalene; these ruins are to be preserved as a national monument: a charter was granted to this religious house by Henry III. in 1257, confirming the donations of the benefactors: at the dissolution, Dame Magdalene Downs, the last prioress, received a pension of 1000s. and the site was granted to Sir Andrews Windsor K.B. 1st Baron Windsor, d. 1543. On the adjoining estate is a portion of King John's hunting lodge, now a ruin. The principal landowners are Mrs. Herring, Mr. Alfred Refell and the farmers.
